High hopes for HPV vaccine

Imagine being able to get a particular cancer in a can. Now imagine it has been eradicated in a can. This is what happened.

A new vaccine called Gardasil is the result of 30 years of research. It was developed by the Human Papillomavirus (HPV) type 16, 18, and 31. The vaccine is given in a series of four doses: two at 0 and 1 month, and one at 6 months.

It is the most successful cancer vaccine developed so far. The American Cancer Society estimates that 10% of American women have been vaccinated with Gardasil. It is a vaccine that has been proven effective in preventing HPV-related cervical cancer.

What is Human Papillomavirus (HPV)?
HPV is a common virus, in 2001, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) estimated that 20 million people in the United States had it. There are many different types of HPV, some cause cancer. Others cause common warts. The most common type is HPV type 16, which causes cervical cancer in women. Gardasil contains the type 16 virus along with three other common types of viruses.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration approved Gardasil for use in women.

Early voting provides new polling option

Florida began offering an early voting option Aug. 21 with hopes of increasing voter turnout for the upcoming gubernatorial primary race. This option also increases convenience for voters who would normally need to wait until the last day.

Ballots are available at libraries and government buildings throughout the county. The U.S. Postal Service is making absentee ballots available to voters who cannot make it to the polls on Election Day. These ballots are available for up to 48 hours and can be mailed in.

Concerns arise about voter fraud, possibility of errors

According to Karen Veros, AMPO and Coordinator for the Women’s Clinic at UCF, the second injection in administration two months after the first injection time, the third injection is administered six months after the first injection.

The cost of the vaccine may be a hurdle for some women. Sophieornh Thomas Wane, a double major in accounting and psychology said her physician had told her about the new vaccine, but she still did not feel quite fully confident because of the cost.

"It is good that they finally have a vaccine," said a woman in the audience.

Delichan expects that eventually most insurance companies will cover the vaccine.

"It looks like, since the CDC is endorsing it, insurers will wind up paying for it in most terms," she said.

"I would believe, and this is a personal decision, if some women would receive the vaccine. Delichan said. Deichen stressed that the vaccine is most effective given before women become of age.

"It makes less sense once a person is in a relationship because it becomes more and more difficult to start the vaccine once they have had exposure and it is more difficult to protect themselves in the future after that," said Delichan.

Women who are infected with one type of HPV will still get their votes more than once. It also breeds the risk for errors on the government’s side of the equation.

While the vote is not current, we are not being ruled by cancer. It would be a mistake to forgo care because we are adults and we do have the vaccine or not, they still need to get the vaccine for themselves, Deichen said.

KNIGHTS READY TO SHOW THEY'RE NO FLUKE

No shortage of motivation as UCF prepares for 'Nova

BRIAN MURPHY
Staff Writer

There are a bunch of motivators for the 2006 UCF football team.

The motivation to prove that 2005 was no fluke.

The motivation to go that extra step and win a Conference championship.

But maybe the biggest motivator for the Golden Knights at the start of this season is their final game from last season, a soul-shattering overtime loss to Nevada in the Hawaii Bowl.

Defensive end Chris Welsh said, "You leave Hawaii last year and everyone talks about the type of going to a bowl-game... we still lost. I think that left a sour taste in aference championship.

Football team:

When the Golden Knights take the field Saturday night, the gains won't be the beginning to a new season, but the beginning to hopefully a new one.

While the opponent in row is simple Villanova, a small team that shouldn't be too much of a challenge, the Knights will rate the field with the understanding that they are playing for much more and need to be on top of their game from the first snap of the season to the last.

It's even better when you look across the line and

Ask me to be sure, but the easiest thing from the answer-opening opportunities for UCF over the past season.

Florida, Penn, Virginia Tech, Clemson, Penn State, Wake Forest, North Carolina. But not in case you were wondering, there are six BCS bowl games amongst those teams in that

After a season of inconsistency for the Golden Knights, the special teams unit is out to prove they can be consistently spectacular.

By now everyone remembers how the 2005 season ended for the Knights, on the failed extra-point attempt in the Hawaii Bowl.

That has been a number reminder for the entire special teams unit this off-season as well as a motivating tool.

