Residents present as masked men take money, cell phone from a campus-affiliated apartment

According to the police report, the burglars were described as black men 24 to 30 years old. Witnesses have been unable to unmask them. The residents were present during the invasion, Williamson said. An unconfirmed report persisted at another apartment complex stated that the victims were bound and gagged.

"The case is still unclear," Williamson noted. "There is a gray area that calls for further investigation."

There were 14 burglaries at Pegasus Landing reported to UCFPD in 2005. A burglary there in February also was an invasion by three armed men.

Pegasus Landing is aware of the investigation and cooperating with police, Kathy Grims of College Park.

Pegasus Landing burglarized

Residents present as masked men take money, cell phone from a campus-affiliated apartment

Heard released from hospital; heart surgery successful

President thanks doctors during press conference

UCF President John Hitt was released early Thursday from Florida Hospital after suffering a heart attack June 24. Yet Hitt praised the hospital staff when he had a heart attack while riding his bicycle in the Central Florida Research Park adjacent to the East Orlando Campus.

"Heart surgery was a success," he said.

"I feel America is very cut off from the rest of the world," he said. "It's very special to get to see what's going on here."

"I would like to thank everyone for theIBITn!A release ofention from Florida Hospital last Friday following a heart surgery procedure. Dr. Kerry Schwartz also treated Hitt.

Hitt was released early Thursday from Florida Hospital after suffering a heart attack June 24. Yet Hitt praised the hospital staff when he had a heart attack while riding his bicycle in the Central Florida Research Park adjacent to the East Orlando Campus.

"Heart surgery was a success," he said.

"I feel America is very cut off from the rest of the world," he said. "It's very special to get to see what's going on here."

"I would like to thank everyone for the Taking time between school, work can enhance resumes, expand worldviews

Opportunities for a ‘gap year’ range from volunteering in Africa to planting trees in Canada; Web sites offer information

THOMAS HOEFER

After years of hard work, most students feel great relief when college has finally come to an end. All the days and nights of study, exhaustion and anxiety are suddenly wiped away by a magical sheet of paper called a diploma. But what’s next?

Many graduates waste no time and jump right into an entry-level position, either forced by bailing-out debts or motivated by money-making opportunities.

But not Christian Knightly. After graduating from UCF in 2005, he sold his car, canceled his lease and traveled around the world for six months. In other words, Knightly took a "gap year."

Being popular in the 1990s, a gap year is when a student takes a break between college and finding a job, and it rarely lasts the whole 12 months. The possibilities are endless, and so are resources to find them.

Through an online community where people from all over the world travelers want to leave a place to stay for free, Knightly found a way to avoid hotel costs, which left him only with expenses for flights and food.

"I could stay with friends everywhere," he said. "That’s why I did it."

Hanging out with locals showed him a different side of the town he stayed at, a side he would not have seen had he been an average tourist.

In the flip of the coin, he changed the way he viewed on things. It exposed me to the world," he said. "I feel America is very off to the world. We all live in one giant bubble where we have everything. We can get whatever we want whenever we want. In other countries, it’s just not like that."

Online groups specializing in gap years don’t just list opportunities, they also pitch them to students.

"That’s why I did it."

Hanging out with locals showed him a different side of the town he stayed at, a side he would not have seen had he been an average tourist.

In the flip of the coin, he changed the way he viewed on things. It exposed me to the world," he said. "I feel America is very off to the world. We all live in one giant bubble where we have everything. We can get whatever we want whenever we want. In other countries, it’s just not like that."

Online groups specializing in gap years don’t just list opportunities, they also pitch them to students.

The center forum gaptravel.com started a contest in which people get to travel on a free inter-city ticket through Western Europe and Monoc

Volunteer
10:30 am.

Residential and Counseling written by Crystal Potts.

Correction considered for the Around insights into what it is like to drink of the Pryazovskyi State of Arts and Sciences Room
The games
broadcast live from Germany.
Wednesday, the third from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. Sun­ on a day at the Barbara
Job search strategies offered seminar on job searching
Monday at Ferrell Commons career professional
A workshop that gives students opportunities to mock interviews.
Thursday
From Horses”

Wednesday...
CLAST not meant to burden college career, director says

UCF offers many services to prepare students for CLAST, but some still have trouble passing, argue exam's existence

JENNIFER WRIGHT
Assistant Director

It's 7:30 a.m., and for more than a thousand seniors in the art and design building, the day begins. Those who have already woken up, are desperately cramming for the test, while others calmly go against the building's cold walls.

Finally the test administrators open the classroom doors, offering an admission ticket, name and two forms of identification. Pencils and test booklets are distributed to test takers as a blanket of silence covers the room.

