UCF first in state for real estate

VANESSA FERNANDEZ

Dr. Phillips, Inc., has donated $2.5 million to establish the Dr. J. Phillips School of Real Estate at the UCF College of Business Administration.

Dr. Phillips, Inc., which was established by a Central Florida landowner and chairman, has donated ten million dollars in recent years. The donation is expected to increase its visibility and prestige of the estate are offered at the National Association of Industrial and Office Properties.

One of the oldest buildings on the UCF campus is named after Howard Phillips, the son of Dr. Phillips. In June, Dr. Phillips has been helping to plan this program for nearly a year.

The gift will be combined with state matching funds and the local chapter of the National Association of Industrial and Office Properties. The gift has raised more than half of that amount. This will create at least a $10 million endowment fund.

The endorsement will support the Health Care and MBA Administration, the Dr. Phillips Real Estate Institute, and the Dr. J Phillips Scholarship Program in real estate and management.

For more information on the real estate program, contact Ron Deffet at UCF Real Estate.

UCF sophomore Dave Rove hit the buzzer and debated whether to pass or shoot until the final seconds of the game. Then, he took a shot and made it, giving the Knights a 61-60 victory over Florida State University.

The show, which is part of the Knight for Relief program, will feature a variety of performances by students and local artists. The event will raise funds for the American Red Cross and disaster relief efforts.

And the winners are...

The Leadership, Imagination, Vision, and Experience ticket won all but a single seat in this year's student Senate elections. The ticket, which included Sarah Snell and Brian Thomas, had expressed interest this year in running against a member of the Knights' ticket.

Newly elected Sen. Nick Gianvito was the only student running against a member of the LIVE ticket to win a seat. Gianvito says he will use his position as a member of the Student Senate to raise interest in real estate.

Gianvito found the lack of interest this year "disheartening" and said he wants to "change the way students view candidates.

"I hope to bring a fresh face to the Senate and make a difference," Gianvito said.

"I'm looking forward to working with my colleagues to address the needs of our students," he added.

UCF students will be able to vote in the upcoming Senate elections, which are scheduled for March 15-16.

Hurricanes impact entire economy
Rising oil costs could raise overall costs for tourism, construction

Hurricane season ends Nov. 30, but its affect on gas prices, consumer confidence and the U.S. economy may last far longer. "We need to have some relief," said James D. Hamilton, professor of economics at the University of California, San Diego. "Unemployment's coming up and there's a lot of uncertainty." Inflation will be a key player in determining the price of gasoline, according to Hamilton. "If inflation picks up, it's going to be a real problem," he said. Hamilton said that the price of gasoline will likely rise in the short term, but that the long-term effects are uncertain. "We don't know if the price of gasoline is going to go up," he said. "We don't know if it's going to stay high." Hamilton said that the price of gasoline is likely to be affected by the cost of crude oil, which is determined by supply and demand. "If we have a supply problem, we're going to see the price go up," he said. "If we have a demand problem, we're going to see the price go down." Hamilton said that he expects the price of gasoline to remain high for the next few years. "We're going to see a lot of volatility," he said. "We're going to see a lot of ups and downs." Despite the uncertainty, Hamilton said that he expects the price of gasoline to remain high for the next few years. "We're going to see a lot of volatility," he said. "We're going to see a lot of ups and downs."

Researchers are working on a vaccine for common bacteria that leads to a vaginal infection that causes death to newborn babies, called group B strep. A recent study shows that nearly one out of ten babies who die in the nursery die of this infection. It is the single largest cause of death in the newborn period, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

The Medical College of Georgia has worked on the study for many years. Dr. Maureen Ferris, principal investigator on the project, said the new vaccine is the right thing to do because it is likely to prevent infection in newborns. If prevented, babies will not die from this infection. However, the vaccine is not for everyone. It is only for those who have not been vaccinated and who are pregnant. Students interested in the real estate major should go to the Office of Student Services and request a Change of Major form and adopt the new major for the school year.

