CRISTON CAMPUS

GOV. IMPRESSED WITH UCF CAMPUS

JONN SLOFTER
Staff Writer

Gov. Charlie Crist made a surprise visit to UCF Wednesday after attending another event in Central Florida. Crist was invited to deliver the keynote address at the Florida Department of Children & Families Dependency Summit in Orlando. In his brief visit to UCF, Crist toured the College of Optics and Photonics, the Center for Research and Education in Optics and Lasers (CREOL) and the Institute for Simulation & Training, research facilities located in Research Parkway.

Although Crist didn’t hold a press conference, he made one statement saying, “I think what we need to do is have a streamlining system,” in relation to the differential tuition bill. After greeting students and faculty, Crist met with UCF President John Hitt and discussed the research opportunities UCF offers.

“The city you turn around there’s something new at UCF,” Crist said to Hitt. “I’m so impressed with this campus.”

Crist also said that it is a chance to impress the governor with the quality of research at UCF. After visiting the CREOL building, Crist headed to Research Parkway. His visit was cut short due to weather conditions. Crist promised to come back for a return visit with more time to see the main campus and the Lake Nona campus.

Former prisoner speaks out for Chinese reform

JESSICA SUNDAY

The passionate utterance of "I'm free... I'm free!" resonated through the West Ballroom on Wednesday.

Those words were spoken by Harry Wu, a man released after 39 years of imprisonment, to a crowd of students and faculty in a speech titled "China Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow." The former prisoner said of the Chinese prison system.

"I'm free... I'm free!"

According to Wu, the Chinese prison system is a "superpower," he said. This system is responsible for the imprisonment of over 1.5 million people, including political dissidents, human rights activists, and others.

Pending bankruptcy will force Cypress Gardens to be sold.

Cypress Gardens and Wild Adventures Theme Park in Valdosta will serve as the backdrop for a big auction to be held Sept. 27.

The public should notice immediate changes at other parks, Stone said. Adventure Parks filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection in Georgia federal court in late June, and that move could put $25 million in dollars incurred after Cypress Gardens was hit by Hurricane Ivan in 2004. Cypress Gardens was founded in 1959 and was a hit for decades after the success of a similar park in nearby Walt Disney World, Universal Studios. It closed in 2003. Valdosta, which owns and operates the park, has under a complicated deal that involved state and local government subsidies, spent $8 million and saw its loss grow to $16 million under a complicated deal that involved state and local government subsidies to lenders in the federal government. In 2008, it was reported that the government would buy up the $25 million in defaulted loans to pay down a portion of the federal deficit.

The bill, which both chambers of Congress have already approved, would allow the U.S. Treasury to sell up to $700 billion in不良loans under an examination of options for the troubled assets. The measure also fulfills a promise made by President Bush in his State of the Union address this year. The House passed its version on Dec. 12. It was expected that the Senate would follow suit in July.

U.S.embassy warming of possible terrorist attacks in Nigeria

LAGOS, Nigeria — U.S. and other Western installations are at risk of terrorist attacks in Nigeria’s most populous city, U.S. citizens should exercise vigilance in the Darfur region of the nation, the U.S. Embassy said in a travel warning.

Nigeria, which has never suffered a terrorist attack by an international terrorist organization, is a top recipient of foreign oil for the United States, which is turning alternative sources of crude oil amid rising prices in the Middle East.

Estonian officials couldn’t immediately be reached for comment. The warning didn’t indicate which terror group might be behind any attacks in Nige­ria, a country of about 150 million citizens roughly split between Muslims and Christians.

In a statement attributed to Osama bin Laden in recent years, the bin Laden targeted for liberation by al Qaeda, Nigeria’s president at that time was a Christian, while current President Umaru Yar’Adua was a Muslim who was governor of one of the 12 states across the north where the Islamic code code known as Shariah was launched in 2002.

Nigeria is a secular nation where opinion polls consistently show widespread administration of the country’s military and civilian authorities have generally been considered pro-West, outside of some areas that have been hit by local and international anti-American terrorism. The Nigerian military has been hit by a series of vampire attacks in the north, including the town of Sderot have been targeted by Al Qaeda to bring down an image model in the Middle East.

He declined to provide additional comment. The statement was attributed to the chairman of the Senate Banking Committee.