Now entered into the mix is Michael Torres, a transfer from the University of Massachusetts, left the kicking last season on both ends, including this 68-yard punt return for a touchdown in the Conference USA Championship Game.

Men's soccer drops two in Wake Forest Invitational

No. 16 Wake Forest and No. 1 North Carolina top UCF in weekend event

MELISSA HEYBOER Staff Writer

A 0-2 start was not quite what the UCF soccer team had envisioned for the beginning of their season. The Golden Knights suffered two losses at the hands of powerhouse teams Wake Forest and North Carolina to start the weekend of the Wake Forest Invitational in Winston-Salem, NC. No. 16 Wake Forest and No. 1 North Carolina defeated the Knights in consecutive matches to hang up the weekend banner.

An assist from sophomores Jamie Franke to sophomore Sam Crewis helped Wake Forest net just another goal with a hand shot from just outside the box in the 64th minute of play. A battle inside the box by UCF's goalie, Jordan Cline Beam in the 86th minute of play, ended the game with just a 10-7 Heels win. Though I have never taken a lesson, I remember I was more entertainment event than the game itself. But before they came to the decision to move to the threat of embarrassment mixed in with that good they are on a year-to-year basis, the Golden Knights are ready to make up a game.

The kicking game was a vital part of the season for the Knights. Joe Burnett electrified the team last year, of course, when kicking struggles cost the team. Burnett had successful field goals and long returns that the coaches are looking for, but the inconsistency continued to be a concern. O'Leary attributed his decision to start Torres O'Leary is weary about the kicking game. The kicking game is a concern amongst the coaching staff; they're concerned something will be wrong until they prove otherwise.

With the extra attention that the kicking game has been getting, Burnett is more than aware of the bull's-eye on his back. The kick return team was-...
The offensive linemen for the Knights have a couple of factors on the sideline of the Wildcats down linemen and have a considerable weight advantage. Expect the Knights to wing out and pound the football to try and eat up the Wildcats defense and keep the spread offense of the Wildcats off the field.

Advantage: UCF

When Villanova has the ball

Key Matchup: Villanova quarterback Marvin Burroughs vs. UCF linebackers Ronnell Thompson and Larry Haghe and Richard Richards.

"The most important part of this game for the UCF defense will be the ability to contain the quarterback," said Thompson.

"He has the ability to break a tackle, that he has the ability to break a tackle and break the long run if the situation arises."

While Burroughs might not have had the most playing time last year, he is an experienced quarterback starting all 12 games in 2004. O'Leary is concerned about the problems that will arise when facing a mobile quarterback.

"Mobile quarterbacks present problems for the defense," O'Leary said, "come in the having another running back in the backfield again, we've got to make sure we know where he's going.

"The defense will have to be cognizant that Burroughs can take it down the field one big play."

When the cornerbacks are in coverage with field backs to the quarterback, the defensive line and linebackers will be responsible for containing Burroughs and making sure he doesn't get past the first level of defense.

If Burroughs running ability is enough to make the Knights' defense worry, the experienced offensive line is another issue.

After returning all five starters, the Knights have acquired a high quality offensive line. The defensive line is a formidable challenge.

Special Teams... Villanova punter Derek Fiorena vs. UCF punter Joe Burnett

Fiorena needs to keep the ball away from Burnett. If he can't manage to kick the ball high enough for the coverage to get down field in time, he may just kick the ball out of bounds.

"We would be best to avoid the small and speed Burnett, and not let him touch the ball against the over-matched Villanova special teams team,"

Advantage: UCF

Xs and Os...

- O'Leary has provided this team with an attitude that they aren't supposed to lose any game. He has managed to change the mental landscape of the team and the school in a short amount of time.

- Along with the attitude he has instilled in his team he is not allowing a game plan and out of what needs to be done to succeed.

- Villanova coach Andy Tauley, in his 22nd season as head coach for the Wildcats, said he does not like losing. He likes to do the things but not too much in this series.

- He will have a game plan that he will try to run the overall strategy and not do anything that he does not know.

- He will have a game plan that he will try to over-matched the overall strategy and not do anything that they do not know.

The Final Word...

"The Wildcats know they have to come out strong and fast. Any time although Villanova is a smaller Division I-AA team, they will make sure that his team is mentally prepared for the game.

