Weekend concert offerings feature music with charity

The Alpha Tau Omega fraternity recently placed first in a competition for its rock band "Rock the Wreath," earning $4,000 for Toys for Tots.

"The event was great," said David Hillard, a communications specialist who videotaped the event. "This taping was for a good cause." By putting the captured images on the Web site, he said he hoped to encourage other chapters to hold philanthropic events.

Organizers said the event seemed to be a success all around.

"Participants enjoyed a night of great music and helped improve local families’ holiday season," said Linda Hargreaves, event chair.

Dispute, stolen banner, marijuana all lead to arrests

UCF Police Officer William Howes was called to a residence off Neff Branch Apartments about 1:30 a.m. Tuesday morning. He said a contact about a dispute.

He contacted the tenant, who had called police, and found that the resident had pushed his kid. Although the tenant was not able to say what happened, he was wanted on charges against Greek organizations.

Howes found and questioned the resident, who claimed he was in the process of removing his personal belongings. When he arrived, he confirmed that the resident had pushed the kid, but didn’t push the kid.

Chocki was placed under arrest on suspicion of committing a hazing.

Fans flood Densch Center after victory

Coach George O'Leary spoke with Moffett when he came to UCF, and this season has been his proof that Moffett was touted as a talented recruit and for all. Moffett said.

Moffett was speechless as fan after fan approached him to congratulate him Tuesday morning for purchase by student, alumni and the public. Details for prices will be available today on the UCF athletics Web site.

"The way it's looking right now, the championship might be packed," Moffett said. "It's looking good."

Athletic Director Steve Orsini emphasized the importance of fan attendance at the conference championship because, he said, the players are going to get .

Moffett was one of the many players mobbed by fans congratulating them on their season. He was so amazed by the turnout and, at times, was speechless as fan after fan hugged him.

"I've never seen anything like that," Moffett said. "Hopefully it could be continued. That was last year, and we came home to an empty parking lot. That was the end of the season. This year, we have been able to knock off some games to look forward to."

Trailing by 32 at halftime, the Knights appeared to show glimpses of last season. But Moffett said the players were never worried because UAB had knocked off UTep, giving the Knights the best conference record and one more home game.

"Coach O'Leary got us up and said something and everybody started going crazy," Moffett said.

With two weeks to prepare, Moffett said the players were never worried because Moffett said.

"It's redemption. Saturday's win over Rice Saturday."

O'Leary a strong candidate for National Coach of the Year and coaches were never look­ng simply to earn a bowl bid.

"We've never not wanted to win," Orsini said. "We were running for first place, and we wanted to get it all. They did it. Now we're hosting the champ­ionship."

"Hopefully, our fans will come out because that's all this team needs is that encourage­ment. We could end it all as the outright champions of Confer­ence USA in our first year and then go to a great bowl game," he added.

He said that the fans at the Homecoming game played a greater role than most people know. On the final drive, Houston was unable to run offensive audibles successfully — for the quarterback at the line of scrimmage to shout to his teammates an incongruent change from the play called in the huddle or to call out other instructions — because UCF fans were too loud. The Knights won that game 38-29.

Orsini was one of a few UCF officials who took the best during the embarrassing winless season last year, but no one has been receiving the applause for hiring George O'Leary and putting the pro­gram in the hands of a quality coach.

"It makes me feel great," Orsini said. "It makes me feel great for the student-athletes. They're sitting up there in their seats, and I'm really happy for a guy that deserved a second chance, George O'Leary. I hope we were getting a great coach who would turn this around tomor­row, and today we're seeing it."

The East Division title is taken care of. The conference championship is right around that."

would be more motivated than really happy for a guy that George O'Leary. I knew we deserved a second chance, and we had the longest losing streak in the nation."

The proof is certainly there for O'Leary. He guided last season's 0-11 team to one of the best turnarounds in Division 1-A history. But his competition is strong.

Regardless of what those coaches have done, Orsini is adamant that O'Leary is the best in the nation this season.

"We are the East Division champions hosting the confer­ence championship," Orsini said. "He deserves National Coach of the Year for that alone. It's not the fact that we're not a Top 25 team. That shouldn't have to do with it. Coaching is taking somebody from where they were to much higher ground. No one in this country has taken their materi­al to higher ground than this guy."

Whether O'Leary wins the award will have to wait. The Knights' smiles are wide, but a win Dec. 1 could make it even wider. "I never would have dreamed it," Orsini said. "I'm just glad I'm living it."
The four courses of Multiple Sclerosis

- Spells Remitting: People with this type of MS experience a disease that may start out slowly and then seem to stabilize over several years, only to flare up again. Some have more relapses than others. Usually there is an increase or decrease in symptoms, including temporary minor improvements.

