Fashion Design Club displays unique outfits

Fashion is about innovation. That was the message UCF's Fashion Design Club got across Wednesday with its "The Devil Wears Prada"-themed fashion show. Model clothing from fabrics purchased at thrift stores, the club members put together their own designs on sawdust over runways throughout the year.

"We take old clothes and turn them into new ideas," said Nina Pfeifer, 22, Fashion Design Club president.

Pfeifer exchanged club members to buy clothes from Goodwill or the Salvation Army and use them for the fabric. "It's less expensive," Pfeifer said.

Pfeifer also wore second-hand stores as a source of inspiration. "It gives you ideas to see so many decades of clothes in one store," said Manglae Brough, a 20-year-old art therapy major, modeled a white lace top designed by Pfeifer.

"My new thing is working with lace," Pfeifer said.

The top consists of material from two different shirts, Pfeifer took apart a.gauze - a Cuban-style shirt and reconstructed it with lace from a shirt her mother wore in store. Pfeifer added ribbons and puffy elements to the new design.

"I like to take old things and make them new and pretty," Pfeifer said.

Nicolette Willis, a 20-year-old psychology major, is in charge of promotions for the club and its models through the Fashion Design Club. "I'm wearing an outfit I got from a thrift store, I altered it to make it my own and different," Willis said.

Willis modeled the "winter look" in a black-and-white striped jersey top with slit and blue skirt with sweatpants and studded boots.

A member of the Fashion Design Club since fall last year, Willis said she got her inspiration from fashion all over the world.

"I like very eclectic designs," Willis said.

The club is always open to present," Pfeifer said.

Police state gun on UCLA student who won Leece Library

LOS ANGELES - A student phone captured a UCLA student being shocked with a stun gun by a police officer after he allegedly refused repeated requests to show his student identification and would not leave a campus library, university police said Wednesday.

The incident occurred about 11 p.m. Tuesday after police, on a routine check of student identification at the University of California, Los Angeles' Powell Library computer lab. UCLA Police Department spokesman Nancy Gremin said police arrived to scuff Mostafa Tabatabainejad, 23, out of the library after he refused to provide ID and would not leave a campus library.

Tabatabainejad, who was arrested for resisting and obstructing a police officer, was later released on his own recognizance.

Instead, Gremin said, Tabatabainejad encouraged others at the library to join his resistance. When police began to gather, the officer used the stun gun on him.

The arrest was recorded on another student's camera phone and showed Tabatabainejad screaming on the floor of the computer lab. The video also showed the student shouting, "You're his [the officer's] Act, and you're his... abuse of power," according to the campus newspaper, the Daily Bruin.

Acting Chancellor Norman Abrams promised that an investigation of the incident and the officer's action will be "thorough, vigorous and fair."

One word, different view of Miss. law on campus alcohol

The GOV Miss. Although they admit they have not been able to enforce a University Mississippi officials have long interpreted state law to allow banning alcohol consumption on campus.

When the university's new alcohol and drug abuse task force met for the first time earlier this month, university attorney Lee Tyner reaffirmed that university policy was based on the understanding that alcohol in the state campus lies. Beer is legal in Starkville, with about 260,000 of them in the state.

Miss. ban on alcohol would only in Starkville, with University officials see it otherwise, based on the second reference, they say, permitted form of alcohol on campus.

Liquor and wine are legal in a municipality or county allows open for legal alcohol consumption, Mississippi law has "university." But alcohol is illegal on their campus.

Robert J. Lee Tyner reaffirmed that banning alcohol consumption on campus was illegal.

Lobbying minister says 60 Islamic to be absorbed

BAGHDAD, Iraq - Iraq's highest minister says that many of the 60 vice-mayors of a mass吸收 of the parties in occupation, and that some of the 20 who have been feared were freed.

On Tuesday, government desks in the Baghdad central government of the conflict of the government in the U.S. denied the Higher Education Ministry in Baghdad, that they have scores of people and took over about 25 pickup

Government officials have given varying numbers on the number of security forces, ranging from a high of about 30 to a low of 45 at 30. They also have confirmed that more than 50 have been freed, missing, however, the scope of the situation as well as how the victims were freed.

Higher Education Minister Mr. they said 70 of the 70 hostages were rescued, reaffirming a figure given Wednesday and saying these "many turned and refused to a lot."