Novak coach not sure team can stop UCF run

Novak said he is not going to take Villanova lightly.

"We are trying to approach this game like it's a bowl game, a conference championship game or any game that we step on the field. They are a good football team, I don't care what anybody says.

Despite the difference in class, the Wildcats share a handful of similarities with the Knights on offense. They return all five starters on their offensive line, they have one veteran experience concerns at wide receiver and, in Marvin Burroughs, they have a senior quarterback who can beat their team with his arms and their legs.

The Wildcats struggled to a 4-7 record last season, but a big part of that was that they were without their quarterback for all but two full games. In their last two games of the season, in which the team's starting quarterback Gar­retts, Burroughs suffered a broken arm that sidelines him for the year. But the Wildcats' turnover battle and looking to regain their 2004 form when they come complete with his passes.

For this week, Burroughs may be without his top weapons in junior wide receivers Matt Sherry and Shane Barrow, a provisional East All-Academic selec­tion, missed the entire season with a hand injury and is questionable for Saturday's game.

Villanova Coach Andy Tauley said that his offense needs to play some error-free foot­ball to have a chance to win.

For Burroughs, that means he needs to stay away from the King­ston playing second, that includes a disas­trous comeback in September -- American at home to Miami and sophomore Josh Gotrald and junior Nickel, but another player who has made a strong impression on coaches is senior cornerback Tonnell Jones.

"He is our nickel back," defensive coordinator Lance Thompson said. "If there is anybody that has got some leadership ability on this defense, who has really stepped up and who has really changed in the last two years, from a coach's perspective, it would have to be Tonnell Jones.

"He's done an outstanding job for us.

A starter in 2004, Johnson was mainly a backup last sea­son, but the Miami native has turned into the leader of the UCF secondary and Thompson said that he has had an excellent offseason, spring camp and preseason.

The Villanova defense was less than stellar in 2004, finishing eighth in the A-10 Conference in total defense. The biggest weakness for the unit was stopping the run. The Wildcats allowed an average of 144 rushing yards per game last year, which ranked them 11th in the 12 team conference. That stat does not bode well for the Wildcats consid­ering that Saturday they will be trying to stop running back Kevin Smith, the 2004 Confer­ence Atlantic A-10 Freshman of the Year. Even worse, the Wild­cats lost their top defensive back, junior Brian Hershey, to a redshirt to begin the season.

"Obviously, they are going to try and run the ball down our throats," Tauley said. "That would make a lot of sense, if I am not sure we can stop it."

One of the bright spots on the Villanova defense is senior safety Allyn Bacchus.Shown in his debut in the fall of 2003, Bacchus has started every game in his college career.

Last week, Tauley earned a second team All-Conference nod by doing it all for his team. He finished second in the league with 10 tackles. He also found three fumbles, recorded a sack, recovered a fumble and broke up three passes.

One of his main tasks on Saturday will be helping the Knights top receiver, against Mike Walker. Walker will be playing in his first game since tearing his ACL last November.

After surgeries and more than three months of rehabil­i­tation, Dwayne Walker for going on returning to try and a weekend.

"Sitting on the sidelines over the last two games, it hurt me," Walker said.

"You really realize how much fun it is to be out there and for me to come back out there. I am just going to out there and score.""Don't drive drunk. Designate a driver.

There was a degree of contentment resonating in Neil Burger's voice. Perhaps the writer/director was satisfied with the financial and critical success of his second feature film, The Illusionist, in its limited release (the film expands to more than 800 screens, including local theaters this weekend). Maybe he was simply on autopilot after an endless stream of interviews.

However, anyone who has spent just over fifteen years getting a story to the silver screen has earned a right to be cagey.

"I read the original short story (by Pollitzer Prize winner Steven Millhauser) back in 1990, when it was first published in The Barlowe Memoir," said Burg in a recent phone interviews, "and it floored me. It was just a beautiful piece of writing, very cinematic in nature. However, its 20-page length means it wasn't quite a movie.

The story concerns Eisenheim (Edward Norton), the titular magician, whose performances in turn-of-the-century Vienna spark a romance between a young woman (Jes­ silca Biel) and threatens to undermine her fiancé (Rufus Sewell).

