Holiday cause rocks students

Students from many back grounds of the Alpha Tau Omega Mens House make plans to give back, and help those less fortunate during the holiday season through the donation of gifts for children.

The event, hosted by Alpha Tau Omega and Zeta Tau Alpha, was even more successful than last year's event, with 700 to 1000 people attending that year.

A stage on the front lawn of the Alpha Tau Omega house showcased five bands: Gym Class Heroes, Black Eyed Peas, White Light, GreyScale Music, and Early Next Year.

David Thibert, event supervisor and president of the Student Center, said that the event was great and went smoothly. Thibert said it was an added fun for all and for everyone attended.

Each band played half an hour and sang the crowd with their music. The event began at 7 p.m. and lasted until 8 p.m. until 2 p.m.

The event was held in benefit of Reading is Fundamental where participants help less fortunate families with English at Bentley.

For more information, call Andrew Blair at 407-823-2811.

Workshop about career issues
Self-Discovery Knights will hold a Se: The Inside the workplace from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m., Monday at the Student Union Key West Room.

This interactive workshop will help discover the qualities of sexual encounters while under the influence of alcohol and other drugs, and help you determine how and when intimate situations can turn into something else.

For more information, call Deena G этим at 407-823-2811.

UCF Mail, much better than FAX
UCF mail will be held again from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. The Kappa Gamma will host UCF Mail at 407-447-4556 in the Pugh Ballroom.

UCF Mail is a listening companion for anyone who needs to talk, compete by singing a 3-4 minute song. Along with the competition, Kappa Gamma will also be holding a raffle to benefit Reading is Fundamental.

Tickets and raffle tickets will be sold. All proceeds will be donated to Reading is Fundamental, the Kappa Gamma Foundation and National Miller.

O'Leary is a strong candidate for National Coach of the Year

Pete Carroll could be on the verge of his third perfect season in the Pac-12. It's a turnaround year that has done more than what he had to work with, and I'm not knocking our kids, but we had the longest losing streak in the nation.

The proof is certainly there for O'Leary. He guided last season's 0-11 team to one of the best turnarounds in Division I-A history. But his competitors is strong.

Southern California Coach Pete Carroll could be on the verge of his third perfect season, and Joe Paterno has turned Penn State back into a Top 5 team.

The East Division title is now within reach. The conference championship is right around the corner, and the possibility of a bowl game is greater than ever. But there's one more award that O'Leary believes to belong to someone at UCF. He wants George Orsini to win National Coach of the Year.

"He is the National Coach of the Year," Orsini said. "If people truly evaluate what coaching means to a team - that's taking whatever you have to work with and making it better - then there is no one this year that has done more with what they had to work with, and I'm not knocking our kids, but we had the longest losing streak in the nation."

The Knights won that game 31-29. They're tasting the sweet fruit of their sweet labor, and I'm just glad I'm living it."

Orsini said. "I'm never just wanted to win a Top 25 award but Orsini believes, Orsini is adamant that O'Leary is the best in the nation this season."

"We are the East Division champions hosting the conference championship," Orsini said. "It's the National Coach of the Year for that alone. It's not the fact that we're not a Top 25 team. That shouldn't have to do with it. Coaching is taking somebody from where they were to much higher ground. No one in this country has taken their material to higher ground than this guy."

Whether O'Leary wins the award will have to wait. The Knights' uniforms are wide, but a win Dec. 1 could make them even wider.

"I never would have dreamed it," Orsini said. "I'm just glad I'm living it."
More than 700 walkers turned out to support their cause.

Volleyball's upset bid comes up just short
Knights push Marshall to limit

Andy Jacobsen (Staff Writer)

The UCF volleyball team ended its season Friday night with one of its best performances against the best team in Conference USA, Marshall.

The Golden Knights won the first two games, leaving the Thundering Herd (35-4, 14-2 C-USA) on the ropes, but Marshall stormed back in the final three games and won the match in the decisive fifth game 24-20, 23-25, 30-28, 25-10 at Aubry Court on the campus of Rice University.

UCF's performance was surprising, considering that the team swept the Knights in three games earlier this season.

The ninth-seeded Knights posted hitting percentages of .271 and .457, respectively, in the first two games.

"We played phenomenal in Games one and two and just couldn't maintain it," Coach Mag Cokeley said.

Colleo blamed the collapse in poor passing.

"We stopped passing well after the second game," she said. "It's hard for us to run our offense if we're not passing very well, especially against a team that is so effectively driven." Though the team was able to build C-USA Player of the Year Kelly-Arnie Billing, a 4-fool-beater, to a maximum performance early in the match, she came on strong in the end.

