UCF first in state for real estate

Dr. Phillips, Inc., has donated $2.5 million to establish the Dr. J. Phillips School of Real Estate at the UCF College of Business Administration.

Dr. Phillips, Inc., which was established by a Central Florida landowner and chairer Ben G. Phillips, owns nearly 2 million square feet of industrial and office properties in the area. It owns a large portion of its earnings to support philanthropic endeavors.

This is not the first time Dr. Phillips, Inc., has made donations to the university. In 2003, the company donated various gifts from the company to the College of Business Administration, which created the Dr. Phillips Institute for the Study of American Business Activity and the Delta Phillips-Martha Schlinke Chair in American Private Enterprise.

One of the oldest buildings on the UCF campus is named after Howard Phillips, the son of Ben G. Phillips. In 1964, Ben G. Phillips had been helping to plan this program for nearly a year.

This gift will be combined with state matching funds and the local chapter of the National Association of Industrial and Office Properties has pledged funds to match the gift, a news release said.

The endowment will support the Howard Phillips School of Real Estate, the Dr. Phillips Institute for the Study of American Business Activity, and the Dr. J. Phillips Scholarship Program, which is open to UCF real estate students.

UCF sophomore Darrel Homan hit the winning two-run home run over the left field fence just before the Marshall game. Then, he said, something compelled him to stand up and find out what happened.

"I saw the uniform guy in the green shirt just cringe in the worst positions," Homan said of UCF Police Officer Mario Jenkins. Jenkins did the ground moments later.

The low mood of students celebrating the pro- football festivities immediately turned into an eerie silence.

 Already lying on the ground, with a bullet wound in his stomach, was 26-year-old UCF Fan Mike Young. PDLE confirmed that the bullet came from Jenkins’s gun.

Homan stood in a crowd of at least 20 students with his Souths hanging open as ORMC emergency care physician Neil Rodgers, who was tending to his day-off, rushed onto the scene and tried to resuscitate Jenkins with CPR.

“He killed him,” Homan said. “He knew what he was doing and was giving him CPR... I didn’t know what to think. I thought I was going to pass out and I walked over to my friend and started getting upset. I turned around and stared dumbfounded.”

At that point, Homan said, "because of how much blood was on his back," combined with "the way he was laying there," he knew Jenkins was dead.

The details that led up to that point remain unclear. UDE refused to say how many shots were fired or to explain what prompted Jenkins to draw his firearms in a crowd of students.

Hurricanes impact entire economy

Rising oil gas prices could raise overall costs for tourism, construction

KATE ROYCE

Hurricane season ends Nov. 30, but its affect on gas prices, tourism and the economy will last long after it's gone. Luckily, just like much around the state, Central Florida hasn't had its share of hurricanes. But if there were, would the region be ready?

"We used to have lots of hurricanes," said John Woolsey, a professor of economic development at UCF. "But now we have none. It's a good thing." Woolsey said that hurricanes could come in a "bunch" where they fall. "They had many years with hurricanes and (Central Florida) has been fortunate."

Central Florida is one of the few regions in the nation that doesn't have to worry about hurricanes. Unfortunately for Central Florida, the region is expected to have its share of hurricanes this year. "We are not prepared for hurricanes in Central Florida," Woolsey said. "We need to prepare for hurricanes in Central Florida."

Natural gas, which is found in the state of Florida, is expected to have its share of hurricanes this year. "In Florida, hurricanes affect natural gas prices," Woolsey said. "Energy costs are not only important in our region, but also in Central Florida."

The festival, which combines art, music, dancing and cultural holiday traditions, is held in a parking lot in front of the Student Union. "This is the third year of the festival," Woolsey said. "We hope to see more people come out and enjoy the festival." The festival is open to the public.

President Bush urges Americans to be thrifty with oil following disastrous effects by Hurricanes Katrina, Rita

ABER ABULLA

The past few weeks have shown there are serious issues that affect the Middle East. They highlight how these developments will impact the United States and the rest of the world.

Israel pull-out from the Gaza Strip

The Israeli withdrawal from the Gaza Strip has been met with mixed reactions. Some people believe it will lead to a lasting peace, while others are concerned about the future of the region.

President Bush urges Americans to be thrifty with oil following disastrous effects by Hurricanes Katrina, Rita

The hurricane season has been particularly devastating, with Hurricanes Katrina and Rita causing significant damage.

The president urged Americans to be careful with their use of oil, as prices have risen due to the hurricane aftermath.

The $35.7 billion per day cost

Just how much has the hurricane season cost? How much will it take to clean up our nation's home from the storms? As the lanes close down, much will be happening behind the scenes. We must act now to make sure the war is won.

For those who are wondering how these effects by the hurricanes are affecting the Middle East, there is definitely hope. Keeping the United States and the rest of the world safe is very important.

