ABSTRACT

This paper provides a look at the making of a microbudget feature film. It seeks to explain my growth as a filmmaker and an artist, through the challenges, both narrative and practical, that I encountered, as well as provide documentation following the process. Hope for a Thorn: The Making of a Microbudget Digital Feature Film includes elements from each phase of filmmaking, from script and preproduction to the marketing plan. This document shows the tremendous amount of preparation and planning that goes into the making of a microbudget digital feature film.
I would like to thank Ula Stoeckl, Steve Schlow, Patty Hurter, Mark Gerstein, and Randy Finch for their endless support and assistance.
For Ula Stoeckl. Thank you for your eternal enthusiasm, faith, passion, and encouragement.

CHAPTER ONE: INTRODUCTION

I have always held the philosophy that the best way to direct a feature film is to simply do it. For this reason, I was intent upon directing a feature film on my own, so I enrolled in the Entrepreneurial Digital Cinema program. I began work on the script for Hope for a Thorn in spring of 2005, with the intentions of directing the film as part of my MFA. The process, though far from over, has been challenging, exhilarating, and unbelievably educational. Despite five years of film school prior to production, nothing could have prepared me for the shock of directing a feature film. I encountered numerous challenges, overcame obstacles, and was forced to change a lot of what I thought I knew about filmmaking. Beginning with development and continuing all the way through postproduction, through narrative and practical issues, the experience of seeing Hope for a Thorn through from concept to completion has altered who I am as a filmmaker.

The Script

Prior to making this film, I had directed several short films and documentaries. I anticipated difficulties in sustaining a story for a considerably longer period of time, but I didn’t realize all of the other challenges it would entail. Hope for a Thorn began as a small, character-driven drama, focusing on a young girl and her fantasies of her lost mother. It grew into a 150-page, epic, decades-spanning, multi-generational story, before finally landing somewhere in between, as an intimate story of mothers and daughters, of loss, love, and madness, explored through the lens of an estranged grandmother and granddaughter. Knowing that I was going to be actually making this film, I struggled with not censoring myself as I wrote, an easy trap to fall into. Because I allowed myself the freedom of writing anything I was interested in, I was able to pinpoint the exact story I wanted to tell and bring the scope of the story back down to a reasonable size. I sought to create a believable, relatable story about mothers and daughters, featuring flawed characters, that spoke to second chances and redemption. I wanted to focus on loss and ways of dealing with grief, and the tremendous distance between people who want the same things.

From Script to Screen

While revising the script as we neared production, I got caught up in preproduction and found myself in a difficult place, unsure how to make changes when I knew that our locations and schedule were close to set. As a result, I didn’t make all the changes I wanted and was forced to address them in postproduction. One of the largest issues was what remained of the massive, multi-generational version of the script, the scenes of Victoria as a child. I kept just a few of the most important ones, but struggled with making them a cohesive part of the script. As a result, I shot them as a prologue to the present-day story, a technique I changed quickly in postproduction.

Hope for a Thorn is a story of subtleties, not of obvious character transformations and major plot points. In translating the story to the screen, I struggled with making some aspects of character or story as evident as they appeared in the script. With some, I succeeded; with others, I failed; with still others, I realized they weren’t crucial to the story.
Preproduction

One of my biggest struggles through this process has been truly grasping the concept of Microbudget Cinema. I liked the idea, but practically-speaking I wasn’t clear of how to visualize it. How many crew members did that allow for? How many shooting days and locations? What corners should we cut? The frustrating, but brilliant, part of the program is that we as filmmakers were forced to define it for ourselves. I charted my own course, opting for a budget level lower than that of my peers. With no one in the program having created a film at this level before, I was truly on my own. Eventually we created a scale that blended aspects of larger-budget traditional filmmaking with those of no-budget independent filmmaking. We had a reasonably sized crew (of 20 - 25), allowed ourselves 21 days of shooting plus a few weeks of rehearsal time, and placed much emphasis on production design. We also used a crew of mostly student volunteers, borrowed as much as we could from school and whatever other resources we had, and kept the cast local and non-union.

Once we had a firm grasp on our definition of Microbudget Cinema, we were able to move forward. We realized that we would not be able to go after name actors or even local SAG actors on our budget, so we decided to use Florida non-union actors. The casting process lasted several months, as we knew the success of the film rested in the hands of the two lead actors. We saw dozens of young girls and only five older women. We suffered through the loss of a lead actor shortly before production and the frantic race to find a replacement, as well as the limited pool of talented actors the region has to offer, as compared to cities like New York or Los Angeles. Eventually we were pleased to cast Pat Fisher as Victoria and Sarah Grace Ackerman as Sophie, two gracious, talented actors that were a joy to work with and who delighted in helping me bring their characters to life.

It was in preproduction and production that we felt the real crunch from our lack of budget. We weren’t able to merely throw money at our problems; we had to find truly creative solutions. I think this is most apparent in our production design. I tasked my (very small) art department with the challenge of finding a large Victorian house. We were looking for a huge, beautiful, slightly rundown house full of antiques that we could take over for a month. Not surprisingly, we encountered some difficulties.

We searched for six months before finally resigning ourselves to the fact that said house didn’t exist. We ended up using three different locations to serve as Victoria’s house - an exterior, an interior, and a garden. The most significant of these, the interior, we found through a friend. Though it was a family house and in need of a complete makeover to turn it into Victoria’s house, the owners were understanding and helpful, and would be out of the state during the shoot. So, with only a few weeks to go before production, we began working on the house. With a very limited budget, the art department scoured garage sales and borrowed as much furniture as possible, primarily from the UCF Theatre Department. Their largest purchases were fabric, which added weight and texture to the design. Unsightly pieces that we couldn’t afford to address, we covered. An outdoor air conditioning unit in our 1940s house was blocked from view by a sheet hanging from a clothesline. A small intercom unit in a bedroom was covered by a picture frame. The house was not as large as we had wanted, so we found ways to cheat it. Through a combination of redecorating and creative camera angles, we shot the master bedroom as three separate rooms. We redressed a hallway and flipped the image to make it seem like a completely different hallway. These kinds of challenges, through frustrating and time-consuming, were great because they forced us to find creative solutions.

