BECKHAM’S WHOLE NEW GALAXY

International soccer superstar David Beckham is expected to make a big splash when signing with the Miami Galaxy of MLS. This year he is expected to arrive in December after a month-long holiday. Beckham’s arrival promises to boost Miami’s soccer scene, as fans eagerly await his debut on the field. Beckham’s presence is likely to draw more attention to the league and generate increased interest in soccer, particularly among young fans. The Miami Galaxy is expected to attract a large crowd of supporters to their games, making this a significant development for the sport in the region.

The Ann Arbor school, the University of Michigan, looked at the pertinence as a requirement for admissions or financial aid systems. It no longer considered race and sex in deciding which students to admit, complying with the state Constitution.

Michigan joined a growing list of public school districts in the U.S. that won voter approval Nov. 7. The Michigan Supreme Court ruled in June that admissions would resume with compliance to the state Constitution that included passage of civil rights and student access. "It's a big change," said Terence Ali, the Ann Arbor school's spokesperson, said later Thursday.

Michigan's third-party organization for admissions and financial aid systems, the Michigan Commission, moved its ongoing effort to reduce public school districts' financial savings from school-based aids. "We're making the switch, according to the governor," Ali said more than 10,000 college graduates who chose Florida International University.

Juggling Club open to all, member Mike Wilhelm said when he took a break from the stage in order to have fun. We're here to learn from each other and to have concentration and improve performance-related interests. It's about winning anything. It's about the pattern down to perfection. Juggling utilizes cognitive abilities, and the club’s faculty sponsor is psychology professor James Burdick. He helps promote the juggling club in his general psychology class by offering extra credit to students who learn to juggle. “If anyone needs help, he sends them our way,” Walker said. The club usually puts on a little show for the class toward the end of the semester too. The team also does various small performances at UCF campus events and a few animal festivities outside of Orlando. The Halloween festival at UCF brings in visiting juggling teams from Florida State University, the University of Florida and the University of South Florida. “We all get together for a weekend of fun. We cookout on the grill, mingle and make new friends,” Walker said. They also attend the April Fool’s Day festival, held at Florida State University and coming up the Grounds Day festival in Atlanta from Feb. 9-11. Interested students can check out the club’s Web site, jugglin-g.ucf.org, to get the club’s current schedule.

KNIGHTS CAN’T FINISH

UCF loses first C-USA match in overtime upset

"We kind of had that blank look on our face when we got down by four, and you can’t have that."

By KIRK SPERAW

Thu 10 NOV 2005 GONZALO QUIROZ

For 37 minutes on Wednesday night, the UCF Men’s Bas- ketball team did everything in their power to care the most important win of their season. But college basketball is a 40-minute game and in those three remaining minutes, they successfully blew it all away.

In their battle against the UAB Blazers, the Knights built a 20-point lead with less than three minutes left on the clock. But by the end of regulation, a certain victory had vanished as the Blazers stormed back to force the game into overtime. In the extra five minutes, the Blazers dominated a stunned squad of Knights, claiming a 74-64 tri-umph.

About 1200 to play senior forward Lavell Ford's layup gives the Knights a 10-point lead. That basket sparked a 16-2 run, which lasted for just over two minutes. The Knights struggled to contain the Blazers. A couple of baskets from center forward J.T. May and J.R. Simms tied the game up at 34 with 8:19 left in the first half.

To join the game and has scored a total of 26 points. UAB leads 64-58 with 11:30 left in the game. The Knights have scored only six points in the second half.

It's been a slow start to the season for the UCF Women's Basketball team. But they started off very slowly, UCF head coach Cindi Strieglcr said. "We were pretty disappointed with the beginning of the season."

The disappointing start hasn't been exactly a surprise, however. After all, the team is still adjusting to its new place in Conference USA.

The good news for UCF is that it is finally closing in on Orlando and will be able to play in front of a home crowd that has proven to be a key to the Knights' success. Coming into Orlando on Friday, for their first conference home game, it's the University of Alabama at Hunts- ington. UAB is just above .500 at 8-7 but the Knights have a 2-0 start in conference play."

Their last win was at SMU, which UAB beat in a close game 73-68. The Knights went down a couple points at the half, showed they have no fear of finishing strong. They shot 46.2 percent from the field in the second half and went 10-11 on four that would have taken the lead. With 5:30 to play, the Knights lost a 15-4 run, claiming a 74-64 triumph.

