Green Fee referendum added to the ballot

SHARIFA RICHARDS

Some students of the black and gold have created a plan to add some green to UCF with a new fee. Each semester UCF students are required to pay for fees, in their tuition costs. As its name implies, the Green Fee would be a $7 per-credit hour fee that students would pay in order to make UCF more environmentally friendly.

On Feb. 7, the SGA Senate voted yes for the Green Fee referendum to be placed on the election ballots next week. So, now voting for the next student body president, students will also have a choice to vote for or against the Green Fee.

"It's popular to do [referendum voting] during the presidential elections because you have higher voter turnout," said Tara Burke, the SGA Environmental Coordinator and former president of Eco-Advocates of Central Florida. "It is a stronger demonstration of how many students vote.

The Green Fee would be about $9 per semester for a full-time student, and would generate about $4,000,000 per semester. This money would be put into a Renewable Energy Fund," which would be spent on increasing the university's sustainability.

Burke said that giving the students a vote for referendums such as the Green Fee is the best way to solve the issue.

"We pretty much have the most democratic way to solve any issues," Burke said. "Many people forget that this isn't just a"

Hollinger endorses Berkowitz/Delanois

Staff Writer
Student Body President Brandie Hollinger is taking her endorsement of Logan Berkowitz and Brandon Delanois for SGA Elections seriously.

"I actually sat down with each ticket individually, and they explained their platform, told me what they were going to do," Hollinger said.

She said she waited to decide until the debate because she thought it would give her a better representation of how the candidates would act in a public forum.

"Based on everything else I've seen, I feel the Logan/Brandon ticket will be the best to represent the student body," Hollinger said.

Currently, Hollinger works with all four candidates, Berkowitz serves as vice president of the student body; Adam Giery serves as director of campus life and Austin Smith is the deputy president of the Senate.

"They've all done a really great job of representing SGA," Hollinger said, "but at this point in time, it's a matter of who can get the job done."

Hollinger based her decision on several factors, and working with Berkowitz as vice president was one of them.

"We've really been able to watch him grow as a person and as a leader," Hollinger said. "He's the epitome of a servant leader; he thinks of others before yourself."

"Based on everything else I've seen, I feel the cabinet will be in here 60 hours a week. Berkowitz and Delanois are thrilled with the endorsement," Hollinger said.

"He's an amazing person, and he really cares a lot about people," Hollinger said. "He genuinely cares about working with Berkowitz as a leader, and he really, genuinely cares about people. I know if he wins he'll be in here 60 hours a week."

"It's a very selfless person, he does more for others and thinks of himself last. He's the epitome of a servant leader; he thinks of serving others before himself," Hollinger said.

"Their platforms are very direct, concise, clear," Hollinger said. "I think having a clear, concise platform is something that's attainable, measurable and very important.

Hollinger is encouraging students to be informed when they vote and to think carefully before making a decision.

"This is a very important decision, and I hope all students would research their candidates, look at their qualifications," Hollinger said. "Look at the entire package. The platform, qualifications, experience. You have to look at all of that.

"The elections will be held next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and students can vote for the candidates of their choice on MyUCF."

Grye and Smith signs $150 to repair

Winfield Smith died on Wednesday, October 3, 2007, of an apparent heart attack during his normal workout routine. Smith was 73 years old and had been a prominent figure in the local community for many years. He was known for his dedication to helping others and his passion for fitness. Smith had recently returned from a trip to Europe and was looking forward to spending more time with his family. A benefit concert was held in his honor to raise funds for his family and community projects. The concert was a huge success, and the proceeds were used to establish a scholarship fund in Smith's name. The scholarship has since helped many students pursue their dreams and has become a legacy of Smith's generosity and love for the community. Smith will be deeply missed, but his legacy lives on through the scholarship fund and the memories of those he touched with his kindness and generosity.