The cut, which would be phased in over five years, would reduce the interest rate on federal Stafford loans for undergraduate students to 4 percent, from 6.8 percent, saving the average borrower with $31,000 in loans $28,400 in interest over the life of his or her loan, according to House Democrats.

The House passed its version of the reconciliation measure last week, and Sen­ators followed suit in July.

Not enough room at the Union

STEVIE MILLIS

With the fall semester underway, many clubs and organizations are already beginning to roll out their first events and meetings.

The problem is there isn’t enough room on campus to host all of them.

The issue likely plays for groups to gather in the Student Union, where they can rent rooms and outside organizations to use in the Union for a fee. However, students make most of the reservations. A report by Events Services last year showed that more than 70 percent of reservations were made by registered student organizations, sports clubs and student government agencies.

"I believe that the online reservation system for the Student Union, though good in theory, is not very effective in practice," said Richard Cross, president of the Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual Student Union. Cross said because they could reserve a room in the Student Union, they reserved one in the Teaching Academy — knowing it was going to be too small.

"I do agree that the system does allow more secure access to making room reservations; however, there needs to be a way to ensure that all organization be given the chance to be more appropriate for what they are," Cross said.

Events Services does address space concerns by using attendance sheets at events and reviewing the reserved rooms to ensure that an event is being used effectively.

"The attendance sheets allow us to plan for next year’s events," said Tyler Sims, coordinator for Events Services.

"If a group wants to come in and request a room for 100 people for an event, we pull up last year’s attendance sheet and see if they really need that much," he said.

Building managers check seats counts carefully and minute a “have space” policy. Organizations are allowed to cancel within three business days of their scheduled event without penalty. No-shows are charged a fee and placed on warning status for their first occurrence. A second no show results in a “bad” status.

“We’ve had an increase in cancellations rather than students organizations having space unutilized since we enacted the policy two years ago,” Event Services Coordinator Stephanie Welch said.

Students do have an alternative to the Student Union if they want to hold their meeting. However, reservations for classrooms can’t be made until all classroom assignment has been completed, two weeks after the Add/Drop period. The amount of classrooms requested is based on the courses. The Student Union Office has to wade through many requests to wait nearby five weeks later. A second no-show results in a “bad” status.

“You’re really crucial to our staff,” Welch said. “If we have the first kickoff meeting and everyone is excited, you’re the students.”

Students are located on the third floor of the Student Union. Reservations can be made at 407-823-8107 to contact the staff.

Protest signs closer look at Rule

By LIZ ROTHMAN

A UCF student has taken the bumper sticker battle to MySQL Fell in a letter to the Editor for a Democratic Socialist party student organization.

Stephanie Colombo, psychology senior and Florida Feminist Equality Movement organizer said UCF has always valued the space of corporations over individuals. “Only those with financial power have a voice,” Colombo said. “It gives us the means to ‘put your money where your mouth is.’”

We all agreed,_approved_spreadsheet..xlsx

"All of the Office of Student Involvement and Student Diversity cares and respects what SDS is doing," Colombo said.

"It makes people think. I think they have been very successful in getting itself and other administration to look more closely at what we do," Welch said. "I think they have managed to probably increase a little more than it seemed at first glance."

"I believe the students have the right to protest against the speech of those with financial power," said President Samuel Johnson. "We have to bear in mind, we have to support the students that they are getting their voices heard."

"We’re not as vocal as SDS," Martin said, "but we support them from the standpoint that they’re getting their voices heard."

"I think [the students] have been by far the best students we’ve had," said President Allegra Latour, coordinator for Student Advancement. "I think they have absolutely done a fantastic job of phrasing their voices and ideas."

The Knights will begin one of their most difficult schedules this November.

BRIAN MURPHY

Every new season presents new challenges for a team.

The UCF Men's Basketball team will have more than its fill of challenges by the looks of its 2007-08 schedule. UCF will begin its regular season on the New ACU Arena on Nov. 2 against Nevada.

The Wolf Pack ended last season ranked 20th in the nation. They made their fourth-straight trip to the NCAA Tournament in March, advancing to the third round.

The Knights will face Nevada in this season's first game on Nov. 2. The Knights will head to Dayton's UD Arena on Nov. 7 to face the Flyers.

The Knights (3-5 overall) of 2006-07 had a 2-1 record in the regular season and went 1-0 in the Old Spice Classic.

