Rea, Bentley favor parking restrictions for freshmen students

KATE HOWELL & MARK JUSTICE

With crowded conditions on the UCF main campus becoming worse than ever, SGA presidential candidates hope to improve parking and provide a host of other amenities.

Both the campaigns of Keith Rea and Josh Edmundson and Willie Bentley Jr. and McClain Woolsey want to improve shuttle service to ease the often stressful parking conditions around campus.

"It comes to a point where you have to choose between greengrass and attending a four-hour night class on lighting," one of the freshmen said. "I would much rather be spending time with my significant other," he said.

Then there are those who simply think the whole concept of Valentine's Day is just plain weird. "It creeps me out," said history major Josephine Stiner. "How many people have you ever heard say that you love them?

The question is, if you aren't a Hallmark store, and you don't engage in frequent "I love you" dialogue, how can you possibly like Valentine's Day. That's why I don't like it," graduated social science major Christy Babin said.

However, there are those who revel in the holiday—ladies and gentlemen, especially retailers. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, jewelry stores sold $2.4 billion worth of merchandise during the month of February in 2004, more than any other time of the year. That doesn't even include candy or candy-related items.

"It's great for people who are in love, but I don't like the whole mushy aspect of it," Stiner added.

Mark Justice

Tensions in the scandal gripped by Florida Alpha Kappa Alpha reached a new high last week when the fraternity's international headquarters announced plans to pull all charter and organizational privileges from the chapter, which has been the target of a federal investigation.

The college decided to act because of the number of students who have been excluded from the chapter's activities, according to a university official. The official said the decision was made after a review of the chapter's activities and the findings of the federal investigation.

The chapter has been the target of a federal investigation since 2018, when the FBI and the Department of Justice launched an investigation into alleged hazing and other misconduct.

According to the FBI, the chapter has a history of hazing and other misconduct, including the use of alcohol and drugs on campus.

The chapter has denied the allegations and has said it is cooperating with the investigation.

The university has referred all questions to the FBI, which has not commented on the investigation.

The chapter has been the subject of multiple investigations over the years, including a 2018 investigation by the NCAA, which found that the chapter had violated rules governing academic dishonesty.

The chapter has been placed on probation by the NCAA several times, including in 2014, 2016, and 2018.

In 2018, the chapter was given a two-year probation period, which was later extended to three years. The chapter was also required to pay a fine and to implement a number of other corrective actions.

The chapter has appealed the NCAA's findings and has been seeking to reverse the probation.

The chapter has also faced scrutiny from the university, which has said it is working with the chapter to improve its operations and to address concerns.

Despite the chapter's history of problems, it has continued to attract members and to participate in university events.

The chapter's suspension comes as the university is struggling to address a number of issues, including a growing number of student complaints and a perceived lack of accountability.

The university has been criticized for its handling of the chapter's suspension, with some saying that it has not been transparent or fair.

The university has defended its actions, saying that it is committed to ensuring that the university is a safe and respectful environment for all students.

The chapter's suspension comes as the university is also facing scrutiny over its handling of a sexual assault case.

The university is currently under investigation by the NCAA over its handling of the case, which has received national attention.

The investigation was launched after the student involved in the case filed a complaint with the NCAA, which said it would investigate the university's handling of the case.

The investigation has been ongoing for several months, with the NCAA expected to release its findings in the coming weeks.

The investigation has raised questions about the university's handling of sexual assault cases, with some saying that it has not done enough to address the issue.

The university has said that it is committed to improving its handling of sexual assault cases and to ensuring that all students are treated with dignity and respect.

Those with (and without) dates can hook up at charity auctions

RASHID RINGER

Before starting the bid, Williams and win a date in the organization that raises money for Children's Miracle Network, for Children's Miracle Network, can hook up at charity auctions. suede, said Williams (tied). "The first Valentine. A debonair man is dating through cable television. Motivated this time of year to be celebrated with caution.

Williams said the organization raises money for Children's Miracle Network, and yelled into the noisy crowd jammed into charity auctions. "C'mon, Friday..." called out a few seconds before calling out the present Wednesday.

"I'm not sure of the Valentine's Day association on campus, had a date auction on Thursday. "I'm just getting a good dinner," he said. "But it wasn't only students trying for a date — men and women string around the bar occasionally called out joints, although only students were allowed to bid. "There wouldn't be one man yelled out to one student."

The highest date sold was three times..." said Williams. "I'm looking forward to Valentine's Day tonight..."

A woman in a booth called out. "$50?" Williams asked and scanned the room for potential bidders. "$40?" asked and scanned the room for potential bidders. "$45?" Williams said, as people actually got up waving their hands, as if to display Dawson, a 21-year-old nonstudent, said he works with the committee.

Rea: Library should be open 24/7

Fan A:

Gary several universities in Florida, including the University of Florida, have recently made similar policy changes.

Keith Rea, a longtime SGA senator, is an enthusiastic advocate for the new policy. "For too long, only students in the Law Library have benefited from the library's hours. Not only does this system discriminate against students, but it also creates an "affirmative stress and brings another aspect of community to UCF." Ornamenting many dorms and residence halls, the new system would encourage students to "continue to work on campus for better grades, to be more aware of the resources available to them, and to help the university make the library a more valuable resource for students and faculty." Additionally, they would like to see the creation of a central parking area for students.

