Cram 4 the Exam even a study in final work, play

PATRICIA MEYER

Cram time! It’s that time of year again.

The annual Cram 4 the Exam has been going on for a week, and event coordinators say the long weekend version won’t be all work and no play.

Cram 4 the Exam, which will be held Friday, is designed to help students study effectively, relax, work out, and relieve stress.

Four tutoring, study materials, handouts, and videos will be offered.

"Last year, Cram 4 the Exam was a weeklong event and was not well advertised," said Tanya Jones, public relations coordinator for ORC.

"This year, ORC has worked to make the event more visible, and I hope students will attend for studying or just to have fun."

16 BIPARTISAN GROUP REACHES AGREEMENT ON IRAQ POLICY

The bipartisan group of lawmakers said they hope to reach a consensus on how to handle the situation in Iraq.

The group met earlier this week to discuss their recommendations, which are expected to be released in the near future.

A shooting early Wednesday outside the Liquid Cellar Bar & Nightclub on University Boulevard led to a car chase through East Orlando, where two suspects were arrested.

Frederick Santos-Pena was charged with aggravated assault and battery with a weapon, and Alexander Ross, 18, was charged with battery in the incident. "It was a gunfight," said Dr. Steven Ross, 21, in the shed.

Rose was treated at Florida Hospital East for a gunshot wound to his left upper arm and a fractured left arm. The incident began with an argument that had started inside Liquid Cellar and continued at the bus stop. "We got in an argument," said Dr. Steven Ross.

Reyes, his friend Daniel Beuchemin, and other witnesses told police later that they saw Santos-Pena Approach the group, brandishing a gun and asking who had witnessed the argument.

"I heard gunshots, and my friend and I were able to get inside the car," Beuchemin said. "I turned around and the kid had a gun to my head."

As World AIDS Day 2006 arrives, many people, both at the University of Central Florida and across the world, are struggling against one of the most deadly diseases known to man.

“They’re finally proven that only three categories of people get AIDS: men, women and children.” — LINDA BOLLA-PICKETT, CO-FOUNDER OF FRIENDS TOGETHER

Friends Together is a group with a mission to save the world from one of the most critical needs of people infected and affected by HIV/AIDS. “They’re finally proven that only three categories of people get AIDS: men, women and children,” said Linda Bolla-Pickett, co-founder of Friends Together.

One of the main causes of the spread of HIV is ignorance, according to Friends Together. “It’s a support group that helps inform people what to do to cope with the stress,” Bolla-Pickett said. “It takes people like Pickett to inform the public about the importance of AIDS education and prevention, because the government tends to have the subject out of sight.”

Bolla-Pickett said that the government doesn’t care about the issue, because it takes people like Pickett to explain the disease and how it is going to spread awareness.

Bolla-Pickett said that the government’s job is to educate people about the disease, and for people to start thinking about how to prevent the disease from spreading.

“Friends Together also informs the public about the importance of AIDS education and prevention, because the government tends to have the subject out of sight,” Bolla-Pickett said.

The education doesn’t end with what is on campus, provides the group with the opportunity to serve the community, in regions that are at high risk for the disease.

Friends Together is based in Lake Mary, located five miles west of UCF. The group is comprised of students at UCF, and the group is a nonprofit organization. The group is made up of people who are affected by HIV/AIDS, and the group is made up of people who are affected by HIV/AIDS, and the group is made up of people who are affected by HIV/AIDS, and the group is made up of people who are affected by HIV/AIDS.

Dear Students,

As the semester draws to a close, I am extremely pleased and proud of the participation and involvement of our students in the activities Student Government has sponsored and co-sponsored. With so much great turn out at our various events like the Hob Nob, Ethel Barak, the Open House, USI, Student Debate and SGA Gamaday Games, I am excited for another semester of successful and interesting programs. Beginning in December we will have some useful new services on our Web site as well. Teacher evaluations and the student classified section, Gold Pages, will be in service and available to all students. We will also be introducing the new Knight Rider tests vouchers which will allow students to take a free cab to and from some of their favorite Orlando venues including House of Blues, Hard Rock Live, Improv Comedy Club and more.

