Fresenius Freshmen get acculturated to college

First-day adventures of freshmen

First day of freshman year is a mix of excitement and stress

By TROY HILLIER

After running my imagi­ ary parade, we focused then to the sidewalks before us. Here we could check in on our backpacks with straps, not just our creature would burst free
from its back, but was unlikely to be enough for maybe from their behalf.

A line of brown had their no maps while we used a bus to a place in the vision to navigate around a campus, but in many instancesas, evidenced by my early mistake, I planned that I had studied the next map religiously
the right price.

The usual was a page right
out of high school: The Way
We Wish It Had Been. Only one thing was asked.
The majority of my peers had a cell phone to clamped to their like some of the most seven students of every 10
bored sporting this latest fashion, in my modest realization.

The means looked mysterious so I loaded a plate with lemon and grilled down
them, helmet, shoulder pads
and occasionally a shot of a football.

Satellite landed loosely
across the way, so I received a box that cost less benefit, and grew the trust in my hopes in a
that I wouldn’t come off any crimes, as in Neptune’s craves.

It just happened to be that my heater became that a meal plan.

Many students are now feeling themselves for the first time, and have found that there are several endlessly amount of options. Kopp says groceries off campus,
while Jennifer Sensenbaugh,
has opted for a meal plan
through her sorority, Kappa Delta.

Other students signed up or conventional meal plans
through UCF Dining Services.

“I signed up to get 16 meals
a week,” Morton said, “and the food is actually pretty good.”

Eleventh was similarly blessed with her choice to get a meal plan. “I really like the deli,” she said, “and I’m sure that I eat healthier because I have a meal plan.

Although students said that homelessness had not yet set in, many freshmen students were already making plans to return home after the first week. “My mom is still freaked out that I moved away,” Kopp said. “I planned to go home week ends, but it was

Other students were too occupied to think too much about home. “I miss my family,” Morton said, “but I’ve been so busy that I really haven’t had time to think about it much.”

One of the toughest adjustments for many students is doing their own laundry at least. “It’s always such a pain trying to find quarters
or putting money on my card,” Kopp said.

Morton knew that he might have similar problems, so he tried to adjust before even left his home. “I asked for a hamper last Christmas,”
he said. “That way I could get used to doing laundry myself.”

Despite the problems they had faced, students seemed to greatly happy to settle down in their dorms. “Other than the construction, I love it here,” Sensenbaugh said.

$50 to pay for a parking permit. "I really think it's unfair when I pay around $75 for a parking permit and then have much trouble finding a spot," Andujar said. Currently, students may purchase a one-semester student decal for $38, and a three-semester decal for $72. They may also buy hanging tags for $54 and $110, respectively. Despite his better luck in finding a spot, Wright agreed that prices are "a little too high." Hearn disagreed, saying that he thought the price was just right. "There are so many people that want to park, they can really charge whatever they want," Hearn said. "It's just simple supply and demand." Something many students overlook is that they are not the only ones who struggle to find parking. With thousands of faculty and staff members teaching here at UCF, parking can be just as troublesome for professors, instructors and staff.

Parking Services is attempting to alleviate this situation. On June 30, two parking lots, each comprising several dozen parking spaces, had their designations changed from student lots to faculty and staff. Surprisingly, students didn't seem to mind losing these spaces. "Parking may be bad for us," Wright said, "but teachers need them even more. If they're late for their class, it holds everyone else up." Prices for faculty and staff permits are even more expensive, at $131 for a one-semester decal and $244 for a three-semester decal. With prices more than double those of student decals, Hearn said that he had "absolutely no problem making more faculty parking." If nothing else, the problems with parking on Monday prompted students to find other ways to get on campus. "From now on I'm taking a shuttle," Andujar said. "Or having a friend drop me off." While students may be angry and frustrated now, Hearn offered hope for the coming weeks. "After the first week things mellow out," he said. "For now take a bus or ride a bike, but it will be getting better soon."
Harris faces challenge from political unknowns

MITCH STACY
For the Times-Union

A lightning rod for critics since her rise from college graduate to 2000 presidential election, Katherine Harris campaign message has been largely lost in the din of a congressional campaign. Her Brady-briefed and scathing campaign tactics toward the U.S. Senate seat this year.

Harris, the former Florida secretary of state and a two-term U.S. representative, is on the brink of being defeated in the Senate.

The battle for the Senate seat between Harris and her fellow Democrat, former New Orleans Mayor and LeRoy Collins Jr. At the Democratic debate before the primary, Harris' campaign said she was likely to beat any of her three challenge. The primary, her fellow Republican. She's refused a debate before the primary, saying it would only help the Democrats.

Iran ready to talk about enrichment

ALI AKBAR DAREINI (AP)

Iran's top nuclear negotiator said Tuesday that Tehran was ready to enter "serious negotiations" over its disputed nuclear program but did not say whether it was willing to suspend uranium enrichment — the West's key demand.

The negotiator, Ali Larijani, hand-delivered Iran's response to a six-nation package of nuclear incentives aimed at persuading it to suspend enrichment — the West's key demand.

The negotiator, Ali Larijani, hand-delivered Iran's response to a six-nation package of nuclear incentives aimed at persuading it to suspend enrichment — the West's key demand.

"Iran is prepared as of Aug. 23 to enter serious negotiations" with the countries that proposed the package, state-run television quoted Larijani as telling the envoys.

