Gov. could veto $500 'backdoor' fee

RACHEL HATZ Passive Aggressive

A Florida House committee approved a bill that could make a $500-per-semester fee not covered by the Bright Futures Scholarships or the Prepaid College Program a reality for students across the state.

A different version of the bill has passed through a committee in the Florida Senate, however, the bill has a long way to go before reaching the governor's desk. The bill must pass through a second House committee, next pass House and Senate votes, be reconciled and voted on again by both houses before reaching Gov. Charlie Crist's desk. The fee, called the Academic Enhancement Program, would fund an additional faculty and amenities. The proposed program will first be tried out as a pilot program at the University of Florida, continuing the university's efforts to make UF Florida's flagship university, but it could eventually be extended to other schools — including UCF.

"We've been operating against it," Mark Willey, UCF's student body president, said. "I would create a forum system within the public, universities. Why is one school going to have its own set of rules?"

The program was approved by the Florida Board of Governors for UF in November. Just last week, the Florida Senate Higher Education committee approved the bill with a 9-2 vote. The House and Senate will attempt to reach a consensus over the plan before they present the bill to the Governor. "I like the 500 bucks, and I think the bill ought to be able to ponder what their futures may be," Willey said.

UCF's women's studies program proposes to implement the Women's Leaders Program, which will pair female college students with seventh-grade girls to provide leadership training and inspire the girls to attend college.

"We want to start this program to reach out to college and help students be free of confusion," said Lila Logan, director of the women's studies program. "They will meet sixth-grade girls, and the program aims to help build the future of our community by teaching them about autonomy, leadership and inspiration to the girls.

More than 20 UCF students have already been paired with "bigger sister" for 2007, and it will be chosen by April 9. Women's studies students will be able to fulfill their service-learning requirement through this program.

Every women's studies course requires 10 hours of service-learning that must be completed, through community service. Students must then present a final project about their work.

Shoreham denied cocaine charge after transferring to UCF

DEERFIELD BEACH — A Broward Sheriff's deputy took cocaine and prescription pill packets from what he thought was an abandoned car, then used the cocaine, while on duty, authorities said.

An investigation into Deputy J.L. 41, began after a confidential informant told the Sheriff's Office in February that Deputy had been buying and using cocaine, according to an arrest report.

Detectives staged an abandoned vehicle at a shop. They ran 4 grams of cocaine and six oxycodone pills to a car and ran a surveillance unit across the street. Deputy was dispatched to investigate the car.

According to the report, Deputy took the drugs and left without reporting them. Detectives later confronted Deputy and he admitted using some of the cocaine after leaving the disemboweled car.

Detectives found no evidence Deputy had used any thing else illegal.

Deputy was arrested on Tuesday on charges of possessing cocaine and oxycodone. He was also suspended without pay. Deputy is free on a $10,000 bond.

CLASSIC ROCK BANDS

Vintage T-shirts honor rock legends

JESSE LEIDEMAN

At Jimi Hendrix stepped on stage at the Woodstock Music and Arts Festival in 1969, Brit he knew that college students in the 20th century would not only be his music, but paying homage in another way — T-shirts.

Students at UCF are showing off vintage classic-rock memorabilia. A simple stroll through the Student Union shows a glance at the collection and bands of yesteryear continue to have a profound impact on today's youth.

"I think it's not only the grand music, but also the personal- lities involved with the music," sophomore Samantha Hellg said. "They were individ- ualists in a era of huge politi- cal and social tensions who tried to make the world a bet- ter place."

With groups and musicians such as The Beatles, Led Zeppelin, Pink Floyd, Bob Marley and Jimi Hendrix all but gone, it's a testament to the power their music has in continuing to impact generations that were not alive to see them in concert.

"I think it's impressive that you see so many people expressing their love for that era of music," Hellg said. "I think it will continue to be an end of the ultimate era of music."

As the popularity of classic rock increases, more stores are stocking such bands' merchandise. From T- shirts and Tanger and Jimi Hendrix can find a whole section of classic rock memorabilia.

Target employees and junior law students at the plaza the music- al popularity of vintage T- shirts-based.

We have a whole sec- tion and we tend to replenish it on a weekly basis to try up with the demands. It's obviously the interest is still very high for vintage pop culture," Allen said.

Although students are wearing their enthusiasm, some are voicing their dis- gust for people who wear the shirts but know nothing of the band's music or history.

A quick inquiry with a stu- dent wearing a vintage Led Zeppelin T-shirt made it obvious that the student possessed no knowledge of the band was minimal at best.

"Well, wasn't Led Zeppelin a good band?" junior Janice Elphick asked.

Said student Miles Sap Ken and Tim Roper agree that it's quite a nuisance when stu- dents wear the clothing with- out knowing the music.