President Bush urges Americans to be thrifty with oil following disastrous effects by Hurricanes Katrina, Rita

ABBEY ABDALLA

The past few weeks have seen many issues that affect the Middle East surge to the forefront of public consciousness. The issues at hand are not new, but their urgency in light of the recent events in the Middle East has gained the world's attention.

Israel pull-out from the Gaza Strip

The Israeli withdrawal from the Gaza Strip is a significant moment in the ongoing conflict in the region. The Israeli Minister Ariel Sharon completed the pull-out from the Gaza Strip and the Israeli settlements, marking a significant step forward in the peace process. This move has affected the political landscape of the Middle East and has implications for the stability of the region.

Israel-Palestine conflict

The Israeli-Palestine conflict has been ongoing for decades, and recent events have brought it to the forefront of international attention. The conflict is complex and multifaceted, with issues of territorial claims, security, and human rights at the heart of the matter. The recent pull-out from the Gaza Strip is a step towards resolving this conflict, but many challenges remain.

Operation Iraqi Freedom

While the focus on the Middle East has been significant, the United States' involvement in Iraq has also been a major topic of discussion. The war in Iraq has been characterized by bloody battles and a difficult reconstruction process. The future of Iraq remains uncertain as the country continues to grapple with the challenges of rebuilding and stabilizing its society.

Hurricanes Katrina, Rita

The recent hurricanes Katrina and Rita have had disastrous effects on the Gulf Coast. The events have highlighted the need for better preparedness and response to natural disasters. The recovery efforts in the affected areas are ongoing, and the long-term implications of these events will be felt for years to come.

Economic conditions

Economic conditions have also been a major concern in recent weeks. The global economy has been impacted by the events in the Middle East and elsewhere, and the challenges of stabilizing the region will require careful consideration of economic policies.

International Beat

The international beat is a regular feature that provides an overview of recent events and developments around the world. The beat will cover a variety of topics, including politics, economics, and culture, and will provide a comprehensive look at the global landscape.

Future of tailgating on the line

SGA president stands behind time-honored UCF tradition

SEAN LANE
Senior Staff Writer

Student Body President Willie Bentley is standing by UCF's current tailgating traditions and vows to advocate for students' rights while serving on a tailgating task force created by President John Hitt.

"The tradition we have to tailgate before the football games should be preserved and not something that should be taken away from the students," Bentley said.

The task force, which held its first meeting yesterday, was created to develop policies on alcohol use and security at large public gatherings, like home football games, sponsored by UCF.

"There are a lot of people hurting right now," Al Harms, the retired U.S. Navy Vice Admiral who is chairing the taskforce, said. "There are some people who are confused and some people who are angry.

Bentley assembled the task force just two days after UCF football coach Mario Cristobal was shot and killed during a tailgating party outside the Citrus Bowl last week during UCF's opener.

"We've got a great opportunity to make things happen," Harms said. He said he hopes the university can take this obstacle and turn it into an opportunity for a safer university community.

One possible restriction the university may consider is banning tailgating before 2 p.m. on game day. Games typically start at 6 p.m. and some fans begin partying as early as 2 a.m., sometimes drinking for 10 full hours before entering the stadium.

But limiting tailgating in that manner would be "delusional," Bentley said.

"If they limit the time students can tailgate, then I feel like they will just start drinking somewhere else," he said. "Then we are putting them at risk by having them on the road while intoxicated.

Bentley would also oppose any steps that would limit alcohol consumption to a confined area when only 21-year-olds could enter.

"Separating fans based on age would dampen the atmosphere of the tailgate scene," Bentley said. "We should all have the opportunity to cheer on the team together. I don't think fans should be segregated. The one thing everyone in that list has in common is that they're fans for the UCF football team.

Bentley does want one thing changed: the current policy that limits alcohol consumption to a confined area when only 21-year-olds can enter.

The task force promises to take steps toward a safe university. They will make recommendations before UCF's next game at the Citrus Bowl next Saturday against Memphis.

School will offer master's degree by 2007

Tom, and because the college of biomedical science is relatively new to campus, he would be more qualified than anyone running to represent it as a student senator.

Typical of the large numbers of students who have shown interest, Tom expressed that he did not have the time to fulfill the demands required to declare candidacy.

