UFC police officer's expert drawing ability makes him one of only 15 sketch artists in the state of Florida

Shifting his legs, he refocused his visualization of the suspect. After pulling a sketchbook off his bookshelf to the left of him, the FBI workbook was full of hundreds of life-like facial features. After flipping through the book for a few minutes, he moved the notebook down to a thinner bridge with a butter tip.

Cpl. Carlos Maxwell with the UCF police sat restlessly in front of his office computer working on his latest sketch profile. Sketching had become a second nature to him. Beginning with the basics, he asked questions like ‘What race or background is he?’ ‘What is his height and weight?’. Maxwell, 42, is one of fifteen sketch artists in the state of Florida. He began drawing in grade school, but really started nurturing his talent in college.

A play about female empowerment issues challenges audiences

RACHEL LOPEZ-MOAZ
Graduating Writer

Editor’s Note: Due to the language used in the play, The Vagina Monologues, this article has language that some readers may find objectionable and that the Future would not normally print. However, the Future decided to include the language in the article to help convey the message of the play intact.

The Vagina Monologues, written by Eve Ensler, was performed last week in the Communications Building. The play consists of “15 monologues that take one into the vagina monologues,” said the program’s producer, Stephanie Colombo. The production is directed by Jenn Miller, machining director of the Student Government’s communications office. Colombo said that the monologues “allow women to speak about their experiences and how…”

The play is about women and the way they view their own bodies. The script was designed to allow women to express their experiences, emotions, and relationships with their bodies.

The audience was very impressed with the performance. They gave a standing ovation after each performance, and many people came back to see the play multiple times.

The play was performed in the Communications Building, and it was open to the public. The audience was a mix of men and women, and everyone seemed to enjoy the performance.

The play was very successful, and it will be performed again in the future. The Future encourages everyone to come and see the play and learn more about the issues that are affecting women today.

Republishable stories can get their degree in 4 years

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz.
Beginning this fall, Northern Arizona University will guarantee freshmen students that they will graduate in four years. Its “Finish in Four” plan promises to give students guidance, advisement help and courses they won’t have to repeat to graduate.

It’s not only creating an energy on campus and finishing, but it’s also, let’s face it, less expensive to finish in four years,” NAU President John Hargreaves said.

NAU currently averages 4.5/2 years to get a degree.

It doesn’t hold if students change major midway through college or drop and then finish some courses.

A few majors, such as engineering, are excluded, because some students need to take pre-college math courses that can extend graduation beyond four years.

Students must sign a contract agreeing to complete at least 33 credits a year and meet with an advisor at least once a year.

Fighting crime one drawing at a time

Maxwell, who attended UCF, has been a police officer at Orange County Sheriff's Office for a month. He studied for a month with Stephen Fusco, the premier Forensic Facial Imaging Professor at UCF, and one of only three full-time forensic artists in the state of Florida. He graduated in May of 1997. The man who was aided is a missing person, identified by a police officer from an undercover operation when he did a sketch of a mugger. Since I went to school, there have been very few lawsuits against the FBI on my phone and I didn't believe it was real until I called the number back, Maxwell said.

As a result of Fusco's side work, Maxwell's birth, he entered into the FBI Forensic Facial Imaging Program at Quantico, Va., where he spent a month with some of the top talent in the field. In addition to studying facial forensic imaging, he also attended skull reconstruction techniques using clay.

"It's truly an awesome experience," Maxwell said.

While at UCF, Maxwell also did research on the current sketch process. He asked questions like, "Does he have a full head of hair?" "Does he have any tattoos, scars or moles?" "What is his face like?" Maxwell said.

"I've always drawn," he said. "I took art classes in high school, but probably everything I do is self-taught." Maxwell said.

Maxwell was admitted to both Florida State University and UCF, made use of his financial aid to help support himself financially through college.

Discovery is the first step

Because she knows that with any error, a minor change can impact another molecule (or a molecule), Bartha said. "Now we must make more brains and validate. We want to make the molecule to do more just something more than just attacking and killing, something it around... make it react with the molecules." She said.

This discovery, and other related projects the team is working on, was funded by the National Science Foundation and the Department of Energy. Together, Rahman and Bartha's funding is approximately $1 million.

