Fresh off The Starting Line

Musicians rock at CAB concert

TIVER GLEISER

Students rocked and pooled to pop-band The Starting Line as they unveiled new material from their band's third LP, tentatively titled Directions, in a performance at the UCF Arena last Thursday night.

Starting Line headlined CAB’s Spring Concert event, which took place as part of Greek Week. The event was free to all UCF students, faculty and staff.

The night’s performance was the Pennsylvania quartet’s first show since they finished their new album.

Starting Line’s sophomore album, Based on a True Story, released on Geffen Records in 2005, debuted on the Billboard 200 chart at No. 12, selling 40,000 copies in its first week.

Since the success of Based on a True Story, the band switched labels from EMI to Geffen and Virgin Records.

The band members enthusiastically talked about the transition and growth of their music and how the composition of the record reflects the band’s personal experiences.

“Most people, white front and backside,” Ken Vint, “The lyrics and content on the new album are our story and our view of the world...the album’s creativity was not born on plastic tour buses or in endless motel rooms, but in cramped spaces and on isolated beaches. Music is a simulation of rock stars, which makes it hard to climb a tree in a conventional environment.”

When we were recording, we had a kid and it was helpful,” guitarist Matt Watts said. “We found it on our own.”

While the group may not have experienced the most favorable living conditions while recording, they were able to secure jam sessions with producer Shawn Lebron, who has worked with such acts as My Chemical Romance and The Used.

Working with [Dwason] was the best of all the bands,” guitarist Mike Gillis said. “I think we can all collectively agree it was an amazing experience.”

Starting Line has been a part of the Weezer Tour and last year participated in The Nintendo Pong Tour with Fall Out Boy and Panic! at the Disco. The tour visited nearly 200 cities.

“We got to the Arena around 5:30,” said Miko, 21, a buddy major. “The Starting Line has really well-known, so I thought there would be more than a few people. I don’t think a lot of people know about it.”

Throughout the performance, the band’s intensity and stage presence kept the crowd on its feet.

Ensuring the band’s face as he belted out lyrics from their second album, "The Ledge," the crowd’s tone of a tale of a tale of the band's new material.

At 8 p.m. the stage, grabbing their heads and chanting choosenes from the Starting Line’s second album, "The Ledge."

Now that we recorded a new record, I guess all the songs we are going to be called out,” Vint said to the crowd as they opened track from "Directions."

Since the release of Based on a True Story, the band members have been on the road for nearly a year and a half.

Several songs from the album, "The Ledge," will be featured on the second album, "The Ledge."

The concert ended with the song, "We Got It," which featured the band’s famous bass player, Matt Watts.

Qualified students will receive a free ticket.

If you are interested in participating in the event, please call the Student Center at (407) 823-6471.

ASSOCIATED PRESS - A Gainesville woman was killed when a wheel broke off from a semi-trailer and hit the windshield of the car she was riding in, the Florida Highway Patrol reported.

Valeria Herrera, 30, died at the scene early Monday morning on Interstate 75, just south of Ocala. Herrera was riding in a northbound car driven by her mother, Marlene Salazar, 55, of Gainesville.

The truck was heading south when a front right wheel broke off and crossed the median into the northbound lane, FHP reported. One of the wheels collided with the windshield of Salazar's car, killing Herrera.

FHP was still searching for the driver late Monday night.

Salazar was reported to have minor injuries. Herrera's two children, Emily Herrera, 3, and Mike Thomas said that the driver later stopped at a Petro Truck Stop to make repairs to the trailer before leaving the scene.

Witnesses reported that the vehicle did not stop at the Petro stop and might have been unaware of the accident.

Walking to aid their loved ones

The Parkinsoins, left, enjoy walking competition at Relay for Life event Friday night, starting at 18-hour fundraiser pulled in more than $150,000 for cancer research.

From A1.

Meuller said that the event was a testament to the spirit of the UCF community.

"It was great to see so many people come out to support those who were affected by cancer and the American Cancer Society," Mueller said. "It shows the great sense of community we have at UCF."

Teams set up booths on the field, and for a small donation, people could buy smoothies and other types of snacks, play corn hole or jump in a bounce house.

"The bounce house was very fun, and the self-washing contest was easy," Burnet said.

This was Burnett's first time at Relay for Life, but she said that it would not be her last. "I enjoyed the entire evening," she said. "I brought my husband and sister in to have some fun as well."

Burnett and Mueller involved because they both have family members who have beat cancer or are fighting it now, but some students got involved to support friends.

"Some of my friends are out here walking for family members, so I'm here to support them," senior, elementary education major Rubly Smith said.

The American Cancer Society has invested around $3 billion in cancer research since 1996. In the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 2006, the society spent $605 million, 70 percent of the budget, on programs that include research, patient support and education/transportation.

In the U.S. in 2006, there were an estimated 1.4 million new cancer cases and nearly 580,000 of those cases came from people who were diagnosed with common types of new cancer cases to the ones were premature cancer with around 18,090 cases, lung cancer with 13,280 cases and breast cancer with 13,280.