"We did end up holding the "

Random Marshall has been waiting for the opportunity to lead his team into uncharted territory since he came to UCF four years ago.

On Saturday, Marshall and co-captain of the Knights wanted the ball with a divisional title and conference championship game berth on the line.

He got it and made the most of it.

With the Knights trailing late in the game, UCF quarterback Steven Moffett found Marshall in the end zone for an 18-yard touchdown, propelling the Knights to a 36-28 win over Rice and a divisional championship banner.

With the win on Saturday, the UCF football team claimed Conference USA East Division and clinched a spot in the C-USA Championship game, continuing one of the most remarkable turnarounds in the history of college football.

That wasn't the only good news that UCF received on Saturday night. Turns out, the Knights haven't played their last home game of the year after all. On the flight back from Houston, the team learned that UAB had defeated UTSA meaning that the Knights will finish the year with the best record in the conference and UCF will host the CUSA Championship game against either UTEP or Tulsa on Dec. 3 at the Citrus Bowl.

"We heard at 3:000 feet that UAB beat UTSA and we knew we were home," UCF Coach George O'Leary said. "The plane just kept rocking 'Home, home, home,' because they knew we were going to have a lot of

The Knights picked up a win over Florida A&M, which marked the first game of the regular season on Friday, but they fell on Saturday to West Virginia.

And after a tightly contested first half, the Mountaineers pulled away in the second half for a 75-59 win.

In the first half, both teams played a quick tempo and got in and out of the zone. The Mountaineers led by as much as a dozen with under three minutes remaining in the half but the Knights closed the gap to seven with 30 seconds remaining.

As the teams headed into the locker rooms, the Knights were behind by seven, but there was an underlying problem. They were being dominated on the boards.

But in the second half, the Mountaineers controlled the Knights in the paint. With 3:00 left, the Mountaineers led by 17 and on Thursday night in the 1st Round. The Mountaineers were coming into this game with a 17-2 record, good for fifth best in the nation. The Knights had to go with a four-man rotation because of injuries, but they came out with a lot of energy and went on a run which brought them within 10.

"We were down by 17 at halftime and we didn't come out flat," UCF Coach Andy Vasquez said. "We had a big lead and we didn't come out flat, but we didn't come out flat. We came out with a lot of intensity and we played well."

KNIGHTS HAVE ROOM TO IMPROVE

Despite remarkable turnaround, UCF has work to do before the conference title game.
Rollins can't keep up in final minutes

BY JASON WEBB

With the Knights trailing by only 42-44, Tech had extended the lead to 44-39 and then UCF had utilized two points in a row to push the lead to 46-39. “Making shots from the outside helped a lot,” Lindbeck said. “They started concentrating on the inside shooters and it just free up the inside.”

Two Rollins turnovers led to two more easy UCF baskets, giving the Knights a 52-39 lead with 11:39 remaining.

“We put the ball in Mike’s hands a few times,” Colando said. “She got 10, and she scored 10. She had a great game.”

The Knights struggled from the floor throughout the evening with 50% of their 20 free throws missed. However, they did have 20 second chance points. The Knights made only six 3-pointers for the game, while UCF connected from 3-point range on 14 attempts.

Certainly UCF’s defense forced a lot of turnovers by the Knights, leading to 15-20 points.

The Knights adjusted in the second half, scoring a 37-16 run after the timeout. “Overall, our defense was better,” Coach Gail Striegler said. “They were making baskets, but we were able to stop them the second half.”

With the win, the Knights improved to 8-10, maintaining their fourth place finish in the SSC. UCF wrapped up their season on a high note, finishing with a 21-6 overall record.

ATTENDANCE key for title game

J ust when the UCF football program was about to cash in on the phenomenon that is the 2005 football season, something more unbelievable, the Knights bowed to a no-name Power Five School Saturday night to snatch the Conference USA title away and prep for a trip to the C-USA Championship game. With some help from UAB, which beat UTEP following UCF's win, the Knights now possess the Conference USA title. This is a great reward for the hard work that has been put into football by the program and a huge turnaround in the history of Conference USA football.

Now the real challenge belongs to UCF students, fans, and alumni. Officials will be watching as UCF hosts the C-USA Championship at UCF Stadium. Sure, it will be a challenge to make it bearable, but when you consider that you are about to experience the memories of a lifetime, it will be worth it. The memory of a lifetime! The memory of memories will be stored in your soul forever.

Attendance key for title game

In a finish so close, the UCF football program would get a closer read of the attendance key for title game. This is a great reward for the hard work that has been put into football by the program and a huge turnaround in the history of Conference USA football.
