Time running out to settle Spring grade dispute

Student says e-mail gave professor no right to drop grade 5 points

EXAMPLE
Complete the following items:
The Supreme Court
a. John Kerry raised more money...
b. George W. Bush raised more money...
c. Almost $2 billion was spent...

All of the above
Because questions were randomly assigned, one student might have received a flawless quiz, while another may have ended up with confusing questions.

Andersen says he pointed out the confusing questions to the instructor, political science professor Annabelle Conroy, and says he saw his grade modified. He says she also said she would contact the publishers of the textbook from which the questions were taken.

However, Andersen says the quiz questions continued to be confusing and that he continued sending Conroy e-mails.

Toward the end of the semester, Andersen says, he e-mailed his classmates through his u-community account and asked whether they were as unhappy with the quizzes and grades as he was.

"Does anyone else feel that Dr. Conroy's quizzes are flawed?" he asked his classmates via e-mail. "I don't know if I'm overreacting, I would appreciate it if anyone would share thoughts on the quiz."

Student-run radio station has new Backstage Diner, big plans

If you're a homesick student or just missing the excitement of college, you might want to listen to UCF's own student-run radio station, Knightcast. Knightcast is UCF's student radio station, airing out of the Student Union Building and available any time of the day.

Since it's a homegrown student radio station, Knightcast is the brainchild of Marketing Assistant wrapping their heads around new technologies.

One of the station's most popular segments is the "Knightcast Raffle," where listeners can win great prizes like UCF towels, T-shirts, and CDs.

In addition to the raffle, Knightcast also features a weekly segment called "Music Minute," where listeners can hear the latest in music and related news.

HUNDREDS OF ANIMALS DIED IN OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY BUILDING

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Hundreds of laboratory mice and rats died when a power outage at Ohio State University sent mice to extreme temperatures lasting as high as 110 degrees, the school said.

Power to six buildings on the school's campus went out Wednesday evening when an electrical generator failed in one building, 998 men, 98 women and one rabbit died.

A second generator was offline because of a renovation project, so there was no backup, university research official Douglas G. Grims said when power was restored.

When power came back on in one hour, he said, "Temperature ranges went from the 80s in a couple of rooms to as high as 110 in one room," Kinsey said.

About 21 projects involving research into epilepsy, multiple sclerosis, cancer and cardiovascular disease were affected.

Kinsley said that researchers had been working on their projects for years, he said.

Friend of dead student charged with felony

ATHENS, Ga. — A student who partied with the University of Georgia freshman who died of an alcohol and drug overdose has been charged with felony violation of drug and alcohol policies.

Kathleen B. Mays filed the accusation with Lewis Fish on Jan. 22, the day after a leak of the odorless gas, but the school is considering the enforcement of drug and alcohol policies.

Five people remaining hospitalized tonight

SALEM, Va. — There were no carbon monoxide detectors in the Roanoke College dormitory where one person died and dozens of teenagers and adults were sickened after a leak of the odorless gas, but the school is considering installing them.

A total of 34 people were taken to two hospitals Tuesday after waking up with headaches, nausea, dizziness and exhaustion.

Ritchie started out looking for a degree in music performance and moved into the marching band. He liked what he found at attending orientation at his university. He started with college-level courses, and even though his staff said that he should take a few more classes online. But with the help of O-Team members. Ritchie said she was able to get back on track.

"I felt a little bit uncomfortable, but it's all right because I support the cause," Migues said.

"We're not trying to exploit the girls," said Michael Rodriguez, the team's chief public affairs correspondent. 'We're just collaborating.'

The event was sponsored by local pizza shop John's, which provided equipment to the team for its car wash. In return, the team gave away coupons for pizza discounts promising to pay for them upon redemption.

Joyce calculated the total revenue from the two-day event to be about $3,000. That amount is a $500 donation to the Florida Hospital Cancer Institute. Today the team dropped off its donation and to receive an award for their community service project.

"We've heard a lot of thank-yous," Rodriguez said. "Because one in eight women get breast cancer, it's something that affects a lot of people directly and indirectly.

The fundraiser was, in part, an attempt to better the reputation of the team, which was put on suspension in September.

Byars fills new position for Speraw's Knights

Byars promoted from volunteer assistant to director of basketball operations

BRYAN MURPHY
Sports Writer

An offseason of change for the men's basketball team continued on Thursday when Coach Erik Speraw announced that Micah Byars has been hired to fill the new position, director of basketball operations.