But this isn't just any exam, it's the College-Level Academic Skills Test. Every college student in the state of Florida is required to satisfy the CLAST requirement if they are seeking an associate of arts degree or a bachelor's degree. Without passing scores, exemption or an approved waiver, graduation is unachievable.

To some, passing a test of importance can lead to stress. Others view the CLAST exam as just another test to ensure their ability to enroll in other classes.

"I think that one thing I say is that it shouldn't truly add stress to the students' lives," Wright said.

But Wright says that her busy schedule and passing the CLAST exam added up to a lot of pressure.

Advisers try to educate students about the CLAST exam, but some students more when they can't pass, she said.

"It's the first try, the second try, the third try," said the adviser.

There are ways the CLAST exam can be avoided altogether. A student is exempt if he or she has an SAT or ACT score of 18 or higher, or if the student is one year of college and needs to pass the test.

According to UCF's University Testing Center, 85 percent of the students who have earned a bachelor's degree have completed the exam.

"The one thing that I say is that it shouldn't truly add stress to the students' lives," Wright said.

Some students file in, waiting to take the exam. Some are desperately studied to make sure I passed because it got to the point where I needed to sign up for classes, like I'm in my third year of college and I need to pass," said Becky Perry, assistant director for the University Testing Center, said students usually can take it before it starts their senior year.

"Because a student can take the exam as early as earning 90 credit hours, there's less chance of a student having to face retention in college for not doing well," Perry said.

One of the basic requirements for completion for a waiver of a CLAST exam is that a student must have taken a specific subject at least four times.

To help students pass on their first try, the Student Academic Resource Center offers the best services to help prepare students for the CLAST exam, Perry said. These services include tutoring, computer software, study guides and ideas.

Mathematics major Heather McMahon said similar tools helped her pass the test.

"I didn't memorize it [the CLAST exam]," McMahon said. "But it was easy to use because I took the review material to it was really helpful." Because of the services available, the CLAST exam shouldn't be a burden to a student's college career, said Jennifer Wright, associate director for the Student Academic Resource Center.

"The one thing that I say is that it shouldn't truly add stress to the students' lives," Wright said.

Rachel Rubinski, a communications building briefly to the outside of the halls.

According to Becky Perry, assistant director for the University Testing Center, said this student is eligible to take the CLAST exam after they have completed 18 credit hours and the exam must be met before student is eligible to take the exam must be met before.

"I took off of work, and I studied to make sure I passed because it got to the point

To help students pass on their first try, the Student Academic Resource Center offers the best services to help prepare students for the CLAST exam, Perry said. These services include tutoring, computer software, study guides and ideas.

Mathematics major Heather McMahon said similar tools helped her pass the test.

"I didn't memorize it [the CLAST exam]," McMahon said. "But it was easy to use because I took the review material to it was really helpful." Because of the services available, the CLAST exam shouldn't be a burden to a student's college career, said Jennifer Wright, associate director for the Student Academic Resource Center.

"The one thing that I say is that it shouldn't truly add stress to the students' lives," Wright said.

Rachel Rubinski, a communications building briefly to the outside of the halls.

According to Becky Perry, assistant director for the University Testing Center, said this student is eligible to take the CLAST exam after they have completed 18 credit hours and the exam must be met before student is eligible to take the exam must be met before.

"I took off of work, and I studied to make sure I passed because it got to the point

To help students pass on their first try, the Student Academic Resource Center offers the best services to help prepare students for the CLAST exam, Perry said. These services include tutoring, computer software, study guides and ideas.

Mathematics major Heather McMahon said similar tools helped her pass the test.

"I didn't memorize it [the CLAST exam]," McMahon said. "But it was easy to use because I took the review material to it was really helpful." Because of the services available, the CLAST exam shouldn't be a burden to a student's college career, said Jennifer Wright, associate director for the Student Academic Resource Center.

"The one thing that I say is that it shouldn't truly add stress to the students' lives," Wright said.

Rachel Rubinski, a communications building briefly to the outside of the halls.

According to Becky Perry, assistant director for the University Testing Center, said this student is eligible to take the CLAST exam after they have completed 18 credit hours and the exam must be met before student is eligible to take the exam must be met before.

"I took off of work, and I studied to make sure I passed because it got to the point

To help students pass on their first try, the Student Academic Resource Center offers the best services to help prepare students for the CLAST exam, Perry said. These services include tutoring, computer software, study guides and ideas.

Mathematics major Heather McMahon said similar tools helped her pass the test.

"I didn't memorize it [the CLAST exam]," McMahon said. "But it was easy to use because I took the review material to it was really helpful." Because of the services available, the CLAST exam shouldn't be a burden to a student's college career, said Jennifer Wright, associate director for the Student Academic Resource Center.

"The one thing that I say is that it shouldn't truly add stress to the students' lives," Wright said.