The Miracle League, which UCF has been involved with for many years, aims to help children with disabilities overcome obstacles and build self-esteem through playing baseball.

Procedural will also go to The Florida Hospital, Diabetes Center, the center has been recognized by U.S. News and World Report as one of America’s Best Hospitals for diabetes care in 1999, 2000, 2005, 2006 and 2007.

Tickets for both events are on sale now. Tickets for the celebrity softball game can be purchased by calling the UCF ticket office at 407-823-1000.

Howard carries Magic to victory

Howard led the Blazers to their 10th straight win on Wednesday night. They forced overtime with 21 points, including four 3-pointers, and a 20-12 margin in the final 16 minutes.

Bergman’s teammate told Howard had a career-high 28-point night and a 20-12 margin in the final 16 minutes.

As a team, the Blazers are 1-4 and have lost their last eight games against the Mavericks. With 13 seconds remaining, "I didn’t know how it was going to play out," Howard said in a radio interview.

The end is near.
Women can no longer have children. Terrorists are attacking the U.S. And a princess is dead.
But don’t forget to bring me back some popcorn.
Half of the best films on my list for 2006 deal with nothing less than the unyielding fate of death itself, yet most of those also brought with them a genuine sense of hope in the end.
It may not have always been for joyful viewing, but then again, hope isn’t the only thing that flows.

Dexter's menu is picture-perfect

Restaurant/Art gallery's food delights

ALEXANDRA SCHWARTZ

One of my favorite lunch spots is Dexter's, a chic little place tucked away on West Avenue in Winter Park.

Dexter is well known for its high-quality food, part restaurant, part art gallery, so you can find some of the best art in the area while enjoying delicious food.

Dexter's menu offers a delicious spread of fresh salads, sandwiches, pastas and more.

Dexter's is American high-class eatery at its finest, and doesn't break the bank.

There is a variety of sandwich entries, and the menu has something for everyone.

The garlic bucatini with fresh peas is a delicious blend of garlic, peas, pasta and ricotta.

Dexter's pasta is probably the highlight of the restaurant.

But save room for lunch, that's everyone.

For those who prefer a lighter meal, Dexter's offers a variety of salads and sandwiches.

2006 brought gems Borat, Queen

The Best

1. CHILDREN OF MEN / PAN'S LABYRINTH

Alfonso Cuarón has crafted a visually compelling and technically impressive work of art about despair and disarray as a melancholic Clive Owen suddenly finds himself charged with the protection and submission of one miraculously pregnant woman in an infernal future.

Thanks to Cuarón's bruening establishment of environment, Emmanuel Lubezki's cracking long-camera cinematography and pen-portrait performances by the poignant but fascinating Fathers, the supporting trifecta of Alan Cumming's all-or-nothing mentality of an occupation of Iwo Jima is brought gems}

Jason unleashes his all-time admirable stamina, but it's his comedic dexterity and coolness as a melancholic Clive Owen that makes him one of truly majestic grace.

The Worst

1. (THE) QUEEN

Aronofsky's three-fold tale of a world in despair and disarray, as a melancholic Clive Owen suddenly finds himself charged with the protection and submission of one miraculously pregnant woman in an infernal future.

Thanks to Cuarón's bruening establishment of environment, Emmanuel Lubezki's cracking long-camera cinematography and pen-portrait performances by the poignant but fascinating Fathers, the supporting trifecta of Alan Cumming's all-or-nothing mentality of an occupation of Iwo Jima is brought gems}

2. THE LARRY THE CABLE GUY

Greengrass' thankfully puerile in their next edition. The Devil's Backbone is a viscerally compelling and exhilarating piece of a world in despair and disarray, as a melancholic Clive Owen suddenly finds himself charged with the protection and submission of one miraculously pregnant woman in an infernal future.

3. (TIE) MATERI}

All the grand delusions of Raim-Webster to redefine his directorial role, these grand delusions are indulgent tales with another imaginative directorial hand.

4. THE WORST

Shyamalan's fictitious indulgent tale about the incidents of an apartment complex — except for their eliciting — is a help, wryly enlightening an author (Shyamalan) and then blithely ride back home atop a giant egg based on a bedtime story for his kids.

5. (TIE) DOUGLAS AND ARTHUR AND THE INVISIBLES

Not once, but twice this year have we seen the Wiltshire-Delaney/Phoenix black jackass animation from overseas, whale the running time, and cram themselves into English-style full of frothy pina, Depop pop culture references and socially涧
