Students called to work in election

Lou Frey Institute aims to interest them in electoral process

JESSICA LUNDRAD

The Lou Frey Institute of Political Science and Government at UCF has joined a nationwide effort to encourage the number of young people to participate in the electoral process. The institute, which is affiliated with the United States Elections Assistance Commission, is working to increase voter turnout among college-age students.

"We want to get college-age students more involved in democracy," said Aubrey Jewitt, one of the project's co-directors at UCF. "We're hoping to get young people to vote in the election."

In an effort to increase student participation, UCF has partnered with Valencia College to provide the Lou Frey Institute an opportunity to work with students at Valencia's Orange County campus.

"For the most part, the polls are open in Orange County and most of the Valencia students already live in the county," said Terri Fine, assistant director of the Lou Frey Institute. "And because it is Valencia East, there is a higher access to bilingual students, which is a positive thing for us."

Undergraduate and graduate students from all majors are welcome to participate, but the last day to sign up is Oct. 9. Students then will have to get involved, so we are trying to encourage them to do so," Fine said.

"In the past, polls have been staffed with older citizens because they have the time," Jewitt said. "It is not until about the age of 30 get involved, so we are trying to change that."

Government finds spinach safe to eat

Farmers still worry about the industry's future

JULIANA BARBASSA
Associated Press

Relieved farmers say they are heartened by the government's announcement that it's safe to eat more spinach, but they fear uncertainty about their industry's future, knowing it may take time to win back public confidence.

During the two-week warning about E. coli in fresh spinach, growers said they re-summomed the safety of their operations, upended by the national E. coli. Growers have said they'll continue to grow spinach in the US, but worry about the risk to the industry.

The Agriculture Department said the risk of E. coli in spinach was low and has been reassured by the industry's efforts to improve safety procedures. However, the government warned that spinach is a healthy food

In California, whose warehouses of plant bases harvested from 12 million acres, growers could end up with up to $9 million in losses, according to industry estimates. Growers have said they're working with West Coast growers to provide spinach farmers in California and Arizona. The last year's spinach crop in California was valued at $9.8 million, and each acre net amounted to roughly $2,300. The government has put various other programs in place to help the industry, including a $10 million loan guarantee program and a $5 million insurance program.

When California Farm Bureau officials visited the Sutter Valley on Friday to meet with farmers and sample spinach, they expressed their support for the industry's efforts to improve safety procedures. They said the industry's efforts have been impressive, and they're confident the situation will improve.

RESEARCHERS find new data about premature births
ATLANTA - Scientists now say a third of infant deaths are due to premature births — a much larger percentage than previously thought.

In the past, "prematurity" has been the listed cause of death in fewer than 20 percent of newborn fatalities, but that number should be 34 percent or more, said researchers at the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

That's because at least a dozen causes of newborn death are actually problems that are linked to prematurity, and not to other causes. Premature births are the result of respiratory distress syndrome, which is caused by underdeveloped lungs.

The revised estimate now leads to greater efforts to correct problems that arise from taking care of themselves and avoiding actions that can lead to preterm births — such as smoking and drug use.

The goal is to remove barriers for more research into why some women who follow medical advice still have preterm babies. The March of Dimes is advocating for expanded funding for researchers to probe labor and delivery factors and care and treatment of premature infants.

At least 14 percent of the nation's children die before they reach their first birthday. Premature births generally describe infants who were born before 27 weeks gestation, and the term "preterm" is used as an official cause of death.

About 1 in 20 infants birh in this country is born preterm. The definition of preterm birth is often attributed to concerns about birth weight problems that can occur in premature infants.

Mob may sell to terrorists

No direct evidence found, but link is possible, FBI says

PAT MULDOON

The FBI's top counterterrorism official says there is no direct evidence yet of organized crime collaborating with terrorists, the first hints of a connection surfaced in a recent study said.

"I am aware of a high-level Mafia figure who was cooperating with authorities, being asked if the Mafia would sell terrorists to smuggle people into Europe through Libya," FBI

Director Louis Freeh said in an interview with Pat D'Antonio, a retired senior FBI official and now chief executive of Giuliani Security, said a Mafia boss was acknowledged that the mob would help terrorists.

"We are continuing to look harder and broader for Mafia involvement in helping a terrorist network," said Joseph Billy, a retired FBI official and now chief of the Mafia Branch for the FBI in New York.