It was also challenging keeping location owners happy with such a limited budget. A large film would have just paid them several hundred dollars a day, but we didn’t have that luxury. Instead, we made small donations to a charity of their choice, surprised them with gift cards to their favorite restaurants, and took time to talk to them and help them with anything they needed. It was important to us to treat them as valued people and let them know how grateful we were for their assistance.

Production
The production period surprised me in that I realized it was the least creative phase of filmmaking. Each day was a struggle just to make it through. As my lead was a child actor, we were subject to child labor laws and had to shorten our shooting days. Coupled with a small crew primarily composed of fairly inexperienced students who’d never been on a feature set before, I was forced to slash my already lean shot lists nearly in half on a daily basis. For budgetary purposes, our crew did not include positions such as jib operator and dolly grip, so on days when we used this equipment, our schedule usually suffered. In addition, some of our shooting took place outside.

Shooting in Florida in the summer meant that it rained nearly every day and we sometimes had to either shut down entirely or wait out a storm, losing more time. All of these time constraints generally meant I was forced to make split-second decisions regarding what was vital and what was expendable. When nothing was expendable, we found ways to combine shots in order to save time and still get all of the necessary coverage.

Although I was often frustrated at having to lose shots, this became a valuable learning experience. It helped me realize the value of preparation; I knew the reason for each and every shot on my list, so I was able to take these motivations into consideration when deciding what to lose or how to combine crucial aspects of a shot with another shot. It helped keep me on my toes as well as forcing me to trust my judgement, which in return made my judgement better. I had crewmembers (Producer, Assistant Director, Director of Photography) willing to help in my decision making, but ultimately I was the only one who really knew the film, who knew all of the characters inside and out, and who knew what the finished, edited film should look like. Therefore, I had to learn to trust myself.

Both the preproduction and production period really helped to expand my definition of the word ‘director.’ Prior to making this film, I mostly thought that the director’s role was a creative one. I knew that communication was vital, but I thought that essentially a director had the vision and worked with others to achieve this vision. Now I realize that ‘director’ means moonlighting as producer, art department, wardrobe, location scout, and grip; it means confidante, mentor, teacher, and motivator; it requires having infinite patience, learning the delicate balance between being involved and clear about what you want and micromanaging, and finding how to push people enough to keep them going without pushing them so far that they give up; and being able to take words on a page and ideas in your head and turn them into something real, despite 25 other people sharing in the process and pulling you in infinite directions. It is the most exhausting experience I have ever had, but also the most unforgettable, rewarding, and thrilling.

Postproduction
Because I was also the editor, in the span of roughly 2 days, I went from being a part of an incredibly collaborative process, with rigid schedules accounting for my every waking moment, to being completely alone in a dark room with the footage. There was suddenly no one telling me how much time I had to do something or asking me questions. There was only the film.

I had really been looking forward to the editing process, but I had no idea what I was in for. I expected the film to change drastically and I welcomed that; I just didn’t anticipate how difficult the process would be in getting it there. The first cut of the film was 1 hour and 45 minutes. It was long and tedious. Thankfully I was working with two advisors, Ula Stoeckl and Mark Gerstein, who met with me weekly. They provided tremendous guidance in cutting the film down to 72 minutes. But it was a battle all the way.
There is an odd sort of clarity that comes from viewing the footage cut together. You suddenly become aware of how insignificant much of your dialogue is. Structural issues become glaringly obvious. Identifying these problems is the easy part; the challenge comes in using only the footage you shot to solve them.

Beginning with the rough cut, it quickly became clear that Victoria’s flashbacks were a problem. The film deals with flashbacks in two ways. The first is Victoria’s childhood flashbacks, reaching into the 1940s. The second is Sophie’s fabricated flashbacks, or fantabacks as I call them, fantasies that she created to cope with the misery of her actual memories. Having never fully integrated Victoria’s flashbacks into the script, it became apparent that they felt like orphans edited where they were, which was as a linear sequence in the opening of the film. Figuring out these few flashbacks was the biggest challenge I faced in editing the film. We tried making more repeated use of them. We tried eliminating them. We tried minimizing them. We grouped them together. We spread them out. I showed it to countless people to get feedback and the consensus was that the flashbacks were unclear. Eventually, after many months of struggling, I settled on a path, using cheats to create moments where Victoria can allow herself to drift into a flashback. I created devices, such as a photo album, clearly illustrating the time period and character, to help clarify the flashback for the viewer. Though the solution we found may not be as perfect as if I had scripted it differently, I am pleased with what we’ve accomplished and think that the flashbacks now finally work and add a new layer to the story.
Being the sole editor in a year-long postproduction process presented other obstacles as well. I think that the most difficult thing for a director is maintaining objectivity. For me, this was a problem two different times. The first was at the beginning of the editing process. Every time I looked at a shot, I could remember exactly what went into it - the circumstances of the day, the difficulties we faced. The sheer trouble we endured in simply getting that shot made it nearly impossible for me to remove it. Over time, however, this faded and my relationship to the footage changed. It wasn’t until I watched behind-the-scenes footage many months later that I realized how much my view of the material had changed. I can now look at a take and see how it fits into the film as a whole, not how it fit into the shoot. This objectivity is also important in learning to let go of your preconceived ideas of what the film should be and allow it to be the film that it is. I had always envisioned my favorite scene opening the film, as scripted. I clung to this scene, a beautiful slow motion flashback of Victoria and her mother on a tire swing, until the very last edit of the film, when I finally realized it was better suited elsewhere. Though it broke my heart to remove it from the opening, I knew that it was best for the film.

Objectivity became a bigger problem as time went on, for me as well as for my advisors. We had all spent so many hours studying the footage and watching the film that we weren’t able to maintain any distance from the film at all. We couldn’t view it with a fresh eye and know how a new viewer would interpret things. Thus we had to rely on new audiences. It is partially for this reason that I decided to hold a test screening. I gathered 17 people, mostly middle-aged women, together to screen the film. Most of them were strangers, but the ones that did know me had only a passing familiarity with the film. The test screening was one of the most painful experiences of my life, but I am so glad I did it. The concept is really pretty masochistic - offering up your baby, something you have devoted years of your life to, something deeply personal, to a group of strangers to dissect and tell you everything that’s wrong with it. And to feed them while they’re at it! But I knew that I needed an outside perspective, a view not tainted by their relationship to me or their knowledge of the project. And while much of it was difficult to hear, a lot of it was what I had suspected. The feedback helped to shape the way we proceeded in editing the film. It was also good preparation for unfavorable reviews and helped thicken my skin that much more.

