Bentley accused of approving forgery on official forms

TITANYN DUCK

SGA Student Body President Willie Bentley said Tuesday he has no idea how a former branch account Monday in response to allegations that the president authorized two signatories to forge his signature on a travel request form. "But then, at 5 p.m., Wednesday, he rescinded himself, authorizing the account because he 'deemed the allegations unfounded,'" said a SGA spokesperson. A special session of Senate had been called but was not quorumed when Bentley agreed to freeze the account himself. Governors for the SGA passed a motion to end any action from the Senate despite its unforeseen nature. "I feel no reason why there should be any faction," Bentley said.

Also on Monday, Bentley fired two former branch officials, one of whom he authorized to sign documents to the travel requests of his co-signatories. The SGA branch's personnel and budget - and in turn - Bentley himself is now under investigation.

Travel requests require two signatures, which is now signed by the president, vice president or comptroller. If necessary, the president is authorized to have someone sign in his absence as long as they notify the accounting office. The authorized person has to sign their own name, not the name of the president. When the president returns, he is to sign off on the request. According to Former Comptroller Ryan Martin, Bentley did not have the person he authorized sign their own name; instead, Bentley had them sign his name.

"This was a real lapse of judgment," Martin said.

Martin is the person who first noticed that the signatures did not match, and he started the SGA and the Activity and Services Fund business office. Martin had told several advisors and quoted Speaker of Senate Eric Schweitzer in the situation. Following called a special session of Senate to decide whether to freeze the executive accounts.

"Some of the false accusations allege I authorized a person to forge my signatory on a document," said Bentley in a released statement. "When I first learned of the instant capture and immediate international distribution potential of images, and have made an exhibit like this, but I lacked the definition. Why, and feel it has been lacking terminology." This professor of art in the MF.A graduate program is the curator and co-founder of the exhibition, as well as a close friend of the artist. Cameras, cell phones, any mobile electronic devices are created in accordance with the potential of this sport.

"This marks a fresh concept for the New 'Mobicapping: Mobile Image onlineshow Century.'"

"Performance

This is the first time UCF has held an online exhibit. "People have done this in the past few years and have made an exhibit like this, but they lacked the theory," Scott Hall, curator and co-founder of the exhibition, as well as a professor of art in the MF.A graduate program, the curator and co-founder of the exhibition, as well as a close friend of the artist, said.

"Technology has evolved over the years from devices that can not be used to do anything except make a picture, to devices that can not be used to do anything except make a picture. The black and gold is a unique because it is the only pure graphics card," Kidd said. "All of the other tech cards have some of their own, but not this one."

The constant availability of this sport has created the potential for addiction. However, "I merely earned this award from our university," Kidd said at the conference.

"We are all very excited and proud to receive this award from our university this year," Kidd said at the conference.

The National Association of Campus Card Users, which holds its 10th annual conference this coming weekend in March, honored UCF with the Best Card Design Award for 2006. UCF Card Services Manager Timmy Kidd accepted the UCF at the conference and accepted the award on behalf of the university.

"I am good at it, and feel limited to a certain medium. Robinson said that "this event is entirely self-funded. Even without our paid advertising, there have already been submissions from students and others." Kidd said.

As a result of the event, UCF artists are invited to submit their work for consideration for UCF Mobicapping, an international juried online exhibit. Applications are due by April 15, and will be juried by a panel of judges. The event is entirely self-funded. Even without our paid advertising, there have already been submissions from students and others. Kidd said.

CAUGHT MAJORITY

A crowd of people, men and women, wait outside Larry Moon Lanes in Sanford, Fla., Monday night. Upon signing in, they receive their original set of tickets, and the bar is opened to all, with just one exception: no one is allowed in the bowling alley. They can begin to tell the story about their own experiences with gang violence, and you can see that all of the people are sharing their emotional stories and laughing or crying about the experience.

The table upon which are displayed are pizza slices, cupcakes, buttons, and a colorfully decorated, "Everything is great" sign. Theater is a hot seat in the chair next to the table, and they are all, in fact, a nervous story about the time.

The event is being held by the Florida Coalition Against Domestic Violence, Planned Parenthood, as well as the Orlando Health Department of Organization for Women, at Larry Moon Lanes, which is hosting Larry Moon Lovers. The event was attended by Larry Moon Lovers, who were able to view some movies, and also had two sets of tickets, and at health department. The three officers and two Palestinian civilians were wounded, the security officials said.