As student body president I have had the pleasure of sitting on the Board of Trustees' and have had the opportunity to voice student concerns. Throughout the semester I have been treated with such professionalism by not only our University President but many of those working in the UCF administration. This has really allowed me to voice student concerns openly and effectively. SGA has been working extremely hard this semester to advocate policy change and be the voice of students in all areas of campus life. Currently, there are over 100 student government officials who sit on various university committees including the University Athletics Committee, Golden Rule Committee, Student Grade Appeal Committee, and University Ethics Committee.

Looking forward to more in the future. I hope that all students will continue to attend SGA meetings and make their presence heard. I want to extend special thanks to the officers and committee chairs who have been a great asset to the Student Government this year. Without their dedication and commitment, Student Government could not have accomplished as much as it has done this year.

The UCF vs. USF Block Party was a great success. Brandon Delano, the SGA Athletics and Traditions Coordinator, did an outstanding job in the implementation of this event and in its first year, the block party brought over 4,000 students together in school pride and unity. This demonstrates the benefits of student involvement and working towards the common goal that the greater the interest of our student body. The political Hob Nob, spearheaded by Ashley Beroski our Lobbying Coordinator for SGA, was an opportunity to meet candidates running for office. This program, including our speaker series, is part of much larger civic engagement initiative from the White House administration called Call to the Polls that brings the interests of students straight to the government leaders that make the decisions.

In order to be effective, your Student Government must be in touch with students and aware of issues that concern the student body. While SGA does not play an integral part in campus life, it remains difficult to stay in contact with such a diverse, enriched student population, specifically with student leaders. The Governmental Affairs Unit of SGA is implementing a new committee: The Student Advocacy Committee. It is open to all student leaders who wish to join and play an active role in the implementation and promotion of policy and reforms.

Each meeting of the Student Advocacy Committee will consist of an intense and thorough discussion of current issues that have been brought to our attention through Student Government and leadership involvement in various university entities. Each month, the committee will devise action plans that address the concerns of students. Action plans will identify specific issues, provide a concrete solution to the issue, and each plan will have a specified timeframe for change with a step-by-step approach to addressing the concern.

Student Advocacy Committee Meetings will be held monthly in the Student Union. Interested student leaders are encouraged to contact Tina Kimball at sga_sac@mail.ucf.edu for more information about how they can get involved and implement changes that will benefit every student on campus.

Global Perspectives and the SGA Speaker Series

Student Government Association, in conjunction with the Global Perspectives department of UCF, has arranged to bring campus a wide variety of speakers to discuss the international aspects of our lives. The speaker series began in September with a lecture on the situation in Iran. Sanam Vakil came to the Fairwinds Ballroom, the detailed and nuanced nature of Middle East. He outlined Israel's relations with her neighbors, America's role in the region, and praised the continuation of the peace process.

SDA's Global Perspectives brings these types of events to campus in order to give the student body a first-person perspective of the international community that we all are very much a part of. These two organizations will continue to work for excellence in all of their programming, and look forward to bringing bigger and better speakers to campus, and the forefront of student awareness.

Tina Kimball
Student Body President

whenever you start a new job, you never really know what to expect. Will it be interesting? Will you enjoy the people you work with? Although I had been involved in Student Government prior to this year, I was a little unsure of what to expect and I began my new job. I had ideas and events I wanted to implement and I had goals I wanted to achieve. My position as Vice President, along with this administration, has exceeded all of my expectations, and is a job I look forward to doing fervently everyday.

This year we've seen an increase in the amount of student interest in SGA. From a voter turnout in this year by 24.5% to over a thousand students signing up during orientation to be involved in SGA, the number of students looking to take an active role on campus and positively contribute to the SGA community is encouraging. Our programs, like the Open House and the free seminars we provide in our office are bringing new people into SGA. With new people come new ideas.