He further explains that because he does not have a great deal of time, he would not want to serve as a senator "less than his best." Because he feels he is so strongly qualified for the position, Tom was not interested in running for student body president in his college, saying that he would "rather abstain than vote.

In the same room as Barrow was Mark Goykman, who as the head of his social group, Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity, is also strongly involved on campus.

Goykman takes a much different stance on tailgating. He said he feels like they will just start drinking somewhere else.

"Then we are putting them at risk by having them on the road while intoxicated," Goykman said.

Bentley would also oppose any steps that would limit alcohol consumption to a confined area when only 21-year-olds could enter.

Volleyball team makes grand entrance into Conference USA

After a week and a half of uncertainty, the Knights dominate in first conference contest

After a week and a half of uncertainty, the Knights from playing its first game in Conference USA twice last week. On Tuesday night, when the Knights finally did make their debut, the performance was well worth the wait.

The Knights' first game was against South Florida, and they won 3-0. The victory over the Bulls put the Knights in a tie for the conference lead.

Men's soccer team gets first win on road over Ospreys

Knights gearing up for C-USA games

Brian Murphy

In a game of firsts, the UCF men's soccer team notched a 3-0 victory over the University of North Florida on Tuesday night.

In the process, the Knights won their first road game of 2005 and spoiled the Ospreys' home debut as part of a regular-season program. The Knights improved to 1-2-0 on the year, while the Ospreys remained winless at 0-6-0.

Junior defender Greg Greco; senior forward Michael Frew and senior midfielderTOTAL on the move in the 39th minute.

UCF kept the ball in the neutral zone for a long time and scored off a pass from senior forward Mark Wool.

The Knights travel to Lafayette, Louisiana, to take on the Ragin' Cajuns on Saturday. UCF has lost its last six games against Lafayette, but the Knights are looking to change that in 2005.

UCF looks to end road woes with back-to-back wins

Andrea Vasquez

The UCF football team's historic win over Marshall last Saturday ended a forgettable streak for the Knights. This Saturday, against the University of Louisiana-Lafayette, UCF will try to end another losing streak.

The Knights have lost 15 consecutive games away from the friendly confines of the Citrus Bowl and, in the eyes of Coach George O’Leary, there is no reason for the streak to continue beyond this weekend.

“We should be used to playing on the road,” O’Leary said. “We’ve got a great job on the road. You have to understand that you can’t always have a crowd behind you. You have to play for yourself.”

As O’Leary said, it will be important for the Knights to play well in their next two games.

Looking ahead to the final non-conference matchup of the season

Chris Hoffman

COACHES are superficial when discussing anything that has to do with a future opponent. Out of fear of becoming bulletin board material, it is not unusual to hear Coach Mack Brown praising a team like Rice.

In UCF’s case, they were the team praised by opponents before the last 18 games. Now, after the victory over Marshall, the Knights face an opponent who is seemingly overmatched on paper, but have a winnable matchup on the road.

Looking ahead to the final non-conference game of the season, Coach O’Leary said, “The only concern is the mental block of playing on the road.”

A New era

The Knights entered the season with high expectations. Now, after the victory over Marshall, the Knights are looking to build on their momentum.

UCF hopes to continue its winning streak against the Ragin’ Cajuns, which has been in place for the last three seasons.

AROUND CONFERENCE USA

UCF men's soccer

The Knights are off to a 1-2-0 start in conference play. They have scored at least two goals in each of their first two conference games, but have struggled to find the back of the net in their last two matches.

UCF women's soccer

The Knights are in the midst of a difficult stretch, having lost at least one game in seven of their last nine matches.

UCF volleyball

The Knights are off to a 1-2 start in conference play. They are looking to build on their momentum with a home game against Tulane this weekend.

UCF men's basketball

The Knights are off to a 2-0 start in conference play. They are looking to continue their hot start with a home game against Marshall this weekend.
Around C-USA

East Carolina is looking for payback.

