FAA meets to share ideas
Bright Futures, elections on agenda

SANDY RICHARDSON

The Florida Student Association held a board and general meeting last Tuesday to discuss possible changes of the Bright Futures scholarship and other issues that affect Florida students and their colleges.

At the meeting, FAA discussed internal issues of their organization, the election processes on campuses and legislative issues.

The organization of student leaders from every college in Florida includes: Brandie Hollinger, Florida's student body president of the University of Florida; Ryan Mosley; Mosley is also the chairman of FAA.

"It is a good experience for students because you get to see what other campuses are doing," Hollinger said. "What a lot of students take from FAA is the exchange of ideas with other campuses to make student government and lobbying for students more effective." The meeting began with Mosley going over what would be discussed as well as what had been discussed the day before in a meeting about the Bright Futures scholarship.

Mosley explained how

Conference introduces girls to science
MEGAN SPEER

A group of 240 middle school girls visited UCF on March 1 to see if for themselves that science doesn't have to be a worldly matter.

The Expanding Your Horizons conference, which is in its 22nd year at UCF, is designed to reverse the trend that makes women a minority in science and math-related fields such as engineering. "The conference aims to dissolve the misconception that women aren't suited for these careers that are stereotypically masculine, and it does so by focusing on girls while they are young," said Jackie Sullivan, an environmental engineer who is coordinating the second year "They think, 'Oh, engineering, that's for guys only... That's just not true. That's what we're trying to expose them to".

The conference was sponsored by the College of Engineering and Futured workshops that taught the girls engineering concepts and problem-solving skills through fun activities. A career panel of professionals women presented themselves to the group in roles models and mentors, and a tour of the labs in the College of Optical and Photonics technologies the girls with a glimpse into the exciting future of technologies.

The rag of a proposed Florida beef ban took a turn last week when legislation calling for more kosher options on campus was officially split into two.

The proposal was introduced by college student government associations to the Senate by Vice President Logan Berkowitz and Deputy Senate President Austin Smith, passed a crucial second reading and vote at week's Senate meeting and now awaits only one more reading before being delivered to the desk of Gov. Bob Graham.

However, Vice President Logan Berkowitz and Deputy Sen. Andrew John­ son have officially proposed their own version of the resolution, which is backed by Jewish student organization Chabad. Chabad originally requested...

BREAKING A THREE-YEAR TRADITION of spending break with her friends from Illinois, Ashley Walker will be devoting the majority of her time to last-minute graduation preparations. Walker will be shadowing crime scene investigators at the Orange County Sheriff's office to get a few hours closer to meeting her 400-hour internship requirement.

When she's not working or volunteering in the UCF Student Union, Walker plans to go grocery shopping with her roommates, work at the park. She is also looking forward to at least one beach day in the sun.

"This year will be very relaxed," she said.

Tired and true with a twist is what Steven Ouldi is shooting for this spring break.

Four days and three nights are on tap for Ouldi and his friends on St. John in the U.S. Virgin Islands.

"We're not having a spring break," he said. "We're going camping.

A cheaper alternative with all of the same benefits, Ouldi is looking forward to having some beach and surfing time, Capitalizing on the fact of potentially renting some ice skis, but overall, he wants to "just chill" and enjoy some time with his friends on Florida's islands.

Ben Stewart, a sophomore majoring in biology at UCF, doesn't have any definite plans. He said he's perfectly happy relaxing with his girlfriend, Nicole Chastick. "I can't wait to see my family," Stewart said. "I can't wait to go home to Kentucky and play golf with my dad and younger brother.

He said the most exciting part of his spring break will be the weekend his family spends in Key West. They will Uncork on their boat and go deep-sea fishing.

"I'm sick of school," he said. "I can't wait to just go away." - SABRINA SCHRIEDER

Marcel Myrick has no definite plans except for going home to Jacksonville on Monday.

"Depending on my finances," Myrick said. "I have to go to Michigan to visit my friend Justin or go to Fort Lauderdale with Ashley.