The test screening, as well as all of the feedback I got from countless other viewers, taught another worthwhile lesson. I realized that every single person that watches a film has an opinion on how they would do it differently or what they would rather see. People project their own views and experiences onto the film. No two people will have exactly the same response. After hearing dozens of differing opinions, I realized that I wasn’t going to please everyone and I wouldn’t want to. What was most important was that the film succeeded for what it was and that I was happy with it. My approach was to try every suggestion that someone had, no matter how far it seemed from the right choice. The worst thing that happened was that I lost a little time. But many times, it led me to something even better. I listened to everything, tried everything, was open to new discoveries, and then kept what worked and disregarded the rest.
I could have continued editing Hope for a Thorn for another year. But eventually I realized that the changes would only make it different, not better. Yes, the film has its flaws, and no amount of editing will fix them all. But it has also become something very beautiful. It is amazing to me that any film gets made, with all that can go wrong. It’s especially amazing to me that all three of the grad students that set out on this adventure last summer all succeeded in finishing our films and we were able to do so on our terms. It is quite likely that I won’t attempt another film at this level. Regardless, this experience has forever altered who I am as a filmmaker. I have grown in countless ways and the experiences I’ve had will always influence the films I make, regardless of budget. I am grateful for this opportunity and that I can now call myself a feature filmmaker.

CHAPTER THREE: RESEARCH MATERIALS

Screenplay

The following document is the shooting screenplay of Hope for a Thorn. The numbers in the top right corner indicate the page numbers of the script, while the numbers beside each scene heading represent the scene number.

Several weeks prior to production, we “locked” the script, meaning that the page numbers would remain intact despite any additional changes. Thus, any changes after this point appear in red text with asterisks in the margins and any new pages or scene numbers appear with a letter after the number.

EXT. MODEST HOUSE - YARD - DAY - 1944

A serene summer day. A small house sits alone in a heavily wooded yard. The hot midday sun beams brightly down on CHILD VICTORIA, age 8, and a WOMAN, early 30s, playing.

The girl, wearing a unique pendant and clutching a baby doll, sits on a tire swing hung from a tree branch as the woman spins her. She has long dark hair and huge eyes. Her face is round and innocent. Close on the girl's face as she spins around. The two are happy, enjoying the day and each other's company.

TITLES as the camera lingers on the girl's smile, her hair blowing in the breeze, her feet nearly above her head, the towering trees, the leaves on the ground. The only sounds are soft laughter and a gentle breeze, rustling the trees.

EXT. MODEST HOUSE - YARD - DAY - LATER

Child Victoria stands inside the tire swing, leaning her back against it as she twists up to survey the sky and the tall trees, blotting out the sun. She is alone, except for the doll that she cradles as if it were a baby.

She is interrupted by the sudden presence of a 1940s car driving along the dirt road. She is curious. There is clearly nowhere else along this small street for the car to go.

It stops in front of her house. She slips out of the tire swing and moves closer. She observes the car from behind a tree. She peers around its thick trunk at the MAN in a military uniform that emerges from the vehicle. He stands and hesitantly adjusts his uniform. He is holding something in his hand. She watches him approach the house.

He rings the doorbell and then removes his hat, holding it to his chest. The woman, now wearing an apron, opens the door. Her face falls the instant she sees the man. She is terrified by the sight of him. She begins shaking her head as soon as he opens his mouth.

Child Victoria is confused. She doesn't understand what she is seeing, who the strange man is, or why the woman is reacting the way she is.

The man presents her with a telegram and a folded flag, neither of which she wants to take. His body language is that of a very apologetic man. The woman slowly sinks to the floor in the doorway, vigorously shaking her head, and crying. The girl can hear her cries from where she stands. Child Victoria is scared, hiding behind a tree.
INT. MODEST HOUSE - KITCHEN - DAY

A 1940s kitchen. Child Victoria hovers in the doorway, holding her doll. Close on her face as we hear the cries and moans of the woman.

A buzzer goes off. The sound of an oven opening and a loud crash as a muffin tin is hurled at the ground.

Child Victoria clutches tightly to the doorway, greatly frightened.

INT. MODEST HOUSE - HALLWAY - DAY

Child Victoria sits on the floor, beside a closed door. She hesitates for a moment, before mustering the strength to speak.

CHILD VICTORIA
Momma? Is there anything to eat?

No response.

She places her ear to the door, listening for any sound, but there is none to hear. She gently touches the door, sadly.

INT. MODEST HOUSE - CHILD VICTORIA'S BEDROOM - DAY

Child Victoria has amassed a small pile of baby dolls. She studies the pile and then takes them with a pair of sewing scissors, cutting their heads off and destroying them, carelessly placing heads in one pile, dismembered bodies in another.

She picks up the doll from earlier and studies it intently. Then she glares at it and pulls out her knife. Close on her face as her anger is replaced by grief.

CUT TO:

INT. TOWN CAR - DAY - PRESENT DAY

We abruptly cut to the absolute silence inside a car. VICTORIA, now 71 years old, is driving, her frail hands tightly gripping the steering wheel. She wears the same pendant around her neck.

Through the rearview mirror, she nervously observes twelve-year-old SOPHIE, who sits in the middle of the backseat.
Sophie, cute but drenched in sadness, stares straight ahead, emotionless. Her thick dark bangs are in dire need of a cut, skimming her eyes too closely. A small beat up suitcase is on the seat beside her.

The two sit in an uncomfortable silence.

EXT. TOWN STREET - DAY
The car drives along a small town road.

EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - DAY
The car pulls up to the circular driveway of a large Victorian house. Once elegant, the house is now overgrown and in need of fresh paint. The house is palatial but ominous, its beauty eclipsed by the cage-like feeling created by the tall trees surrounding it.

Victoria parks in front of the house and gets out of the car. Her frame is small but she carries herself with conviction. She wears a long black dress and her hair is pinned back tightly. She is a woman that is not easily deterred.