The Knights will then return home to face Ole Miss on Dec. 8. Connecticut, winner of the 2004 national championship, will also come to the Arena on Dec. 28.

"Without a doubt, this is the toughest non-conference schedule in school history," head coach Kirk Speraw said in a press release. "Some of the best programs in the country will be visiting Orlando, and our fans will have the opportunity to see some excellent college basketball in one of the best arenas around."

The two-day UCF Holiday Classic will begin on Dec. 30 and the Knights will play the New Jersey Institute of Technology in the first round for the second year in a row.

The Knights will have more travel during the Knights' 3-exhibition tour to South Florida.

The Knights will face the Aggies on Sunday at 7:30 p.m. both matches and win over the Gophers.

In their second game, against Penn State, the Knights allowed just 0 shots, but lost 1.

"After the Minnesota game, we addressed a few things," Cromwell said. "We played tremendous against Penn State. If we can keep teams to 10 shots or under, that would be good, especially against a Top-10 team like Penn State."

The Knights will look to take advantage of more goal-scoring opportunities in the UCF Invitational. UNF allowed one goal in its first two matches and UC-Davis recorded two-straight shutouts.

Despite scoring 25 shots in its first two games of the season, UCF did put 14 of them on goal for an impressive shooting percentage of .560.

"We want to create more shots with our attack," Cromwell said. "It's the last thing that comes early in the season." For their match against the Rebels, the Knights will have to maintain a strong offensive attack. UNLV scored four goals in the first two matches of the season.

"We want to do better on corner kicks, get more crosses and make plays," Cromwell said. "The Knights and Rebels will face each other tonight at 7:00. The Rebels will face the Aggies on Sunday at 12:00. Both matches will take place at the UCF Soccer Complex.

The Knights played against the Wolverines in the first round of the NCAA Tournament and beat them 3-2 in Las Vegas.

The Knights allowed just 12 saves in the Knights' season-opening win over Minnesota and allowed only two goals in the tournament. She had an 853 save percentage and was named to the All-Tournament Team.

Forward Hanna Wilde led the Knights with six assists on the year.

The Knights will face three big-game challenges in the second year in a row.

The Knights' first match of the tournament will come against UNLV, a team they beat 3-2 in Las Vegas last year.

The UNLV match will be one of three games that can go either way, head coach Amanda Cromwell said.

"Both games will come down to the little things," Cromwell said.

UCF allowed 40 shots in its first two games, but 30 of those came in the last 24 minutes against the Gophers.

In their second game, against Penn State, the Knights allowed just 10 shots, but lost 1.

The Knights take first match of UCF Invitational with 3-1 win over Florida.

After starting off the season 1-1 on the road at the Tennessee Lady Vol Classic, the UCF Women's Soccer team is gearing up for its next two matches in the UCF Invitational, which starts tonight.

The Knights will face a couple of 2-0 teams: University of Nevada-Las Vegas and University of California-Davis.

The Knights were outshot 40-25 in the two games at the Tennessee Lady Vol Classic last weekend, and suffered from a 25-0 disadvantage in corner kicks.

Goalkeeper Jennifer Maria recorded 12 saves in the Knights' season-opening win over Minnesota and allowed only two goals in the tournament. She had an 853 save percentage and was named to the All-Tournament Team.

Forward Hanna Wilde led the Knights with six assists on the year.

The Knights will play either Long Island or Texas-Pan Am in the second round. UCF will also face Norfolk State, Presbyterian and Louisiana-Lafayette in non-conference games.

The Knights will end their non-conference schedule on the road versus Sam Houston State Jan. 17 in Southern Miss.

UCF will start conference play Jan. 26 against Rice in Houston.

They will then play their first of eight league games at home facing Tulane Jan. 23 versus Tulsa.

For the second consecutive season, UCF will face East Carolina, Houston, Marshall, Rice and Tulane twice in league play. UCF will host UAB, Houston, Marshall, East Carolina, Tulane, Rice and Rice in league games.

The Knights will play a total of 36 regular season contests at home this season.

On Feb. 9, the Knights will play at Memphis.

An Elite 8 team last season, the Knights could start the year ranked No. 1 in the nation. "Confidence USA is much improved from last year," Speraw said. "From top to bottom, each program has made great strides. Every game is going to be a challenge." The Knights have one three-game home stand during CUSA play.