- Stable: People with stable MS have minimal relapses and minor improvements, with symptoms remaining steady for at least 2 years.

- Primary Progressive: People with primary progressive MS have a steady decline in function from the beginning.

- Secondary Progressive: Most cases of secondary progressive MS start out like relapsing-remitting MS, with relapses and remissions. After 10-15 years, however, the disease takes on a steady, progressive downhill course, which is often slower than primary progressive MS.

UCF students, community members walk for a Multiple Sclerosis cure

More than 700 walkers turned out to support the walk, which was held at UCF's campus at this year's annual Multiple Sclerosis Society event. The event was an event to raise awareness about multiple sclerosis. With 400,000 Americans affected, and one new case diagnosed each day, MS is becoming more widely known.

The event included a illuminated 5K fun run, a walker's walk and a pre-show with an appearance by the M.C., M.C. performance by Balboa, the Shimmy Knights, and more. Many activities included painting, scent stations for the kids. Live music from T.T. and a hot dog provided by Stacy's Real Food.

Cheryl Mikol, chief of event, was not involved in planning the event, but was also affected as her mother was diagnosed with MS.

"The walk is symbolic of everyone coming together to show their support," she said. At the event were members of the MMFF, neighbors from all around the area and a diverse student population. Darin Lilli, who manages the Multiple Sclerosis Society, said the event couldn't have been better.

"We were able to raise $46,000 and about $48,000 more in pledges. Helping Oregon is available in cities such as Portland and the nearby suburbs. It's also available in the United States through the Oregon Health Foundation. It can help people find a cure for MS.

Volleyball upset bid comes up just short

Knights push Marshall to limit

ANDY VAZQUEZ

The UCF volleyball team ended its season Friday night with one of its best performances against the best team in Conference USA, Marshall.

The Golden Knights won the first two games, leaving the Thunderbird Hotel (USA-USA) on the ropes, but Marshall stormed back to win the final three games and won the match in the decisive fifth game (30-24, 23-30, 23-30, 30-10, 31-29) at Autry Court on the campus of Rice University.

UCF's performance was so strong that the team swept the Knights in three games twice earlier this season.

The ninth-seeded Knights pumped hitting percentages of .271 and .457, respectively, in the first two games.

"We played phenomenal in Games one and two and just couldn't maintain it," Coach Colada said.

Colada blamed the collapse on poor passing.

With the Knights trailing late in the game, UCF sophomore outside hitter Lorin Lukas, who missed both conference play and the regular season title with Memphis for a five-game match," Colada said.

UCF opened its 2005 season with a two-game run at the USA's C-USA Championship game, posting a win in the C-USA Championship game, winning its 2005 East Division title with come-from-behind road-win over Rice

UCF football team captures C-USA East Division title with come-from-behind road-win over Rice

Random Marshall has been waiting for the opportunity to lead his team into uncharted territory since he came to UCF four years ago.

On Saturday, Marshall, a senior wide receiver and co-captain of the Knights, wanted the ball with a division title and conference championship game berth on the line.

He got his wish and made the most of it.

With the Knights trailing late in the game, UCF quarterback Steven Moffett found Marshall in the end zone for an 18-yard touchdown, propelling the Knights to a 36-28 win over Rice and a divisional championship.

With the win on Saturday, the UCF football team claimed Conference USA East Division and clinched a spot in the C-USA Championship game, continuing one of the most remarkable turnarounds in the history of college football.

That wasn't the only good news that UCF received on Saturday night. Turns out the Knights' harshest test of the season was yet to come.

The senior was also a key part of the drive that took the ball to the 20-yard line.

As the two teams headed into the final seconds of the fourth quarter, the Knights were down 3-0 and the Mountaineers had the ball at midfield.

"Torchy" Clark of the Mountaineers, who missed both conference play and the regular season title with Memphis for a five-game match," Colada said. "He also had a lot of defensive errors in game one. After that, we settled down and realized that it was just volleyball, regardless of it being the Conference USA tournament.

UCF's quarterback Steven Moffett finished with 14 completions on 21 attempts for 202 yards and a touchdown.

"We played phenomenal in games one and two and just couldn't maintain it," Coach Colada said.

Coloda blamed the collapse on poor passing.

"Where Everybody Rides!"
Knights have room to improve

Despite remarkable turnaround, UCF has work to do before the conference title game

Chris Moyer

When a team has the turnaround season UCF has had this year, it’s difficult to find a good reason to lose a game. The Knights have not lost since the Roadrunners of San Diego State, and their win over SMU was key. The Knights showed they can win on the road.

But the Knights are not perfect, and there are problems to address. The offense was held in check by SMU, and the defense missed tackles and allowed the big pass plays.

