Despite best ranking ever, UCF is still trailing other Florida schools

TIFFANY PALMA

When it comes to being one of America’s top colleges, a lack of academic resources, a growing population and relatively low faculty salaries are slowing UCF’s progress into the list of top schools.

U.S. News and World Report printed a special report on Aug. 28 titled "America’s Best Colleges." The article, which lists hundreds of colleges and universities, is designed to help students searching for a college find the right choice.

Despite earning the school’s best ranking ever, UCF was still assigned to the third tier of schools, which comprises the schools ranked 125 to 180.

Fifteen factors were considered in U.S. News’ assessment, including graduation and retention rates, faculty resources and student selectivity.

Problems in all these areas have been experienced by UCF students. For many, the ranking was not a surprise.

"UCF is kind of like a kid hitting that adolescent age," Andrew Gluchov, 23, a double major in accounting and management information systems said.

"It will be like the ultimate pep rally," according to Athletics and Traditions Coordinator Brandon Delanois. "It’s all about showing our pride, our talent and to get ready to take it to the UCF bowl next year!"

The block party will be held at Church Street Station in downtown Orlando from 8 p.m. until 2 a.m. The event is free to the public with free Lynx transportation.

Students try to cope with LSAT stress

JESSICA LINDBLAD

For some UCF students, the Law School Admissions Test can cause uncontrollable anxiety, cold sweats and sleepless nights.

The LSAT, as it is commonly known, is a test that helps determine a college student’s future in law.

The half-day test measures a student’s reasoning, logic and verbal skills. A passing score requires a lot of No. 2 pencils and one’s complete dedication.

“You have to really want it and you have to be really dedicated because it’s really hard test,” Joanna Blackstone, a junior journalism major, said. "It makes you retrain yourself to think a certain way.”

Bus funding gives students another way to get around

SUSAN D. ORR

Lynx has received $5.2 million from Seminole County to add 21 more buses to its fleet, which company officials say will increase on-time performances in all the available routes, including the UCF campus.

Many UCF students who are looking for an alternative to parking on campus have the option of taking Lynx buses, Central Florida’s form of public transportation, to campus.

Lynx now runs an alternative to the main campus directly from Oviedo, downtown Orlando and the Valencia Community College East campus. In December, a route called the "Golden Circulator" will become available with stops between UCF and Waterford Lakes.

Many students who use Lynx currently say there are pros and cons in taking public transportation.

The Student Government Association will sponsor the first-ever UCF vs. USF Homecoming rally complete with food, live performances, music and free transportation to the event.

The block party will give everyone the chance to have a great time showing off their black-and-gold pride, SGA’s Athletics and Traditions Coordinator said.

Armed with a voice that can mesmerize a room, James Harvey, associate professor of optometry at the UCF College of Optics and Photonics, and Assistant Professor Richard Mitchell, Jet Propulsion Laboratory, have decided to use an instrument developed from NASA to build an ultra-violet imaging spectrometer.

"When I was at school, I always thought I wanted to be an optometrist, but then I realized that I can actually become a professor," Harvey said. "It's a dream come true for me."

Rockford College uses art auction to help get out of debt.

Rockford, Ill. — Rockford College has auctioned about $2,500 pieces of artwork to raise money to pay down its debt and stop its creditors.

The two-day auction, which began Monday, features 1,000 pieces of artwork donated by the college officials said was necessary to alleviate $51 million in overdue bills.

In its 137-year history, the college has been facing financial difficulties since 1990.

The college is located in the northern Illinois town of Rockford.

“Sundries,” which includes artwork, sculpture, and jewelry, was on display at the auction.

“Rutgers has the money to pay off its debts,” said Benjamin Sanchez, head of the American Bar Association Commission on the Restoration of the American Bar.

The agreement stemmed from a 1992 lawsuit filed by R.M. Sanchez against the university.

The agreement was approved by the university's board of trustees.

The university also wants to sell art and other collectibles.

Apple, which announced earlier this week that it will start selling 3G iPhones, is now offering the device for sale.