They will host UAB on Jan. 30, followed by Houston on Feb. 2 and Marshall on Feb. 6. UCF's regular season will end at Tulane on March 5.

The CUSA Championship will begin March 12 at the Forum in Memphis, Tenn.

Price said following the season, the Knights will play two exhibition games at home.

On Nov. 3, they will host St. Leo at 11 a.m. On Nov 6, they will host Florida Southern at 7 p.m.

The Knights are entering their third season in CUSA. A year ago, they went 2-9 overall and 3-4 in conference, good for fifth place in the league. Following the regular season, CUSA allowed the U-CUSA, Coach of the Year, the B.C. championship, the second-seeded Knights lost in the first round to No. 1 Rice in a last-second shot by the Otels Morris Alford.

Yes, the Knights have won 86 games dating back to the start of the 2002-03 campaign.

That mark trails UCF's nationally and second among all men's basketball programs in Florida, behind only the defending champion Florida Gators.

UCF will return three starters and nine letterwinners from last season's team.

The Knights lost their top two scorers from last season in Both Poppens and Lawry Payne. Their top return ing scorer is junior Jermaine Taylor, who averaged 12.7 points per game.

After pulling off one of the greatest upsets in college football history, Appalachian State fans areeldom going to be satisfied with anything but a win.

The Associated Press, which ranks teams against each other, regardless of conference affiliations, will be recognized with them in the annual No. 1-25 poll, which is always intended to measure the best teams.

"Why not?" she said. "The poll was always intended to measure teams that compete against each other, regardless of conference. Our success was based on on-field performances."

One poll voter, Adam Van Bramer, said he was upset to see Appalachian State at No. 29 after their win over the University of Georgia, which is third in the AP's Southeastern Conference. He might do so next week, assuming the Mountaineers' bowl capitalistic gesture.

"If I have any openings in my poll, I'd certainly be considered," Van Bramer said, who works for the Georgia-based Atlanta Journal-Constitution.

In a previous job, he covered the Southeastern Division II powerhouse Georgia Southern, which, like the Appalachian State Mountaineers, is a member of the Southern Conference.

"Having a team to much time watching three Georgia Southern teams, I'm sure the top teams in the Southern Conference are as good as any in the nation," Van Bramer said. "They're probably as good as anybody in the Mid-American Conference. They're probably better than most in the country.

Joe Giglio of The News & Observer in Raleigh, N.C., and he would have voted for the Mountaineers this week, though he never considered a team that put them after being sold they were n't eligible.

"It's not just Appalachian State's win that will get another chance to crack the top 25 since the school's not facing another Mountaineers take on North Carolina in their conference schedule.

They went on to mention the rest of the way, which is certainly a possibility" Giglio said. "But that would be a problem, particularly in the methodology I use. They would never have a chance to improve their ranking.'"

USA Today plans no change in its poll, which will continue to be limited to schools in the division former-fluorine state.

Another AP voter, John Henry of The Associated Press in Ann Arbor, Mich., said the Mountaineers were certainly deserving of a No. 2 ranking.

"I like that it's not just being a team on the right side of the mid-majors in the upper 25," she said. "I think it was a fabulous at.

Another AP voter, John Henry of The Associated Press in Ann Arbor, Mich., said the Mountaineers were certainly deserving of a No. 2 ranking.

"I like that it's not just being a team on the right side of the mid-majors in the upper 25," she said. "I think it was a fabulous at.

The Associated Press said its poll will be recognized with the Mountaineers in the annual No. 1-25 poll, which is always intended to measure the best teams.

"It's great they opened the door," Joe Giglio of The News & Observer in Raleigh, N.C., said. "We're not going to be the one to put them after being sold they were n't eligible.

"Why not?" she said. "The poll was always intended to measure teams that compete against each other, regardless of conference. Our success was based on on-field performances."

One poll voter, Adam Van Bramer, said he was upset to see Appalachian State at No. 29 after their win over the University of Georgia, which is third in the AP's Southeastern Conference. He might do so next week, assuming the Mountaineers' bowl capitalistic gesture.

"If I have any openings in my poll, I'd certainly be considered," Van Bramer said, who works for the Georgia-based Atlanta Journal-Constitution.