Sophie slowly opens her door. She drops her suitcase to the ground with a loud thud. She shuts the door behind her.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - FOYER - DAY
Victoria opens the door of the house and leads Sophie, lugging her suitcase, inside.

The interior of the house is cavernous, dark, and dusty. The heavy curtains are tightly drawn, choking out any sunlight that may have hoped to seep in. It feels like a tomb.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - PARLOR - DAY
A suffocating layer of dust blankets the room. The house is decorated in mostly antique furnishings, like walking into a time warp. Sophie trudges in and sits on a large overstuffed sofa, almost vanishing into its massiveness. A puff of dust blows up as she sits.

Victoria watches her for a moment, before sitting down on a wing back chair across from the sofa.

The two sit, awkwardly, studying each other and then looking away.
A long moment passes, neither sure what to do.

Finally,

SOPHIE
Can I have a drink?

Victoria starts to say something and then stops, choosing instead to head for the adjoining kitchen. In her absence, Sophie studies her surroundings, the heavy bookcase, the furniture and paintings, the overwhelming feeling of stiffness.

Victoria returns with a glass of murky yellow liquid somewhat resembling lemonade.

Sophie takes the glass and gulps it down, scrunching her face at its sour taste. Victoria stands over her, waiting for her to finish.

She hands the glass back to Victoria, who continues to stand over her.

SOPHIE
Where’s the TV?

VICTORIA
People shouldn’t waste their time with such rubbish, children especially. A good education is the key to success, Sophie. You really should be reading instead.

Sophie isn’t sure how to take this, but it doesn’t sound encouraging.

SOPHIE
Can I go to my room?

Victoria, still holding the glass, leads her toward the stairs. Sophie doesn’t notice the towering pile of dirty dishes and newspapers tucked beside the sofa.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - STAIRWELL - DAY

Victoria leads Sophie up a long, convoluted stairwell. Sophie is oblivious to its immenseness. Victoria gradually flips light switches as they move up, slowly illuminating the stairs. Victoria stops outside a closed door.

VICTORIA
Here you are. Do keep it tidy.
As Victoria walks away, Sophie pushes the door, which squeaks open.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE – SOPHIE’S BEDROOM – DAY

A frilly pink guest room with a large canopy bed and a wicker rocking chair next to a window, which overlooks an overgrown but beautiful garden. Several picture frames contain their original black and white inserts. The room is cold, as if no one had ever stayed in it before.

Sophie unzips her suitcase.

She pulls out a pillow and a worn one-eyed stuffed rabbit, which she fingers gently. She crawls onto the bed, clutching the rabbit tightly. She lies in the fetal position and closes her eyes.

FLASHBACK TO:

EXT. BEACH – DAY

The hot summer sun beams down onto a picturesque beach. Sophie and MAGGIE, late 20s and beautiful, relax on towels. An umbrella shields them from the scorching sun. Not a single other person is visible.

The colors are almost impossibly vivid.

They sip sodas from glasses containing vibrant paper umbrellas and watch the bright blue sea.

Sophie grabs a nearby Nerf football and tosses it at her mother. It nearly hits Maggie in the face before she catches it, inches from her nose, nearly spilling her drink in the process.

MAGGIE
Oh you’d better watch yourself, missy.

Sophie laughs and runs towards the sea. Maggie gets up and chases her.

MAGGIE
Go long!

Maggie hurls the ball. Sophie turns around just in time to be hit in the stomach with it.
SOPHIE

Hey!

Maggie has reached the water by now. They throw the ball back and forth a few times.

Maggie suddenly disappears under the water. Sophie looks around for her.

The water is still.

Sophie starts to worry.

SOPHIE

momma?

No response.

A moment later, Sophie is pulled under the water.

She pops up again, coughing. Maggie appears beside her, laughing. Sophie giggles and splashes her.

INT. MAGGIE’S APARTMENT – SOPHIE’S BEDROOM – NIGHT

A young girl’s bedroom, full of life and color, decorated with a celestial theme. A bedside table holds pictures of Sophie and her mother. More pictures rest on the shelf over the bed.

Sophie lies in bed. Under her arm is the beat-up rabbit. Maggie sits beside her on the bed.

MAGGIE

Fun day?

SOPHIE

Yeah. I think it’s gonna be a good summer.

MAGGIE

You mean it’s gonna be the best one ever.

Sophie grins.

MAGGIE

What do you want to do tomorrow? We should do something fun.

Sophie thinks for a minute before her eyes light up.
SOPHIE
Mini golf.

MAGGIE
Done. Now get some sleep.

Maggie kisses her forehead and turns the light off.

SOPHIE
Good night, Momma.

MAGGIE
Good night, Sophie. I love you.

SOPHIE
I love you too.

Maggie closes the door, leaving Sophie in darkness.

BACK TO:

15  INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - SOPHIE’S BEDROOM - NIGHT

A loud grumbling sound. Sophie awakes with a start. She winces and rubs her stomach gently. Slowly, she rolls off the bed and heads for the door.

16  INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - STAIRWELL - NIGHT

Sophie leaves her bedroom, rubbing her eyes. She starts to head down the stairs. When she reaches the landing, she pauses, then heads to the right. She realizes she’s going the wrong way and turns the other direction.

17  INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - DINING ROOM - NIGHT

As Sophie enters the room, she spots the dining room table set with food. Victoria sits on one end of the seemingly mile long table. Sophie smiles and enters.

Victoria is startled by the sound. She stares at Sophie for a moment, as if she doesn’t recognize her.

SOPHIE
Is it dinnertime?

Victoria softens slightly.

VICTORIA
Oh, Sophie. Um...
Sophie realizes that only one place setting is set and it’s set for Victoria. The portion of the meal is small. Sophie is stunned. Victoria is embarrassed.

SOPHIE
Where’s mine?

VICTORIA
I - silly me, I forgot that you were here. I’m afraid my mind isn’t quite as sharp as it used to be.

Sophie is skeptical and concerned. But her stomach overrules her worry.

SOPHIE
Well, I’m hungry.

VICTORIA
Alright, well, I suppose you can have some of this.

Victoria leaves the room and returns a moment later with a salad plate. She scoops a small portion of her food onto the plate and offers it to Sophie, who studies it disdainfully.

SOPHIE
That’s it?

VICTORIA
You’re a child. You don’t need much. So many obese children in this country. When I was a child, we were lucky to have meat twice a week.