Byars brings seven years of experience in the coaching field. Originally from Texas, Byars worked as an administrative assistant at the University of Nebraska from 2003-2005 before joining the staff at the University of New Orleans as a volunteer administrative assistant. Before joining the Knights, he spent two seasons as an assistant coach at Chipola Junior College in Marianna, Fla. With Byars on the staff, the Indians won the NCAA Region VII Championship in 2004-2005. They finished fourth in the nation that season and fifth in the previous season. Byars worked directly with Chipola’s post players, while assisting with film exchange, recruiting and scheduling.

FROM 2003-05, Byars worked as an administrative assistant on the University of Nebraska men’s basketball staff. Before that, he was an assistant coach for two seasons at the University of New Orleans.

From 2001-03, Byars was the volunteer assistant coach for the Stetson University golf team. Prior to Stetson, Byars spent nine years as an assistant coach at Florida Tech and two years as a player at Florida Tech.

Fast facts on Micah Byars

Byars has nine years of experience coaching in college basketball. He has spent the last two seasons with Speraw as the head coach of both the freshmen boys' basketball team and the men's basketball team.

Bryan Peters

Bryan Peters is a former baseball player who has spent the last two years as an assistant coach at Florida Tech. Before joining the staff in 2003, he was a volunteer assistant coach for two seasons at the University of New Orleans.

Byars said in a press release, "I am excited to be joining the staff in this new capacity." Peters said in a press release, "I am looking forward to working with the entire staff and feel that I can help the basketball program grow."
I experience is there for them workshop. Tobacco industry shouldn't pay people for getting cancer.

In July 2009, the tobacco industry was punished with a billion-dollar fine for its involvement in the lawsuit filed against the tobacco industry at the Dade County Circuit Court in Miami. It was the largest amount ever awarded in a public health lawsuit. Almost two weeks ago, the Florida Supreme Court cleared the way for the company to continue paying the settlement. At the same time, the court reinstated a ruling that awarded a combined $18 billion to individual Florida citizens, Mary H. and Angel Della Vecchia in 2000. Over the last few years, the tobacco industry has been involved in several legal disputes and court rulings. This is a major victory for those who have fought tirelessly to hold the tobacco industry accountable for their actions.

For every smoker who drops the habit, tobacco companies may not be able to do so easily. This is a crucial way to see them go out, making them pay those who never managed to quit.

Gay marriage banned in 18 states; others may join bandwagon.

The fight for the legalization of gay marriage was hit hard Friday when the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a California law banning same-sex marriage. Some-sex couples in that state are barred from marrying, which means that two people of the same sex cannot enjoy any other benefits that a heterosexual marriage offers. This ruling does more than state that marriage is a benefit for same-sex couples. It allows same-sex couples to live as second-class citizens.

Net democracy imperiled

There’s no singing that this week’s frenzied debate of stem cell research will have far-reaching consequences on the state of U.S. medical research and for the politics of the 2008 and 2009 elections. However, if anyone can assess where the country is going on this controversial issue, one must take a look back.

The year is 2009. The U.S. House of Representatives passed stem cell legislation by a margin of 258 to 194, with 50 Republicans voting against the chamber’s Democrats in support. The House bill would expand the supply of embryonic stem cells by allowing federally funded research on cells derived from embryos created for fertility treatments and donated from in vitro fertilization clinics. Only waste-bound embryos would qualify for the program, written consent would be required and donors would never be forced.

Despite all the precautions, many Americans view the bill as a removal of the moral and economic freedom of those who would be able to pick and choose which of their family’s people should participate in stem cell research. President George W. Bush is one of them; and in 2001 he issued an executive order that limits federal stem cell research to those already in progress.

The House bill will expand the supply of embryonic stem cells by allowing federally funded research on cells derived from embryos created for fertility treatments and donated from in vitro fertilization clinics. Only waste-bound embryos would qualify for the program, written consent would be required and donors would never be forced.

Regardless, the third bill to come up in Senate, the one that encourages the vigorous pursuit of a method of producing the same kind of cells, but without destroying embryos. Recent scientific reports suggest that there may be ways to derive pluripotent cells—meaning not as closely to potential development, and self-renewing human cells — that would reduce the moral and economic freedom of those who would be able to pick and choose which of their family’s people should participate in stem cell research.

Don’t just love your textbook! It's surprising, it's much cheaper!