"The mission is both research and education, and also getting funding coming first and then research," Rahman said. "So we try to do our best in the department to be bring an excellent researcher and an excellent lecturer, and I think it can be done."

Bartha came to UCF in September from Kansas State where she was a university distinguished professor in physics. Because she is the chair of the department, she isn't required to teach, but she said she was doing some part-time teaching, so she teaches one lower-level physics course.

"By teaching courses that enable you to think about such processes, by training students in those areas, you are basically preparing future scientists who will be able to address this in even bigger ways that we have been able to do so far," Bartha said. "To me, I get a lot of relevance when I talk to students and I'm able to get my ideas across to them, that's why I'm in academia..."

Costas Efthimiou said she is excited because she and her colleagues have funding for their projects for three more years and would like the students to work more closely as well as pick up a number of other related projects. The discovery was published only today, although it is expected to come out in the Science journal in April. The Journal picks out certain "hot items" articles to publish in its Florida Express for an earlier release.

Eagles fly in on winning streak

Men's Basketball to face USM at home

NATHAN CURTIS
Staff Writer

It's all about numbers for the UCF Men's Basketball team, which returns home tonight for a nationally-televised contest against Southern Mississippi.

When the Golden Eagles come to town, it will kick off the final four-game stretch of the regular season for the Gold-and-Knight. Three of those games will be played at the UCF Arena, where UCF is 1-2 this season.

That is the second-best home record in Conference USA, trailing only Memphis. The Knights will be in first place and can clinch the No. 1 seed in the C-USA Championship playoff with either a win on Thursday over Rice or a mandatory loss to Tulane tonight.

With the Knights the prohibitive favorite to win the conference tournament, it is imperative that UCF own either the No. 2 or No. 3 seed by finishing strong.

The No. 4 seed in the conference tournament still earns a first-round bye, and UCF will all but clinch a spot in the top four with a win tonight. The Knights are 6-4 overall, 4-2 in C-USA play, and 6-2 overall, 4-0 in C-USA play, for second, and if they sweep the Golden Eagles they will be at the very least, two games ahead of the fifth place team (either Southern Miss, Tulane or Tulsa).

However, the No. 4 team in the conference tournament would be lined up to play Memphis in the semifinals of the tournament on March 9. The No. 2 or No. 3 seed would not have to play the No. 7 Tigers (23-3 overall, 20-2 C-USA) until the championship game, which will be televised nationally by ESPN.

Women's Basketball prepares to host Marshall

NATHAN CURTIS
Staff Writer

The UCF Women's Basketball team has returned home to finish its regular season with a couple of home games.

First up for the Golden Knights is a non-conference tilt against the Marshall Thundering Herd on Thursday night at the UCF Arena.

Marshall (19-7 overall, 10-3 C-USA) sits three spots behind UCF in the conference standings. UCF (23-3 overall, 17-1 C-USA) has clinched the No. 1 seed in the conference tournament, while the Thundering Herd still need to win the conference just to get back to the NCAA tournament.

The game is special to UCF because it will be televised nationally by CSTV, on tape delay.

"We're excited to have this opportunity to showcase our players against one of the top teams in Conference USA, on our own court," UCF head coach Cale Borlaugh said. "Marshall hasn't done anything spectacular in conference games as far as the statistics are concerned. The Thundering Herd average 64 points a game (second in the conference) and give up 62.6 points a game (also second in the conference).

The one thing that Marshall has done consistently well is rebounding, pulling down 34.5 rebounds a game. The Golden Knights give up 32.5 rebounds a game, so we'll have to execute defensively."

Both teams are 6-1 in the conference this season, with UCF winning the head-to-head matchup, 76-59, in the first game of the season.

UCF 4 | MARYLAND 3

Knights go 1-2 over the weekend with 4-3 victory over Maryland

BRIAN MURPHY
Staff Writer

Something about Sundays brings out the best in the UCF Baseball team.

UCF's pitching and defense straightened up after forgettable outings on Friday and Saturday to defeat Maryland in Sunday's series finale.

Much like their win last Sunday, the Knights (14-5) were forced to come from behind after Maryland (4-2) went up in the second inning. Freshman outfielder Al Caesar hit a single in right field that scored junior designated hitter Chad Davis.