Victoria returns to her food. Completely bewildered, Sophie takes her plate and leaves the room.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - KITCHEN - NIGHT

Sophie sits at the table in the nearly dark kitchen. She scoops the crumbs up with her fork and hungrily licks her fingers.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - PARLOR - NIGHT

Victoria sits in a stiff-backed chair, beside a delicate beaded lamp. She wears reading glasses and studies a worn book. Sophie sits on a satin-upholstered sofa.
She looks at Victoria, looks around the room, looks back at Victoria. Victoria is lost in her book.

Sophie gets up and peruses a bookshelf which, along with most surfaces in the room, is filled with photos of a man through various stages of his life. She picks up a heavy art book and starts to flip through the pages. Without looking up,

   VICTORIA
   That’s a very expensive book, Sophie.

Sophie slams the book closed. She picks up one of the photographs.

   SOPHIE
   Is this your husband?

Victoria sends a warning look Sophie’s way.

   VICTORIA
   Children should be respectful of other people’s property.

Sophie rolls her eyes and looks toward Victoria. She notices something odd about the text. As she looks closer, she realizes that Victoria is holding the book upside down.

   SOPHIE
   Um, Victoria?
   VICTORIA
   Hm?

Sophie pauses. Victoria’s eyes never leave the book.

   SOPHIE Nevermind.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - SOPHIE’S BEDROOM - NIGHT

The room is still as it was when Sophie first entered. Her suitcase sits open on the floor beside the bed, still full.

Sophie stands at the window, in her pajamas. She stares out into complete darkness, the dim light from the moon masked by thick trees. She searches for stars, but can’t find any.

She finally gets into bed. She is tiny in comparison to it, and to the size of the room.

She tosses and turns as the room gradually lightens.
21 INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - SOPHIE'S BEDROOM - MORNING

Sophie turns to the window. The light streaming through looks dusty. She throws off the covers.

22 INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - DINING ROOM - MORNING

Victoria is pouring two cups of coffee as Sophie enters the room in her t-shirt and pajama bottoms. She mechanically puts cream in one, sugar in the other. Not noticing Sophie, she carries them both to the dining table, placing one in front of herself, and one at the other place setting, humming to herself.

Sophie sits down across from her and stares at her coffee.

    SOPHIE
     I don't drink coffee.

Victoria looks up, startled by her voice. It takes her a moment to realize what's going on.

    VICTORIA
     Oh. No, of course not.

She gets up and walks to the buffet table, her hands shaking.

    VICTORIA
     Why don't you go put on some proper clothes?

Her voice trembles as she speaks. Sophie glares at her.

    SOPHIE
     I just got up.

Victoria approaches Sophie, who is still seated at the kitchen table. She looms over her.

    VICTORIA
     Just because you're a child doesn't mean you should walk around indecently. You should always look your best, just in case. You never know when someone might stop in or there's an emergency.
SOPHIE
Who's gonna stop in? Does anyone even know you're still here?

Victoria is unwavering.

SOPHIE
Alright, I'll change.

She flees the room.

EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - YARD - DAY
Sophie wanders outside, wearing a pair of ripped jeans, a T-shirt, and flip-flops. She blindly walks through the overgrown yard.

The house is set upon acres of land. The yard was once beautiful but obviously has not been cared for recently.

She finds the garden she saw from her bedroom window. There's a small trail that weaves throughout trees, weeds, and dying flowers. The entrance is marked by an ivy arch, which Sophie slowly touches. Sophie stops beside an ant hill. She grabs a nearby stick and plunges it into the heart of the hill, tearing it apart. When it is sufficiently destroyed, she continues moving.

A stone bench sits in a spot blocked by view from the house, under a canopy of trees. Sophie sits down and looks around sadly, tracing the outline of the bench with her finger.

Victoria appears under the arch. A purse is on her arm and a large black hat obscures most of her face.

VICTORIA
Come along, Sophie.

Sophie doesn't look up. A long pause.

VICTORIA
I'm quite certain you heard me, young lady.

Still not looking up.

SOPHIE
Where are we going?

VICTORIA
Into town to buy you some new clothes.
28

SOPHIE
I don't need new clothes.

VICTORIA
Don't be ridiculous. Your wardrobe is nothing but rags. A girl should have some nice blouses and a few proper dresses. Come now.

She stares intently at Sophie, who picks herself up from the bench and trudges after her.

EXT. TOWN STREET - DAY

Downtown. Very small and old-fashioned. This seems to be the main street, lined with antique stores, restaurants, and boutiques.

Victoria walks briskly. Sophie struggles to keep up.

Victoria peeks into a few windows, but isn’t satisfied.

SOPHIE
How come I’ve never met you?

Victoria stops outside a small boutique.

VICTORIA
Of course your mother wouldn’t have bothered to tell you anything about me.

SOPHIE
You don’t seem like her.

VICTORIA
I’m not like her.

Victoria heads into the store. Sophie looks through the window at the straw hats and patterned dresses, sighs, and begrudgingly follows.

25

INT. BOUTIQUE - DAY

Victoria is at a rack, quickly flipping through prim and proper floral dresses. She eyes Sophie.

VICTORIA
What size are you?

Sophie shrugs.
VICTORIA

Probably a medium.

She holds one up against Sophie and nods, pleased with her guess. She casually tosses the dresses she likes over her arms.

A men’s button-down shirt hanging on the wall catches Victoria’s eye. She inspects it, touching the fabric, looking at the price tag. She smiles and starts to pick it up. Sophie appears beside her, staring at her. When Victoria notices her, she is momentarily confused. Then she hangs the shirt back up and flustered, turns away.

EXT. BOUTIQUE - DAY

25A

Victoria leads Sophie outside, her arms full of bags. Through the window, Victoria catches a glimpse of an elderly man passing by. She stops abruptly and turns to look at the window display, her back to the street.

The man spots her and grins.

VICTORIA

Richard!

RICHARD

Victoria! I can’t believe it’s you.

Victoria discretely adjusts herself, using the boutique’s window as a mirror.

VICTORIA

Well. How have you been?

He laughs and shakes his head. He pulls her to him, wrapping his arms around her. She is clearly not used to this kind of physical contact and remains stiff. Not fazed, he glances at Sophie.