The Global Hob Nob event that took place on campus Oct. 30 gives UCF students the opportunity to meet and speak with many high profile leaders. The Hob Nob is a partnership program between Student Government and the University President. Candidates address questions about their campaign strategies and political goals and each have a chance to advocate their ideas. The Hob Nob is one of the most effective things Student Government has been working on the Hob Nob and contacting politicians, acquiring their attendance. The event generated a great deal of media attention and received coverage from Local 6, Channel 13, Telemundo and the Orlando Sentinel. The Hob Nob is part of the political series Gallup to the Polls, currently in progress in SGA. The Gallup to the Polls series offers students a chance to interact firsthand in politics not only in the United States, but around the world as well. Former Israeli Prime Minister Ehud Barak visited UCF Oct. 26, 2006 and the Senate Debate was held at UCF Nov. 1, 2006. The series is part of SGA's mission to help foster student involvement in engagement.

Bipartisan group reaches agreement on Iraq policy

WASHINGTON - A leader of a bipartisan group of Senate Democrats has confirmed a set of recommendations the group proposed on Iraq last week, and published reports said the panel will make a major withdrawal of U.S. forces but set no firm date.

Such a withdrawal would gradually shift the U.S. military role from one to support to a policy, a signal for the Bush administration that it is ready to talk about keeping U.S. forces in Iraq.

A renewed mission to recruit American student veterans in the past 30 years has given Dartmouth the largest independent student body in the Ivy League, about 300, or 9 percent.

Last week, the College of Arts and Sciences held its annual black-tie benefit, which raised more than $37 million for administrative maintenance with $40.5 million for operating expenses.

The New York Times and the Washington Post reported Thursday that the much-anticipated report by a Congressionally chartered Iraq Study Group will recommend for more aggressive diplomacy with the nations in hoping to end violence in Iraq. That would include a regional conference with leaders among all of Iraq's neighbors, or a wider gathering of Middle East nations that would also address separate Middle East peace issues.

The Times reported that the study group will recommend direct, high-level American diplomacy with the Arab and Israeli partners, or with Iran and Syria, a policy that the administration has also rejected so far.

The group's proposed agreement on a general strategy for a gradual withdrawal of the 15 U.S. divisions now in Iraq represents a shift among Republican and Democratic vessels.

Radioactive traces found at 12 sites in Britain, secretary says

A number of traces of radiation have been found in a dozen schools in Britain, where police and scientists were investigating the possibility of possible contamination from the authorities widened their investigation into the poisoning of a former Russian spy, the country's top law enforcement official told Parliament on Thursday.

Aacock formally opened an inquiry into the case of Alexander Litvinenko, who died on Nov. 23 after falling ill on Nov. 19.

The inquiry became three months or more would ensue. It was quickly admitted that police could continue their investigations.

Ukrainian Prime Minister Yulia Tymoshenko, who visited London on Nov. 19 and stayed at the premises of the British government, has asked that a formal visit be arranged.

Several radioactivity tests at 12 sites were found in 2007, the secret service secretary, David Blunkett, told the news media.

The pope bowed his head out of respect for a remains inside the 15th-century Church of St. Joseph in Capri in the Gulf of Naples, where he is staying as a guest of the town's mayor.

He said the papal trip to Turkey was the only second visit to a Muslim place of worship. No pope's predecessors had been to any Muslim places of worship, except the one's visit to Jerusalem in the 16th century to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre.

The pope would bow his head out of respect for a remains inside the 15th-century Church of St. Joseph in Capri, the birthplace of a saintly nun to which he had traveled before, as a sign of Vatican and praying at the Blue Mosque in Istanbul.

Walker, three others named to C-USA all-conference squads

The season is over for the UCF Soccer teams, but the accolades have just started to roll in for some of the team's better individual student-athletes.

Four Golden Knights were named to the Conference USA all-conference teams as selected by a panel of media representatives from the conference's 16 schools.