Either way, he said he looks forward to escaping school and though he says he probably still has end up reading.

If stuck in Jacksonville, he plans on spending his time at the Cumberland Museum of Art.

"It's interesting to see the new collectibles," Myrick said. "It has a garden in the back that's probably what the Garden of Eden would look like." - DARRYL HOLL, CENTRAL FLORIDA

J.D. Davis, a professor from UCF's Sports and Fitness Department, said he would be volunteering with friends.

He plans to stay from Stephen Foster Folk Culture Center State Park to the Suwannee River State Park.

He called it an "active vacation" and said that it was better than a passive vacation because you have to make efforts to maintain your health.

He said being outdoors can make your body function properly.

"I've been watching God create in amazing," he said. "It was really nice out there - beautiful weather." - DARRYL HOLL, CENTRAL FLORIDA

Freshman Stephen Hines will enjoy rock climbing.

"There will be many stories said," he said. "I've been to the beach, the water is beautiful.

- MARC MYRICK, CUMBERLAND CENTER

Nicole Chastick is protesting the Iraq War and will spend Spring Break with Confederate vet, Penny Cooper.

Penny is a veteran in the U.S. Army and is part of an anti-war, pro-peace group called Students for Peace.

To those who oppose the protest, she said "I'm just doing it to relate the experience. I would ask them, 'What if you were here?'

"I'm just trying to help my children to understand the experience of working with other activities." - LINDA REINHARD, CENTRAL FLORIDA

UNC student body president shot and killed

JOSEY MCBRIDE

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — Thousands of stunned students gathered silently Thursday on a quad at the University of North Carolina to mourn their student body president, just hours after police said she was the Young Woman found shot to death on a city street the day before.

Eve Carson, a 22-year-old senior from Athens, Ga., had been shot several times, including to the head, police said. Officials said there are no suspects and no arrests have been made.

"We have lost someone who we cherish and love," university Chancellor James Moeser told a massive crowd on the school's Polk Place quad. "We're all in a state of shock."

Police found Carson's vehicle, a blue 2005 Toyota Highlander with Georgia plates, after receiving a tip Thursday afternoon from a witness who spotted it near Franklin Street, the main drag though the popular college town, about 45 minutes west of Raleigh.

"We saw it on the news and we heard the woman is the president of the student body, and we just grew, 'Oh my God,'" said Jordan Raul, of Chapel Hill, told The Associated Press. "She touched us all." Moeser told students, "And now she's been taken from us suddenly in a horrific, terrible act of violence."

Carson was a prestigious Morehead-Cain scholar and a North Carolina Fellow, taking part in a four-year leadership development program for undergraduates. A poised student, she majored in political science and biology, taught science at a Chapel Hill elementary school, and spent summers volunteering in Cuba, and spent month summers volunteering in Krasnodar, Egypt and Ghana as part of a school program. In her position as student body president, she was a member of the university's Board of Trustees. Moeser told the Associated Press he last saw Carson on Tuesday, at the Tar Heels men's basketball game against Florida State.

"A huge crowd of students, staff and faculty gathered on the quad Thursday afternoon to remember Carson. Students passed our daisies and carnations, and large boards were erected for students to leave written memories."

A campus candlelight vigil was planned for 7 p.m., and deans of counselors from both North Carolina and nearby Duke University were available to talk to students.

"She touched us all," Moeser told students. "And now she's been taken from us suddenly in a horrific, terrible act of violence."

"This is a tragedy magnified and multiplied by the number and depth of relationships, many relationships that Eve Carson had on this campus," Moeser told the students. "This enormous tragedy is a testament to the many and deep relationships.

"Eve Carson personified the Carolina spirit."

Carson is the daughter of Bob Carson and Teresa Rice, of Chapel Hill, told The Associated Press. "We're devastated," Easom said. "We have lost someone who we cherish and love. We're all in a state of shock."

Maxine Easom, the principal of Clarke Central High School in Athens, where Carson graduated as valedictorian in 2004 and was also elected student body president, said she and staff members learned of her death Thursday morning.