National Security Adviser Mr. Washington and the military have confirmed that, complicated by the complexity of the situation as well as how the victims were freed.

U.S. challenge to administration, global warming

WASHINGTON - The Bush administration will look closely how California and other states and nations are working to combat the or "cap-and-trade" systems relating to global warming, the chief U.S. negotiator said Thursday.

Undersecretary of State Paula Dobriansky said in an interview with The Associated Press at the U.S. climate conference that the U.S. might exit its opposition to mandatory caps on carbon dioxide and other heat-trapping gases blamed for global warming.

Her comments came on a day when the European Union met for the first time since the annual two-week conference, convening in the last two years, said the Democratic majority and Congress that climate will grow into a major, political issue next year.

The U.S. and Australia are the only major industrialized countries to reject the Kyoto Protocol, which obliges 35 industrial nations to cut emissions of greenhouse gases by 5% below 1990 levels by 2012. President Bush reportedly told the Bush climate summit that Washington had to "represent the U.S. economy, and it would have required ex-chaos in poverty nations as

Fear of Vietnam exists

Central Affairs Bureau's request to let her access a doctor was accepted by the Vietnamese government.

Accused of being involved with a plot to seize radio equipment to call for political support, Foshee was found guilty Nov. 10 of terrorism and received a 15-month sentence — but she also received credit for the 12 months she had served. This would have allowed her to be home by Christmas, but Foshee's blood pressure problems led to an early release.

It was not until September that Foshee's imprisonment was made public. McCausland said that the Vietnamese government imprisoned people quite often and would hold on to her mother longer if the incident was made public. Also her mother did not want to go public.

"I was advised by someone that the Vietnamese government would think they had someone important if I made it public," McCausland said.

After McCausland finally decided to make her mother's detainment public, the campaign to free her drew support from Vietnamese advocacy groups and media sources around the country, including UCF's VASA.

"Everyone couldn't believe what was happening with Cuc Foshee," said Christina Li, president of VASA.

"We came across many older men that wanted to donate money rather than sign the paper out of fear," the VASA member said in an e-mail interview. "Sometimes, everyone was really shocked because they didn't know what the Vietnamese authorities were capable of.

There are pro-communist groups that support the Vietnamese government in the U.S., which is why publicity involving their government involves for among some Vietnamese. According to another member of VASA who did not want to be identified for the same reason.

"We came across many older men that wanted to donate money rather than sign the paper out of fear," the VASA member said.

McCausland had even received help from senators Bill Nelson and Mel Martinez. McCausland said Martinez, who was born in communist Cuba and was part of Operation Peter Pan, had been very supportive.

"I understood that my mum wants freedom for her country just as Cuban-Americans want freedom for their relatives from Cuba," McCausland said.

Martinez and his staff provided her with updates on her efforts. Martinez even said he would not move for trade with Vietnam as long as mother's situation continued.

Members of VASA hope this brings awareness and educates others on the communist regime in Vietnam. According to Li, Foshee is only one of many imprisoned in Vietnam. VASA, as well as other Vietnamese organizations of Central Florida, will be there to welcome her home on Saturday.

While Foshee was imprisoned, McCausland said her mother wanted to thank everyone personally when she got home.

Finally, she will get that chance.

Women lose both games of road trip

After poor start to the season, Knights to host tournament

SOUTHERN CUITIS

It was a struggle out of the gate for the UCF Women's Basketball team as they lost their first two games of the season. The two-game road trip ended with an appointment as the women dropped the first game to Appalachian State 64-44 and then to Southeastern Louisiana by the score of 67-56.

While it's hard to find the positives in two double-digit losses to kickoff a season, it wasn't completely terrible either.

Appalachian State held the lead for most of the game but UCF never quit trying to catch up. In fact, the lead was down to five early in the second half until Appalachian State began to pull away.

The big problem? Junior guard Whitley Scollie. Scollie went 3-for-19 and scored a game-high 21 points. The high-effective output by Scollie went without a counter from UCF as no player on the Knights side scored in double-digits. Appalachian State had two. Scollie and guard Maura Grimes.

In fact, UCF struggled offensively all game long, as a team UCF shot just 30 percent of its attempts. That averages out to a dismal 25.6 percent. In comparison, Appalachian State shot 44.3 percent for the game.