He said, "It's not enough to just provide the library with more funding for computers and study areas. The UCF Library should be open 24 hours a day, year-round and should be accessible to all students." He mentioned that the library staff works very hard and provides services well that students could "do little without it."

Talakala and Bentley were pleased to see the students' support for their proposal. "This is a great opportunity to improve the library for all students," said Talakala. "We believe that the library is an essential part of the student experience and should be accessible to all students, regardless of their academic needs."

With the support of the students, the proposal will be presented to the Board of Trustees for final approval. Until then, students and faculty will continue to work toward making the library a more accessible and valuable resource for everyone on campus.

Recreation and Wellness Center says thanks to UCF basketball

Thursday night is the UCF Recreation and Wellness Center’s appreciation night for UCF men’s basketball and Coach Kirk Speraw.

The Intramural Sports program is adding its participants to attend the men’s basketball game at 7:30 p.m. at the UCF Arena versus conference rival Mercer. The game is free for students.

In September of 2004, Hurricane Charley damaged the Recreation and Wellness Center building and the UCF intramural basketball leagues did not have a place to play. Coach Kirk Speraw stepped forward and altered his team’s practice schedule to accommodate other groups, which opened space for the IM Sports program in the College of Education Gym until repairs were completed.

UCF needs to help investigations

The Palestinian militant group Hamas is demanding the expulsion of all Israeli citizens from the Gaza Strip and Israel itself, branding their continued presence as apartheid. "We demand that the international community take immediate action to end the occupation," said a Hamas representative. "This is the only way to achieve peace and justice for the Palestinian people."

Our STANCE

Will You Disagree?

No. de facto citizenship is not a right, and it is a matter of principle to disavow legal support for illegal acts. The Palestinian leadership has repeatedly called for international intervention to end the occupation, and this demand is necessary to achieve a just and lasting peace. The occupation is a violation of international law and human rights, and it must be ended.

UCF needs to help investigations

The primary charge against the Pike is a band in the death of George Williams. "I don't know who was involved, but it was Pike," said the police source. "They were working with the shooting of George Williams, and there is evidence that Pike was involved in the murder." The Pike house, owned by the Pike brothers, has been under significant scrutiny.

In response to the charges, the Pike brothers have released a statement: "We vehemently deny any involvement in this matter. We are cooperating fully with the investigation."

But the police are not satisfied. "We have some evidence, but we need more information to make an arrest," said the police source. "We are still looking for witnesses and information." The Pike brothers have been under significant scrutiny for a long time, and this is just the latest incident.

The police are not the only ones looking into this. The university is also investigating the matter. "We are taking this very seriously," said a university spokesperson. "We are cooperating with the police and working to find the truth." The university has suspended several Pike members, and there may be more to come.

Our STANCE

Will You Disagree?

No. the university has a responsibility to protect its students and maintain a safe environment. The Pike brothers have repeatedly been involved in incidents of violence and destruction. It is important to take action to ensure that this does not happen again.

If you're looking for love, don't do it on campus

COMMENTARY

SHANNON MAU

All you kids are going to have a problem with the holiday of affection. Hold your part on campus (next to President Union). The last thing I want to see is the government cutting Pell Grants to help poor students. The Clinton administration got us out of debt because he raised taxes on the rich. Why did you allow his creation to pass?

President Bush trimmed a budget, as well as health care, when Bush requests that veterans without service-related injuries pay more of their own health care. With that behind us, let's talk about the big topics. First, off, health care was cut by 1.2 percent. Bush has called for rate increases to trim waste from our national debt, under the Clinton administration.

If you ever work at a professional place of business along with your significant other (big mistake), then you would never consider PDA. Well, that actually means something. Going to college is your job for the time being and you should treat it as so. This gives for all types of couples, gay, lesbian, heterosexual or whatever. You can make your statement against prejudice in a much better way than tangling in front of the Student Union. If anything, you are drawing attention away from your time and focusing on PDA instead.

Then there are those couples that can't be in any class without each other. Who is in their right mind to do that? They would schedule classes together! Going to class, taking notes, studying and learning together, how disgusting.

How the hell are you supposed to be able to function if your perfect relationship falls? Don't think it will last. If Brad and Jen didn't work out then why should you? It's more than obvious that Godishes to shear things up just for laughs so be careful.

I'm not backing off relationships altogether—just those extremely disturbing ones. Relationships are good but only when both parties benefit. Find someone to share your life with, but just keep it at that, even if you foresee a long wonderful future together.

Operate on your own schedule, run your own life, have your own friends, include your partner in some aspects but leave something aside for yourself. If you don't do this, I can guarantee that you will be one that curses this holiday.

NATHAN PORKERT

The 2006 proposed budget for the United States was released on Monday. Much of America is outraged. Not this service.

President Bush trimmed a little off of the education budget, as well as health care and transportation, while keeping the budget for homeland security and the military.

Uninformed college students might just read a headline that states Bush is cutting the education budget and become outraged. Listen up UCF. The budget cuts don't really affect us negatively; they actually help us. Pell Grants to help poor students attend college would be increased by 45 percent. Veterans of the United States will also receive an increase in their medical care