The East Carolina Pirates (2-0) are squarely reeling from a heart-wrenching loss at Memphis (2-0), the only team in Conference USA (C-USA) that has scored on the Pirates to date. The loss came at the last minute, with Memphis scoring a 70-yard pass play to lift the Tigers to a 38-35 victory. The Pirates, who had led most of the game, saw their chance at a conference title slip through their fingers.

The 38-35 final score was a stunning reversal of fortune for the Pirates, who had dominated Memphis in the first half, leading 21-7. However, the Tigers stormed back in the second half, outscoring East Carolina 21-7 to take the lead.

East Carolina offensively was led by quarterback Philip Nelson, who passed for 313 yards and two touchdowns. Running back Markus Moreland added 103 yards and a touchdown on the ground. However, the Pirates defense allowed Memphis to score 70 of their 38 points in the second half.

Florida State

The Florida State Seminoles (3-0) have already clinched a spot in the conference championship game. They are currently ranked No. 3 in the country and have dominated their opponents all season. They have not lost a game this season and are looking to continue their winning streak.

The Seminoles have a balanced offensive attack, with quarterback Jameis Winston leading the way. He has thrown for 1,095 yards and 11 touchdowns so far this season. Running back Devonta Freeman has also been a key player, with 454 rushing yards and 10 touchdowns.

USF

The USF Bulls (2-1) are looking to build on their recent victory over South Florida (1-2) last week. The Bulls have been inconsistent so far this season, but they are looking to turn things around with a strong performance this week.

USF has been led offensively by quarterback Mike White, who has thrown for 652 yards and five touchdowns so far this season. Running back Brian Battie has also been a key player, with 207 rushing yards and two touchdowns.

SMU

The SMU Mustangs (1-2) are looking to bounce back from a tough loss to Memphis last week. They are currently ranked No. 12 in the country and are hoping to make a run in the conference.

The Mustangs have been led offensively by quarterback Ben Hicks, who has thrown for 551 yards and four touchdowns so far this season. Running back Trysten Hill has also been a key player, with 170 rushing yards and two touchdowns.

Players not concerned with road troubles

USF players make a strong effort in the first half of today's game against Backlund.

David Johnson went on to say that Marshall and South Carolina isn't far enough away, the middle right, into two strengths of the Knights defense, while USF ran more middle direction running plays and were more likely to run the ball the way according to Carrington the backfield should be slightly improved on.

Last week the Knights said that there was a direct correlation between their solid practice sessions in the week leading up to the Marshall game and their impressive performance on the field during the game. After these three practices this week Carrington reported that the Knights have had another good week so far, which should play into their favor this Saturday.

The Knights will look to end one streak and start another this Saturday. If the Knights win they will have their first winning streak since capturing the last four games of the 2020 season.

Intangibles

One losing streak under USF coach Jeff Tedford is a lot of weeks standing in the face of the Knights. They have found themselves combined with newfound expectations that they will be more competitive this season than it was while he was losing. When losing the reason for winning the UCF fans should enjoy the games, but when the Knights win it will be important.

The UCF defense has been good this season, allowing 39 points per game. The Knights offense has been very efficient, scoring 731 yards per game. The UCF defense will be important as they try to hold USF under 30 points.

Offense

 변이

USF

If you're wondering how to win the game, it all starts with the quarterback job. The Knights have three quarterbacks on their roster: junior Jimmy Smith, senior Darrell Hackney, and freshman Chase Clement. Smith has thrown eight interceptions this season with his longest pass going 28 yards. Hackney has 33 receptions for 200 yards, while Clement has been nothing but a series of errors all season. Coach Hatfield better to be at a premium as well on the Southern Miss defense, averaging 4.1 a carry and two quarterbacks.

USF is led by quarterback Matt Prater, who has a 124 passer rating and has thrown for 1,200 yards with eight touchdowns and, thankfully, no interceptions. Prater will play behind center Kevin Kolb. Kolb, while a junior, has started three games this season with his longest carry going 20 yards. This week vs. SMU. Forte rushed for 731 yards and two touchdowns and, thankfully, no interceptions. Prater is able to connect downfield it will be important as they try to hold USF under 30 points.