Rachel Rubinski, a communications building briefly to the outside of the halls.

According to Becky Perry, assistant director for the University Testing Center, said this student is eligible to take the CLAST exam after they have completed 18 credit hours and the exam must be met before student is eligible to take the exam must be met before.

"I took off of work, and I studied to make sure I passed because it got to the point

To help students pass on their first try, the Student Academic Resource Center offers the best services to help prepare students for the CLAST exam, Perry said. These services include tutoring, computer software, study guides and ideas.

Mathematics major Heather McMahon said similar tools helped her pass the test.

"I didn't memorize it [the CLAST exam]," McMahon said. "But it was easy to use because I took the review material to it was really helpful." Because of the services available, the CLAST exam shouldn't be a burden to a student's college career, said Jennifer Wright, associate director for the Student Academic Resource Center.

"The one thing that I say is that it shouldn't truly add stress to the students' lives," Wright said.

Rachel Rubinski, a communications building briefly to the outside of the halls.

According to Becky Perry, assistant director for the University Testing Center, said this student is eligible to take the CLAST exam after they have completed 18 credit hours and the exam must be met before student is eligible to take the exam must be met before.

"I took off of work, and I studied to make sure I passed because it got to the point

To help students pass on their first try, the Student Academic Resource Center offers the best services to help prepare students for the CLAST exam, Perry said. These services include tutoring, computer software, study guides and ideas.

Mathematics major Heather McMahon said similar tools helped her pass the test.

"I didn't memorize it [the CLAST exam]," McMahon said. "But it was easy to use because I took the review material to it was really helpful." Because of the services available, the CLAST exam shouldn't be a burden to a student's college career, said Jennifer Wright, associate director for the Student Academic Resource Center.

"The one thing that I say is that it shouldn't truly add stress to the students' lives," Wright said.

Rachel Rubinski, a communications building briefly to the outside of the halls.

According to Becky Perry, assistant director for the University Testing Center, said this student is eligible to take the CLAST exam after they have completed 18 credit hours and the exam must be met before student is eligible to take the exam must be met before.

"I took off of work, and I studied to make sure I passed because it got to the point

To help students pass on their first try, the Student Academic Resource Center offers the best services to help prepare students for the CLAST exam, Perry said. These services include tutoring, computer software, study guides and ideas.

Mathematics major Heather McMahon said similar tools helped her pass the test.

"I didn't memorize it [the CLAST exam]," McMahon said. "But it was easy to use because I took the review material to it was really helpful." Because of the services available, the CLAST exam shouldn't be a burden to a student's college career, said Jennifer Wright, associate director for the Student Academic Resource Center.

"The one thing that I say is that it shouldn't truly add stress to the students' lives," Wright said.

Rachel Rubinski, a communications building briefly to the outside of the halls.

According to Becky Perry, assistant director for the University Testing Center, said this student is eligible to take the CLAST exam after they have completed 18 credit hours and the exam must be met before student is eligible to take the exam must be met before.

"I took off of work, and I studied to make sure I passed because it got to the point

To help students pass on their first try, the Student Academic Resource Center offers the best services to help prepare students for the CLAST exam, Perry said. These services include tutoring, computer software, study guides and ideas.

Mathematics major Heather McMahon said similar tools helped her pass the test.

"I didn't memorize it [the CLAST exam]," McMahon said. "But it was easy to use because I took the review material to it was really helpful." Because of the services available, the CLAST exam shouldn't be a burden to a student's college career, said Jennifer Wright, associate director for the Student Academic Resource Center.

"The one thing that I say is that it shouldn't truly add stress to the students' lives," Wright said.

Rachel Rubinski, a communications building briefly to the outside of the halls.

According to Becky Perry, assistant director for the University Testing Center, said this student is eligible to take the CLAST exam after they have completed 18 credit hours and the exam must be met before student is eligible to take the exam must be met before.

"I took off of work, and I studied to make sure I passed because it got to the point

To help students pass on their first try, the Student Academic Resource Center offers the best services to help prepare students for the CLAST exam, Perry said. These services include tutoring, computer software, study guides and ideas.

Mathematics major Heather McMahon said similar tools helped her pass the test.

"I didn't memorize it [the CLAST exam]," McMahon said. "But it was easy to use because I took the review material to it was really helpful." Because of the services available, the CLAST exam shouldn't be a burden to a student's college career, said Jennifer Wright, associate director for the Student Academic Resource Center.

"The one thing that I say is that it shouldn't truly add stress to the students' lives," Wright said.

Rachel Rubinski, a communications building briefly
ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jerry Hogle, professors say they should become a computer pro...