The Green Fee was created by the Eco-Advocates of Central Florida (Eco-Advocates) as part of their sustainability plan at the University of Central Florida (UCF). The fee is a way to raise funds for green initiatives on campus, which were first introduced by Dr. Deborah German, the former chancellor of UCF. German said, "The Green Fee is a way to support sustainability efforts on campus."

The Green Fee is a way to support sustainability efforts on campus. It helps to fund various projects, including solar panels, green roofs, and composting bins. The fee was introduced in 2008 and has since become a popular way for students to contribute to the university's sustainability efforts.

Motivated Howard leads Magic past Nuggets

Center responds to coach's criticism with 23 points and 24 rebounds in 109-98 win

BY JEFFREY MARQUET

The Orlando Magic have become an unstoppable force since they last played each other last April. The Magic made quick work of the Denver Nuggets on Wednesday night, winning 109-98 behind a double-double from Dwight Howard.

Howard had 24 points and 24 rebounds, the eighth time he has done so in a season, breaking his previous record of seven. The Magic improved to 41-14, and the Nuggets dropped to 29-25.

"Dwight has been really good all season," coach Stan Van Gundy said. "He's been the best player on the court, and his work ethic is off the charts."

The Magic took a 31-24 lead after the first quarter, and Howard added 25 points and the Orlando Magic responded with a 97-86 win.

Howard also noted the NBA rebounding lead from the Nuggets' Marcellas Corley, a game Van Gundy described as "a little bit off the shelf".

"He's been the best player on the court, and his work ethic is off the charts," Van Gundy said. "He's been the best player on the court, and his work ethic is off the charts."

Before nineteen, I'd said I had to go and I was now going. This is a trip I had never before taken, and I was fascinated by the thought that someone else was going to be in control of the situation.

The next day, I went to the airport and went through the process of checking in for the flight.
I was nervous, but I had a feeling that everything would be fine. I was determined to overcome my fear and to enjoy my trip as much as possible.

The plane was late, and I was restless, but I couldn't wait to see the sights of the city.

As I walked through the airport, I noticed a young woman carrying a large, black, bottomless purse. I was struck by the boldness of her choice, and I thought it was quite courageous.

After landing, I went to the baggage claim and collected my bags. As I walked through the terminal, I noticed a woman walking toward me with a similar purse. I was amazed by her confidence and boldness. She seemed to be enjoying every moment of her trip,
and I was inspired by her spirit.

This experience taught me a valuable lesson:
that we should not be afraid to express ourselves and embrace our uniqueness.

When the main bar gets too packed, venture up the stairs to the back corner to take a break in the smaller lounge. If you feel like you're stuck in a jam, there is a small bar in the back, and down the glass doors to the large outdoor patio.

I-Bar doesn't seem to slow down through the week. Wednesday night is no cover until midnight with drink specials such as the $3 Long Island and $1 Malaysia. Thursday night gets packed for Necropolis when everyone dresses to pen Temple's famous blacklight party. Even though the cover is $5, it is worth it for the $2 U-Call-Its until midnight. Friday nights, College Bar takes over with $1 PBRs and $4-$5 wells.

Saturday there is no cover until 11 p.m., with $2 Bud Lights and Pabst Blue Ribbon beer start out $1 at 10 p.m. and go up 20 cents each hour, creating a haven for the partied masses.

DIRECTOR: Adam Brick
STARR: Ryan Reynolds, Rachel Weisz, Iben Hjejle, Elizabeth Banks, Akiya Brooks

Weiner-director Adam Brick, Brickman. Maybe in the near-to-be-discarded Bergmandictions according to my knowledge of his life Glachal Weisz, lifetime, perhaps to his professed relationship with all- daughter (Ghuliah Hjejle), changing the name to give him a little “true story mystery” at bedtime.