Top women's basketball player dies in Tuscarora palm oil death

TUCSON (AP) - Arizona women's basketball star Liz Smith, one of the top women's college basketball players in the country, collapsed at McKale Center on Monday and died shortly before reaching a hospital.

Ralph Hebert, a spokesman for the Phoenix police chief, said that her death was a "palm oil" death — a rare type of death caused by the ingestion of palm oil.

"We're all saddened by this," Hebert said, "and we want to extend our condolences to her family and friends.

MEETING THE CRITERIA

Band founder abandoned career in law to pursue passion

BRANDON BIELICH

T here have been countless stories about young aspiring musicians dropping out of school — and otherwise sacri­ficing a chance at a college degree — in order to live out their dream of becoming rock stars.

But what about the unique story of a law student from Duke University who decided to drop out and pursue a professional career in music, not law?

That is the path Stephen Pedersen, guitarist and lead singer of Criteria, ultimately chose. What is all worth it in the end?

Pedersen began playing music in 1990 in a band called Cudino. After eight years of rocking out, Pedersen decided it was time to move on. Attending law school at Duke University seemed second, according to Pedersen, “like a natural thing to do.”

“My father was a lawyer and I saw how much he loved what he did and how he was able to provide for his family and still be home in time for dinner, and not be an absentee paren­ted,” Pedersen said during a telephone interview.

“When I decided to drop out, I didn’t want to just play music, I wanted to do something with music. I wanted to build my career on music,” Pedersen said.

Colin Lai strums his first album under his new label Saddle Creek Records titled "This Is the Man."

Pedersen is a true believer that there are no rules in the world of music and that you have to be open-minded to be successful.

Pedersen said when he tries to get back to his hometown of Oshawa, N.S., Pedersen often gets the feeling that he is playing for the fans who have followed him since he was a child.

Sweet giggity! Family Guy 'movie' a treat for fans of show

Never-before seen direct-to-DVD film little more than three episodes strung together, but still amusing

WILLIAM GOSS

After fans reconstructed the cancelled Family Guy with scanty DVD sales, they are rewound with Griffin’s The Unofficial Guide to Family Guy. It is a direct-to-video release that takes little advantage of its potential by loosely stringing together three upcoming episodes without commer­cials or censorship. Regardless, FG fans are sure to get a kick out of it.

The movie takes place over three segments, even dedicated to the credits as Part I, Part II, and part III. Part I follows Steve as he attempts at being a pacifier leads to a drinking problem, while Peter becomes a local celebrity with his Channel 5 rant on what really grinds his gears. Part II follows Stewie as he heads to San Francisco to find his potential father, while Peter and Lois try to gain some privacy by encouraging their children to go out dating. Part III is, well, difficult to discuss without rattling certain yokes.

Fans will enjoy the range of pop culture ref­erences, inside jokes and celebrity cameos. There are many shining moments, including priceless jokes at Bonzo and Bugs Bunny.
History of Violence
an impactful experience

Film forges the look of the film for a thoughtful look at bloodshed.

When a character-driven character-driven drama, as well as one of the novella’s best films, in director David Cronenberg’s A History of Violence. Tom Stall (Viggo Mortensen) is living the American dream, with his perfect family in a small town. He is a successful town sheriff, and his wife and daughter now fear for their safety when the bank robbing gangster shadows the Stall family. The film brings out career-performance where Mortensen trades his sword for a gun in David Cronenberg’s A History of Violence.

For music band to overwhelm its destiny for love. He says most of his time writing and recording songs. Pedersen eventually wrote what would become Er, the first album under the band name Criteria. The problem was there was no band, just Pedersen. So he set out to find a couple of guys to make up Criteria. It did not take Pedersen long to find bandmates. A musician and also an engineer, he had produced albums for Pedersen’s previous bands. "It was kind of a win-win, a great engineer and a great bass player...and singer better than me. I knew he would be good," said Pedersen about choosing Maga.

Through connections in the local music scene, Pedersen had known about a versatile guitarist named Aaron Dreyer. Pedersen knew Dreyer met the criteria for the band. "Aaron" likes to rock, and Criteria’s rock band, so it seemed like a good fit, commented Pedersen.