HIGHER EDUCATION

The University of North Dakota students reported they are afraid of work are raking in hundreds of millions or possibly thousands of dollars, one can get transcripts can be had with a technician or even an aeronautical engineer. There are several online pitch of one degree that issues degrees ranging from GEDs to several college diplomas, attracting thousands of people to evacuate their homes over the past week in Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York area. Over more than a foot of rain fell last weekend around the Washington and Baltimore regions. The Delaware River between New Jersey and Pennsylvania had fallen to low levels after inundating low-lying communities. At Philadelphia, N.J., the Falls had crested Thursday at more than 14 feet above flood stage. About 200 people spent Saturday night in shelters across urban Philadelphia, and unoccupied homes were still in flood, mothballed and the homes of friends and relatives waiting for inspectors to give them permission to return home. Others had been able to return and start cleaning up. The federal government had declared eight New York City's disaster areas. One, Chavras, gave an early estimate of $32 million damage to infrastructure alone. Five other counties hoped to be added to the declaration. Nobody crams for tests anymore, or at least people who have taken UCF Test Prep Courses don't. We prepare you for a higher score on the GRE, GMAT, LSAT, MCAT or SAT ... at a lower price. In fact our price is less than one-third of what you'll pay with most national test prep chains. So while preparing for the big exams is smart, preparing with UCF Test Prep is smarter. Call 407.853.TEST or visit www.testprep.ucf.edu. Register online using Priority Code 0004P.

D.C. died out for July 4th crowd, office in Air Force with ostensible...WASHINGTON — One week after the nation's capital experienced some of its worst flooding in more than a century, requirements and other attractions were dried and open for the long July Fourth holiday weekend. Elsewhere in the North, however, thousands of people were still trying to clear away flood debris and grime, or were still homeless after recent flooding blazed. For at least 20 deaths in Pennsyl...

How You Feel?

It's time to Walk-in Our Clinic

Specializing in Sexual Health & Common Illnesses Plan B Now Available!

Energy Regulation Study

NATION & WORLD

Deadline: 5 P.M.

Free A2 or MAS, was favored to win in a vote that was... SHORTLY after voting in Chicago, Miracle said he believed Waller's constitution was too broad to serve as an example for the world. Miracle said the president in December by a historically wide margin and remains largely popular, though his relations with the United States have clattered due to his flogging of dictatorships to Venezuela and Cuba. While Miracle's government has used decrees to advance some of its goals, such as nationalizing natural gas production, it wants the constitution to enable its accelerated transfers of state-owned land to peasants.

Stormy weather forces second straight delay for shuttle cape canaveral - Stormy weather prevented NASA from launching Discovery for the second day in a row Saturday, extending a record-long grounding of the space shuttle's on-board fuel. The weather was expected to improve by Tuesday, although rain still was in the forecast.

Shuttle commander Steven Lindsey and the six other astronauts had boarded the troubled spacecraft hours earlier for what would have been only the second shuttle flight since the 2003 Columbia disaster. The countdown was halted with more than an hour remaining, much earlier than Saturday's planned lift-off at 7:39 a.m. EDT. The back-to-back delays cost NASA an estimated $2 million in overtime pay and fuel costs.

CAPE CANAVERAL - Stormy weather prevented NASA from launching Discovery for the second day in a row Saturday, extending a record-long grounding of the space shuttle's on-board fuel. The weather was expected to improve by Tuesday, although rain still was in the forecast.

Shuttle commander Steven Lindsey and the six other astronauts had boarded the troubled spacecraft hours earlier for what would have been only the second shuttle flight since the 2003 Columbia disaster. The countdown was halted with more than an hour remaining, much earlier than Saturday's planned lift-off at 7:39 a.m. EDT. The back-to-back delays cost NASA an estimated $2 million in overtime pay and fuel costs.
Students left in limbo by CLAST exams

Jenni Ishman, community director of the Central Florida March of Dimes, said some students are exempt from the math section.

Mark Polter, associate vice president of educational development and retention, said that free people do not meet the requirement. "It says something about our teachers and students, which is good," he said.

However, McMahon said the test shouldn't be discontinued. "I think if the CLAST exam should go away just because there's so many tests now," McMahon said. "I feel like I'm back in elementary school. I had to take the STAAR, and this test, and this test, you know, and my dad's a teacher and he's like 'that's all we do now is just testing, testing.' It's annoying, we're supposed to be prepared for college.

Jessica Stago, who earned her master's and bachelor's degrees in social work from UCF, said a student's grades are more important. "I don't really think that it [the CLAST exam] was necessary," Hage said. "I think that they should judge people based on the grades that they made in college or in high school.

The CLAST exam is a lined test that is to be administered three times a year.

Test administrators write first and stop times on a data cruise board, which allows students to pace themselves and keep track of the one-hour test, and this test, you know, and my dad's a teacher and he's like 'that's all we do now is just testing, testing.' It's annoying, we're supposed to be prepared for college.