That's the feeling you get from UCF Test Prep Courses. We prepare you for a higher score on the GRE, GMAT, LSAT, MCAT or SAT. At a lower price. In most cases, our price is less than one-third of what you'll pay with most national test prep chains. So while preparing for the big exam is smart, preparing with UCF Test Prep is smarter.

Dear Golden Knights,

I want to take a moment to thank the student-body for their outstanding support of our football program.

You kept the momentum going from last season and this was evident at the Villanova game.

With ESPN nationally televised games, this season and next, the game day atmosphere at the Citrus Bowl and at Brighthouse Networks Stadium will soon be known across the nation as one of the best in college football.

You can take great pride in knowing that you play a big part in our football program and have a key role to play each and every Saturday. We want our stadium to be known as one tough place to play, as well as a first-class venue for our visiting fans.

College football is a great game and with your help we will continue to build a strong tradition at UCF.

Ask a doc

BELLE ROBERTS, M.D.

Q. My doctor told me that I have “prehypertension.” What is that? How does it affect me? Am I more likely to eventually have high blood pressure? What can I do to lower my blood pressure?

A: In order to understand prehypertension, we must first understand hypertension. Blood pressure is simply the pressure that your heart puts on the blood as it pumps through your arteries. Normal blood pressure actually consists of two measurements (called the systolic blood pressure) and (called the diastolic blood pressure) that are measured when the heart is not pumping. The systolic blood pressure is the pressure in the bloodstream when the heart is squeezing the blood. The diastolic blood pressure is what the pressure in the bloodstream is when the heart is not pumping. Your blood pressure is normal if it is below 120/80. If it is 120/80 or less and the diastolic blood pressure is 80 or less, you do not have hypertension, or high blood pressure. If you have hypertension, or high blood pressure, your diastolic blood pressure is 80 or higher or your systolic blood pressure is 90 or higher. If your blood pressure is in between these numbers, you have prehypertension.

Before we talk about what you need to know about your own blood pressure, it is so important. Hypertension is often called the “silent killer.” Unless the blood pressure is extremely high, it doesn’t cause any signs or symptoms. It is, however, one of the main risk factors for heart disease, heart attacks and strokes, which kill millions of people each year. To prevent hypertension, we must recognize why blood pressure is so important.

Healthy diet.

Try the Dietary Approaches to Stop Hypertension Diet by eating at least five servings of fruits and vegetables per day and increasing the amount of whole grains and low-fat dairy foods in your diet. Eat less saturated and trans fat. Decrease total daily sodium intake to less than 1,500 milligrams sodium per day. Drink plenty of water, and lasts are better food sources than processed foods, which often have very high sodium content. Consider a commercially available salt substitute, such as Caudal Salt. says, because it is the only way to make it easier to start and continue with any hypertension treatment.

Students credit lagging rank to full classes, traffic

Many UCF students feel placing a stricter cap on enrollment could help solve the shortages of classes.

"With all the new students coming in, the growing majors, it's like mini, we have problems getting into classes," forensic science major Laurel Hamberger, 22, said. "UCF needs to cap enrollment and add classes and sections in order to boost graduation numbers."

Electrical engineering major Paul Nelson, 20, noted that lowering the enrollment capacity could also solve the traffic and parking problems students experience on campus.

"I'm willing to bet there are students who just don't want to deal with the traffic and don't go to class," Nelson said. "Those students don't perform well, and bring down the school's overall academic performance."

UCF's current student-to-faculty ratio is 19:1, according to university spokesman David Draudt. This number is highest among UCF's peer institutions, said Gluchov. "I think this is a huge concern for students." The school needs to improve its faculty-to-student ratio, he added, in order to better meet the needs of the growing student body."

Gluchov said the school's current rankings, students believe that the school is "still lacking the mature school's total academic performance." U.S. News and World Report's most recent rankings, for instance, place UCF far below its peer institutions. For example, UCF is ranked 14th in the nation for its medical school, while its peer institutions are generally ranked in the top 10. This lack of recognition for the school's total academic performance, Gluchov said, is a major concern for students.