The two militants were arrested and security officials were removing large amounts of explosives from the car, the officials said.

The Israeli border authority said it shut the crossing on Monday, the order said, in response to the attempt.

Two U.S. officials said it was confirmed that a bomb was left in the car, the officials said.

The officials showed support for the Palestinian government as the top U.S. military commander there said some U.S. troops may be able to leave in the months ahead.

Army Gen. George Casey said U.S. forces will pay attention to the Palestinian government in meetings with top U.S. commanders and the newly elected leaders.

Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice flew separately from Baghdad to a meeting with the Palestinian prime minister, the code found in the first seven paragraphs spell out the code.

The judges' order said that the code was an essential part of a legal document, which forms the legal basis for the judgment. The judges also said that the code was not a judgment in itself.

The United States Security Council resolution, which forms the legal basis for U.S. operations to stabilize and rebuild Iraq, is expected to expire at the end of the year, so there will be talks with the lead government on possible arrangements beyond this year.

Alluding to recent calls by several retired generals for Rumsfeld to resign, reporters asked whether the 73-year-old defense secretary whether this would be his last trip to Iraq as Pentagon chief.

Rumsfeld replied with one word, and no smile: "Yes."

VOX offers reproductive, health-service advising aborition advocate, but he says the presence of VOX as a voice for Planned Parenthood on campus doesn’t bother him. “I know there are always going to be individuals around me, especially on campus, and that I’m even probably in the minority as a pro-life student on this campus. That pro-choice people have organized and they’re being heard. But neither me or [they] have a right to organize, mingle and support their beliefs as much as anyone else,” he added. “It’s up to those who disagree with them on any number of issues to DISCERN.”

Ross Proctor is a 22-year-old junior majoring in bio- tech. “I think it’s a good thing to have the pro-choice individuals around the campus, and it helps me in my studies,” he said. “I know there are always going to be individuals around me, especially on campus, and that I’m even probably in the minority as a pro-life student on this campus.”

Aside from providing reproductive and health services to its patients, Planned Parenthood has also become a strong advocate of legal issues concerning reproductive rights.

“Planned Parenthood believes that all people, regardless of race, ethnicity, income, marital status or gender, should have access to reproductive health care. Planned Parenthood works to provide individuals with the means of controlling their reproduction and to ensure that the rights guaranteed by the Constitution are upheld for all people, regardless of the right to privacy,” said Proctor.

Some students view the leadership of reproductive rights from a different perspective.

“I think that unborn children are 100 percent human and have a right to life,” said Proctor. Abortion as a form of euthanasia is silly because it is not the child making the decision, but the person because he better accomodates another person who doesn’t have a right to support the child or has other plans in life that is still morbid. Basically, abortion is punishing children with a death sentence because some form of birth control failed. It’s not the baby’s fault,” Wilson said.

Regardless of varying points of view, the legal aspects of Planned Parenthood, VOX is certainly making its voice heard. “If abortion is illegal, then it’s been here. In addition to the many VOX events which have already occurred, there is still more to come on the way, such as a movie night on April 20th at 7:30 p.m. where they will be showing Saved! at the Lake Drive Community Center, and ‘A Chow for Choice’ dinner at Mye’s on University Boulevard in the coming months. Online sites make poker more accessible money, regardless of experience or skill.

The first time I played poker, I didn't know anyone else who knew how to play, but I was interested in the game, so I started playing online. As my skills improved, I began playing in local tournaments and eventually moved on to playing in online tournaments. Now, I play poker professionally and have made a career out of it.

Poker has become increasingly popular over the years, and there are now many websites where you can play poker for real money. These websites offer a variety of games and stakes, allowing players to choose the type of game and the level of competition that suits them best.

One of the big advantages of playing poker online is the convenience. You can play from anywhere with an internet connection, at any time of day or night. This makes it easy to fit poker into your schedule and play as much or as little as you want. Additionally, many online poker sites offer a range of games, including cash games, tournaments, and sit-and-go games, providing a variety of options for players to choose from.

Another benefit of playing poker online is the ability to improve your skills. Many online poker sites offer resources and tools to help players learn and improve, such as poker courses, strategy guides, and practice games. These resources can help players develop their skills and increase their chances of winning.

Despite the benefits of playing poker online, it's important to remember that poker is a game of skill and luck, and that there is no guaranteed way to win. However, with the right strategy and practice, you can improve your skills and increase your chances of success.