The Israeli withdrawal from the Gaza Strip is a hopeful sign, but it will be a long time before the region is completely secure.

SGA president stands behind time-honored UCF tradition

SEAN LEVIN
Senior Staff Writer

Student Body President Willie Bentley Jr. is standing by UCF's current tailgating traditions and vows to advocate for students' rights while serving as a senator this year, Barnes explained that he would be more actively involved at his high school, saying that he was eager to accept the support of friends and colleagues such as the Lead Scholars Alumni Association and Honor Congress in his bid for Senate.

Bentley does want one thing however, there has to be a way to ensure the safety of the university community while still allowing students to continue in traditions of tailgating before the game.

The task force promises to take steps toward a safer university.

Bentley also discusses a newly emerging form of campaigning on the UCF campus, the use of the online Facebook community to recruit voters. Trambley used a Facebook group approved by the Student Government Association to help earn votes, and claimed it was "very effective." "Obviously, if someone joins a Facebook group, they are interested," Trambley said.

Volleyball team makes grand entrance into Conference USA

After a week and a half of uncertainty, the Knights dominate in first conference contest

ANDY JACOBSON & ANDY VASQUEZ
Staff Writers

Hurricane Rita kept the UCF volleyball team from playing in its first game in Conference USA twice last week. On Tuesday night, when the Knights finally did make their debut, the performance was well worth the wait. The find-up Knights squad took the court at the UCF Arena for the first time this season and proceeded to finally make its C-USA debut in style, dominating Southern Mississippi in a four game victory (27-30, 30-21, 30-21, 30-19).

While Hurricane Rita was whipping through the Florida Keys and the Gulf Coast last week — canceling UCF matches with Florida Atlantic, SMU and Tulsa — the Knights were alternating a storm of their own in a week and half of intense practice. “Meeting all the games just pumped us up,” said Steve Moffett from the pocket in the second half of UCF's victory over Marshall (27-30, 30-21, 30-21). UCF's win this weekend is the team's 13th consecutive victory, tying the Knights for a C-USA record for most consecutive victories.

The Knights have not had a winning streak to end the 2005 season. Steven Judino was named the pick of the week by opposing coaches before the last 1-8 games. UCF's running game was well executed against UNF. Judino led the Knights in points (two goals and an assist) in a pair of matches last weekend. Before scoring on his second goal of the year, UCF's Tommy Alexander, right, celebrates scoring during Sunday evening's win. Judino was named the match's Most Valuable Player the year after tallying five shots.

The Knights travel to Lafayette, Louisiana, this weekend to face Louisiana-Lafayette, a team that had more shots than their opponents.

This game has been rotating two players, backup DeAngelo Williams, and freshman A.J. Stamps and Joe Adcock. The two marquee backs combined have compiled only 97 yards on 23 carries. Now that the two have a chance to show up, the lightning on the field will also be.

East Carolina is sure to be able to hand the ball of to Martin and hope to score a high percentage of their offensive points. Against Tulane, the offense looked like what we expected to see this past week.

Senior digs keep Knights in C-USA race

By JEFFREY W. HUNTER

Lori Luke had a solid showing in 11 sets over Southern Miss on Friday evening.

Luke's 10 kills and four blocks were the highlight of a match that featured the Knights' impressive team performance.

Luke, a senior co-captain, led the team with 10 kills and four blocks. Her performance gave the Knights a decisive advantage in the match, which they won in three straight sets.

The victory was a much-needed win for the Knights, who have struggled in recent weeks. Despite the loss, Luke and her teammates were pleased with their performance.

Luke said, "I think we played a great match. We were able to work together as a team and get the job done."

The Knights will continue their conference schedule next week when they face another tough opponent. Luke and her teammates are looking forward to the challenge.

"We know we have some work to do, but we're confident in our ability to win," Luke said. "We'll keep working and hopefully come out on top."
Sweet giggy! Family Guy 'movie' a treat for fans of show

Never-before seen direct-to-DVD film little more than three episodes strung together, but still amusing

William Goess

After fans resurrected the cancelled Family Guy with scaring DVD sales, there are rewarding with Stewie Griffin: The Untold Story, a direct-to-video release that takes little advantage of its potential by loosely stringing together three upcoming episodes without consummating or censoring. Regardless, PF fans are sure to get a kick out of it.

The movie takes place over three segments, each dedicated to the credits on Parts I, II, and III. Part I follows Stewie as he attempts at being a pacifier leads to a drinking problem, while Peter becomes a local celebrity with his Channel 5 rant on what really grinds my gears. Part II follows Stewie as he heads to San Francisco to find his potential father, while Peter and Lois try to gain some privacy by encouraging their children to go out dating. Part III is, well, difficult to discuss without mentioning certain points.