"I wear band shirts of bands I love because it's a way of pro- moting and showing a passi- onate interest in music," Roper said. "I think it's dumb and annoying when people wear T- shirts of bands they don't even know because it's a fake inter- est."

Roper believes people are just following the latest fashion trend.

"I wear the shirts because I love the band. Being a fan is the only reason I would wear the UCDS I love, and I would look cool, but that is beyond a trend," Roper said.

Although the number of band- shirts may sift, others remain. Some are voicing their dis- gust for people who wear the shirts if they don't admire the music. For Jonathan Meyers, an elementary education major and aspiring musician, wearing vintage T-shirts holds a deeper meaning.

"The reason why I started playing guitar and wanted to write music is because of [classic-rock] music is because of the interest is still very high, but I just don't want to wear them anymore. It's a big reason behind it."

Another aspect of music that has driven students to the classic-rock era is dis- tinct for the perceived com- mercialized music.

Freshman Mike O'Connor feels the lack of musical artistry and cor- porate feel of today's music could be an impact to this re- veneration.

"I enjoy wearing those T- shirts because I am expressing a part of myself," O'Connor said. "Also, much of today's music is lacking elements that era of music gave up."

Students can check outside the Student Union where various shades frequently showcase vintage merchandise, including CD's, POP's, T-shirts, posters and stickers of classic bands.

Poll found 59% of UF students approve of fee

The UCF student newspaper, the Florida Times-Union, published an article discussing student approval of a proposed fee for the University of Florida. The article, titled "Poll found 59% of UF students approve of fee," highlights the results of a poll conducted by the newspaper's student government, which found that 59% of UF students approved of a proposed fee.

The article mentions the fee is to be used to fund various programs and initiatives on campus, including an increase in financial aid and support for student groups. The article also notes that the approval rate is higher among students who have benefited from the fee, suggesting that those who have seen the direct impact are more likely to support it.

The article concludes by discussing the implications of the poll results, noting that the fee is expected to be approved by the UF Board of Trustees in the coming weeks. The article suggests that the high approval rate could provide a strong basis for the fee's continued support and implementation.

The article provides a comprehensive overview of the proposed fee, its purpose, and the reaction of UF students to it. It highlights the importance of student input in making decisions that affect their education and provides insight into the decision-making process at UF.

Mentor program encourages support among women, girls

An article in the Florida Times-Union discusses a mentor program that encourages support among women and girls. The article highlights the success of the program in fostering self-esteem, body image, and mentorship among female students at UF.

The article mentions the Florida Student Association's Women's Student Society began a mentor program that encourages support among women around them, build a support system that will help them to explore, learn and create a better future for the girls of Florida. The program helps girls to understand and develop new opportunities for them to make today that will impact the girls of the future.

The article notes that the program is effective in helping students to develop self-esteem, body image, and mentorship skills. It also highlights the success of the program in helping students to identify and pursue their goals.

The article concludes by discussing the benefits of the mentor program and its importance in promoting self-esteem and body image among female students. It suggests that the program is a valuable resource for supporting and empowering female students on campus.

The article provides valuable insights into the mentor program and its impact on female students at UF. It highlights the success of the program in promoting self-esteem, body image, and mentorship skills and discusses the benefits of the program for female students on campus.

Kids learn to make healthy choices

Sandra Turner, manager of wellness services at Leesburg Regional Medical Center, came up with the idea for the program when one of her patients was looking for help for her obese son. At first, she put together a program at the Lakefront Wellness Center. When it did not work out, Turner joined Happyville, Mike Relate, sports and fitness coordinator at UCF South Lake, and Jim Hill, food service supervisor for Lake County Schools, to develop a program adapted to Lake County schools.

Schwartz, who was interested in Turner and focusing on youth obesity, was originally asked to help. Eventually, Turner gave Schwartz the task of developing the entire program. According to Schwartz, the program is based on another program called the TUFF Kids Club.

"My hope was that we could get the message to the kids that you can eat healthy and it tastes good, and you can still exercise and be fit without necessarily having to be an athlete," Turner said, finding the program to be extremely successful.

Schwartz agreed. "I think the most meaningful part of it is that the kids could be picky eaters and like junk food. If they learned and continue to learn about the right choices, that's success."

Currently, TUFF Kids is planning to continue the program through the summer and the next school year. The group is also hoping to expand to other schools in Lake County.

While Schwartz is unsure if she will be able to continue with TUFF Kids, she does hope to continue to do programs like it in the future.

KIME SETS NEW RECORD IN WIN

UCF wins first game of doubleheader on Kime’s 18 strikeouts

MELISSA HEYBOER

Allison Kime recorded one of the best pitching performances of her career and UCF softball history in the Golden Knights’ 13-3 win over the Florida State Seminoles Wednesday in the first game of a doubleheader.

Kime shut down the Florida State (25-5) offense pitching 2-2 innings, allowing just five hits and striking out six Seminoles — a new UCF single-game record.