"Cancer touches many people, including my grand-parents who have had several types of cancer," Mueller said. "It is important that people have the opportunity to help in any way they can, either morally or through volunteerism. Relay for Life provides that venue. It also shows those affected by cancer have the support of the community."

EU could take a bite out of iTunes

CONSTANT BRAND.

BRUSSELS, Belgium — The European Commission announced Tuesday it had opened an antitrust probe into Apple’s iTunes store and the way it sells music online to record labels with major music companies.

The commission alleged distribution agreements Apple has signed with the labels to sell their music on the iTunes store online means in EU countries “constrain territorial sales restrictions which violate” EU competition rules.

People can only download singles or albums from the iTunes store in their country of residence, the commission said.

“Consumers are thus restricted in their choice of where to buy music and consequently what music is available, and at what price,” it said in a statement. “For example, in order to buy a music download from the Danish/Belgian online store a consumer must use a credit card issued by a bank with an address in Belgium.”

Apple spokesman Lewis Dowding said Monday the company wanted to operate a single store for all of Europe, but music labels and publishers had said there were limits to the legal deals that could be offered to Apple.

“We don’t believe Apple did anything to violate EU law,” he said. “We will continue to work with the EU to resolve this issue.”

The cost of buying a single song across the 27 member states varies among the available iTunes music stores. For example, downloading a single in Britain costs £0.99, Denmark: kr14.44, while in countries using the euro such as Germany and Belgium, a single costs €1.20.

The statement of objections EU regulators sent to Apple does not allude to the Cupertino, Calif.-based company’s deal with the record labels, especially EMI, however.

Apple has two months to answer questions issued in the letter, the commission said. If found guilty of violating EU competition rules, Apple could face hefty fines, which in theory could total up to 10 percent of the company’s worldwide annual turnover.

The EU investigation comes amid moves by European consumer rights groups in Germany, France, the Netherlands and Nordic countries for Apple to change the rules it imposes on its online music store customers.

The groups are demanding Apple lift limits preventing consumers from playing their downloads on digital players other than Apple’s iPod. In January, Norway, which is not a member of the EU, declared those limits illegal and gave Apple until Oct. 1 to change compatibility rules or face legal action and possible fines.

The EU investigation does not deal with those consumer concerns, however.

Apple has said it will allow iTunes to play songs on other than Apple’s iPods, but those labels have record labels moved to change those rules.

Apple and EMI announced Tuesday on Monday that would allow EMI’s music to be sold on iTunes stores and piracy software that limits use on some players. The move is expected to be watched—and likely followed—by other record labels.

Softball takes two of three
Knights get 5-0 win over Marshall Sunday

MELISSA HEYBOWER

The UCF Softball team moved into a tie for third place in the Sun Belt Conference USA on Sunday after a 5-0 win over the Marshall Thundering Herd, the final game of the three-game series.

Allie Kime was the winner on the mound, earning her 17th win of the season. Kime pitched a complete-game shutout, allowing just two hits while striking out seven.

The Golden Knights jumped on Marshall pitcher Caitlyn Jackson early, grabbing a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning. The Knights were eager to get to Jackson early, after being held scoreless in the second game of Saturday's doubleheader in which Jackson got the 7-0 win over UCF.

In Sunday's game, Jackson lasted just three innings, allowing three runs on five hits.

In the first, Allie Alvarez reached first base on Jackson's choice and advanced to second on a sacrifice bunt from Amber Lamb. The next batter, Kime, hit an RBI single to score Alvarez from second.

The Golden Knights ended the series on a high note, taking two of three from the Thundering Herd, finishing the series with a three-day total of 11-over-par 227, while Florida Southern and Bethune-Cookman.

Several players were named to the all-tournament team, including Kime, Jackson, and earning all-tournament honors.

The Knights return to action April 7-9 with a three-game series at Florida Atlantic University.

FOOTBALL FEVER

fter the second full week of practice for the UCF Football team, there is still much work to be done.

"I think the team is coming along good," quarterback Kyle Israel said. "It's a totally new defense ... and from an offensive point of view, we're getting there."

The team has been showing the enthusiasm and intensity that coach George O'Leary has been looking for from his players.

Much of that can be attributed to the defensive side of the ball to new defensive coordinator John Skladany. His first attitude on the field has a new feel within the players.

"Defensive football has to feed off emotion and intensity," Skladany said.

With the constant pressure from the defense, at times the offense has looked dazed and confused during plays. For the offense to gain ground on the defense, it needs to execute plays perfectly repeatedly.

Offense:
The theme so far for the offense has been inconsistency. At times the squad will look All-American, throwing the ball up and down the field. But at other times, they can't seem to put a string of three plays together.

One of the key factors in the inconsistency of the offense so far has been the lack of a running game.

"I think our running game needs to improve," Israel said.

Without starting running back Kevin Smith in the spring, the bulk of the running has gone to Phillip Smith. Phillip Smith has been unable to find holes within the line to break long runs and also has had troubles finding room in short yardage situations. Another point of emphasis the Golden Knights have to improve on is the coaching, which is important."

My tribulations with UCP Parking Services during my past four years have not been easy. I have been unable to find a parking spot outside Visial Park, a common dilemma for many students.