In conclusion, online poker has become a popular and accessible way for people to play poker for real money. With the convenience of playing from anywhere and the availability of resources to help players improve, it's a great way to enjoy the excitement of poker. Whether you're a seasoned player or just starting out, online poker offers something for everyone. So why not give it a try and see what you can win!
On Monday night, the UCF Oracle Women's Basketball team hosted its annual game night in the student center, drawing a crowd of enthusiastic fans. The game featured a full-court press by the Oracle's leading scorer, Ashley Green, who led the team to a decisive victory. The Oracle's defense was solid, holding the opponent to a season-low 57 points.

Ashley Green Scored 26 Points

With a 4th Wine Glass in hand, Kara Carnley, a member of Kappa Delta Sorority, addressed the gathering. She highlighted the importance of balancing academics and social activities. Carnley emphasized the role of Kappa Delta in fostering leadership and personal growth among its members.

---

The Oracle's 84-57 win over the University of Florida saw the team improve to 3-2 on the season. The Oracle's defense held the Gators to just 15 points below their season average, while the Oracle's offense scored 40 points below its average.

---

The Oracle's successful season so far has been attributed to their strong team cohesion and commitment to excellence. Coach Dunlap praised his team for their resilience and dedication, stating that they are a group of players who never give up.
Church's protest insult to soldiers

On a campus such as UCF that has experienced such exponential growth, student involvement can present a problem. It is one issue in itself to be crying for change, but one must look for the reasons behind the apparent lack of interest and realize that no matter how much the winds, pillars of activism power can be found.

M sports needs adrenaline
I'm writing to appeal to sports fans as a former student athlete and to voice a problem that affects a lot of people with a special focus on UCF football.

I'm one of the many students who wish to play sports at the first place to have fun and create memories. To do that, one has to win by playing harder than all the other kids that want to make memories. It's silly to think that a congregation of college-age minds is an adequately competitive setting will remain for very long. But, one can keep the games in check but for the inevitable physical nature of the game to exist. It seems that IM sports expects us to play sports with no adrenaline, and I say if that's the case I'd prefer they save all of the money they use to run the floor hockey league or all of IM sports for that matter and use it to provide more competition in the damn library.

UCF is a great goal for our society of their little world. It has an athletic department that alumni and fans can be proud of. I'm satisfied that the student-athletes are doing what they can to make sure that the games are competitive and that the library is the center of attention once more.

I'm writing to appeal to sports fans as a former student athlete and to voice a problem that affects a lot of people with a special focus on UCF football.

I'm one of the many students who wish to play sports at the first place to have fun and create memories. To do that, one has to win by playing harder than all the other kids that want to make memories. It's silly to think that a congregation of college-age minds is an adequately competitive setting will remain for very long. But, one can keep the games in check but for the inevitable physical nature of the game to exist. It seems that IM sports expects us to play sports with no adrenaline, and I say if that's the case I'd prefer they save all of the money they use to run the floor hockey league or all of IM sports for that matter and use it to provide more competition in the damn library.

If ever accomplish my life's ambition of winning an Academy Award for Best Breakdance Sequence in a Period Piece, I'm going to have a devil of a time trying to get together an acceptance speech.

As for this final column, I thought about making peace with all of the anti-Burnsites I've encountered over the years, but I realized that if they didn't get the joke from the start, then they'll never get it.

I really wanted to stay away from the thank-you note because I didn't want to be all mushy and sappy and have to deal with all of the heartfelt nonsense. However, I don't have a heart, so I guess I'll honor the people who have helped make me into the tongue-in-cheek nonsense is absurdity and all-around fun.

UCP CLOSER DOMINIC PETRACCA: QUIETLY POSTING A RECORD-BREAKING SEASON

For the first 42 games of the 2006 season, Dominic Petracca had a 0.00 ERA. While he's no longer statistically perfect, UCF needs him to stay alive in C-USA.

CHRIS HUYLE

The best ones get nicknames, theme songs, and T-shirts adorned with their likenesses. Brand "Lights Out" Lidge. Metallica's "Enter Sandman" flooding the air in New York City during the Mets-Marlins series. Billy Wagner flashing off his gamma. A wave of "Game Over" T-shirts filling Dodger Stadium as Eric Gagne went for his Cy Young Award.

To be a star closer, you need to be a little bit of everything: A fastball so intimidating that the opposition enters the batters box deliberately, simply going through the motions and praying that a stray 90 mph bullet avoids their helmets' ear hole.