The Knights’ 3-3 win, however, could not complete the two-game sweep, dropping game two to their opponents 8-3.

Game one for both teams was all about the pitching, as each team was held scoreless for eleven innings.

The first and only run of the game came in the top half of the 11th inning, as UCF would end the game with a 1-0 victory.

Allison Kime would reach second after a lead-off single and a sacrifice bunt from Ashley Cole. The bases would be loaded on the next two batters, after Lindsey Dean was walked a walk and Megan Murphy reached base on an error by the FSU third baseman.

On the next play, Barrow would reach on a Katie Barrow sacrifice fly in the seventh inning.
Both teams hit 10 runners on base, and had opportunities easily on the road, but neither team could score with a timely hit.

Leading the UCF offense were Barrow and Brunet with each posting two hits.
The win for Kime improved UCF's record to 16-13.

Despite putting a run on the board early in game two, the Knights were held to a single hit, and had opportunities to score, but couldn't come through with a timely hit.

The Knights are now 16-13.

Amber Lamb would rip an RBI double in the bottom half of the fifth inning thanks to center fielder Taylor Snapp, but UCF's lead only lasted a half inning thanks to a bases-loaded walk and an error on the next play, Barrow's first hit.
The Knights tacked on one more run in the bottom half of the fifth inning thanks to a sacrifice fly by Kime, who had driven in two runs with an RBI single in game one.

Saturday at 6 p.m. at Hard Rock Live, was so great, a second show was added for that show.

"I was excited that we added a second show in Orlando," Gaffigan said.

"I've never had a problem with selling tickets. People want to see stand-up comedy," he said.

"But the show wasn't just about selling tickets. It was about having fun with the audience. I've always enjoyed that aspect of performing."
Graphic tees can have funny sayings or logos and are a spring must-have.

Byrne says that wearing a graphic tee because he's Irish. "It makes people think it's very funny, and it actually works when your T-shirt is cool and comfortable." Byrne bought it for about $15, bought her graphic tee because the shamrock and green because her professors and other students say that they can't help looking at her shirt.

"Stylist Chamberlain, a 22-year-old sociology major, wears his Irish-themed graphic tee that says "Stumble Inn." He said he bought it because he was so cheap.

Byrne said he bought it because the shamrock and green color caught his eye because he is Irish.

Stacey Chamberlain, a 20-year-old graphic designer major, bought his graphic tee because it has a picture of a nude jog­ger on the front and the message "Streakers Club" on the back from American Eagle, where he works. He said he decided to buy the shirt because it was so funny, and it actually works. He said he pairs it with mostly jeans and corduroys.

"Stop Staring" column, Stacey Chamberlain, a 22-year-old political manager, said he gets advice from American Eagle about what to wear. "It has a naked guy on it, and in my mind, they are always good to change of pace from the above," Byrne said.

Danny Costello said he gets his inspiration for the past few years, but this year-old senior majoring in communica­tion disorders, bought his graphic tee from Target. He said he decided to buy the tee because he's mostly jeans and corduroys.

"Many college students have a 22-year-old political manager, said he bought his graphic tee that says "Stumble Inn." He said he decided to buy the shirt because it was so cheap.

"When asked where he gets his style advice from, he said the "B. La Mode" column, as well as mannequins in retail stores. Stacy Chamberlai, a 22-year-old sociology major, bought his graphic tee that says "Stop looking at my shirt!" from Target for about $10.

Essential Opportunity

Bright Horizons’ (Bright) is a leading provider of high-quality early education and family solutions. For over 20 years, the company has worked closely with parents to help them create the best possible environment for their children by offering a range of services and programs that meet the individual needs of each family. As a Bright Horizons teacher or staff member, you will have the opportunity to make a meaningful difference in the lives of children and their families. In this role, you will be responsible for providing a safe, nurturing, and engaging learning environment that promotes the social, emotional, and cognitive growth of children.

Responsibilities:

- Plan and implement developmentally appropriate lessons that are age-appropriate and promote children’s learning.
- Foster a positive and inclusive classroom environment that encourages social and emotional development.
- Collaborate with parents and other team members to support children’s growth and development.
- Maintain accurate and comprehensive records of children’s progress and communicate with parents regularly.

Requirements:

- Bachelor’s degree in early childhood education or a related field.
- Minimum of 2 years of teaching experience in a similar setting.
- Strong communication and interpersonal skills.
- Excellent organizational and time management skills.
- Ability to work effectively as part of a team.

Benefits:

- Competitive salary and comprehensive benefits package.
- Professional development opportunities.
- Opportunities for advancement.

If you are passionate about early childhood education and want to make a difference in the lives of children, we encourage you to apply for this exciting opportunity. Please submit your resume and a cover letter outlining your qualifications and why you would be a great fit for this role. We appreciate your interest and look forward to hearing from you soon.