Senior wide receiver Mike Walker, who currently sits at UCF second in Division I-A in receptions, was one of four Golden Knights named to all-conference teams on Tuesday. Walker was named to the third team. Walker caught seven touchdowns in the season finale against UAB on Saturday, giving him the school record for receptions in a season, previously held by Tyson Hilliard, who had 90 in 1990.

Walker had five 100-yard receiving games and finished with 1,278 yards, which was fourth on the school record list. Walker had five touchdowns in the season with 1,178 yards, which was fourth on the school record list.

Other notable first team selections include Houston senior quarterback Kevin Scott, who led the conference and ranked 12th in the nation in passing. He finished the season as the Cougars' all-time leader in passing yards.

Also, Southern Mississippi senior offensive lineman George Berieke and Travis Cockey were joined by true freshman running back Denson Hatche, who broke school and C-USA records for freshman rushing yards with his 1,940 yards.

We are very proud of Zak being named to the all-region team. UCF head coach Bertolino finished the season as the top ranking player in Conference USA and was named to the NSCAA All-Region team.

Zak Berg was named to the NSCAA All-Region third team. With 29 goals and 10 assists, Berg was named to the All-Region third team. With 29 goals and 10 assists, Berg was named to the All-Region third team.

For the men's team, which finished sixth in Conference USA with a 6-9-2 overall record and a 3-2-2 record in conference play, sophomore forward Zak Berg was named to the 2006 National Soccer Coaches Association of America NCAA Division I All-South Region Third Team.

"We are very proud of Zak being named to the all-region team," UCF head coach Brent Erwin said in a press release. "He played very well for us this year and we are excited about his continued development. Zak is a very hard worker and I think we are only seeing the beginning of the type of player he can be."

The native of Vienna, Wisc., led the Golden Knights in scoring with five goals and an assist for a total of 11 points. He also led the team in shots with 29 and had the game-winning tally in overtime over Furman and Memphis, which were ranked No. 7 in the nation at the time.

Berg was one of just two players to start all games this season, along with Ryan Brosihan. He is the first Knight selected to the NSCAA All-Region team since 2000, when defender Brian Malach and midfielder Erik Sveistrup were honored.

"This is the first award for Berg," coach Bertolino said. "This is the first award for Berg. Berg and midfielder Cami Jenkins and defender Kika Almendros, the trio was named to the NSCAA All-Region USA teams in October.

Berg was second team All-Conference USA with Jenkins and Almendros named to the all-conference Freshman team. The women's team, which finished the regular season with a 20-2-2 record, was ranked No. 7 in the nation at the time.

Joe Burnett was the lone Knight from the second team, coming in as a goal scorer and goalkeeper, and junior goalkeeper Pelarigo has been honored by the NCAC. She couldn't hit shots until midway through the second half. The 7-foot Gray, four inches shorter than Georgetown (4-2) in near-homecoming against North Carolina (6-1), had 22 points and a career-high 14 rebounds in leading the Buckeyes to a double-double in the second half and 25 points in winning 71-69 over the Tar Heels. She made all eight 3-point shots of the second half and delivered the Bucket to a big finish with three goals in a weekend series against Texas Tech and Rice, and eight in 10 shots through the first six games and 10 points for the season. She is so dangerous that the Buckeyes have to get both pelarigo and manis back in the goal scoring position to even be considered serious.
Numbingly devoid of suspense and proper lighting, Turistas takes viewers into the exotic jungles of Brazil, only to find nothing they haven't already seen before.

Fictional biopic of an acclaimed photographer is peculiar, useless

WILLIAM GOSS

Whether they like it or not, star Nicole Kidman and director Steven Shainberg have the "flabby" back into "thick" with their fabulously bad movie portrait Diane Arbus: A Photographer's Life.