First quarter

UCF started the game strong with a 29-yard pass to the Owls quarterback Joel Falcono. The Knights then had a 2-yard run down to the Rice 34-yard line, but the Owls were able to stop the drive.

Second quarter

The Owls scored their first touchdown of the season on a 25-yard field goal. Despite being on the field for more than 10 minutes, the Owls were unable to score more points.

Third quarter

UCF scored their second touchdown on a 2-yard run by the Owls quarterback Joel Falcono. Despite a strong defense, the Owls were unable to contain the Knights.

Fourth quarter

The Owls scored their third touchdown on a 3-yard rush by the Owls quarterback Joel Falcono. Despite the Owls’ efforts to score more points, the Knights were able to put the game out of reach.

The Owls scored their final touchdown on a 30-yard field goal. Despite a strong defense, the Owls were unable to contain the Knights.

We knew we were going to be something great... but the result is just amazing.

- Defensive: Joel Falcono, Qb

UCF vs. SMU

The Knights had a strong performance against SMU, but they still need to work on their defense. The Knights’ offense was impressive, but the defense missed tackles and allowed the big pass plays.

AROUND C-USA

UAB vs. UTP

The Miners came into the game ranked 26th in the nation, but they were unable to score anything against UAB. The Miners missed UTEP’s field goal, the Blazers scored twice, the second for the touchdown. The Miners’ defense allowed the big pass plays, and the offense was unable to score anything.

Memphis running back DeAngelo Walker

Walker pulled a jump ball out of the game. Jackson and freshman receiver Javon Johnson, who was leading the Miners in receptions, found a way to point out its shortcoming.

Meanwhile, the Owls

The Owls scored their third touchdown on a 3-yard rush by the Owls quarterback Joel Falcono. Despite the Owls’ efforts to score more points, the Knights were able to put the game out of reach.

Rollins can't keep up in final minutes

Kojo, with the Knights, trailing only 43-38.

Jared forward LaVon Payne made a trey from the right corner to extend the lead to 44-39 and then Livehhock exploded for seven points in a row to pull the lead to 50-40.

"Making shots from the outside helps a lot," Lindbeck said. "They started concentrating on the inside shooters and it froze us up inside." Two Rollins turnovers led to two more easy inside baskets, giving the lead back to 52-40 with 9:41 remaining.

Rollins attempted quickly dribbling three shining 3-pointers in the next half, but the lead couldn't be overcome from that point on.

UCF went on to win 81-63, but the game that was supposed to be easily won by the Knights turned out to be much harder for them.

The Knights started the game and the half from a strong position, holding a 12-11 lead midway through the first half. Guards John Quints and Jonny Rebelt led the scoring attack for Rollins. Threws were five-of-eight from the field and two of Reibel's totals were points.

"I thought we had our nose offenses well and moved the ball better," said Lindbeck. "But we just didn't get it in the basket and it free us up inside." We just didn't get it in the basket and it free us up inside.

Another 3-pointer from UCF's Alex Ogletree gave the Knights a 41-34 lead with 10:47 remaining. But from that point on, the tides turned in favor of the Knights.

The Knights finished the first half with a 41-34 lead, and with 10:47 remaining, the tides turned in favor of the Knights. The Knights were able to hold off Rollins for the rest of the game.

UCF's head coach Noel Houston said: "We had lapses at two or three different times, and it's that inability to make baskets that is going to hurt us this year." Houston went on to say that his team was ready for the next game.

UCF's senior forward Karlis Meiers had 19 points, while guard Raquel Robinson had 18. The Knights' big man, center Jackie Akers, tallied 14 points while guard Francine Speraw had 14.

The Knights were able to hold off Rollins for the rest of the game, never allowing the Griffins to come within single digits of the lead. The Knights' defense was solid, holding Rollins to 34.8% shooting from the field, including 5-of-25 from three-point range. Rollins' defense was respectable, but they couldn't stop the Knights' offensive attack.

The Knights finished the game with a 79-58 victory, securing their third straight win of the season.

"We knew we had to come out with intensity and that we had to have a good game," said Meiers. "Our defense held up well and our offense was solid." The Knights' defense held Rollins to 34.8% shooting from the field, including 5-of-25 from three-point range. Rollins' defense was respectable, but they couldn't stop the Knights' offensive attack.

Our Stand

Attentiveness Key for Title Game

By Don Nelson

J ust when the UCF football team thought they couldn't get any more unbelievable, the Knights braved a snow- covered Gator Bowl Saturday night to clinch the Conference USA Championship and a trip to the C-USA Championship.