"I added the characters of Sophie and the Crown Prince to form a romantic triangle and reinforce the mystique of Eisenheim," Burg said.

"I moved right back­wards from the climax to develop more political and emotional reasoning to make Eisenheim a more concrete threat to the Prince and I also expanded the role of Chief Inspector Uhl (Paul Giamatti), who goes barely mentioned in the story, to service the audi­ence's perspective.

"When writing it, I had no one particular in mind, because I had such a firm idea of the characters formed in my mind. However, I immedi­ately thought of Edward Norton, because he has that intangible quality that perfectly suited Eisenheim."

Despite Norton's reputation for moulding behind the scenes, Burger notes that "he was a great actor. He was enthusiastic and had lots of ideas that added to the produc­tion."

"As impressive as the cast are the remarkable production val­ues."

"We had about a $16 million budget, which is unusually a lot, but wasn't that much for this type of production. Even being an independent filmaker as far as financing goes, I had this mindset to make meaningful projects of a higher level of quality despite their budget and I was lucky to work with an incredible cast and crew that was as passionate as I was."

Giamatti, "...one particular in mind, because..."

JANET SALAMASH

Before cut-offs were thought of, there were just brave made out of denim. According to The history of denim" by Birgit Lehmann at designboom.com, denim is believed to have come from the name of a French material "serge de nimes," "serge" is a kind of material, "de" means out of or from, and "nimes" is a town in France. Jeans come from a type of material made in Europe that was named after sailors from Genes, Italy, because the wear clothes made from it. Levi Strauss was the pioneer of jeans in America.

According to levitonz.com, Levi Strauss and Jacob Davis, a tailor from Nevada, received a U.S. patent to make denim work pants with copper rings in 1873. These "wants overall" as they were first called are more commonly known as blue jeans today.

According to wikipedia.org, "cut-offs" are homemade shorts made by cutting the legs off clothes, typically jeans, above the knee. The cut is not finished and the fabric is left to fray. Extremely short cut-off shorts are known as "Daisy Dukes." These shorts were first made popular by Catherine Bach's character from the television show The Dukes of Hazzard in the late 70s and early 80s. From jeans to cut-off shorts, denim has certainly made its mark in the world of fashion.

La Salsa serves up Mexican tradition

ALLIE SCHWARTZ
Staff Writer

Living in Florida, there is no shortage of Mexican food. The trick is to separate the authentic from the impostors.

La Salsa

Cuisine: Mexican
Hours: 10 a.m. - 8:30 p.m. daily

A little restaurant on Alafaya Trail in Oviedo, La Salsa is lucky among the authentic. The burritos ($5) are enormous and stuffed with delicious sauteed tomatoes, onions and green peppers.

Certain foods taste better when eaten with your hands, and this is a prime example. Even though you are generously provided with a plastic fork, you should only use it to load up your taco or tosh before picking it up and biting into it. Let the juices flow down your chin and squirting your neighbor. Enjoy the harmony of flavors tantalizing your taste buds. The whole experience is invigorating and satisfying.

The highlight of La Salsa is its interesting salsa bar, which one of my guests reacted, "I feel like I'm in a different country!" I realized he was right. Small mom-and-pop restaurants are becoming less and less frequent, but individual owned and operated. Unfortunately, the less well-known, individually-owned restaurants are where authenticity of recipes and flavors are upheld. Americanized Mexican food doesn't hold a candle to the real thing, and when you are in a Mexican restaurant, you should feel like you are in Mexico — not America's glorified version of Mexico, with sombreros and maracas decorating every surface.

La Salsa offers a variety of tacos, tostadas, tortas (sandwiches) and burritos. The tacos ($2 each) are small and satisfying. The chicken, steak and steak are both favorably marinated and...

Hook, line, sinker: Fish fans still afloat

ANANDA R. SHAPIRO

The group stays true to its reggae/pop/punk inspired melodies. 9.

The new album highlights the hysterical ad-lib and taste-mixing that appear in the three-disc set. Added features include a DVD and three bonus tracks. The sound quality of the live set is phenomenal, comparable to the energetic stage performances of the veteran band.

If you think that this greatest hits album is the finale for Fish, think again. The group is on a mission. The message? Maybe she isn't dead.