RICHARD

Who’s this little lady? Almost as lovely as her grandmother.

Sophie’s eyes widen at Richard’s blatant flirting and Richard winks at her. Victoria blushes.

VICTORIA

Let’s not forget I am a married woman.
RICHARD

Victoria. It’s been 2 years. Don’t you think it’s time?

Sophie is embarrassed, not sure if she should be present for this conversation. Victoria is flustered; she’s enjoying the attention, but trying to pretend otherwise.
He turns to Sophie.

RICHARD
She has been determined to break my heart since high school.
(beat)
You must be Maggie’s daughter.

Sophie’s eyes light up at the mention of her mother.

VICTORIA
Sophie.

RICHARD
It’s a pleasure, Sophie. I’m the one your grandmother let get away.

He’s gone too far. Victoria snatches Sophie’s arm.

VICTORIA
That’s quite enough, Richard. We have to go.

She starts to rush off down the street, Sophie struggling to keep up.

RICHARD
Victoria, we have lots of catching up to do!

She doesn’t respond as he calls after her.

RICHARD
How about tonight?
(beat)
Pick you up at 7?

EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - DAY

Victoria pulls up in the town car, Sophie again in the back seat. They start to unload. Sophie is quick to respond.
SOPHIE
I’ll get them.

Victoria smiles proudly at Sophie’s offer.

VICTORIA
That’s a good girl.

Victoria heads toward the house.

Sophie waits a moment and starts picking up the bags. When she gets to the front of the house, she discreetly checks the mailbox. Empty.

She frowns, kicks the mailbox stand, and then takes the shopping bags to the trash cans.

EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - PORCH - DAY
28
Sophie enters the back porch, where Victoria is sitting down two glass bowls of a single scoop of vanilla ice cream. Sophie’s eyes light up when she sees the treat.

SOPHIE
Ice cream?

Victoria nods.

VICTORIA
To celebrate the belated arrival of your manners. Let’s hope it’s more than just a fleeting change.
Why don’t you put on one of your new dresses?

SOPHIE
I’ll just eat in this.

Victoria doesn’t seem to hear the response.

VICTORIA
Charles and I used to do this every afternoon once he retired. He loved homemade ice cream.

The two sit on the wrap-around porch, overlooking the vast backyard. Victoria stares wistfully out onto the porch. Sophie hungrily digs into her ice cream.
SOPHIE
Who was that man at the store? Was he your old boyfriend?

Sophie wrinkles her nose at this idea. Victoria doesn’t acknowledge the question. Sophie takes a few bites and tries again.

SOPHIE
So was that like the whole town?

Victoria still doesn’t respond.

Sophie, longing to talk, continues trying.

SOPHIE
I’ve never seen any place this small before.

Sophie gives up. After a considerable pause, Victoria finally speaks, but she doesn’t look at Sophie when she does.

VICTORIA
I ran into Richard today in town, dear. Would you believe he’s still chasing me after all these years?

She chuckles to herself.

VICTORIA
I do hope you realize how lucky you are.

SOPHIE
How lucky I am? What are you talking about?

VICTORIA
Oh don’t be silly, darling. I told him you’re the only one for me. He’s never had anything on you. I love you so much.

Victoria waits for a response. Sophie is dumbfounded.

After a moment, Victoria turns to face at Sophie. She stares at her without really looking, her eyes glassy and unfocused. A long moment passes, Sophie frightened.

SOPHIE
Can I have some more ice cream?
INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - SOPHIE’S BEDROOM - EVENING

Sophie kneels beside her suitcase. She pulls out a t-shirt and boxer shorts. She lays them on the bed and is about to pull off her shirt when there’s a knock on the door.

Sophie turns expectantly but no one comes in.

SOPHIE

Yeah?

The door opens. Victoria enters. Sophie stiffens, obviously uncomfortable with her.

VICTORIA

I was just checking on you. Making sure you hadn’t destroyed the room already.

She smiles vaguely and looks around the room, noticing the full suitcase on the floor.

VICTORIA

Sophie, you haven’t unpacked yet?

SOPHIE

No.

VICTORIA

Well you can’t live out of a suitcase forever, can you?

SOPHIE

No.

Victoria waits for an explanation.

SOPHIE

I’m not like I’m gonna be here forever. It’d be stupid to unpack and then pack again.

Victoria nods, not listening. She opens the closet and turns to Sophie.

VICTORIA

There are plenty of hangers in there. And of course, there’s the dresser. For stockings and undergarments and things.
SOPHIE
Okay.

VICTORIA
Good. Well, I’ll be downstairs then.

Sophie goes to the closet as Victoria leaves the room. It is empty, except for a dozen perfumed satin hangers. She picks one up and looks at it. She holds it to her nose and sniffs. Then she puts it back and closes the closet.

She grabs her suitcase and starts to zip it up, when she notices a case full of CDs inside. A shy smile appears on her face at the familiar and comforting sight. She looks around the room, but there is no sign of technology there.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - PARLOR - EVENING

Victoria again sits in her chair, this time listening to an old radio playing a crackly jazz record while she stitches the word “Charles” on a piece of fabric.

Sophie runs into the room, clutching her CD case.

SOPHIE
Where’s the CD player?

Victoria pricks her finger, startled by Sophie’s voice. She winces in pain.

VICTORIA
Sophie, please don’t startle me like that. And I don’t have a CD player. I do have a radio though. And a record player. You’ll have to be careful with it.

SOPHIE
Why is everything in this house so old?

Sophie starts to leave in a huff. Victoria watches her for a moment, touched by a slight twinge of sympathy.

VICTORIA
Maybe we could do something else.

SOPHIE
Like what? Knit? Listen to stupid old music?
VICTORIA
How about a game?

SOPHIE
A game?

VICTORIA
Sure. We could play cards. Do you like Gin Rummy? Or I - I might have an old board game lying around. In fact, I think Charles got a Monopoly set in 1970 - Goodness, when was that?

SOPHIE
Um, no thanks.

VICTORIA
Let's see. It was just after he got that promotion.

Sophie rolls her eyes and starts to leave. Victoria snaps back into the moment.

VICTORIA
What do you normally do at home? With your mother, I mean?

Victoria seems suspicious of any activity Sophie and Maggie might be involved in.