Students hope they never have to take another CLAST exam, and if the college administration and department say yes, they will take more than one test. "I feel relieved that I had got through it," McMahon said. "It was very happy I could go home, and to look back, I knew that most likely I would have to take it again."

Jenni Ishman, community director of the Central Florida March of Dimes, said some students are exempt from the math section.

Mark Polter, associate vice president of educational development and retention, said that free people do not meet the requirement. "It says something about our teachers and students, which is good," he said.

However, McMahon said the test shouldn't be discontinued. "I think if the CLAST exam should go away just because there's so many tests now," McMahon said. "I feel like I'm back in elementary school. I had to take the STAAR, and this test, and this test, you know, and my dad's a teacher and he's like 'that's all we do now is just testing, testing.' It's annoying, we're supposed to be prepared for college.

Jessica Stago, who earned her master's and bachelor's degrees in social work from UCF, said a student's grades are more important. "I don't really think that it [the CLAST exam] was necessary," Hage said. "I think that they should judge people based on the grades that they made in college or in high school.

The CLAST exam is a lined test that is to be administered three times a year.

Test administrators write first and stop times on a data cruise board, which allows students to pace themselves and keep track of the one-hour test, and this test, you know, and my dad's a teacher and he's like 'that's all we do now is just testing, testing.' It's annoying, we're supposed to be prepared for college.

Students hope they never have to take another CLAST exam, and if the college administration and department say yes, they will take more than one test. "I feel relieved that I had got through it," McMahon said. "It was very happy I could go home, and to look back, I knew that most likely I would have to take it again."

Jenni Ishman, community director of the Central Florida March of Dimes, said some students are exempt from the math section.

Mark Polter, associate vice president of educational development and retention, said that free people do not meet the requirement. "It says something about our teachers and students, which is good," he said.

However, McMahon said the test shouldn't be discontinued. "I think if the CLAST exam should go away just because there's so many tests now," McMahon said. "I feel like I'm back in elementary school. I had to take the STAAR, and this test, and this test, you know, and my dad's a teacher and he's like 'that's all we do now is just testing, testing.' It's annoying, we're supposed to be prepared for college.

Jessica Stago, who earned her master's and bachelor's degrees in social work from UCF, said a student's grades are more important. "I don't really think that it [the CLAST exam] was necessary," Hage said. "I think that they should judge people based on the grades that they made in college or in high school.

The CLAST exam is a lined test that is to be administered three times a year.

Test administrators write first and stop times on a data cruise board, which allows students to pace themselves and keep track of the one-hour test, and this test, you know, and my dad's a teacher and he's like 'that's all we do now is just testing, testing.' It's annoying, we're supposed to be prepared for college.

Students hope they never have to take another CLAST exam, and if the college administration and department say yes, they will take more than one test. "I feel relieved that I had got through it," McMahon said. "It was very happy I could go home, and to look back, I knew that most likely I would have to take it again."

UCF junior Lauren Meyer was recently chosen to represent the March of Dimes as a future volunteer to hold the first Astronaut Scholarships. According to a recent study conducted by Stanford University, seniors at the University of California at San Diego found their causes and by supporting the March of Dimes national council.

Jenni Ishman, community director of the Central Florida March of Dimes, said some students are exempt from the math section.

Mark Polter, associate vice president of educational development and retention, said that free people do not meet the requirement. "It says something about our teachers and students, which is good," he said.

However, McMahon said the test shouldn't be discontinued. "I think if the CLAST exam should go away just because there's so many tests now," McMahon said. "I feel like I'm back in elementary school. I had to take the STAAR, and this test, and this test, you know, and my dad's a teacher and he's like 'that's all we do now is just testing, testing.' It's annoying, we're supposed to be prepared for college.

Jessica Stago, who earned her master's and bachelor's degrees in social work from UCF, said a student's grades are more important. "I don't really think that it [the CLAST exam] was necessary," Hage said. "I think that they should judge people based on the grades that they made in college or in high school.

The CLAST exam is a lined test that is to be administered three times a year.

Test administrators write first and stop times on a data cruise board, which allows students to pace themselves and keep track of the one-hour test, and this test, you know, and my dad's a teacher and he's like 'that's all we do now is just testing, testing.' It's annoying, we're supposed to be prepared for college.

Students hope they never have to take another CLAST exam, and if the college administration and department say yes, they will take more than one test. "I feel relieved that I had got through it," McMahon said. "It was very happy I could go home, and to look back, I knew that most likely I would have to take it again."

Jenni Ishman, community director of the Central Florida March of Dimes, said some students are exempt from the math section.

Mark Polter, associate vice president of educational development and retention, said that free people do not meet the requirement. "It says something about our teachers and students, which is good," he said.