Iranian officials close to the meeting said Iran offered a "new formula" to resolve the dispute as part of its formal response to the incentive package. The offer was seen as an indication of moderation because of the sensitivity of the issue.

"Iran has provided a comprehensive response to everything said in the Western package. In addition, Iran, in its formal response, has asked other questions to be answered," one official said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

European Union foreign policy chief Javier Solana said Iran's response needs a "detailed and careful analysis." EU foreign policy chief Javier Solana said.

In a statement, Solana said he would remain "in open contact" with Larijani.

The European response was likely to depend on how far Iran was ready to go in suspending uranium enrichment — the cornerstone demand of the U.S., Russia, China, Britain, France and Germany the six powers that agreed to "serious negotiations" if Iran compromised and pulled out of a U.N. Security Council resolution that would impose economic sanctions on Iran if it did not accept "the very very generous offer" from the five permanent council members and Germany.

"We will obviously study the Iranian response carefully, but we are also prepared if it does not meet the terms set by the permanent five foreign ministers to proceed here in the Security Council, as ministers have agreed, with economic sanctions," he said.

New planned rules revamp students' racial categories

Students who identify with more than one race may be officially recognized as "multiracial" for the first time under a controversial new proposal from the federal government.

After nearly nine years of study and planning, the U.S. Department of Education issued a draft guidance August 4 calling for colleges to revamp the way they collect and report data on student race. The change would allow students to choose multiple racial categories.

The move, which would not go into effect before 2009, would overhaul a racial reporting system that many feel ignores the presence of mixed-race individuals.

"Previously, students of mixed races may have felt awkward in choosing one race over another, but now they can say they're both," Flores said.

Currently, college students can select only one of five racial categories: black, white, Hispanic, Asian/Pacific Islander or Native American. The new proposal would allow students to select multiple ethnic identities that could be reported as a whole, part or both, if the student wished. A student, for example, could identify as part black and part Hispanic and divide the Asian/Pacific Islander category into two distinct groups.

"The idea of including a physical 'multiracial' box goes nowhere on its own, but it's a sign that federal officials are starting to think about reworking their forms to represent our students' needs," Flores said.

The MacBook sells in his area for about $2,300 and features a built-in DVD and CD burner, software that edits with FireWire, and a built-in modem. It's got about 20 gigabytes of storage, he said.

INTRODUCING KEITH TRIBBLE: PART 2 OF 3

EVERYTHING HAPPENS FOR A REASON

From success at Florida to violations at UNLV, Tribble has plenty of experience.

CHRIS HOLLER

The ESPN cameras are everywhere and the flashbulbs shine. The Orange Bowl has been an annual touchstone on the football calendar. Some will remember the first Orange Bowl for the 1966 National Championship. Others will remember the last one, 2001.

The 2001 Orange Bowl was just another game in the Florida University and the University of Oklahoma Sooners. The Sooners were the No. 1 ranked team in the country and had an impressive 13-0 record. The Gators were ranked No. 3 and had a 12-1 record. But the game was filled with drama and controversy.

Tribble was a member of the Sooners' team that played in the Orange Bowl. He was a defensive tackle and played a key role in the team's victory over Florida. The game was a close one, with Oklahoma winning 37-24.

On the sidelines is Keith Tribble, talking to the sideline reporter about his coach. "You can't believe it. And he's wearing gold and..." Tribble does have to stop himself mid-sentence.

Not to say that decisions would have been made exactly the same way — they likely wouldn't have — but that three years before he accepted his first position with Florida Athletics, Tribble was a serious candidate for the same position at the University of Pittsburgh.

Womens team hopes for repeat

Coach pleased with progress despite loss

NATHAN CURTIS

This year the UCF womens soccer team has been shooting for goals, they're also shooting for championship level.

"Last year we won Conference USA and we want to repeat this year," said head coach Amanda Cromwell. "It might seem like an obvious response for expectations for any team but that's where we're coming from. So far she doesn't want anything to change.

"We want to have a bigger overall success this year so we can get a bigger bid" for the NCAA tournament," said Cromwell. "But we want to win the conference."" Cromwell said.

It's a team that has battled together and believes in together. It's that team unity, overall talent and group determination that has UCF ranked No. 2 in the Southeast Region in a preseason poll by Soccer Buzz.com.

"I think it's not even an old team that matters, it's that we're in the same state and we want to show that we can be one of the best teams in the state of Florida," Cromwell said.

The fight against HIV/AIDS in Africa gained a new spotlight Monday as former President Bill Clinton joined former Secretary of State Madeleine Albright to call for an Earth Day to fight AIDS in Africa. Clinton said that the $9 billion annual cost of AIDS in Africa could easily be covered by a 0.02 percent increase in energy prices or a one-dollar increase in the cost of sugar. According to the United Nations, there were 33 million HIV/AIDS cases and 2.2 million deaths caused by AIDS in 2005. The continent now accounts for 60 percent of all new infections and deaths related to AIDS. The disease has infected 29 percent of the continent's population, and accounted for one-quarter of all deaths in 2005.

The conference was organized by the Clinton艾滋病 Foundation, which is a non-profit organization founded by Clinton and his wife Hillary Clinton. The foundation's mission is to provide access to treatment for HIV/AIDS patients in Africa. In 2007, the foundation announced that it had reached a milestone of 1 million patients receiving care.

"It's an incredible honor for me to be here today to announce that HIV/AIDS is solvable," said Clinton. "We have the tools, the technologies, the treatments and the prevention methods to bring this disease under control. But we need to act now."