For a closer to have a nonexistent ERA for more than two months before surrendering even a single run requires a manager and a winless conference record it's about to get as difficult as conference play could possibly be.

No. 1 team, the Rice Owls, visits Jay Bergman and a winless conference record. The Owls, a fellow Conference USA power, are not going to rub it in or anything; it feels good to be done!

But Petracca is more than a closer. He's the guy that just baffles our guys, so I can't imagine what it does to the other guys. "I like to think that my stuff is good, but I know it's not typical for closers," said Petracca, a native of Sanford. "I think we're a little out of it." Simply perfect in Petracca: In 18 appearances this season, he has not allowed a baserunner in nine of them.

Going to the plate he is 6-foot-4, but he hits the ball like a 5-foot-9 infielder. Simply "Lights Out." He's that guy that just baffles our guys, so I can't imagine what it does to the other guys.

"He's only going to get better," Rice said. "He's a closer in the making." But as for singles and doubles, we did it together. We made sure he wasn't on the mound.

Campus transition will be a great sight

ANDY VASQUEZ

It's hard to believe that, for many of us here at UCF, collegiate careers are coming to an end. This week, I'm not going to lie, I definitely have some mixed feelings about my impending graduation. As much as I complaints about going to class, Andreas homework and, most recently, studying for exams, I'm sure that Andreas are coming to an end for the majority of us.

Men's tennis falls to UAB

Season ends at C-USA tourney

JOHNNIE YARBROUGH

The UCF men's tennis team ended its regular season play with a 2-0 win over No. 9 UAB and UCF tied for second in the C-USA standings.

"Overall, I'm very happy with the team's performance this season," coach Dan Cusack said. Cusack believes that his team has learned some valuable lessons from this season. "I'm sure that they will make their mark at the conference tournament next season. I'm sure that they will make their mark at the conference tournament next season."

"I'm really excited about the opportunity of making great players," she said.

One of the great players Cusack coaches was a win from freshman Block Baky over UAB's No. 4, Andy Dekker, 6-4, 6-4, during the singles portion of the tournament.

"Brock was consistent in the 6-4, 6-4 (position)," Cusack said. "He's really good tennis." As for singles and doubles, we did good, but we need to improve on winning key matches. When we're close, we have to take the match and not let the opportunity go when it is there.

History follows Owls with trip to Orlando

BRAD MURPHY

Right now, the UCF baseball team could use a confidence boost. Losing in eight of their last 10 games, the Golden Knights will take any win against any team. Well — that is what last weekend was all about! The UAB Blazers made the trip to Orlando carrying a 15-game losing streak and a winless conference record. It was the perfect opportunity for the Knights to break up their losing streak.

And things are not going to get any easier for UCF as fact, it is about to get as difficult as conference play could possibly be.

While the merchandise may be different this year, the results are expected to be the same. The Owls were the unanimous preseason favorite to win the 2006 C-USA regular season according to the league's nine head coaches. From the start of the year, the Owls were 27-4 in C-USA and have not disappointed.

While Conference USA is seen as a bigger challenge than the WAC, Rice has swept its last four C-USA series and leads the country in wins. This weekend pairs two teams that sport the C-USA Preseason Player of the Year, Rice's Joe

"That's the guy that just baffles our guys, so I can't imagine what it does to the other guys."

— JERRY HUFF, UCF HITTING COACH

UCF's Dominic Petracca delivers a pitch during this season. The senior, a native of Sanford, seems to subscribe to this theory. "I like to think that my stuff is good, but I know it's not typical for closers," said Petracca, a native of Sanford. "I think we're a little out of it." Simply "Lights Out." He's that guy that just baffles our guys, so I can't imagine what it does to the other guys."

Degerman and Bascom will lead off big weekend series

In 2005, Savery completed a dream season for any player, much less a freshman. The southpaw led the Knights in innings pitched (83) and total strikeouts (113). The Owls hit .276 off the lefty, but Savery was just as successful on the mound as he was at the plate. He posted a 2.94 ERA in 38 games last season, which was second-best in the WC. He struck out 129 batters in 183 innings and had enough time to pick up a save. All that success culminated with Savery being honored as the Freshman of the Year from both Baseball America and Collegiate Baseball.

This year, the utility star is hitting over .300, but Savery has drawn more attention for his outings on the mound. The freshman has been very good on the mound, and with 11 saves, he's the team's top reliever - the pitcher who many undervalued is arguably one of the five best in college baseball.