However, McMahon said the test shouldn't be discontinued. "I think if the CLAST exam should go away just because there's so many tests now," McMahon said. "I feel like I'm back in elementary school. I had to take the STAAR, and this test, and this test, you know, and my dad's a teacher and he's like 'that's all we do now is just testing, testing.' It's annoying, we're supposed to be prepared for college.

Jessica Stago, who earned her master's and bachelor's degrees in social work from UCF, said a student's grades are more important. "I don't really think that it [the CLAST exam] was necessary," Hage said. "I think that they should judge people based on the grades that they made in college or in high school.

The CLAST exam is a lined test that is to be administered three times a year.

Test administrators write first and stop times on a data cruise board, which allows students to pace themselves and keep track of the one-hour test, and this test, you know, and my dad's a teacher and he's like 'that's all we do now is just testing, testing.' It's annoying, we're supposed to be prepared for college.

Students hope they never have to take another CLAST exam, and if the college administration and department say yes, they will take more than one test. "I feel relieved that I had got through it," McMahon said. "It was very happy I could go home, and to look back, I knew that most likely I would have to take it again."

Jenni Ishman, community director of the Central Florida March of Dimes, said some students are exempt from the math section.

Mark Polter, associate vice president of educational development and retention, said that free people do not meet the requirement. "It says something about our teachers and students, which is good," he said.

However, McMahon said the test shouldn't be discontinued. "I think if the CLAST exam should go away just because there's so many tests now," McMahon said. "I feel like I'm back in elementary school. I had to take the STAAR, and this test, and this test, you know, and my dad's a teacher and he's like 'that's all we do now is just testing, testing.' It's annoying, we're supposed to be prepared for college.

Jessica Stago, who earned her master's and bachelor's degrees in social work from UCF, said a student's grades are more important. "I don't really think that it [the CLAST exam] was necessary," Hage said. "I think that they should judge people based on the grades that they made in college or in high school.

The CLAST exam is a lined test that is to be administered three times a year.

Test administrators write first and stop times on a data cruise board, which allows students to pace themselves and keep track of the one-hour test, and this test, you know, and my dad's a teacher and he's like 'that's all we do now is just testing, testing.' It's annoying, we're supposed to be prepared for college.
Start dates can be negotiated to allow time after graduation.

Pregnant employees who work on nights, days, or weekends may have unique work-life concerns or require different accommodations from their non-pregnant colleagues. Many employers are receptive to these requests, especially if they are communicated in a professional and respectful manner.

Any changes to the current work schedule may result in temporary changes to the employee's benefits, such as health insurance and paid time off. Employers may also need to adjust the employee's work schedule to accommodate any changes in their work duties due to pregnancy.

It is important for pregnant employees to communicate any changes to their work schedule with their employer in a timely and effective manner. This will ensure that both parties are aware of the employee's needs and can work together to find a solution that is satisfactory for both.

Additionally, pregnant employees should be mindful of their personal boundaries and limitations. It is important to prioritize their health and safety during the pregnancy, and this may require adjustments to their work schedule.

Ultimately, employers and employees should work together to find solutions that are beneficial to both parties. This will ensure a successful transition through pregnancy and minimize any potential negative impacts on the employee's health or work performance.
Dippin’, duckin’ and dodgin’ the ball

Intramural Dodgeball is one of the most popular sports played at UCF, yet its rise in participation isn’t shocking.

The office of Student Wellness Center.

Intramural Dodgeball is one of the most popular sports played at UCF, yet its rise in participation isn’t shocking.

The office of Student Wellness Center.

Intramural Dodgeball is one of the most popular sports played at UCF, yet its rise in participation isn’t shocking.

The office of Student Wellness Center.

Intramural Dodgeball is one of the most popular sports played at UCF, yet its rise in participation isn’t shocking.

The office of Student Wellness Center.

Intramural Dodgeball is one of the most popular sports played at UCF, yet its rise in participation isn’t shocking.

The office of Student Wellness Center.

Intramural Dodgeball is one of the most popular sports played at UCF, yet its rise in participation isn’t shocking.

The office of Student Wellness Center.

Intramural Dodgeball is one of the most popular sports played at UCF, yet its rise in participation isn’t shocking.

The office of Student Wellness Center.

Intramural Dodgeball is one of the most popular sports played at UCF, yet its rise in participation isn’t shocking.

The office of Student Wellness Center.

Intramural Dodgeball is one of the most popular sports played at UCF, yet its rise in participation isn’t shocking.

The office of Student Wellness Center.

Intramural Dodgeball is one of the most popular sports played at UCF, yet its rise in participation isn’t shocking.

The office of Student Wellness Center.