Initially, Pedersen needed a drummer, and he knew where to look. "I was looking for the "Mike Tyson of the drums," so I was looking for the toughest, most bask drummer I could find," Pedersen said. With Criteria fully-formed, a question came: "Was the band going to play music day to day, or was the band going to play music every night?" Pedersen eventually chose the latter. "We were working on a full-time basis in the studio," Pedersen said.

Pedersen’s father, a musician himself, had been working with friends in need. "We’re preventing the world from hearing my music." But who is the conspicuous one? "The "you” is me; the ‘you’ is my job...I’m basically singing at the center of it,” he was chosen. Pedersen said.

But the job, the practice of law still remains close to Pedersen’s heart. "I’m singing at the center of it," he was chosen. Pedersen said.

With Criteria fully-formed, a possibility of being able to tour, to have some money to live off of, was there. With Criteria secured a major label home, which is the work from Maria Bello to Harris (The Ugly).

"The film is a thoughtful, character-driven drama about violence and its effects. It’s a depth charge, one with undeniable impact.

GHOSTLIGHT THEATRE ENSEMBLE aims for an ambitious first year of plays. Founded by a UCF alumna, the ensemble hopes to bring new life to the theater company.

MELISSA PATTERSON

In November 2004, one UCF alumnus and two fellow actors had a dream. They named that dream the Ghostlight Theatre Ensemble and planned to host an ambitious first show in its first year. It looks as though that dream has been realized, as Ghostlight gears up to present its final show this season. The Rantbomize by Harvey Schmidt opens this weekend.

Schmidt’s story is of two sisters who discover there is no better place for love than their own backyard. In the truest sense, the show tells the story of a love that is created by and for the family.

But, true to form, J. bail at the last minute, and the ensemble is left with nothing but excuses that I have. Then your friends that dance that show (Bally), assumed the role of director, education coordinator for the ensemble’s graphic design and web site management.

The ensemble’s third production, The Fantasticks, was performed by the ensemble’s vocal composition and portrayed humorous roles in the fantasticks. The show opened Thursday night, and only four people could handle an entire theater company. There was plenty of work for everyone to go around.

Reunions with an ex can lead to sour love once again.

The worst possible thing you can do is get back together with a man or woman you used to date. You will only hurt each other. Your friends have a right to know it. “I felt like his even of my night with my ex. I wish I could relay the experience of my night with him. But, true to form, J. bail at the last minute, leaving me with nothing but excuses that I have heard before. I feel like an assed and neglected girl friend right now.

All I can say about his experience with him this summer is that I’m glad I didn’t give him a chance to break my heart again.

The ticking in the fight over online file sharing is a loud one. The U.S. Supreme Court decided that a company that is accused of copyright violations must take its case to trial. Several companies have reported large losses due to illegal downloading, or file sharing. Owners of the music and movie industries have announced plans to sue Napster, a company that uses EDonkey software to allow users to download music and other files, while still making money and Georgia Tech is considering a law against file-sharing with MeshShare, a new company that lets users download music from other users for their songs. File sharing spreads unsecured and allows for a positive step toward curtailing the massive loss of money in the illegal downloading. The development of the Internet and the proliferation of broadband technologies has led people to place new emphasis on the possibilities for sharing information with others around the world and sharing content with people from all over the world in a way that was not possible before.

Unauthorized downloading (or by commerce or property or copyright) or illegal downloading (as any unauthorized taking of electronic material or by commerce or property or copyright) is illegal and immoral. The main reason is that it allows people to access information and content that they otherwise would not be able to access. Unauthorized downloading is also a form of theft, as the people who download files are essentially stealing them. Unauthorized downloading is not only theft, but also a violation of copyright laws.

...and you can be sure that the theft of copyrighted material will continue to be illegal.

Illegal file sharing is simply theft.

Remembering a fallen friend

When we lose someone, it's easy to get caught up in the grieving process and forget that there are others who are also mourning the loss of a loved one. This can be especially true when the person who has died was someone who was beloved by many people, like a police officer. In this case, the police officer's death may not only affect his or her immediate family and close friends, but also those in the community who knew and respected the officer.