The UCF baseball team has never faced a top-ranked team has never faced UCF's offense. Catcher Ryan Bono is one of only two seniors on this year's team. The infielder led the WAC with 11 home runs and a .303 batting average. Defensively, Bono is one of only two seniors on this year's team. NFL DRAFT

UCF's NFL Draft questions
Will the dream season of 2005 (win NFL jobs for the dreamers) be repeated?
Will Brandon Marshall be drafted?
Will he be drafted by an NFL team?
Will he be drafted in the seventh round (219 overall) by the St. Louis Rams?
Will Pac Carrington be drafted? Is he a dreamer for an NFL team?
Will Carrington be drafted, in the seventh round (219 overall) by the St. Louis Rams?

The Skinny: Look for a team in the NFC East to pick up Matt Prater. Prater was drafted by the Jacksonville Jaguars.

We're not surprised to see Johnathan Joseph be drafted. Joseph was drafted by the San Francisco 49ers.

King James didn't really know anything about the future of the NFL. But he trained at UC F, a state which had such an impact on his life.

On Saturday, the NFL will conduct its annual college draft, one of the most eagerly awaited events of the year. The draft, which is considered the premier event in college football, is a time when talented college players from around the country are selected to play professionally.

Three downs: Trends to watch for during Saturday's first round

Deneri colombia - Lawrence Marlin, Missouri

With three QBs considered virtually equal, who will move to get their signature of choice? Who will win, like Aaron Rodgers in 2005?

Summer is the time for movies. Don't let people fool you into thinking its for spending time outdoors or with family — it's just for movies. But how can you tell the difference between trash and treasures? You can't! But we can!

The Good

1. In a world of sequels, three-quels and remakes, only one movie dares to deliver on all its hype and satisfy audiences with an original concept and edge-of-your-seat suspense. That's Snakes on a Plane, starring Samuel L. Jackson. Those words instantly spawn an entire cult culture surrounding such a simple premise, even though the film doesn't land until August 18. Because of this nonsense, New Line made the unprecedented move of reshooting scenes to secure an R rating, allowing Jackson to spout his favorite expletives for all to hear. Museum a local artistic delight

‘Enriching’ Winter Park attraction celebrates sculpture

WINTER PARK is the odd man out in Central Florida. Its devotion to the arts is an anomaly in a city whose most famous resident is a cartoon mouse and whose hottest crowd draws involve words like “adventure” and “mania.”

One of the staple artistic foundations of the community is the Albin Polasek Museum and Sculpture Gardens. The pristine property nestled on the southern shore of Lake Osceola has been a favorite of locals and visitors from around the globe.

“Ibis is a quiet place and an enriching experience,” Executive Director Debbie Komanski said about the museum and its grounds.

The museum was founded in 1961 by Czech sculptor and artist Albin Polasek. It was originally constructed in 1950 as a retirement home, but he later decided to open it to the public while he was still living in it.

“He wanted to give his works a permanent place to stay,” Komanski said. “We have over 200 pieces here, and many are on permanent display.”

Polasek’s work is known for its combination of classical elements and references to the mythology of his native Moravia, now part of the Czech Republic. His body of work includes these mythological elements but also many Christian pieces that reflect Polasek’s deep religious commitment.

The house that features most of his work is unique in itself. Polasek combined elements of traditional European architecture and Florida architecture to create a fascinating and functional dwelling. He also added sculptures and statues to walls and roofs.

“If you go out and look at the building it’s very unusual,” Komanski said. “The style was very unique by its time period.”

Of course, the heavy pieces of one-of-a-kind art require special care — and a little luck because they have to face the unforgiving Florida elements.

After Hurricane Charley, “probably almost every inch of our 3.5-acre grounds were covered with debris, but not one of our art works were permanently damaged,” Komanski said.

Ending an era with the Dirty Dozen

The museum hosts two major film exhibits this summer in addition to any regularly scheduled programs. Every now and then, a filmmaker will move to a different medium, leaving behind behind-the-scenes tales. For example, the exhibit "The Making of Indiana Jones" will be on display until November 16. And for those who appreciate the visual arts, "Mako's Style" will be on exhibit from June 1 to September 1.

The museum is open on Tuesday, June 3 through Sunday, June 11, 4-9 p.m.; and Sunday, 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. The museum’s galleries are open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., but tickets for students are $3.