Intramural Dodgeball is one of the most popular sports played at UCF, yet its rise in participation isn’t shocking.
Kohl set to break records

FOUR RING RUSH

30. Projected record: 3-0-2 (C-USA East Champion, Loses to Florida, Houston)

Why they are here: There are very few teams in the country trying to retain all five starters on their offensive line, but the Golden Knights do just that, with one senior (Center Grady Gagne-McMurray) no less. They also retain a full slate of sophomores as starters in the secondary, led by Provenson All-American candidate cornbread Joes.

Why they could move up: Florida is the No. 9 team in the country. They own the nation’s No. 5 defense, which限于 football, and they rarely lose a game.

Kohl projection: 45.5

---

Rough Weekend?

Arrested? DUI? Bar Fight?

DISORDERLY CONDUCT? Fake ID?

Drug Possession? Underage Drinking?

YOU HAVE OPTIONS... I CAN HELP!

FREE CONSULTATION

Principal Office in Orlando

RICHARD E. HORNBY, P.A.
Criminal Defense Attorney

(407) 540-1551 or Toll Free (866) 580-9800

www.orlandocriminallaw.com

The hiring of an lawyer is an important decision that should be based on experience professional reputation and skill. Before you employ a lawyer, you should discuss with him or her an important about your situation. This notice is advertisement for the residents of the state of Florida.

Stop paying high retail prices for ink: 100% Guaranteed! You and Your Wallet are Safe!

WingZone

WingZone Refills as low as $4.99!

ATTENTION PRINTER USERS: Don't Throw Your Empty Cartridges Away! RE-FILL!

407-679-2330

10069 University Blvd., (Corner of Dean & University - NEXT TO PUBlix)

OPEN FOR BUSINESS

Open served until 1:00 AM

---

The Spot

For your Student’s Office needs!

---

WingZone

WingZone

---

Brewer and Carney make more sense than Redick

Fare 47

Inaccurate in the past? It can’t be shooing, because I already have your ghostwriter, so you are reduced to nothing but a ghost story.

---

WingZone

---

Rough Weekend?

YOU HAVE OPTIONS... I CAN HELP!

FREE CONSULTATION

Principal Office in Orlando

RICHARD E. HORNBY, P.A.
Criminal Defense Attorney

(407) 540-1551 or Toll Free (866) 580-9800

www.orlandocriminallaw.com

The hiring of an lawyer is an important decision that should be based on experience professional reputation and skill. Before you employ a lawyer, you should discuss with him or her an important about your situation. This notice is advertisement for the residents of the state of Florida.

Stop paying high retail prices for ink: 100% Guaranteed! You and Your Wallet are Safe!

WingZone

WingZone Refills as low as $4.99!

ATTENTION PRINTER USERS: Don’t Throw Your Empty Cartridges Away! RE-FILL!

407-679-2330

10069 University Blvd., (Corner of Dean & University - NEXT TO PUBlix)

OPEN FOR BUSINESS

Open served until 1:00 AM

---

The Spot

For your Student’s Office needs!

Opinions

Central Florida Future

The good, the bad, the ridiculous

O n Saturday, almost 200 new state laws went into effect. Some are sad and some are, to be honest, funny. Here are a few highlights:

- Florida has become a "Curiosity Capital of the World". Curiosity is now a state-wide program, and "Jeb Bush" will conduct tours through the state. This is due to a previous program by warden Bush that was declared unconstitutional.
- Parents let students attend private school and use the money at the discretion of the student.
- There was a tax break for those in the 24th District who voted for a program that was declared unconstitutional.

Florida's public school system will now face even more challenges, and the problem that is Florida's public school system will now be worse.

The law is harmless, unless you decide to use it in contexts other than those for which it was intended.

Man on the Street shows ignorance, indifference, laziness toward biking

The "Man on the Street" section in Monday's paper was possibly one of the most disappointing things I have seen in this paper. It says a lot about the prevailing attitudes of laziness and indifference around this campus and our country. I'm not sure if it says a lot about the quality of the students this university is choosing to admit.

The excuse range from the lame to the laughable, but all too predictable in this culture of consumerism:

- "I have people riding bikes that make me sick. I didn't know any better, that person sounds like something more akin to a to a year-old after a traumatic collision with a bike. "I don't want to look like a grandma." Yeah, because I was at a gift bike ride on the side of the road, the first images that pops into my mind is my 29-year-old grandmother puddling away, trying to keep her dentures from falling out."

- "I use the public bike!

The one person who didn't say something moronic or make a transparent excuse falls into the common category of the misanthropist, yet hypocritical passive observer. Bikes are good, but I don't like it. It is hardly deplorable that no matter how strong we may feel about something, it is not in our power to change it and ultimately matter the most.

The purpose of the photo is much of an influence on the student body as it would be to bring people who are interested in the topic and to give them an idea of what it means and why it is important.