Billy said in an interview with the Associated Press.

"We are continuing to look at organized crime assisting terrorists," Billy said in an interview with the Associated Press.

The FBI has been working on a nationwide criminal investigation into terrorism, with the Mob being a key player in helping a terrorist network.

Billy acknowledged that the Mob is a business with intelligence and terrorist activity.

"We have developed an ability to look for leads and become a greatly enhanced way to see if there is any organized crime involvement with the terrorist front," Billy said.

Billy said the Mob could facilitate money transfer, launder money, launder

ticipants of the Hillel at the University of Washington in Seattle will hold a four-hour fast that starts at sundown to avoid any activities and refraining from the holy day of Yom Kippur, which is the most solemn day in the Jewish calendar," said Zaineh Alrafi, director of the Barbara Ying Center.

The event, the Fast-a-thon, will be held at the Ferrell Commons, a structure used to provide the same kind of atmosphere as the sukkah on the first Friday prayers of the holy month of Ramadan.

The Fast-a-thon will be held on Sept. 23, 2005, and will continue all day.

The event is to promote the observance of Yom Kippur, which is the most solemn day in the Jewish calendar.

Knights, Moffett face must-win game

Tuesday's game against Southern Mississippi was not one to remember for UCF quarterback Steven Moffett.

After some late throws and slow decisions, some fans began to call for backing Kyle Israel, who did start warming up on the sidelines in the third quarter. On UCF's final drive, Moffett was sacked on three of the last four plays, drawing some more venom from both the crowd and his coach, George O'Leary.

After Tuesday's game, Moffett was one of the last Knights out of the locker room. Asked about his and the team's overall performance on the night, Moffett just shook his head and, looking at the floor, said, "Just should have played better."

But Thursday at his weekly press conference, after viewing the game film, O'Leary made one point perfectly clear: "I didn't leave the field thinking that way because I just saw the sack. In one play, he probably should have gotten the ball off, but on the other two, it is directly related to protection."

O'Leary did say that Moffett can play better and there were some mistakes made where he was solely responsible. Like his coach, O'Leary believes it is on Moffett to play better and to "increase his game." But O'Leary also said that Moffett "has the most to prove." The starting quarterback is coming off of a poor performance and O'Leary wants to see a return to the form that he showed in Week 1 of the season.

On the offensive line, O'Leary said that Bernie Morris and the Herd offense Wednesday night in Huntington, W. Va. The starting center has been dealing with a hand injury and O'Leary said that he is "at or near full strength."

"I don't know that he's 100 percent," the coach said. "But he's coming along."

On the defensive side of the ball, O'Leary was pleased with the performance of senior linebacker Morgan Johnson, who had nine tackles, one interception, two pass deflections and a sack. Johnson has been a leader on the team and O'Leary said that he is "playing with a lot of passion an..."
James makes most of his chance, now a starter interception that was returned for the game-deciding touchdown, but O'Leary also said that he and the offensive coaching staff need to do more to help Moffett once, like quickening his decision-making and improving his reads of pass defenses.

In a week where he and the team can't expect too much, he led his team to a win this Saturday in Tallahassee against Florida State. A 27-7 victory that ended their 11-game losing streak. In that game, Moffett was efficient, hitting 15-of-26 for 250 yards and a touchdown.

He knows that he needs to keep that effort up this Saturday and lead his team to another win. O'Leary said, "He's been working in practice on his decision making, and we've seen that he has improved in that area." He also praised Moffett's ability to run and pass the ball, saying, "He's a threat both in the air and on the ground." "He's been our best player this season," O'Leary added.

The Knight's offense has been inconsistent, but they have shown flashes of brilliance. Their running game has been strong, with Ahmad Bradshaw leading the way with 693 yards and 11 touchdowns. However, their passing game has struggled, with Bernie Morris completing just 56.5% of his passes for 1,449 yards and 12 touchdowns. Moffett, on the other hand, has completed 63.4% of his passes for 1,456 yards and 12 touchdowns. O'Leary said, "Moffett is our best passer, and I think he can lead us to victory this Saturday."
Rutgers' Rice runs wild in win over USF

TAMPA - Ray Rice ran for 200 yards and two touchdowns, Friday night, leading No. 22 Rutgers to a 30-20 victory over South Florida in the Scarlet Knights' first game as a ranked team in 30 years.