Concerns about the lack of available classes are high among students. Students in large classes often have difficulty understanding their instructors, and those in smaller classes have trouble finding seats. Many students feel that the school is not doing enough to address these problems.

In the fall, admission requirements for UCF were also tightened, with fewer than 20 percent of applicants being admitted. This drop in acceptance rates, along with the growth in the school's enrollment, has led to a shortage of classes.

In an effort to address this problem, the school is considering implementing a new computerized system to better manage its class scheduling. This system would allow the school to more efficiently allocate its resources to meet the needs of its students.

Meanwhile, UCF's admissions department is working to improve its recruitment efforts. The school is currently seeking to increase its national visibility and attract more students who have the potential to succeed at UCF.

RWC Park opens new fields for play

VICTOR ANDERSON

Open for Business

The new Recreation and Wellness Center turf fields might have had a "soft opening" during the summer, but this week marks the grand opening, and the renovation and action will be 100 percent hard.

The line that forever attaches Field of Dreams to the UCF Wellness Center RWC Park reads, "Sometimes you build it, and they will come." But the fields have been built, and it's now time for the students to come play games.

The RWC Park had its grand opening and ribbon-cutting ceremony Monday, and it proved to be a grand day for all involved in the event.

The process for having their turf fields began back when Brian Bartun was the Student Government student body president, and he formed a committee with Kevin Peters to look into getting new fields on the UCF Campus. Under the leadership of current Student Body President Mark White, the vision has now become a reality.

"Sometimes it's hard to visualize what a project will look like when you start it," White said, "and when you actually see it, it can make you change your mind, but it's a great thing to see.

Bench-clearing brawl overshadowed two-game split for Erwin's team

"Words cannot explain how excited we are to finally have this opportunity for students to participate on these artificial fields for open rec and intramural use."

— JIM WILKENING

THE STUDENT ADVISOR EDITOR AT LARGE

"It will be great to see students be able to use the fields on a daily basis and I can't wait to come out here to play some soccer.

The fields were funded by student GAC/SAF funds of $6,2 mil for the first phase of the project.

Playing for the next phase of this plan, in addition to construction and renovation time, will be the Student Government's new soccer team.

Marcelo Rein

leftfielder

Made three saves in the first six outs of his career.

From the beginning, UCF controlled the ball on offense and defense, keeping possession for much of the first half.

"We dominated the game," coach Brian Irvin said. "We were always in front of their goal.

"We scored through Rein," said. "We didn't let them get us out of their own end.

The Knights struck first when a free kick was served by Rony Roushed up to Howard in the 25th minute for the game's first goal.

"The first goal was really big," Howard said. "It got the team going. We were playing hard up to that point, but it got the team pumped up."

At intermission the Knights held a 1-0 lead over UNF, out-shooting their opponents 15-7.

Entering the second half the Knights lost a little intensity but managed to regain control of the game.

"It took awhile, to get going," Howard said. "Once we realized we had to bring it up, we did.

"The second half was more intense," Rein said. "It got the team going. We were playing hard up to that point, but it got the team pumped up."

Rein said, "For us to come together and for us to also win.

"We were a much more intense team," said. "We were much more focused on what we had to do.

"Every game these guys play get the students' experience and I thought we played very well.

"The Knights out-otted the Ospreys 29-9.

North Florida goalkeeper Michael Frost recorded his saves on the night while Rein would post his first shutout of the season.

On Deck
The Knights continue on the road this week as they begin Conference USA play against Florida Atlantic University on Mississippi on Friday night.

The offense, defense and special teams are expected to shine, just as they did in the first two games of the season.

The offense has been on a roll, scoring 10 touchdowns in their last two games. The defense has been just as dominant, allowing only 13 points in those games.

The special teams have also been a force, with a 75-yard punt return for a touchdown in the last game.

Still, some things need to be worked on, according to coach Mark lemon. "We have to adjust," lemon said. "That's what we have to do."