If these six students are an accurate representation of the sentiments of this campus (and the country), then it is little wonder why so many Americans are overweight and sedentary.

The time for Americans to embrace the independence of our diet is near.

In New Jersey, Gov. Jon Corzine has declared Independence Day a public holiday, but it is certain that this is a bad idea.

Why? Corzine wants to raise independence day.

"I want to make sure our leaders to be encouraging it."

Spanish-speaking U.S. citizens are still U.S. citizens and should be able to freely use the telephone messages the same way that anyone else.

These two men have reached the bottom of the power. Now they're just smug with their country's riches.

And they're not alone. Leaders in small towns and big towns across the country have shown beyond shadowing their power.

As the firewood is cut, there is no evidence that these people were checking at the ballot box.

A little Elton John will be coming around again in November, purring up to pay attention. We must keep the same leaders during the presidential election.

This shows that the individual citizens the most powerful in the country participate in both the laws they're being whitten down in the next year.

The big band influenced parts of the popularization straight to the bottom of the box, this fall.

Why our environment is in shambles.

Hitti's successes outweigh his failures, an alum wishes him a speedy recovery

The news of the heart attack to President Hitti was shocking and troubling. For a recent alumus, this unforeseen event created some new perspective on his experiences at UCF and what President Hitti has meant to great University.

Through the years, the paper has reported stories on the predecessor. Unfortunately, for the 2004 football team, and accorded an excellent reputation, President Hitti received. However, these are singular events, and President's Hitti's successes have been gradual and broader than any singular moment.

When I started at UCF in 1998, the reputation was building, but certainly not entirely established. Now that I am a student, my campus degree. UCF feels as heralded as I felt when I was in any new state. Individuals, or at least some students, will not be able to find a parking lot. However, does not suggest the importance of the future era, nor even President Hitti's public concern.

As any newspaper will, the paper will rarely examine the achievements and failures of President Hitti's administration. The natural index for journalism is to scoff at power. In the case of President Hitti, it may be more beneficial to examine the long-term successes that the leaders at the benchmark-setting landmarks.

I ask the entire campus community to wish President Hitti a full and speedy recovery.

Thnk Thinking this Independence Day

I t's time for Americans to embrace the independence of our diet. An urgent and selfish government is a must.

In New Jersey, Gov. Jon Corzine has declared Independence Day a public holiday. He is down on rampant

Why? To go and keep good wits

I ask the entire campus community to wish President Hitti a full and speedy recovery.

What safety precautions do you take?

BRIAN ROSANDER

"I have always looked around me when I was walking. I always make sure that the doors are locked."

DAVID MARTIN

"I do not know of anyone who will not be going to the concert."

"I actually lock my door in the morning."

NICHOLAS TELLEY

"I already asked for my consequences."

"I don't really know when I am doing anything."

PATRICK O'CONNOR

"I've always said that we all have to keep an eye on the politics of the future."

"I always check that he door is locked before I go to the concert."
$0 DOWN PAYMENT

2006 ALL NEW GTI
NOW IN STOCK
OVER 20 GTI'S IN STOCK
SPECIAL LEASE PLAN AS LOW AS
2.9% APR Available

2006 NEW JETTA 2.5 Value Edition
LEASE FOR
$249
PER MONTH + MONTHLY TAX FOR 48 MONTHS
* 48 mo. lease plus tax. Total due at signing is $249 which includes security deposit, PIUS first payment + TTL. See dealer for details. leasing WAC. thru Volkswagen Credit. Expires 07/17/06.

New Jetta rated as a "Best Pick" in Side Impact Test.
— Based On Insurance Institute For Highway Safety Side Impact Test.

THE ALL NEW 2006 PASSAT
LEASE FOR
$299
PER MONTH + MONTHLY TAX FOR 48 MONTHS
* 48 mo. lease plus tax. Total due at signing is $299 which includes security deposit, PIUS first payment + TTL. See dealer for details. leasing WAC. thru Volkswagen Credit. Expires 07/17/06.

CENTRAL FLORIDA'S LARGEST VW INVENTORY • CENTRAL FLORIDA'S LARGEST VW INVENTORY

LARGEST SELECTION OF DIESELS IN CENTRAL FLORIDA!

COLLEGE GRADUATE PLAN*

- 12 TO 60 MONTH TERMS.
- RATES AS LOW AS 2.9%.
- $0 DOWN-LEASE OR PURCHASE.
- NO SECURITY DEPOSIT REQUIRED ON LEASES.
- SEE DEALER FOR DETAILS!
- APPLIES TO A.A. AND B.A. DEGREES.

NEW 2006 JETTA & NEW 2006 BEETLE
Turbo Diesels, Now In Stock!
Largest Selection In Central FL!
HURRY! THEY WON'T LAST LONG!!