The extended flashbacks are set against the Bill Clinton campaign of 1992, good for a couple of “cell phones were big” internet was slow” page and a Nirvana reference but little else. Brosnahan, meanwhile, antagonizes a la The Princess Bride to spout out cuss words and he was beyond her years (because that’s never not admissible). The entire cast charms a great deal more than the first film, before the proceedings grow increasingly prepositional. The start of yet another prospective twin-train fantasy franchise based on a series of popular novels, The Spiderwick Chronicles marks the wise move of allegorically fitting the books into one film instead of spreading them out, making for a nicely dense but thankfully far more sensible world of Arthur Spiderwick (David Straithairn), the great-granduncle whose guide to the alternate realm of goblins, trolls, and other creatures drives the momentum from the Spiderwick Chronicles.

Not three weeks after the box-office success of Step Up, comes this sequel to the surprisingly successful

While young Highmore is expected to make a formidable transition from animated effects and lesser actors — his only to run afoul of big bad nightmares, rather than the school setting, again. Another ethically diverse crew of characters find themselves facing things undead. George A. Romero, is back with a new spin on his zombie classic, as a group of film students find themselves facing yet another of those pesky zombie sequels.

Early reactions confirm that the film is indeed all that anyone asked for, bar the usual complaints about the gore. Things are now moving in the right direction for the film, as it should not have been.

Now playing in theaters everywhere.

Talent show contestant breaks trend

AMANDA K. SHAPIRO

Cas Haley is one of the few people who can say he made his fortune the hard way — by running into the arms of the paparazzi.

Things were cruising along fine for Haley, a 30-year-old Texan native covered the “Postcard From the Moon” during season two of American Idol. It didn’t take long for Haley to make his presence known. The Las Vegas native, known for his powerful vocals and seemingly endless eagerness to sing, quickly gained in popularity and raised his profile. He eventually landed a six-figure recording contract and began selling his services for approximately $1 million per gig.

Haley’s performance and recording career have since shown no signs of dampening. He has continued to tour extensively and has released several albums to much critical acclaim.

The success of Haley’s music career has been no secret to those closest to him, including his bandmates. Haley’s vocal range and musicianship have been praised by critics and fans alike. His unique style of singing, which combines elements of pop, rock, and country, has helped him stand out in the cutthroat world of music.

Cas Haley is a name that can’t be missed in the music industry. His talent and hard work have earned him a place among the top performers in the industry. Whether he’s performing on stage or in the studio, Haley is always delivering a powerful performance that leaves his audience wanting more.

Cas Haley’s story is a testament to the power of hard work and determination. His journey from a small town in Texas to the national spotlight is one that inspires others to follow their dreams and never give up.

We endorse both green amendments

T he Central Florida Future recently released its resolutions 48-58 and 49-59 which allow the student body to vote along with the SGA presidency for the 2008-2009 school year. Monday, Resolution 48-58 reads, “We support the Golden Rule in its entirety and believe that it is an essential amendment to the constitution. We believe that it is the moral and ethical basis for all interactions within our society. It is a reminder to all that we are all created equal and should be treated with respect and dignity.”

The lack of green amendments this year is an apparent issue. Last year’s resolutions were centered around green issues and the Golden Rule. This year, with the Golden Rule has resulted in uncommon outcomes when comparing sections between the violation of deity and the violation of marijuana use, and is an issue some country students have expressed concern over.

It is not logical to condemn a student as nothing but a delineator of sin, a rapist, a thief, and merely slap the hand of a student caught abusing alcohol. Alcohol is, according to the Central Florida Alcohol and Drug Abuse, the most common and most abused psychoactive drug in the world—and the results of that are far more dangerous than getting caught drinking despite the prohibition on campus.

Every year, more and more money is spent promoting the dangers of marijuana and alcohol. And—more often than not, alcohol, the marijuana, is a topic that is not touched upon. It is not treated differently because you smokel or drink, according to the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism. Other students and 18-24 year-olds from 2001-2002 to 2006-2007 have been surveyed by the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse. In the last year’s resolutions, the Golden Rule was included, but this year it has disappeared. It is important that we continue to recognize the importance of the Golden Rule in all aspects of our campus. That means we need to continue to look at the violation of deity and the violation of marijuana use, and we need to give the students who have expressed concern over those issues a voice.