SOPHIE
I don't know. Just hang out or watch TV or read.

VICTORIA
Okay well let's hang out.

Victoria is encouraged by this idea. She puts down her embroidery and looks expectantly to Sophie. Sophie just looks at her.

VICTORIA
So what do we do?

SOPHIE
I think I'm getting tired.

Sophie turns to leave, as the doorbell rings. Her eyes as wide as saucers, she bolts toward it.
INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - FOYER - EVENING

Sophie throws open the door. Her face falls when she sees it's Richard, dressed up and holding a single rose.

RICHARD
Guess I should've brought two roses. The old lady home?

Sophie doesn't answer. She just walks away. Victoria appears.

VICTORIA
Richard! What ever are you doing here? I thought I made myself clear.

Despite her protests, Victoria is obviously self-conscious that she isn't more made up.

RICHARD
Oh that hard-to-get act doesn't fool me a bit. Never did. Are you ready?

VICTORIA
Well, no. No. I mean, I can't go with you. I told you that.

Richard is disappointed, but not deterred.

RICHARD
Well. Another time then. G'day, m'lady.

He bows dramatically and then turns and leaves. Victoria shuts the door behind him, conflicted.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - SOPHIE'S BEDROOM - NIGHT

Sophie lies in bed, tossing and turning. She stares up at the canopy.

She gets up and goes to the window. She looks down at the garden.

She sits in the wicker chair, rocks back and forth.

She goes back to the bed. She picks up her rabbit and moves it like it's alive.
SOPHIE
Hello Arthur.

Sophie stares at the rabbit’s one eye, as if waiting for a response. Her face saddens.

She puts the rabbit down and stares off longingly.

FLASHBACK TO:

33 INT. MAGGIE’S APARTMENT – BEDROOM – NIGHT

Sophie lies in bed, snuggled up under the blankets. Maggie lies with her. Sophie holds her rabbit tightly. The scene is picturesque, but the sides of the frame are dark, encroaching on the idyllic image.

Maggie is reading Alice in Wonderland aloud, holding the book so both Sophie and the rabbit can see it.

MAGGIE
Alice started to her feet, for it flashed across her mind that she had never before seen a rabbit with either a waistcoat-pocket, or a watch to take out of it.

BACK TO:

34 INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE – SOPHIE’S BEDROOM – MORNING

Sophie lies flat on her back in bed, staring at the ceiling, her arms closed tightly around a framed photograph. It is a candid shot of herself and her mother, Sophie is smiling, Maggie is caught off guard. Finally she finds the strength to get up. She kisses the picture and opens her bedroom door to find the dirty shopping bags sitting outside her room.

35 INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE – BATHROOM – MORNING

An all-white bathroom with tile floors and a claw-footed bathtub.

Sophie sits on the edge of the tub. One bag of clothes sits across from her, a single frilly dress draped over the hamper. She stares at it.
EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - PORCH - DAY

Victoria has prepared lunch. Pink lemonade, a salad, and sandwiches. She serves the salad, placing an even amount in two bowls and then fishing through one to remove the onions. She takes cucumbers from the other. She hands Sophie the one with extra onions and no cucumbers.

SOPHIE
What are you doing? I hate onions.

Victoria looks startled. She sort of mumbles something to herself and quickly repairs her mistake, her hands slightly shaking.

The two begin to eat.

A long moment passes before Sophie's guilt overtakes her.

SOPHIE
I'm sorry I threw away the clothes.

VICTORIA
Thank you. This type of thing had better not happen again, young lady. I swear, you're just like...Maggie.

The comparison gives Sophie renewed strength.

SOPHIE
But they're stupid looking.

VICTORIA
That's absolutely untrue. A woman should always be well-dressed.

SOPHIE
I was well-dressed before, when my momma bought my clothes.

VICTORIA
Your mother was entirely incapable of raising a child, much less dressing one. You look like a lady now.

SOPHIE
I don't wanna look like a lady. And don't you dare say anything about my momma!
VICTORIA
Sophie, I knew your mother much longer than you did. I think I'm a more accurate judge of her character than you are. Besides, you have a bit of a bias, wouldn't you say? She was your mother, after all.

SOPHIE
And she was your daughter.

Sophie pushes her food away.

SOPHIE
I'm not hungry.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - HALLWAY - MORNING
Sophie wanders down the great halls of Victoria's house, dragging her hand against the wall. She stops in front of a door. She listens down the hall for a sound. She is greeted with silence, so she opens the door.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - CHARLES'S BEDROOM - DAY
Sophie opens the door of a room that has been through many changes. The room is a hodgepodge of the different purposes for which it's been used. The closet door is open, revealing men's shirts, neck ties, and shoes, indicating that its most recent use has been as Charles's bedroom. Several framed photographs of Maggie sit around the room.
41 INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - HALLWAY - DAY

Sophie moves on down the hall.

42 INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - MAGGIE'S BEDROOM - DAY

Sophie’s eyes light up as she realizes this is her mother’s bedroom.

She gently traces the brass headboard. She slowly sits down on the bed, touching the white lace comforter before lying down on her back. A slow smile creeps across her face as she closes her eyes.

She picks up two small round pillows off the bed. Still lying on her back, she thrusts them up over her head.

FLASHBACK TO:

43 INT. MAGGIE'S APARTMENT - LIVING ROOM - DAY

The area immediately surrounding Sophie and Maggie is well-decorated, small, but cozy and fun. The far ends of the room, however, are empty and decrepit. Though it’s barely noticeable, paint is starting to peel off the walls and there are holes in the walls.

Sophie wears a T-shirt and a short skirt. She carries a set of cheap pompons. Her mother is holding a set as well. They stand beside each other.

MAGGIE
Alright Sophie, now I was captain of the squad in high school, so you are getting lessons from an expert. You do know that right?

SOPHIE
I know.

MAGGIE
Alright then. Watch and learn.

Maggie begins the steps of a simple cheer. Sophie follows her. She gets the first steps right and then turns the wrong way and runs into her mother. They laugh.

BACK TO:
44 INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - MAGGIE’S BEDROOM - DAY
Sophie smiles wistfully, clutching the pillows to her chest.

45 EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - DAY
Sophie covertly sneaks out the front door and runs to the mailbox. Again, empty.
Victoria watches her from the window.