Fans will enjoy the range of culture references, inside jokes and celebrity cameos. There are many shining moments, including priceless jabs at Bone and Bugs Bunny, and

- Brian Griffin

Synopsis:

After fans resurrected the cancelled Family Guy with scaring DVD sales, there are rewarding with Stewie Griffin: The Untold Story, a direct-to-video release that takes little advantage of its potential by loosely stringing together three upcoming episodes without consummating or censoring. Regardless, PF fans are sure to get a kick out of it.

The movie takes place over three segments, each dedicated to the credits on Parts I, II, and III. Part I follows Stewie as he attempts at being a pacifier leads to a drinking problem, while Peter becomes a local celebrity with his Channel 5 rant on what really grinds my gears. Part II follows Stewie as he heads to San Francisco to find his potential father, while Peter and Lois try to gain some privacy by encouraging their children to go out dating. Part III is, well, difficult to discuss without mentioning certain points.

Fans will enjoy the range of culture references, inside jokes and celebrity cameos. There are many shining moments, including priceless jabs at Bone and Bugs Bunny, and
Film forges the look of basic thriller for a thoughtful look at bloodshed

WILLIAM GROSS
Walt Disney

What begins as a deceptive, simple thriller soon evolves into a fascinating character-driven drama, as well as one of the year's best films, in director David Cronenberg's A History of Violence.

Tom Stall (Viggo Mortensen) is living the American dream, with his perfect family in an ideal Indiana community. One night, Tomdispatches a pair of criminals at his diner in a most methodical manner. As news of Tom's heroism spreads, he is approached by a scared gas-station owner (Old Harris), who insists that Tom is quite the man.

As basic as the whole affair may seem, it only amplifies the impact of what matters most. The occasional plot twists are predictable for the most part, and no real surprises are in store. However, the film's simplicity provides a startling connection between the brutalities that occur. Scenes featuring graphic violence or sex retain their full potency against the human soul. The whole film revolves around Tom's act of self-defense, a single violent event that in other hands, the collapse of his family, his act, previous covering from billions, is now provoked to a truly unnerving response. Following the incident, his wife and daughter now fear for their safety when the intimidated gangster shadows the Stall family.

The film brings out some best performances out of the cast, from Mortensen (Robin of the Rags) to Harris (The Thin Man), and everyone in between. Yet, mortality is part of the work from Martin Bell's (Gregory Filgo) to Tom's devoted, then distraught wife, and newcomer Ashton Holmes as his son, who deserves recognition comes around soon.

Cronenberg has addressed the multiple meanings of the title A) the main character's personal history of violence, B) the history of violence as a means to an end, and C) the history of violence in all mankind. The film itself tackles each layer of meaning with boldness, shocking the essence of a thriller, a drama, a Western and a film noir to a compelling degree.

What lies beneath the simple story is a captivating portrait of violence and its effects. Simply put, A History of Violence is a depth charge, one with an understandable impact. For anyone looking for a hearty dose of graphic violence or sex retain their full potency against the human soul. Finding the business organization behind it has been more of a challenge for us.

"Finding the business organization behind it has been more of a challenge for us."

MELISSA PATTERSON, UCF ALUMNAE MAGAZINE
Illegible file sharing is simply theft

The illegal downloading of music and movies has been in the news a lot lately, but why is it so illegal? Is stealing music and movies really any different than stealing Channel Four in the 1980s? Is opening a fax machine and taking the paper in it any different than opening a mailbox and taking the mail out of it? No.

But there’s more to this than just a matter of opinion. The Supreme Court decided that a copyright owner has the right to control the use of his or her creation, and to prevent anyone from making or distributing copies of his or her creation, without the owner’s permission. This right is known as exclusive control, which means that the owner has the right to decide who can make, copy, distribute, or display the work.

The illegal downloading of music and movies is not only a violation of the copyright laws, but it is also a violation of fair use. Fair use is a legal doctrine that allows for the use of copyrighted materials without permission, as long as the use is “fair.” This includes the use of music and movies for educational purposes, such as for research or criticism.

Illegal file sharing is simply theft, and it is time for the government to take action against these individuals. The government should invest in the creation of new technologies that make it easier for companies to identify and prosecute these individuals. Additionally, the government should work with the music and movie industries to make it more difficult for these individuals to download and distribute their works.

POOR POLICY TO BLAME FOR DEATH

After reviewing several accounts of the events that took place at the football games last Saturday and the response of UCF President Mark DeSantis, it is clear that the country is experiencing a serious problem with illegal drinking at its football games.

The new commonly accepted conclusion that underaged drinking is the reason for the triple tragedies is misconceived from its origin. The truth is that the mass shootings in Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School in Parkland and inside UCF Police Department headquarters are just part of the package.