"You read that right, imaginary," Ann.pk., "we do whatever we want because we can." Shainberg and writer Edna Canada Wilson oscillate between Arbus many into the world of photography, replicating the look of her most famous photographs (Kidman found herself fascinated by the man upstairs, new neighbor Lionel (Robert Downey Jr.). He has hypertrichosis, a genetic condition resulting in excessive body hair; he has sputum-fooled fur for pants.

The heavy-handed farcical paraphernalia only contradicts the more than, as she does overall air of condescension once it becomes clear that a) without Arbus reference it, much mean also could cut the air and b) a conventional Arbus biopic would make for a more interesting character than this, a peculiar movie about peculiar people.

Nevertheless, with a shelf of profuse, Shainberg runs with the imaginary tangent established by that overpowering subtitle and a director's eye for two. Such deliberate throw away pieces leaves Arbus in the dust as he walks away giving him the value of a MacGuffin, in effect introducing a fake final in Arbus simply for the sake of tying things before her family and friends, to the particular decision of husband Alan (Alt) and lioness, Diane. But slanted, interesting as Diane's cryptic transgressions exchanges with Arbus and, his remaining exposed to her of the world of the weird transforms the persona into something passionless, coy, even dull, to the point where fulfilling for art becomes par for the course in the audience.

As weird and empty as the whole experience is, the film doesn't try to keep a straight face. As Diane grows less conservative in her womanly role, Arbus grows increasingly ideal, not due to her detachment from her same life but because of her detachment from a regular person.

Affair is less of an affaire and more of an all-in of an all-in world with Lionel, Bertolucci makes an honest effort, as does her character (upon meeting the new neighbor, Alan begins to grow a beard in response) but it's really all about Downey Jr, who coworkers his more energetic tenor into Arbus can't wake up with a curiously sad demension.

Bill Pope's cinematography takes its patience traditional picturial composition to sufficient effect, but it grows as removed as the characters and environments do by proxy.

Then comes that one make-up freckle moment, the illusion test for viewers being a success in which Dianeenses Latin's entire body. Final lead by Lionel. Shainberg intends for this to come off as some sort of double gem, but an abnormal strain of tenderness doesn't make characters any less photo.

In his defense, he managed to elicit a human dynamic that depicts the central relationship shows in Shainberg's handling, his emphasis reminiscent of a photo dedicated to making sure the whole thing is anything but clear.

Jay-Z returns to hip-hop kingdom

Rapper's lyrics pack punch on latest CD release

JAY-Z **

Alibi: Kingpin Game

Among the fashions, fads and gimmicks that run rampant through Hollywood, a new trend is something in the music world: retirement is just a phase.

At least that appears to be the case for Jay-Z, who grabbed the No. 2 spot last week with Robert Downey Jr.'s top 10 list with the release of Alibi: Kingpin Game.

The new album brings musical material to the table, examining Jay's former drug saga and, the death of his neighbor and his struggle with drugs. Jay has placed high in the hip-hop hierarchy, often referred to himself by a nickname in some of his rhymes. His calls himself by his real name, Jay-Hova, which is a rapped version of the word "Jayzohn.

The new material marks a major creative transition. Fans looking for shallow material like "Big Pimpin'" can get behind his fit role in the retelling of Kingpin Game delivers it's biggest punch when it comes to the lyrics.

"The Prelude" kick-starts the album with a Middle-Eastern, Mobb Deep styled song with piano and synthesizers are among some of the instruments featured that solidity the songs and are not just stuck

Stranded after a bus accident, every record-breaking World Tour of middle age — not just any anybody, Americans, but Brits and Soviets to boot — make their way to a nearby bar that is almost, only to end up destitute and in increasingly less popularity with the locals. As such, one unsettling venue finds itself left deep into the jungle, where a considerable number of Outlandently simple can’t wait to rid the gladiators of their greenish progenitors.

Despite being easily market­ed as a trampoline of terror, Turistas is more survival horror, with more chaos taking place than anything, for a center­piece explicitly depicting the harvesting of above-mentioned organs.

