Cheap drug plan grows

Prescription plan comes to Orlando

LAUREN CONNERY

Students in need of low-cost prescription medication will get a break in coming months. In September, Wal-Mart Stores Inc. launched a new program, in which selected generic prescriptions will cost only $4 for a month-long supply. The program began in Tennessee last year, but due to customer demand, was expanded to 20 stores in Florida in October.

The list of the now 78 available medications includes anti-depressants, beta blockers and drugs used to treat high blood pressure.

The generic drugs offered in Wal-Mart's program will have the same effect as brand-name medications at a lower price.

Wal-Mart spokesperson Maria Bluestone said customers have been delighted with the new plan.

"We asked to be brought to the whole state," said a customer. "Why not us" and we responded by extending the program."

Bluestone said students living away from home will enjoy saving the money they usually spend on more expensive medications.

"This is actually part of Wal-Mart's ongoing commitment to bringing affordable health care to America's working families, students included," she said.

In addition to the new program, Wal-Mart spokesperson Maureen McCauley, 22, said he would gladly have his prescription filled at a Wal-Mart store if his medication is on the list.

"When you take as much medication as I do, it's important to take it, add up over time," he said.

On the past three years, McCauley has had prescriptions filled at the pharmacy in the Student Health Center. He

The golden blanket with the UCF logo appeared out of space across the hotel bed. In surface, like all the surfaces in the room, was covered with magazines depicting tweety female models. While the scent of vanilla overpowered the attic masses of friends in the cramped room discussing their recent times while they smelt the chance to dance for a costume-strung occasion. The scene, at times surreal, had been carefully orchestrated by one of America's most recognized men's publications.

Casting agents for Playboy magazine turned their lights on UCF on Monday and Tuesday hoping to find new talent for the May 2006 "Girls of the Conference USA" issue.

According to Playboy.com, the college is one of the magazine's most popular features. For some applicants, there was more anxiety over how to tell family members about the audition than over the idea of appearing naked in a magazine.

"I saw it in the newspaper, and my girlfriend said I should try," Sean said. "I looked into it but never really thought too seriously about it."

The audition required applicants to fill out paperwork, show proof that they were at least 18 years old, do a short interview and have simple photos of them taken by a Playboy photographer.

"For some applicants, there was more anxiety over how to tell family members about the audition than over the idea of appearing naked in a magazine."

Lauren Lelis, a senior in marketing, worried how she would break the news to her younger brother.

"He goes to UCF, and he's very pro-

Program helps Latinos in college

LAUREN CONNERY

A national initiative to increase opportunities for Latinos in higher education has now expanded over 63 million to develop programs at four Florida universities, including UCF.

The Initiatives, Engaging Latino Communities, began for Florida students, works with 11 partnerships in seven states. In Florida, it begins with the University of South Florida and Florida International University.

Now at UCF, the program will play catch-up to the previous two programs at UF and FIU and made Central Florida the only state to join as likely to attend college as any other.

Gloria Ramirez, director of First-Year Advising and Exploration and the authority on ENLACE at UCF, said she wanted to help Latinos break through the "educational pipeline."

"We have high standards for every- body," she said. "We expect the best and we won't let them be content with the bare minimums." Ramirez said she found that the backgrounds of Latino students and their families were primarily service-industry positions. She wanted to show students at every level of education that they can make it all the way.

"Through ENLACE UCF, in partner- ship with Florida Atlantic University, will be able to participate in and complete these phases."

Phase One: Identifies the needs of the Latino population of the funded universities and its current services. Phase Two: Implements the programs. The final phase expands the programs for sus-tainability over time.

The funding comes from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, based in Battle Creek, Mich. The foundation launched

C-USA TITLE IS THERE FOR THE TAKING

Win over Southern Miss sets up showdown with SMU for first place

UCF GOLDEN KNIGHTS

NATHAN CURTIS

UCF took care of business on Saturday by beating the Southern Miss Golden Eagles 2-1. Now, with just two games left, it's time to focus on securing the top spot in the C-USA standings. On Sunday, tailgaters will visit the Golden Eagles for the final regular-season game. First place is on the line this weekend in Orlando and it's all going to come down to which team wins it.