The loss of a police officer can have a significant impact on the community. The police officer's work is to protect and serve, and when they are taken away, it can feel like a sense of loss for everyone. In this case, it's important to remember that the police officer's death is not just a personal loss, but also a community loss. The community can come together to support each other and remember the officer's legacy.

Our story

Don't excuse underage drinkers

The belief that illegal downloading is the cause of these crimes is misconceived from its origin. The main reason is that it allows people to access information and content that they otherwise would not be able to access. Illegal downloading is also a form of theft, as the people who download files are essentially stealing them. Illegal downloading is not only theft, but also a violation of copyright laws.

...and you can be sure that the theft of copyrighted material will continue to be illegal.

Police cause danger, not fans

An underdeveloped management style that we have used to protect our players. The police officers are not allowed to use their guns to protect this team or any other team. This is a very dangerous situation. This is a situation that we need to address.

Read our story on the Scott Baker memorial service.
I've lost my mind and Kirstie's lost a whole lot of weight.

I want to give my warmest thanks to the many, many people who wrote me over the past few days expressing their sorrow and compassion about the loss of Mario Lukic.

As for the people who wrote otherwise, well I know where I'll see you in the afterlife.

However, to my friends and readers with the ability to express sorrow for the loss of a human being's life, I want to share one of the last things that I ever got to say to Mario. Like he brought his dog to my home one evening and he told me his dog was better than my precious Alti-Gator Burti.

I laughed and said, "Mario, tell your dog to stop pooping in my yard." He brought it up and started at the photos of the hot girl from MTV.

"Mind of Mencia is the worst television show ever. It's so bad that Marshall could beat it. I swear if he says the word "homey" one more time and walks his audience to laugh, I'll slam my head in a car door..."

Here are some random thoughts...

The commercial for Dan-Pen Pleasure breakfast drinks gives me stomach.

I'm being forced to watch Life and Brith to help write a Homecoming skit and it's not fair...

Red or blue. Legends Beach should embark the entire human race.

Once more, My Super Sweet 16 is the prime example of why the rest of the world hates us...

Finally, the biggest love in my life isn't a celebrity or a fading pop star. It isn't a good slice of white pizza from Giovanni's late night soft-core porn on CineMax.

Nope, the biggest love in my life is fantasy football. I love it because no matter what I have something to look forward to every Sunday. It's sort of a rite of passage between men, and I can't help but express my immense joy for it as often as I can.

I've written about it before and I've probably bashed some people sometimes with my feelings about one way and the way I make my oppo...

I'm so good, in fact, I suspect you could call me the Kirstie Alley of fantasy football.

for Dan-Marshall and sweet Bud-school.

The concussion that followed wasn't the least of my problems. Apparently Kirstie Alley is the new spokesperson for Weight Watchers and she's challenging people to lose 50 pounds because she already has. Seriously? She looks like Rebecca from Cheers and that's kind of cool, but it takes the fun away. It's like Sue Salmi somehow ended up looking like Gayle Banks.

There's a reason I was an editor at Maxim when I graduated from the university. The brilliance of the magazine is not as parallel to mine and it's almost uncanny.

Wednesday, I was at the nail salon... I gave her the word, Most irritating song Ever to Green Street's ode to shattered dreams, "Holback Girl."

With a tear in my eye and the pride of a million men, I smiled and put my issue down...

Then I picked it back up and stared at the photos of the hot girl from MTV.

"Mind of Mencia is the worst television show ever. It's so bad that Marshall could beat it. I swear if he says the word "homey" one more time and walks his audience to laugh, I'll slam my head in a car door..."

More and men on the front lines are surviving life-threatening injuries that were beyond our wildest imaginations. Our veterans are coming home from our missions, and the teamwork and for everyone who's ever been part of that team, we're so proud of you for what you've done to protect our country and our freedom.

But for many individuals, the psychological trauma and the emotional toll of being a soldier are just as challenging for veterans.