With some help from UAB, which beat UTEP following UAB's win, the Knights now posses the conference championship tiebreaker in C-USA and will host the championship game. It's a great accomplishment and a just reward for a football team who has produced the biggest turnaround in the history of Conference USA.

Now the real challenge belongs to UCF student fans (and alumni). Officially UCF will be watching the C-USA Championship on TV and will need to be made aware of which game they should support. Hopefully the #UCF portion is not lost on anyone. And attendance will take a huge role in that determination.

UCF attendance has been questioned over the past two seasons. Obviously the Organize UCF is seeking ways to increase the attendance of all UCF games while UCF Athletics will need attendance to help fund the programs. The next home game on Dec. 3 the school has recouped in terms of attendance, and the football program has never had a better opportunity to break the record than in 2005.

It's not that UCF shouldn't try to break that record, but the situation is not similar to this season. There's no reason that UCF shouldn't be on top of the conference and in demand. So the attendance from fans being asked to come out to see UCF play should be there.

The best choice for Coach of the Year is our King George

MOUTHING OFF
ASHLEY BURNS
Managing Editor

Yes, I'm even bold enough to admit when an apology is owed. I apologize to George O'Leary. I've been all over the town about South Florida, but this run for a conference championship has been simply amazing. Well, amusing and insane because I don't know how my blood pressure ever managed to not shoot through the roof.

Aggies aside, O'Leary deserves to win National Coach of the Year. No one anyone could ever argue that he deserves it more. He became the best team in Conference USA in the span of one season. That's monumental. How about the Worldwide Wide receiver? Take a look at the numbers this season. There is no standout on offense. Tommy Moffett has put up excellent numbers. Every Smith has put up excellent numbers. Brandon Marshall and Mike Walker (who played as an incredible roll in this summertime) and doesn't deserve to have his season ruined by injury. He has both put up excellent numbers. None of them has taken one thing away from the other and, in any conversations about UCF football, they are all mentioned equally. That's something to build on.

What about the Academy Award for Best Actor? O'Leary had every single character believing that this would be a season of opportunity to improve. But somewhere behind that undercurrent of hope, I could tell he had bigger things on his mind. Yet he went through the entire season playing the role of the coach supplied by high-quality players and didn't let his coaching hurt him. Perhaps a Grammy Award for best song. It may not be the most melodic tune in the UCF history, but I think that "Chiefs of the Year" chant outside the Wyche Stadium Center Saturday night had some damn fine lyrics. And it's certainly better than last year's UCF theme song, "Lucky Breaky Street!"

But the best of all would be a World Series of Poker hand. Because this season every flip of the card is needed. The Knights needed Southern Miss to lose in order to take sole possession of first place, and Houston helped UCF out. The Knights needed the SEC title as well and they managed to do it with one of the best exploitative wide receivers out for good. Most of all, UCF needed UTPB to lose, and UAB came to the rescue. The Knights were dealt every single winning hand in conference play, and O'Leary just kept smiling in the dugout. Plus, the guy has one heck of a poker face.

O'Leary has earned the National Coach of the Year honor: It would be a crime not to give it to him. We'll just have to wait and see what happens. In the meantime, we have one more home game to get ready for. We may not know what time it will be, but we know where it will be. The Knights have been monsters at home this year. Nothing will change when Dec. 3 comes. The fact that Walker is out for the season means UCF should only worry harder to win for the guy who battled his back each week with some amazing coaches.

To quote Adam Sandler in an incredible movie re-make, The Longest Yard, "You busted our kneecaps, now we'll bust our asses for you." Or something like that.

Either way, I love this feeling. One day, my first, second or third wife will pop a baby out and tell me, "This is the greatest day of your life!" Nope, Nov. 18, 2005, was the greatest day of my life. It was the longest day of my life, but it was all worth it.

Out of all the things to paint or draw, why would an individual paint/draw that specific picture? I'll show all a sign in the face to an Asian American student who draws UCF as well as to Asian-American communities in general to encourage their students to come to UCF. It also proves that students come to UCF and they are happy to go. This particular incident is an evidence that the time has not changed very much in terms of what we Asian American students experienced for the past couple of centuries. Cultural tradition for all.

Overall, people might never fully understand the situation, but at least they are able to trade phrases. Only then would they be able to understand what this is truly about.

Confederate flag a throwback

I have to say to the people who put up the Confederate flag at UCF that you have no right. You moved to the South. Get over it. Why don't you start putting up the American flag that exists today? That is why you are not, for some defined flag that many people are so offensive, or use one more Confederate flag. I'm going to find a battle flag from the Union and remind you all where you lost to.

As for other flags, such as the Spanish, Russian, French and German, they actually represent their country today, unlike the Confederate flag. Get with the times and help to get out the current flag of the United State of America.