It is not just the drinking that is the real problem. There are many other factors that contribute to the tragedy. The key component of these events is the presence of alcohol. The illegal drinking of alcohol is a serious problem that needs to be addressed.

Stricter enforcement of the law is necessary to prevent illegal drinking. This can be done by increasing the number of police officers at football games and by implementing stricter penalties for those who are caught drinking illegally.

The key problem is that drinking is not just a matter of choice. People need to realize that drinking is a serious problem for many people, and that they should not be made to feel guilty for drinking.

The government should work to create a new culture of drinking that promotes responsible drinking. This can be done by providing education and resources to people who want to learn how to drink responsibly.

It is time for the government to take action against illegal drinking. The government should invest in the creation of new technologies that make it easier for companies to identify and prosecute these individuals. Additionally, the government should work with the music and movie industries to make it more difficult for these individuals to download and distribute their works.
I've lost my mind and Kirstie's lost a whole lot of weight

I want to give my warmest thanks to the many, many people who wrote me over the past few days expressing their sorrow and congregating about the loss of Mario Jobsie.

As for the people who wrote otherwise, well I know where I'll see you in the after-life.

However, to my friends and readers with the ability to express sorrow for the loss of a human being's life, I want to share one of the last things that I ever got to say to Mario. He brought his dog to my house one evening and he told me his dog was better than my precious Alligator Burns.

I laughed and said, "Mario, tell your dog to stop pooping in my yard."

"Well it is time for me to stop pooping in your grassy yard and get back to having a little fun. With that said, here's a special Thursday timeside for Myk, the coolest German Shepherd police dog ever to violate any backyard..."

"I'm a few days late but it's time for some Marshall Madness. Granted, I know the Herd still holds a 3-1 all-time advantage, but this team took the fun away. It's like looking like Star Jones somehow ended up as the prime example of why the rest of the world hates us..."

"Finally the biggest love in my life isn't a celebrity or a fading pop star. It isn't a good slice of white pizza from Giovanni's or late night soft-core porn on Cinemax..."

"Once more, My Super Sweetie is the prime example of why the rest of the world hates us..."

"More and men on the street lines are surviving life-threatening injuries that ever before for one reason: We have the most elite nurses in the world. As a U.S. Air Force nurse, you receive the most advanced training and have access to the best medical technology on the planet. And whether you're treating Airmen on foreign soil or their families on bases here in the U.S., you can put all of that training to use..."

"If you're interested in learning more about a better place to practice medicine, call or visit us online..."

Why Graduate School?

If you want to enjoy greater job security, make more money, have greater flexibility and more opportunities, then Graduate School is for you. In addition to providing more knowledge and understanding of your discipline, it will allow you additional choices in the job market, increased marketability, more opportunities for advancement, and for some professions it is simply required for what you want to do. (for example, psychologists, physical therapists, counselors, and audiologists are all required to have graduate degrees to practice.)

The typical person with a graduate degree will earn an average salary of $74,602 per year, compared to $51,206 for an individual with a bachelor's degree, and only $27,875 for someone with a high school diploma. Not only are annual earnings more, but you are also more likely to have greater savings over your career and are more likely to be married to someone who also has higher earnings and savings.

What do you need to pursue graduate education? You need to apply. Graduate programs will evaluate your credentials based upon your overall academic record (grade point average in the last 60 hours of your undergraduate career is typical), test score performance (GRE or GMAT), letters of recommendation from faculty, statement of purpose about why you want to attend Graduate School, your professional experiences, and sometimes a personal interview or portfolio. In addition, many graduate students receive financial support to attend graduate school. Assistantships and fellowships are available from most graduate schools. UCF offers more than 100 master's, doctoral, and certificate programs.

The hit of the game came about 15 minutes after the goal post came down when Buddy George speared me a la Bill Goldberg on the 30-yard line.

The concussion that followed still hasn't left me, but I must say it's the best I've ever felt while not being able to complete a single sentence or see clearly or remember anyone's name. Good times.

I could only get it right on that one, but that's an easy win, so we go on...

There's a new Weight Watchers commercial running that has my joyful side a tad depressed. Apparently Kirstie Alley is the new spokesperson for Weight Watchers and she's challenging people to lose 60 pounds because she already has.

Serious, she looks like Rebecca from Cheers again and that's kind of cool, but it takes the fun away. It's like Sue Jane somehow ended up looking like Tyra Banks...

"I'm so good, in fact, I suppose you could call me the 'Hollback Girl.' With a tear in my eye and the pride of a million men, I smiled and put my issue down."

Then I picked it back up and stared at the photo of the hot girl from MTV...

"Mind of Mencia is the worst television show ever. It's so bad that Marshall could beat it. I swear, if I see the word 'bimbo' one more time and walks for his audience to laugh I'll slam my head in a car door..."
