UC President John Hitt announced Wednesday that UCF won’t be allowing any new endowment increases for the fiscal year 2007-2008.

Hitt made the announcement after the Florida Board of Governors decided on Monday to reduce fundraising from the fiscal year 2007 and 2008 annual board meeting at a meeting Tuesday.

The raise in tuition would cause a tuition freeze for both undergraduate and graduate students.

The Board of Governors on Thursday decided to join a lawsuit challenging the legality of a recently enacted state law.

And to make it official, the Board of Governors adopted a new policy Monday that states if state-wide budget cuts exceed 3 percent, the Board of Governors would sue the governor.

“Perhaps they might have been able to proceed, but this makes it more that it wasn’t last year to today,” Sweet said. “Just as significantly it gives the board more credibility, and so several others.”

Three applicants to the Florida A&M Board of Trustees were selected last week for recommendation to the Florida Board of Governors.

The Trustee Nominating Committee, comprised of members of the Board, identified four candidates after reviewing the Board of Trustees positions on the Florida Board of Trustees.

Newly appointed FAMU President James Ammons was present at the meeting. He and members of the Board of Trustees provided financial experienced individuals for the nature of the university’s recent problems and the absence of financial specialists on the Board of Trustees.

The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools placed FAMU on a six-month probation in June, and the university is at risk of losing its accreditation when national accreditation officials visit the school in September.

The day after the Board of Governors meeting, Ammons announced a 100-day plan for fixing the university’s financial problems.

“We’ve been advised in three years to five years,” Ammons told the Board of Governors that faced the Board on Tuesday.

Based on what I’ve been told, I think that we’ve got to really face the reality of the situation with a novel approach,” Ammons said.

He added that the Board of Trustees had prepared him for the responsibilities that come with the job.

“I’m qualified to serve on boards of some of the largest companies in the university,” Ammons said at the meeting. “We’re playing that is important to the Board of Governors in making board.”

TALES OF TERROR

BOSTON GLOBE

On Friday the 13th, it's all about being nervous.

It's not so coincidental then that UCF chose this information-packed 2007 theme, "Tales of Terror," for this year's Homecoming parade.

Executive director Marc Berkins said it's a college tradition for the parade to be bigger than the previous year, and this year is no exception.

"It's a part of the fun," Berkins said.

This year's theme is different than previous ones, and another Homecoming week will reflect it.

One of the main groups moving in is Carnival Knight. As part of the recent importantes, Carnival Knight was one of the first units to move in.

"We want to get more members of the community involved," Berkins said.

Ceremony Knights, Sky Knight and Concert Knight will all take place in the path-to-be-completed Convocation Center.

"The whole event is a celebration of our students," Berkins said.

An Alabama woman died Thursday after she fell 5 feet from an apartment balcony, according to the Orange County Sheriff’s Office.

Jessica Ashley Hawkins, 20, asked two friends to take her to the hospital after she struck the ground headfirst, according to the report. Hawkins was taken on the balcony kneeling on a chair and the officer said the guardrail, according to the report. Hawkins then attempted a handstand from the balcony and fell headfirst, according to the same report.

The accident happened at 4405 Summitwalk Boulevard at University Walk Apartments.

Hawkins lost consciousness on the way to the hospital. She was taken to Park Hospital and transferred to the Orlando Regional Medical Center and died at 1:55 p.m., according to the report.

“This is really a tragedy,” sheriff’s spokesman Jim Solomons said. Both of the young lady’s friends were very, very heartbroken. Hawkins was a former UCF student who began her boyfriend when she fell, colorectal cancer on her lap.

Solomons said the discussions are still underway. "There was a fair amount of activity," sheriff's deputy told the Orlando Sentinel. "A very, very tragic incident."

"I am very satisfied with the outcome of the case," said Wright's attorney, attorney John Welty. "It's a great day for women's sports and for fair treatment of women in sports.

"The settlement is a victory for all women who have been discriminated against in sports. It sends a clear message that discrimination is unacceptable and will not be tolerated.

"This was a long and difficult battle, but we are happy with the outcome. We hope this will be a catalyst for change in the way women's sports are run."

with a master's degree in business administration. He is currently the vice president, chief financial officer and co-founder of Urban Visions, a division of Limited Brands, based in Columbus, Ohio. Darrell also helped FAMU solve its payroll and accounting problems when he served as the Ford Motor Co. vice president for operations.

"I'm a big advocate of college students being prepared and appropriate of course, for historically black colleges," said Darrell. "It's something that I was passionate about. I've been dedicated a lot of what I do outside of work to helping young people."

Despite Whitman's terms will end in 2010, and Brown's term ends in 2011, Whitman’s term length for FAMU Board of Trustees members is six years, the two applicants will be picked for the longest terms.

By selecting the candidates with the strongest financial backgrounds, the Board of Trustees and Ammons both stress the importance of providing stability back to FAMU.

"We have strong people on the [FAMU] Board of Trustees who will make sure the university is in good hands," said Graves, a nominating committee member. "There have been a number of problems at Florida A&M, but it's a great university, and it can be an even greater university.

Since 2004, the university has been weakened with problems regarding fiscal aid and financing.

When, in 2004, former FAMU President Fred Gilkeson acknowledged the financial problems experienced by the institution, the introduction of Cassidi Bryant as interim president of the university was seen as a huge step in the right direction.

In a manner of speaking, Bryant faced a number of university employees and students who were picked for the longer terms.

In 2007, however, the FAMU task force was formed again in order to look into opening and closing the period for FAMU. It was revealed that the school had millions of dollars in assets that were unaccounted for and employees and students had not been paid.