But first it's important to understand how important the game against Southern Miss was.

The Golden Eagles are in last place in C-USA. They haven't won a single game within the conference and have only won four games overall. They had absolutely nothing to lose on Saturday and that made them extremely dangerous.

I really think that's where the Golden Eagles had us. We didn't play as well as we normally do.

So we're going to focus on the Golden Knights versus Southern Miss game.

When: Friday, Oct. 27 at 7 p.m.
Where: UCF Soccer Complex

No. 16 Gamecocks need just two shots on goal to defeat Golden Knights 2-1

S. Carolina too much for UCF

Coming off one of the best performances against the top-ranked SMU Mustangs on Oct. 14, the UCF men's soccer team had high hopes of building on its series of playing ranked opponents with a win.

Unfortunately for the Golden Knights, the No. 16 South Carolina Gamecocks (13-3-4 overall, 4-3 Conference USA) had other ideas as they went on to defeat the Knights 2-1 in Columbia, S.C.

Saturday's loss stopped the Knights record at 3-4-2 overall and 1-3-1 in conference action.

Scoring began early as USC's Mike Beraun headed the ball in the 17th minute of action on a shot from 20 yards out into the lower left corner of the net. Andy Althoff and Spencer Lewis were awarded the assists.

In the 38th minute, however, UCF managed to even the score at one when Zag Babi hit the back of the net from 18 yards out in the 37th minute of play. Raleigh Puck was awarded the assist. After a decent first half and equal shot, the Gamecocks would hold on to beat UCF 2-1.

During its 3-4-2 overall record and 1-3-1 in conference action, the UCF has scored 21 goals.拔

Bull pups were ready making a play against Mustangs, scored in the 31st minute against Southern Mississippi Knights on a shot that hurt their defense and widened the lead.

A steady offensive play and extra effort in the final minutes against Mustangs. The UCF went on to beat UAB 2-1.

UCF's record improved to 3-4-2 overall and 1-3-1 in conference action.

Dolphins' Saban in danger of first losing season in past 12 seasons

DAVID — In 12 previous years as Miami Dolphins head coach Nick Saban never had a losing season. In fact, the Dolphins are 1-4 and need the worst record in the NFL, and he's taking heat for the dismal start.

I remember the Miami Herald. "Nick Saban said, "I am going to try to stop the game, that's all I have. I say it's my fault, OK?"

That's why the Dolphins are in the black for a while. They have an off-week this weekend to play at Citizens Bank Park. The next real challenge for a team that will be No. 12 at home against Kansas City.

A buy week allows plenty of time to examine why a team that once looked promising has fallen so far.

"I'm not pointing any fingers, but I am saying that everybody has tried to get me to point the finger. I don't do it. I say it's my fault. I am doing my fault."

Amendment is weed killer of grass roots

Facing a ballot in less than a month, many of you are as familiar with the candidates as you are with the candidates you vote for. Most of you have decided as a voter what issues you wish to have the candidates address in your ballots. You or your students may have asked for letters to be written based on your party preference. I believe that the students or faculty members who compose the Florida Student Newspaper have the right to voice their opinions as well.

Amendment 3. This amendment, adopted last year, is perhaps the toughest to adopt constitutional amendments in the history of Florida. Our system requires 65,000 signatures, a requirement that the Florida Supreme Court and a majority of the popular vote to adopt an amendment. Amendment 3 will require 12 percent of the popular vote to amend the Constitution.

If you think this is a good idea, you may want to vote against Amendment 3. It is the basis for this amendment is the result of a basic flaw of the Constitution as it now exists. Do you believe the government gives you any say over the power the government gives you? Do you believe the government gives you any say over the law the government makes? Do you believe the government gives you any say over the taxes the government levies?

This amendment is being sold to the voters as a way of changing the Constitution. Believe me, this amendment is a marketer's dream. We need to be careful what we want to be marketers. We need to be careful what we want to being marketers. We need to be careful what we want to be marketers. We need to be careful what we want to be marketers. We need to be careful what we want to be marketers. We need to be careful what we want to be marketers. We need to be careful what we want to be marketers. We need to be careful what we want to be marketers. We need to be careful what we want to be marketers.