"We're devastated," Easom said. "She was absolutely beautiful. Everything she did was aimed at helping other people. She was one of the young women who could change the world."

Proposal bill could parcel $2 billion to public universities

Michael A. Sisak

The pro tem of the Florida Legislature proposed a bill that could potentially reallocate the state's education system to the Florida Legislature to make the declinations concerning education in the state of Florida. Out of those decisions would allow the governor to control tuition at Florida public universities.

The change would reduce the state university Board of Governors and strip the remaining members of much of their job description.

Currently, the board has 14 members appointed by the governor, and each member serves a seven-year term. Carlstrom proposed that the board be reduced to five members with four-year terms.

She also proposed that each board of trustees receive $150,000 per year. Each public state university has a board of trustees. Instead of 13 members, she would appoint five members.

A position for a commissioner of education would also be created in the governor's cabinet. The commissioner would supervise the public education system.
TV may influence girls' career choices

Sara Thickston, a UCF alumnus, said that she was inspired to become an engineer after watching Grey's Anatomy, the medical drama. Thickston said that watching the show made her realize that women are just as capable as men in the field of engineering.

Thickston said, "When I watched Grey's Anatomy, I saw that women could be successful in engineering. I was already interested in the field, but seeing it portrayed on TV made me feel more confident in my decision to pursue engineering as a career."

Darkness: this is the resolution that was never approved or even named. Martineau and Smith, based on the Watercolor, are still struggling to find a fan of the resolution. Berkowitz and Siger think that something must be done to benefit the students. Berkowitz and Martin have been struggling with the issue of kosher options. Berkowitz said that the current resolution was very difficult to accomplish. It is very, very difficult. It takes a fully kosher meal plan to continue to be prevalent. As the country moves towards the 21st century, logistical issues will be more and more important. The university's partner, however, is looking for a way to ensure that the dorms will provide kosher options. The dorms will be dorms there. Those dorms will be dorms that are provided to the Jewish population of state universities. As the country moves towards the 21st century, logistical issues will be more and more important. CONFERENCE USA GAME 15: HOUSTON 73, UCF 68

Falling down

The Knights entered the game with the best start in program history - 7-0, but UCF's hottest shooting traveled to Houston to take on the Houston Cougars, and for the second straight year, UCF wouldn't lead by more than two for the rest of the game, but it took about three minutes for the Cougars to tie the score.

UCF's streak of perfection ends with Sakey and Claudio Breschini earning most impressive victories.

UCF's Mike Battle commits an offensive foul against Rice during the Knights' 68-60 win Saturday. Battle had five points in the Knights' first loss of the year.

UCF's frantic comeback too little as Houston's shooting secures 73-68 win. For the second straight year, the UCF Men's Basketball team traveled to Houston to take on the Houston Cougars, and for the second straight year, the Knights couldn't hold onto a second-half lead.

Wednesday night was not the same as when the the Knights surrendered a 23-point lead at Houston last year, but it was perhaps as depressing, as UCF's late comeback attempt was cut short in a 73-68 loss.

The Knights built up a six-point lead early in the second half, but it took about three minutes for the Cougars to tie the score. UCF wouldn't lead by more than two for the rest of the game, as the Cougars' press defense gave the Knights fits and interrupted the flow of their offense.

Also, the Knights' foul trouble led to several easy points for the Cougars. Houston was in the double bonus halfway through the second half, and the Cougars were shooting two free throws per every foul for the rest of the game but it took about three minutes for the Cougars to tie the score.

UCF head coach Kirk Speraw was disappointed with the Knights' performance against Houston's Lanny Smith hit a deep 3-pointer to pull the Knights within three with 5:33 left.

After a UCF timeout, guard Chip Garaghty grabbed his second steal of the game when he stripped Smith, and UCF had the ball with 2:27 left.

But the momentum shift wouldn't last long.