Although UCF may be a relatively young university, it is moving in a way through our culture that it is achieving great speed. One may feel that this is a fast fact, as the university is doing so many things in such a short time.

"There are organizations that have already expanded and are even considering new campuses," said President Judy Genshaft told the Student. "Our mission is not to be the same. We don't have to keep up.

The Leisure, the Lecture and the Wellness Center, the new library and the soon-to-be-completed Convocation Center all create a campus village that grows in the direction of Gables Town Center has become.

And when the new student apartment, the UCF campus will be a bona fide college town.

But allowing seemingly harmless rituals like beatings can lead to more intricate and possibly violent traditions. If that happens, someone will be beaten in the name of tradition, the perpetrator in a chain of events.

Both are expansions of the university hierarchy with perhaps becoming jealous. For some incoming freshmen has been a sudden change in a life.

"There's still a lot of people in the world who don't know all that we do," she said to the Student. "That's true, but as UCF continues on its course toward greatness, more and more people will know exactly where to find us.

We've changed from a tiny state college to a big university.

But it is an ever-growing and an ever-changing school that is quickly becoming a future school that is helping to build a future Florida. Everyone's going to see South Florida, UCF. But that's true, but as UCF continues on its course toward greatness, more and more people will know exactly where to find us.

The Knights are off against the South Carolina on Saturday. It's not a real true rivalry, but UCF can only grow. That's what it's all about.

UCF students complain about the school's growth. That's a barricade that the students that don't want to see what's going on.

The local law says that even if the victim agrees to be beaten in the name of tradition, the perpetrator in a chain of events.

I keep waiting to understand everything. I keep waiting to make a decision of peace and to understand the definition of war. I am class and learn about the war.

The Orlando area... soon-to-be-completed Convocation Center all create a townlike environment of Orlando's many tourist spots.

Whether you're a national security is in question daily and our ever-growing war system dances between plausible yellow and Human Right's, I'll choose not to know new to see what's going on.

Although our national security is in question daily and our ever-growing war system dances between plausible yellow and Human Right's, I'll choose not to know what's going on.

I'm not asking for a national holiday or an internal holiday, but a personal moment of silence. I'm not really a deep prayer and for a full 20 seconds to remember what happened 10 years ago.

As a nation, we need to pause. If during your moment you want to pray, that's great.

If during your moment you want to remember a victim of terrorism, that's fine.

If during your moment you want to protest anger, there are forums at home or abroad, there you are.

During my moment on Saturday I'll think for you in a country.

I'll think for you in a country.

What's going on? Turkey.

I've read and reread Thomas Friedman's The World is Flat which I'm sure a country.

Saddam Hussein said, "I will not stop until I have destroyed the whole of the West." The West is not a country.

And Saddam Hussein said, "I will not stop until I have destroyed the whole of the West." The West is not a country.

In the days leading up to the 9/11 terrorist attacks, Saddam Hussein was portrayed as the enemy. He was not a country.

I thought for you in a country.

He was not a country.

But if I've lost my country, where can I look to and envy.

A country that has the largest indoor rock wall this side of the Mississippi.

SHIFT YOUR CAREER INTO OVERDRIVE

Fascinating, Challenging. And very, very rewarding. If you're looking for a career where you'll have the responsibility and decision-making power to impact an international company’s future—and your own—then check out ALDI.

$65K Starting Salary

We're looking for smart, confident, dynamic leaders to grow with us as District Managers. You'll motivate. You'll empower. You'll transform management potential into leadership experience while overseeing 4 to 6 of ALDI's 800+ U.S. stores.* And you'll do it all while enjoying a generous compensation and benefits package:

- 10 days of vacation first full calendar year
- 20 days of vacation second year
- A company car (Toyota Camry)
- Disability and life insurance
- Medical, Dental & Vision insurance
- A retirement savings plan

THE ROAD TO SUCCESS

Great pay, great benefits, and the kind of responsibility that requires a full year of hands-on training. This isn't just a job—it's a career. Interested? Let's talk.