In a previous job, he covered the Southeastern Division II powerhouse Georgia Southern, which, like the Appalachian State Mountaineers, is a member of the Southern Conference.

"Having a team to much time watching three Georgia Southern teams, I'm sure the top teams in the Southern Conference are as good as any in the nation," Van Bramer said. "They're probably as good as anybody in the Mid-American Conference. They're probably better than most in the country.

Joe Giglio of The News & Observer in Raleigh, N.C., and he would have voted for the Mountaineers this week, though he never considered where to put them after being sold they were n't eligible.

"It's not just Appalachian State's win that will get another chance to crack the top 25 since the school's not facing another Mountaineers take on North Carolina in their conference schedule.

They went on to mention the rest of the way, which is certainly a possibility" Giglio said. "But that would be a problem, particularly in the methodology I use. They would never have a chance to improve their ranking.'"

USA Today plans no change in its poll, which will continue to be limited to schools in the division former-fluorine state.

As Giglio pointed out, the Football Championship Subdivision has its own poll (Appalachian State was an unchangeable No. 15, a playoff system designed to create its champion (the Mountain conference)

The Associated Press, which is solid.

They probably better off just separating church and state, as we speak," Giglio said. "How long the shell is life for beating Michigan? At some point, it wouldn't be enough to keep them in the top 15.

Another AP voter, John Henry of The Associated Press in Ann Arbor, Mich., said the Mountaineers were certainly deserving of a No. 2 ranking.

The Used toiled through surgery, lineup changes to make Lies for the Liars

TheUsed bassist Jeph Howard said, metaphorically explaining how he and his band mates fed off each others' musical abilities when they created Lies for the Liars, the multi-platinum group's latest release.

After touring to support 2004's Love and Death, the Utah natives pushed themselves and ultimately wrote all songs for Lies, but lost 11 tracks made the final cut, and according to Howard, it was pretty clear which songs would survive.

"It was, 'Hospital is the best song that we've ever written,'" he said during a telephone interview hours before Wednesday's soldout show at House of Blues. "I think that was already a moot point: it had to go on there. 'Pretty Handsome Awkward' (Lies') later single was another one." The opening track, "The Ripper," presented the greatest challenge, Howard said.

"It was in and out, in and out. It was finished and then it wasn't finished. Then we rewrote it, and then it was rewritten. He said that one just (Decends), a mess. But it turned out to be one of my favorite songs." It just feels great to play that one live," he said.

According to Howard, The Used, which also includes singer Bert McCracken, guitarist Quinn Allman and drummer Dan Whiteside — recorded an additional nine songs planned for release on an EP early next year.

Howard said he likes those songs but is glad they were kept off Lies. "It makes them special in a way," he said. "We can play them live and they're always going to be new songs until they come out on the EP.

The Used released Lies in May and prepared to kill the road, however, the band canceled headline shows and Werged Tour dates when McCracken underwent surgery to remove a node on his vocal cord. The band took the recovery stage day by day and did not want to return until McCracken recovered. Howard said Howard also said fans should not notice any differences in McCracken's vocal sound, which arguably includes as much screaming as singing.

"It's the same old Bert," he said. "He's doing great and singing great. His voice sounds awesome, and he's keeping his tradition."

As forTRL stops on Lies, Howard said the best way to get up on the record in "relations." Howard added that while in tour and Detroit was "more of a moving record than a short love and the press..."

3:10 To Yuma

A genre which has seen a renaissance following the release of 2007's 3:10 To Yuma.

When up against angry Apaches or the really bad teeth of Luke Wilson, the action, particularly the climactic shoot-out, certainly doesn't disappoint. Peter Fonda, Ben Foster, and Alan Tudyk - is remarkably solid through-out, even when up against angry Apache- es or the really bad teeth of Luke Wilson.

The Used's latest CD has 'raw-rock' vibe

The new album also brings out the band's heavy-hitting style, which I think is what it should be.

Em Up

The action, particularly the climactic shoot-out, certainly proves exciting, and Mayorga skillfully creates a claustrophobic environment for the most part in his directorial debut, which makes an old-fashioned West-including more amusing than gratifying.

Sexual Chemistry Reveals More Than Any Film I Can Recall

Julie Delpy's own in Paris, Julie Delpy seems to have put that out of the way, she establishes a sense of connection behind the camera that nearly equals her talent in front of it.
