Student’s attacker still at-large

UCF sophomore's throat slit last week; self-inflicted injury ‘unlikely’

Casey Finnegan, a sophomore hospital management major at UCF, will celebrate her 20th birthday today — lying in a hospital bed.

Finnegan was found lying in a street in Winter Park at 4 a.m. last Wednesday with her throat slashed from ear to ear.

After undergoing emergency surgery at Orlando Regional Medical Center, Finnegan’s condition is improving, but her assailant remains at large.

An Orange County Sheriff’s Office incident report states that Finnegan was unable to tell them how her throat was violated at all the way to the wind-

The report does, however, list Finnegan’s boyfriend as a suspect in the aggravated battery investigation, but does not identify him by name.

Finnegan was found in the street near 2704 Ambergate Road “covered in blood” the police report states.

“I believe the boyfriend told detectives he didn’t want them to come back,” said Solomons.

“He thinks he can get away with it.”

Based on what the detectives saw and what she learned from the attending physician, the severity and nature of the injury would make it highly unlikely that it was an accident.

Senate marches closer to goal of new appeals

Last Thursday’s meeting of the 86th Student Senate brought changes to the Title IX Situs, passed a bill funding UCF’s Leadersh. Week seminar, and passed an appeals process.

The changes to the Senate’s rules will ensure effective member attendance and will establish new requirements for groups to fall apart, as well as an orientation for new senators who do not attend the annual retreat. Ald. Latone, Chair of the Nebesky, Judicial, and Rules Committee spoke candidly about these changes.

Some changes include changing the requirements for the fall Senate retreat as well as providing an orientation for new senators. Members present at the retreat or those receiving an appointment during the year — Latone said — “will have a better idea of the procedures.”

The report does, however, list Finnegan’s condition as improving, but her assailant remains at large.

New Orleans universities bring life to city

New Orleans — New Orleans is teeming with business on a level not seen since the 1960s, weakened McNally wrote.

"The economy is on the upswing," said Kevin Breen, president of the School of Business and Economics.

"We're seeing a lot of activity in the downtown area," he said.

The move is expected to bring more than 1,000 new jobs to the city and $300 million in annual revenue.

"This is a good thing for the city," Breen said. "It's a sign that we're moving in the right direction."

Arkansas college who Voted Against Charter School Voted Against Charter School

CONWAY, Ark. — The Walton Family Foundation has awarded Hendrix College $48,000 to research the idea of starting a charter school near campus.

James Jenkins, chair of the economics department at the private liberal arts college, will use the money to investigate whether starting a charter school would increase enrollment through grades eighth, the college said in a statement.

The proposed school would be located across the street from the construction site of a charter school near campus.

UCF Coach Kirk reached two goals on Sunday. On Saturday night, UCF bounced back with one of the biggest wins in program history with an upset of Houston on the road.

Senior forward Anthony Speraw says win over Cougars might be Knights atone for home loss to Herd

If we had this intensity [against Marshall], we win that ballgame.

Women's team breaks record, beats UTEP

Knights set new attendance mark, pick up win with timely baskets

In its first-ever nationally televised game, the UCF women's basketball team routed two rivals on Sunday. They set a new national attendance record, but more importantly, they won their second consecutive game in three days with a 46-16 triumph over the UTEP Miners.

With less than 30 seconds to go, the Miners forced the Golden Knights to beat them with an outside shot. The Knights were three-of-20 from long range up to that point. In, when senior guard Anthony Speraw got the night's biggest open look, she took the chance and drained a game-winning 3-pointer with 1.1 seconds on the clock.

"I was one-for-five to that moment in time," Speraw said. "So, they were really backing off of me, so I just shot it. It felt good.

"If you show it back in slow motion, you could see her praying before she shot it," sophomore guard Amber Long said.

King's basket was seen in front of 1,385 people, which shattered the old attendance record of 858, which was set back in 2002. The Knights said that the enthusiasm of the full house helped them raise their own intensity.

"The crowd was great," King said. "Being up by 30, we were driving for loose balls, we could hear them screaming for us to get the ball. So, that really helped us hustle even more.

"I have been excluded for games before but I have never been so nervous for a game at UUC," King said. "Before the games, I was telling [teacher, guard Francesca Houston], "Sam, J."

The Knights' win was an opportunity to extend their winning streak, but a number of missed opportunities kept the team from winning.

The Knights started off strong, scoring a point in the first half. However, they struggled to maintain their lead throughout the second half, allowing the Miners to close the gap. The Miners' defense was strong, forcing the Knights to shoot a low percentage. In the final minutes, the Knights were able to make some key shots to secure the win.

The Knights' win was an important step in their season, as they are now tied with the Miners for third place in the conference. With only one game remaining, the Knights will need to make sure they continue their winning streak to keep up with the competition.

The Seattle Seahawks are not flying under anyone's radar screen

The NFL playoff picture is a lot tighter than what many expected it to be.

As a Dolphins fan, I have been following the playoff picture closely since the end of the regular season. As of now, I am not too worried about my team. I have faith in our defense and the offense will be fine this year.

Still, as a Dolphins fan, I am looking forward to the next season and I am hopeful that my team will make it to the Super Bowl.

I am a big fan of the Dolphins and I am excited about the upcoming season.

As a Dolphins fan, I am excited about the next season.
Alexander and a sturdy defense make Seattle everyone’s best bet come to the NFL this year. No team had a better balance of offense and defense. People can argue Indianapolis or Denver but they both have to look at where the Seahawks were only a year ago and what they worked with this year. Seattle went from team with two receivers, who couldn't catch the arrow ball in 2005, to a dead Chinese chicken, to a Super Bowl hero – Ricky Williams.

As you liking that? Ed Birm! Try to show a team as great as life Seattle who didn’t try desperately to nab #fridays of several and TT show you a live.

Then let’s share Alexander Green, I chuckled for him by Jamie Mccarthy.A last after the Seahawks beat the Oakland Raiders on Saturday.
But it’s been the run away in the league, heads down It’s the MOV and the 1-6 All rolled into one.

Seattle’s how can anyone say that a guy who led the league in rushing and broke the NFL record for touchdowns in a season few ever in the other That's like saying that Pats Hlokaen's life is a great game.

I don’t know why there are so many critics of the Seahawks. Maybe Di because Seattle has a sad, horrible history in professional sports.

All I know is one thing. When I visited my family in Seattle for Christmas, my brother took me to watch the Seahawks play the Colts. The fans are inane, and I don’t think anyone can win against that offense and that fan base. Not bad for a year's worth, right?”

I just think the Seahawks have a chance to run the table. With the Colts choking like an ant trying to suck up water, I can’t see how the Seahawks could not be the NFC East champs this year.

I don’t know what the future holds, but Seattle is a team that plays tough, hard, and against any other team. We’re in the Super Bowl, and the Seahawks are in it for the long haul.

So, if you’re a fan of the Seahawks, you should be proud of your team. They’re the best team in the league right now, and they’re going to go all the way this year.