A report was signed on May 31, and the investigation was to be completed at that time. Ammons and the Board were to be updated on the FAMU.

Ammons and the Board are confident that the board members will work together to get FAMU to a better place in the future.

"We are very pleased to have these three individuals on our Board," said Andrews, a board member. "We have a lot of knowledge and experience to bring to the university. We are confident that the three individuals will help us move the university forward."

Possible loss of faculty a concern

By A6

As the Board of Governors met Thursday afternoon, a lawsuit was filed against the university, marking the first time such an action has been taken. The suit, filed by Charles Penn, alleges that the university failed to provide adequate due process to the plaintiffs.

The lawsuit seeks to stop the university from distributing raises to faculty members who have been accused of misconduct. The plaintiffs are members of the Florida Board of Regents, which oversees the university system.

"We are seeking a temporary restraining order to prevent the university from distributing raises to faculty members who have been accused of misconduct," said Penn. "We believe that the university is violating the due process rights of these faculty members by distributing raises to them before the accusations have been investigated and resolved."
enrolled into universities without the subsequent funds from the state are considered unfunded students. There are currently more than 3,600 unfunded students in Florida’s 13 public universities. Although some federal funds will not be excepted for a period of two years, the university system will be just a small percentage.

There is just no getting around the fact that the university system is not well funded,” said Aubrey Jones, the assistant chair of the political science department. “I think [Crist] kind of came to recognize that when he did approve the differential tuition.

It was just common sense that he approved the differential tuition... yet vetoed the differential tuition.

The Board of Governors also called for a statewide freeze. President Hitt also told UCF departments to prepare for a budget cut of a minimum of 4 percent. He has left it to the discretion of the division heads where to cut the money but strongly encourages that they “eliminate unnecessary travel and maintain discretionary expenditures, and in order to help with the overall university budget, be very mindful of energy consumption.”

The Orlando Magic acquired forward Rashard Lewis from the Seattle SuperSonics in a sign-and-trade deal for a first round pick on Wednesday. The Magic announced a new deal for free agency center Dwight Howard.

In a draft they whispered could be for either deal, but it is believed that the Magic's first round deal is for five years and in the neighborhood of five figures. Orlando's deal is also reportedly worth as much as $35 million over six years.

Magic General Manager Otis Smith said he felt good about the move and called Howard the "cornerstone" of the franchise.

"Having him in the middle, playing Rashard on the wing, and you still have [Hedo] Turkoglu and Jameer Nelson, [these things are a seamless fit]," Smith said.

Sports Network coach Vin Gandi was also excited about the move.

"When you have a guy like Rashard Lewis, who can play multiple positions, it allows you to play a lot of different combinations and adapt to almost any situation that comes up in the game," Gandi said.

But as the Magic welcomed its new star, Howard for the long haul, the team also had Gilbert Arenas and Grant Hill and Darrick Milloy, both of whom could provide points with Phoenix and Memphis, respectively.

"They are good players," Smith said. "I wish they were still with the team, but I understand the business. I think Stan [Van Gundy] hired me as general manager to make us a better team."

Howard was named to the 2007-07 All-NBA Third Team and is the fourth player in Magic history - along with Alonzo Mourning, Hedo Turkoglu and Jameer Nelson - to make the All-NBA list.

UCF to host 10 games at UCF Soccer Complex

UCF has received the rights to host 10 regular-season matches at its new 11,000-seat Pickett training center.

Besides national success, the Knights will also have the opportunity to host several mid-major opponents in the new stadium, which is located just off of Crain's Row.

"The top squads in the nation. The event is one of the top invitational tournaments in the country and annually features many of the top teams in the nation," said Tribble.

Cromwell excited for future of UCF soccer

This is the year the UCF soccer program has reached the top. The Knights will play against some of the best in the country in the fall season, ending their season with a trip to the NCAA Tournament.

Cromwell and the UCF women's soccer team have made significant strides in recent years, reaching the NCAA Tournament last season and advancing to the second round.

"The excitement our team has experienced, on and off the field, is proof that UCF is a place the elite athletes want to come," said Tribble.

"The top teams are seeing us," Tribble added. "I think we can continue to improve and get better every year."

After five years of keeping its feet in both the Legislature and the courts, the Board of Governors finally decided that the side it needed to win in that regards lawsuit was all the students in one of its universities.

The lawsuit, headed by former Florida Senate President Enos Kimball, focused on statutes 100.76, which gives the Board of Control of the students' tuition. Cramer, a liberal university president who defend the right to establish tuition levels in the belief that such a policy is more available to Florida's high school graduates.

But what happens to those students who are denied? Hampered by scarce resources and a large student body that is disfranchised gets locked into a policy of the graduate, universities may have to pay to get admitted for a year without.

Such would go against all attempts the Legislature has made to provide more education more available to Florida's high school graduates. Cramer will not be able to do more than that.

The Legislature seems more concerned with using its power to see what's happening with tuition than with what's happening with the power to manage the budget. The Legislature seems more concerned with the power to manage the budget than with the power to see what's happening with tuition.

The lawsuit, headed by former Florida Senate President Enos Kimball, focused on statutes 100.76, which gives the Board of Control of the students' tuition. Cramer, a liberal university president who defend the right to establish tuition levels in the belief that such a policy is more available to Florida's high school graduates.

But what happens to those students who are denied? Hampered by scarce resources and a large student body that is disfranchised gets locked into a policy of the graduate, universities may have to pay to get admitted for a year without.