The Knights struck back in the bottom of the inning with one swing from sophomore first baseman Kiko Vazquez. He sent a pitch from ACC Pitcher of the Week Kevin Casario lined a single to right field that brought Biringer over the Durakis.

Maryland (3-5) were forced to come from behind after Maryland put the Terrapins back seven evidence at the plate and I'm just doing a lot better in the lineup to step up and get clutch hits," said batting .393. . . .

Sophomore first baseman Gerry Spessard hit his first home run of his own in the fourth inning.

But, the Knights' pitching staff would hold the Terps to one run over the next five innings.

This gave the UCF offense the time they needed to take control of the game. Junior outfielder Ryan Richardson started the fifth inning with a single to right field. After moving to second on a sacrifice bunt, he scored on a single from sophomore outfielder Ryan Williams.

Our bats later and with Williams on second, junior outfielder Tyson Auer hit a ball over the head of sophomore Dan Berick in right field for a triple that gave the Knights their first lead of the weekend.

Biringer attempted to pick off Auer at third, but his throw evaded past sophomore third baseman Mike Murphy and Jones the left field line. Auer easily scored on the error.

Sophomore first baseman Gerry Spessard put the Terps back in the lead with a solo home run of his own in the fourth inning.

We have still got to execute. Players have to do it," - JAY BERKUMANN, COACH

The UCF Men’s Tennis team improved its overall record to 4-3 and 3-1 at home with a victory over Utah on Sunday morning. The Golden Knights defeated the Utes 5-2 at the UCF Tennis Complex.

The Knights are currently ranked 70th in the nation while Utah is ranked 100th.

Sophomore Brock Saxley and Norman Akamatra defeated Utah’s Amir Moahed and Bjorn Schildhauer 6-4 to record the Knights first win of the day. The win improves the pair’s record to 6-2 on the season.

Alon in doubles competition, sophomores Derek Ben Schlachter and Jimmy Riesch earned the second win of the afternoon for the Knights when they defeated Wex Han- gock and Thuan Allin 6-4 in the No. 3 spot.

UCF continued its dominance into singles play winning four out of six contests against the Utes. Ben Schlachter was victorious against Utah’s Hansbuck, winning 6-4, 6-4.

The second win in singles play was provided by Roachie who defeated Alin 6-4, 6-3 at the No. 6 spot.

The Knights’ next win, which secured them a victory came from freshman Johan Ovariti, 6-4, 6-3, at the No. 5 spot. This was the second win for the Knights against a ranked opponent.

The Knights return to action Thursday when they host VCU’s 7-0 Laser Tag.

Good leads Knights to victory

Sophomore catcher Brian Brooks, freshman Austin Haney and sophomore Justin Bergman said. "We’ve had a very aggressive inning so far," Bergman said. "We’ve had two big wins already." Bergman also added that the team has a lot of confidence going into the game.

Junior pitcher Juston Good earned the win by keeping his team in the game for 3.2 innings, the longest outing from a UCF starting pitcher this season.

Good pitched just 3.2 innings last year and finished with a 7.25 ERA. This summer, Good has worked hard to improve and it showed. Good allowed two runs and six hits in those 3.2 innings. Good is 3-0 on the season.

Just getting out there is a lot of times and getting a lot of innings really helped me out," Good said. "I just kept it on through the fall and now into the spring.

The combination of senior Brian Brooks, freshman Austin Haney and sophomore Justin Bergman secured a win for the Knights against a ranked opponent.

No matter what you say, I'm still a nerd

I was the lonely, quirky, authentic, and true to myself individual in the band of acquaintances who occupied cubicles with me. I was the only one who enjoyed spending time alone, memorizing or reciting scenes from movies or TV shows. When adolescence came along, I continued to be the same, with a label of dork, freak, or weirdo.

As I got older, my inner-turkey-red-ochreish-reclined in its attention to political and global issues. I chose to impose friends with fun facts about the French Revolution and the Cold War, but my peers would look at me with disbelief, as if I were some kind of townie or country boy.

My name was Harry Potter and the gang. In the massive conference hall dedicated to the annual convention, I stood to the booth to booth, took notes, and asked questions. I was a dork, and I was proud of it. I was tired of people trying to make me believe in the idea that I am a "dork maximus" in my own right.