Jermaine Taylor then committed one of his game-high six turnovers when Houston's Marc-Malone stole the ball, Taylor got the ball back 30 seconds later after he stripped Smith, and put in the easy lay-in to bring the Knights within one with 49 seconds left, the closest they had been since the 5:33 mark.

UCF head coach Kirk Speraw said in a post-game radio interview that during the subsequent timeout into Jacksonville on Wednesday, but he was perfect from the field. While the loss for the Knights was a blip on the radar, it remains a milestone for the Knights.

UCF's Tarek Ben Soltane won 6-1,6-3 in his 2 win over Georgia State on Wednesday. _ but the Dolphins 5-4, 6-4, 6-4 at the 7-0, 7-6 match with Sakey and Claudio Breschini earning most impressive victories.

The Dolphins broke the Knights' winning streak, defeated both runners moved up a base on a throwing error from catcher Robert Laca. One batter later, Perez scored from third on a throwing error by catcher Ryan Reichardt.

The Knights' loss and the Dolphins' win over UCF since Feb. 24, the Knights dropped to 7-3 for the season. Knights' foul trouble led to several easy points for the Cougars, and for the second straight year, the Knights couldn't hold onto a second-half lead.

UCF alumnus turns shoes into art with acrylic paint

WILLIAM RICHARDS

UCF alumnus Chris Campbell's business is to keep art unique by painting on shoes instead of canvas. Campbell said before he started his company, Diversitile, he was always trying to find a way to express his art in different ways. His search for an alternative outlet of expression eventually led him to painting on sneakers. "With these shoes, you can wear your ideas and the artwork we create," Campbell said. "Just like a painting that you can take with you."

Campbell started his custom clothing business a year and three months ago, when he decided to team up with artists Richard Gordon, Mark Thor and John Terramoccia. Since then, Diversitile has customized shoes for WiLD 98.7's DJ Orlando, Rhea of LRG's Luxury clothing line and a German rapper named Kino.

Diversitile's work has also made its way into boutiques such as Culture Kings in Orlando and The Remix in Rockledge. Currently, the majority of Campbell's clients come from Diversitile's MySpace page. Diversitile.com is scheduled to launch today.

Campbell wears a white wristband that reads "heart" on one side with the Nike symbol on the other. "They say wear your heart on your sleeve; I wear it on my wrist," Campbell said. "The Nike symbol is kind of a coincidence."

Campbell said that the wristband reminds him of lessons he's learned from his business mentors. "You have to have a dream to accomplish what you want to accomplish," Campbell said. "My dream is in my heart."

While creating his art, Campbell said he thinks of the colors and designs more than the way a piece of clothing fits someone's body. "They're really clean," Campbell said. "I did one shoe three months before the other one, but they still came out pretty good."

Campbell's favorite shoes are his personal Tupac Makavelis. The shoe's black-panther design consists of bronze, baby blue, dark blue, black and white. "They're really clean," Campbell said. "I did one shoe three months before the other one, but they still came out pretty good."

Campbell picked Makavelis because there were no panels on the shoes. That gave him free reign to do whatever he wanted with them. "I was like, Wow - a canvas," Campbell said.

Color has always been important to Campbell, from his early art-
Students stock up on Spring Break fashions

PATRICIA WEGEL
Staff Writer

That time of year has finally come. That’s right, Spring Break is upon us. It’s a time to live it up either at the beach, on the ski slopes or in bed until noon.

The sad part, for many of us, is that our last year of a week-long Spring Break are numbered. Our days in the sun will one day be substituted with careers and other things that will leave us reminiscing about how good the old times were. But, as long as we still have it, why not make Spring Break fashionable?

Once again, we are brought to another benefit of being a Floridian we live where people vacation. Along with that comes something that is not fabulous; that is the wardrobe of many of the tourists. Most of them input tropical-patterned, button-down shirts, funny packs and funny sunhats, they are easy to spot. Hopefully the button-downs of UCF will not fall prey to the evils that plague their fellow travelers.

