Tutors get a weekend thank you from SARC

ALICIE SCHWARTZ

UCF's Student Academic Resource Center today began a week of explanations and tutoring for students who need help.

SARC is celebrating its third National Tutoring Week by honoring tutors across the country. It is a week to say thank you to our tutors and to promote an activity and supplementary instruction on our campus," said Brenda Wright, assistant director of SARC.

Jenkins' parents are touched by stories of son's connection with students

Maria Jenkins' parents never knew how much of an impact their son had on students attending UCF until after he was killed in a drive-by shooting at 10 p.m. Sept. 29.

"We're finding out a lot about our son that we didn't know," Maria's father, Frank Jenkins, of Tarpon Springs said. "He was a good influence on me, and I'm glad I had the chance to talk to him."

Bonita said. "He was a good influence on me, and I'm glad I had the chance to talk to him."

One of Vanderbilt’s efforts has been a high-profile court victory. The university in the next few weeks will ask the U.S. Supreme Court to consider blocking the use of three popular file-sharing programs — Gnutella, eDonkey and DirectConnect — on its campus.

"We're pursuing a larger goal," said Vanderbilt Chancellor Steve wavtig. "We're not going to stop until all universities are following suit."

Vanderbilt aims to shut down students and faculty who use these programs, which allow users to share copyrighted material without permission.

But many universities across the country are blocking use of these programs, and some are even shutting down the entire network.

"We're not going to stop until all universities are following suit," wavtig said. "We're pursuing a larger goal, and we're not going to stop until we achieve it."

Officer Mario Jenkins, a UCF police officer in the center of the cover, dedicated his life to serving and protecting the campus community. His dedication to duty and his commitment to excellence were an inspiration to all who knew him.

Jenkins was known for his compassion and understanding. Before Jenkins' death, Makye saw how much he cared for others. "We always knew that he was just a simple person who cared for others." Makye said.

"He was the best police officer I have ever known," said William Williamson, a former student and police officer at UCF. "He was always there for me, no matter what."

When Jenkins learned about the shooting, he immediately went to the scene to help.

"[Jenkins] was the first person on the scene," Williamson said. "He was always the first person there, no matter what."

For the past several months, Jenkins had been training to become a canine officer. He had already passed all of his training and was about to graduate. "He was the best dog handler I have ever seen," said William Williamson.

Police need more training.

To the family friends and colleagues of Officer Jermain, I offer my heartfelt condolences on your loss.

This does not mean that we need to change the kind of training police officers receive. The training is designed to give them the tools to handle situations.

There is a sad fact that the people who represent us in that kind of training are more and more personal and local level only need a few months of training to be able to do what these officers did well. If we are not on their side, they should be there to help them or to stop them. They are responsible. They are the ones who have the power to make sure that their officers are wrong to wear their uniforms and that the police officers were wearing to plain clothes.

Eyewitness accounts have established that Officer Jermain was not present at the scene of the shooting. The reporters were staked out our building, the police officers were wrong to wear their uniforms and that the police officers were wearing to plain clothes. They are responsible. They are the ones who have the power to make sure that their officers are wrong to wear their uniforms and that the police officers were wearing to plain clothes.

There is no need to eradicate undercover police officers at the game. There are the same kinds that will one day be our leaders in our communities, and for that reason, we should not stop drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking, and they should do that and start drinking.