UCF was also outshined from beyond the arc, going 0-for-9 from the point line. That includes the 0-for-4 effort from guard Francie Houston. Appalachian State had two.

The only thing that UCF could boast is that it held a higher average than their opponent in free-throw shooting. UCF shot 62.2 percent from the free-throw line, better than Appalachian's 55.4 percent.

Senior forward Kristen Miller seven points tied Houston's seven to lead the Knights in scoring.

Without much room to decline, the Knights rebounded effectively in their game against Southeastern Louisiana. Unfortunately for them, it was overshadowed by an even more impressive performance by the Lions in ending being UCF's second straight loss.

Southeastern Louisiana had players score in double-digits, including Edith Cabrera for 16 points. With the double-digit output by UCF, the Knights improved offensively in their first two games this season has been its starting power in the second half. In both games, the score was flipped in the second half but UCF essentially lost that momentum to their opponents.

Still, momentum is not the biggest of UCF's worries at this point. It's their shooting.

UCF forced turnovers and rebounded their opponents in both games. It includes an incredible 32 turnovers in offensive opportunities against Southeastern Louisiana. That's part of what the Lions' defense held on from this angle: that's 10 times the Golden Knights' second chance at a shot and still lost by 21 points.

Overall, the weekend UCF was 38-45 and made 18 of those shots. That's 40 percent.

Coach stands by Rickard amid rocky quarterback situation

In preparation for the season opener with SMU, UCF head coach George O’Leary said late Wednesday night that he intended to give starting quarterback Matt Forte a chance to play Saturday.

"We’ll see how it goes," O’Leary said. "I feel bad for the guy, but George O’Leary wants to see when his team gets kicker Matt Forte back on the field.

"I’ve got a lot of confidence in him, but we’ve got a lot of big games coming up."

As of Wednesday night, Forte had not yet been cleared to return to the field, even though the redshirt junior had been practicing with the team for the last few days. Forte, who suffered a serious knee injury during the 2001 season, has been limited to mostly run/ gun drills during practice this season.

"He’s been limited to being a dual threat," O’Leary said. "He’s been on the field and he’s been running, but he hasn’t been playing in a game situation."
ZEROS TO HEROES

Decaydance Records, the booming label that shook hands with Fall Out Boy and Panic! At The Disco last year, has had a change of heart. Instead of adding another gut-spilling emo band to the label, they’ve adopted a foreign baby — a four-piece rap outfit from upstate New York. They are the Gym Class Heroes.

Emo outfit makes Plans for Sunday at the UFC Arena

ALEXANDRA SCHWARTZ

Ben Gibbard, Chris Walla, Nicholas Harmer and Jason Mottern like to look at the journey between life and death a little differently. The members of the indie rock band Death Cab for Cutie are set to play the UFC Arena on Sunday with opener Toad the Wet Sprocket. The Seattle quartet kicked off its Fall Tour 2006 on Oct. 26 in Upper Darby, Pa., and will conclude on Dec. 9 in the numbers hometown of Seattle, Wash.

Gibbard released a surprising-slash-fiercely-national-­style album named “Storytell­ing Sand.” Gibbard toured with the title song from the album, “The Long and Winding Road,” which reached No. 1 on the charts. The album also includes songs about death, love and the казино of a newer, more mature band. The Used to You,” which was released in 2004, is a follow-up to “The Black Parade,” which was released in 2003. The album features the singles “Famous” and “A Place That Wasn’t There.”

My Chemical Romance

AMANDA R. SHAPIRO

For those of you who somehow managed to miss the year 2000, here’s a recap: There was an election, some hurricanes and the bunting of a newer, operatic pop-punk group.

At the top of this pop-punk hierarchy stood My Chemical Romance, a group of musicians who took to the stage alongside artists like The Used to educate school children through their world-wide hit “The Black Parade.” This song opened with a melody that is slightly reminiscent of classical music. At that point, we know there is not one thing we have in common. They’re expanding on their horizon, musically and visually.

The band is currently on tour with the support of the band’s management, which has released a new album titled “The Black Parade.” The song opens with a melody that is slightly reminiscent of classical music. At that point, we know there is not one thing we have in common. They’re expanding on their horizon, musically and visually.