Although senior communicative sciences major Brooke Saba’s major is sure to entertain you as he looks for floopy hats. Which is sure to forever immortalize the fact that he is indeed a student of the University of Central Florida.

“We’re putting a new twist on Spring Break. I’m going to New York, so I am going to wear winter clothes instead of summer clothes,” said Saba.

If she was in Florida, she said, she would definitely stay true to the shorts and flip flops image of the Florida lifestyle.

As if that was not enough, a communicative disorders major, plans to stay in Orlando. She may not be traveling as far as New York, but she’s prepared for her plans to hit the amusement parks and the beach. Her most important accessory is sunglasses—prettily over sized and perfect for the sunny Florida weather.

Junior Cara Wilson is looking to preview the album Float. While her Spring break will be “cute floppy hats” what she will be willing to keep her Spring break fashions. Wilson said that she has not been able to pick up a few other8 styles that will help her with her new wardrobe.

Junior Cassandra Wilson is spending her Spring Break in Key West where she plans on wearing cute, floppy hats to stay fashionable. But will stay fashionable with black, oversized sunglasses. No matter what your plans for the break may be, it’s a time to relax and enjoy different spring styles.

Spring Break is a great time to relax and recover from midterm stress, so show off that green tan with the perfect outfit and kick back like this is your last day of school. Remember, the best part of being a Floridian: we live where people vacation. Have a great time and a stress-free break...

Bank Job does heist right; Games causes victims

WILLIAM GOSS

The Bank Job
DIRECTOR: Roger Donaldson
STARS: Jason Statham, Sofía Vergara, Donald Sutherland, Tom Wilkinson,../../../1971."

While not as nimble as The Italian Job as a sleeper hit, this stylish British film stars a talented cast in the lead roles.

College Road Trip
DIRECTOR: Roger Kumble
STARS: Martin Lawrence, Gabrielle Union, Donnell Osmond

Martin Lawrence stars as a young man who takes on a risky job to pay for college. The film is set against the backdrop of a college campus, where the players and convivial atmosphere make it a fun watch.

City of Men
DIRECTOR: Paolo Morelli
STARS: Douglas Silva, Darlan Santos

This film is a heartwarming tale of friendship and adventure in the heart of Brazil.

Funny Games
DIRECTOR: Michael Haneke
STARS: Noah Watts, Tom Wilkinson, Philip Michael Hobbs, Geoffrey Sadow

A tense and thrilling film that explores the impact of violence on society.

Miss Pettigrew Lives for a Day
DIRECTOR: Bharat Nalluri
STARS: Susan Sarandon, Emily Watson, Tamzin Malleson

A touching story of a woman who discovers a new lease on life.

Stargate Evolution: The Movie
STARS: Christopher Judge, Michael Shanks, David Hewlett

The story of a young hunter named D'Leh, who travels to a new world in search of adventure.

Directors:

Brett Martin

Director of Photography

Brett Martin has been consistently praised for his work on films such as "Stargate Evolution" and "College Road Trip." His skill in capturing the essence of a story through his camera work has earned him a reputation for excellence in the industry.

Artists customize accessories

Work on their furry project.

Campbell said he always looks for the different color palettes and the colors and combinations on his website. He also said that he loves the idea of working on the project.

"Something that's kind of an experiment for me, he said, "like a mix between fashion and design."

Campbell said colors are also a part of his personality, and he gets a lot of thought from the colors he chooses.

It's exciting to work on Nike, he said, because the white shoe is leather from the bottom sole to the lace lock, even the interior.

That means that he can be creative as much as he wants.

"They're kind of experiences," Campbell said. "But the fashion with that shoe is exciting for us."

In the FAQ, section of the Diversity's website, Campbell says they customize all sorts of shoes, as long as they're not parented shoes.

Campbell's company works with acrylic prints, rubber prints, leather prints, and patterns, and sometimes it's a combination of all three.

"If you look at all the shoes, you'll actually come out with shoes that make people more individualized," he said. "That's how our generation is."