Director John Stowbuck has tapped pretty people in a poten­tially dubious world with Lucas and Gwyneth, but enough to make you believe in the plight of his characters.

What a great idea. Turistas is hands without being hor­rible and definitely has that international vulnerability after September 11 as well, and so is that wasn’t a compliment.

This disposable violence, while not particularly deserv­ing of their fate, are neither sympathetic nor insidious enough to make the viewer care, and of all the people, the vil­lain is the only one given any remote dimension. Still, neither to be his “patience” are all that interesting to begin with, although during one of those ever-so-convenient movies in which he is putting behind the bloated is somewhat more justifiable and moti­vated than in most horror film.

It makes that one particularly awful of CGI stand out all the more.

Regardless, even in the deft­ly executed scenes, there is still little doubt to what happened, who died, and who will be next. Everything about the script by first-time writer Michael Daves is gratefully routine, so even if you can’t actually see some­thing coming, you’re just being Turistas isn’t all that excit­ing, entertaining or fun, no matter which way you slice it.

No Snow showcase showdown

Alternative stations summarize 8 big­time bands to rock their show

This fall...[2002]

Every December, O-Block 2002 showcases a group of rock bands to perform in its "never­been­before" O-­Block party. Past years’ shows have fea­tured three to four bands and were attended by hundreds that held about 1500 people.

This year, O-Block has decid­ed to kick it up a notch.

The 8 Snow Showcase will feature a place of rock and roll.

The show will start at 5 p.m. at O-Block parking lot with an estimated attendance of 1500 people. It is a free event.

The bands playing that night are:

1. Wolf People
2. Clouds
3. The Black Keys
4. The Decemberists
5. The Flaming Lips
6. The Decemberists
7. The Flaming Lips
8. The Decemberists

That was written a long, long time ago" he citrus.

"Our favorite album" Leader: Now it is more realistic; ad­dressing of it, you’re not about boys and girls. It’s about life.

The latest single off that album, “Live a Lot Longer (To Know One)" is proof" The song gives a taste of who we’re be­cause it said “I wrote it written about a personal situation that we felt everyone could relate.

To publish the single, the band’s team thought of a promo­tion on their official Web site (www.wolfpeople.com), appropri­ately titled Post a Lick. That’s a Lick gives people the opportunity to write a complete ditty for the band to post on their Web site to see. Reyes said, The song is about people who wants a little as well as a “very frolicking, brilliant...

If so, I’ll suggest tharing your ears during Buckleberry’s performance of “Crazy Birds.”

Ordinary name for a Thai Place of such quality

Winter Park wonder authentic Thai

The menu offers a variety of curry dishes, including red and yellow, in tryling bowls of spiciness. My favorite is the massaman curry. Fragrant, spiced coconut milk with chunks of chicken and peanut butter simmered in a rich sauce rich with coconut milk and served up with jasmine rice.

The passion is huge and the place is nonetheless.

If you can’t carry any plate, just put another dish on the menu. Try the copy koto, a light fish sald with either mayonnaise or vinaigrette dressing.

Another classic: Thai favorite is the pad Thai depict­ing thin noodles with chick­en and tofu in prominent sauce.

The doshers, if you have them, are also delicious. Five places goes to the fried bananas with coconut ice cream. They are crunchy on the outside, warm on the inside, and the bananas are a perfect match. Fragrant, spiced coconut milk and chunks of banana.

The most notable thing about this restaurant, other than the atmosphere. The Thai cus­ine, is the unbelievable serv­ice.

Drinks never much half empty without being re­filling around them, there are constantly chang­ing, and if you are a local cus­tomer, a complimentary appe­tizer are sure to aid on your order.

The only thing not as new as in their steam­ing bowls is the money.

The only handicap I had for the end of the meal was why the place wouldn’t place an order for take­out. Only one take­out order is clearly written on every menu and the kitchen is not as full as before.

Turistas Place is about a 20­minute drive from Orlando, and is definitely worth it.