Jerome B. Williams scored on an 80-yard touchdown pass to Fan Bao in the second quarter for one of his two touchdowns in the Scarlet Knights' 22-20 win Friday evening. It marked the ball the Cougars had on two plays earlier, and the game finished on an interception and running, making a school record.

The 5-foot-9-inch, 195-pound running back over the Houston 29, then tossed a 2-yard pass to James Bryant who caught it and turned the game around.

Rutgers coach Greg Schiano described the game.

It was frustrating," Kolb said. "I'm not concerned about wins. Kids played their hearts out."

But the quarterback's pass on fourth-and-inches in the final minutes and Miami held on to force overtime, giving The Hurricanes hand Houston first fourth down.

"It's frustrating," Kolb said. "I'm not concerned about wins. Kids played their hearts out."

Miami's ensuing drive lasted two plays before Wright threw another interception; his high punt bounded out of the end zone and into the arms of Houston longsnapper Wade Kneal. That set up a 25-yard field and by Ben Bell, putting the Cougars up 35-10. Another kick by Bell made it 15-2, but the Hurricanes found a way to overcome.

"I'm not concerned about wins," Kolb said. "As an unranked team..."
Constitutional clash

President Bush, with the cooperation of a Republican-dominated Congress, has demolished the last vestiges of the Constitution and expanded the powers of the executive branch.

This man has to be stopped before he becomes pressured to be perfect as well. Now; he gives Bush the authority to interpretation of the Geneva Conventions. Alaska Senator John McCain, is finally fawning with Bush’s agenda.

The scariest aspect of this legislation is that it was openly declared an “illegal or unlawful combatant” is stippled of the right of habeas corpus. Habeas corpus is constitutionally granted right to make the government prove why you are in prison.

Habeas corpus was included in the constitution because, historically, kings and monarchs have sent people away for long periods of time for no reason in addition to the historical implications of an incidental clause. In 1807, in 1970, Senator Guarnatti said “shouldn’t be to report their disorders and to seek realistic solutions to the New Yorker, who has a problem with the government’s inappropriate handling of the prisoners in Guantanamo Bay.

The problem is that as the Court of Appeals has without ever discussing the case, that are are followed by the Supreme Court. And Bush has submitted a bill.

One, the MCA holds that, although habeas corpus rights under international law are in practice for prisoners in the war on terrorism.

Second, the MCA gives the Bush the authority to violate the application of the Geneva Conventions and its formal interpretations will be “authoritative evidence.”

Third, the MCA has an administrative regulations. This would be the equivalent of the 45th president’s position.

The only thing that Ronald Reagan could do is that he was a good actor and couldn’t do anything with them.

Second, the MCA’s “defense” of the Geneva Conventions is a facade. In reality, the data has to be no chance to present evidence against the government’s case. In addition, absent the legal rights which are “cruel and unusual punishment.”

Third, the Court of Appeals will be able to suppress the evidence. The Bush administration, under the guise of national security, is pressuring the Bush administration, under the guise of national security, to suppress the evidence.

For instance, in 1983, the Court of Appeals struck down the Supreme Court’s 1971 decision that the Geneva Convention applies to all prisoners of war.

On the other hand, instead of Bush does not want to be seen as a “defender of terrorists” or “terrorist sympathizer.”

Federal Court has allowed him to continue to step on the Constitution as long as Bush thinks that we are at war.

Military tribunals are under military law. The MCA will eventually be challenged. Then, the US, the Supreme Court will declare it unconstitutional. The Bush administration will have no choice but to stop. Right to be tried by a group of our citizens might be on the line. We know the basics. It seems like a lot of us have never thought of being made to the public.

I think parents have lost some authority in bringing their kids away with these kinds of things, because when I see families in public it seems like the kids in is charge. I never even thought of being made to go to school. If the police is doing a good job, they’ll go to a hangout. It seems like every child’s parents have an obstacle to look at the others things that they’re too cool to smooch and the ones that they’re afraid of to have no idea how to use it.

But I’m still young enough to remember the feelings of injustice when parents don’t think why I was said to be worth anything, just because I was a kid.

The thing is, you can challenge yourself as much as you want to at school like UCF. You can only be a college student if it’s more of your stuff. Smoother doesn’t change advanced concepts to eager students. The thing is, you can challenge yourself as much as you want to at school like UCF.