46 INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - KITCHEN - DAY
Victoria is pouring a glass of water. Sophie sits on a stool near her. She waits for Victoria to speak.

VICTORIA
Everything alright?

SOPHIE
Yeah.

She looks down at her hands, plays with the folds of her dress.

SOPHIE
Weird she hasn’t called or anything, huh? It must be taking her longer than she thought. She probably doesn’t want to get my hopes up yet.

VICTORIA
About what?

SOPHIE
Whatever she’s doing. I’m sure it’s a really good surprise. She’s probably… buying a new car. Or getting us a house on the beach somewhere. Yeah. That’s probably it. Or she’s looking for my dad maybe.

Victoria looks at her. Sophie’s eyes are filled with hope. Victoria offers a smile, which is just enough to restore Sophie’s faith.
INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - SOPHIE'S BEDROOM - DAY

Sophie walks into the room. Instantly she knows something’s not right. Her eyes go to the bed, where her sad one-eyed rabbit usually sits. In its place is a brand new stuffed bear * with a bright red bow around its neck.

Sophie gasps. Then she runs out of the room.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - PARLOR - DAY

Victoria is dusting off some framed pictures of Charles. Sophie’s voice echoes through the house.

SOPHIE (O.S.)
Victoria?

VICTORIA
In here, Sophie.

Sophie throws the door open.

SOPHIE
My rabbit. Where’s my rabbit?

Victoria is confused by Sophie’s panicked state.

VICTORIA
I thought you would like a new one. That old thing was falling apart.

SOPHIE
I‘ve had it since I was a baby. My mom got it for me.

VICTORIA
Oh Sophie, I’m so sorry. I thought I was helping.

SOPHIE
Well, stop trying to help me! (beat)
Where’d you put it?

VICTORIA
The trash can outside.
Sophie rushes out. Victoria is devastated.

EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - DRIVEWAY - DAY

Sophie sits on the ground, beside an empty trash can. She stares off into space. Victoria appears behind her, in the distance. She just watches.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - DINING ROOM - EVENING

Dinner time.

VICTORIA
Have you thought of anything you need, dear? I simply must make this up to you. New toys perhaps? Some paints or something?

SOPHIE
No.

VICTORIA
Well maybe you’d like to start gardening with me. Gardening is an excellent skill for a woman to have. And there’s so much work to be done. I’ve really let the yard go to shambles lately. It used to be so beautiful.

SOPHIE
What was my momma like when she was my age?

Victoria is caught off-guard.

VICTORIA
Well she was—she was a little girl. You know. She was like you. Now if we start by just mowing and, well we’ll probably have to resod—

SOPHIE
How was she like me?

VICTORIA
Sophie, don’t you want to help me figure out how to fix up the yard?

SOPHIE
Not really.
VICTORIA
Oh sure you do. You’ll have so much fun playing out there once it’s all tidied and pretty. And once school starts, your little friends can come play.

SOPHIE
But I really want to know--

VICTORIA
We can grow tomatoes! Oh I’ve always wanted to do that. And peppers and cucumbers--

51 INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - HALLWAY - NIGHT

Sophie wanders the endless hallways of Victoria’s mansion.

She finds a bookcase in a long hallway. It feels a bit out of place in the narrow space. She peruses the books. She finds an old copy of Alice in Wonderland. She starts to smile and gingerly touches the book’s spine. She pulls the book out.

Behind the book is a glimmer of bronze. Curious, Sophie moves a few more books to discover a doorknob. She takes a step back, astonished.

She attempts to move the bookcase by pushing it. It’s much too heavy.

Sophie listens for her grandmother. Then she begins taking out books until she has cleared a whole row. Then she reaches her arm through and turns the knob.

It opens. She slides through the shelf and topples over into the room.

52 INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - NURSERY - NIGHT

Sophie enters a darkened room. Light barely seeps in around the heavy curtains.

She flips on the light switch to reveal the nursery, dimly lit by a small lamp.

She goes further inside. She touches the spotless bedding of the crib. She pulls open a drawer to reveal an unopened package of diapers, talcum powder, and other items.
Sophie is confused. A picture frame on the dresser catches her eye. She picks it up to get a closer look. It is homemade and decorated with pink flowers. Letters spell out “SOPHIE” across the bottom.

Sophie gasps.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - PARLOR - NIGHT

Victoria is flipping through a photo album. Sophie approaches her cautiously.

SOPHIE
Hey Victoria?

Victoria doesn’t look up.

VICTORIA
Mm hmm?

SOPHIE
Did I live here when I was a baby?

Victoria is alarmed, but doesn’t give anything away.

VICTORIA
No.

SOPHIE
Oh. ‘Cause the nursery...

Victoria turns sharply to face Sophie. Tears are forming in Victoria’s eyes. She can hardly speak.

VICTORIA
Stay out of there, Sophie. Just stay away. I’m begging you.

Sophie doesn’t know how to respond.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - BATHROOM - NIGHT

Sophie is preparing for bed. Bored with the standard square mirror that hangs over the sink, she instead opts for an intricately engraved hand mirror resting on the counter. She admires its beauty and then begins to use it to brush her hair.

She smiles at her reflection, liking the way she looks framed by the ornate, antique mirror.
As she begins to lower the mirror back down, she bangs it on the edge of the counter and drops it.

It shatters into several pieces. She bends down to pick up the pieces, cutting her finger in the process.

*SOPHIE

Ow!

She clutches her finger, which is gushing blood. She puts it to her lips and sucks, but the blood continues.

She searches the cabinet. Inside is a box of Band-Aids, which, to Sophie’s dismay, is empty.

She wraps her finger with toilet paper and heads downstairs.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - PARLOR - NIGHT

Victoria is sitting on the sofa in her black dress, listening to music with her eyes closed. She seems to be lost in a sort of revelry. Around her are photographs of Victoria and Charles’s life together. There are also several “Happy Anniversary” cards. Sophie eyes them hesitantly.

She approaches Victoria cautiously.

*SOPHIE

Um, Victoria?

No response. Victoria’s head slowly sways back and forth, a sweet smile on her face. Her lips softly move, as if she is speaking.

Sophie takes a step closer.

*SOPHIE

Victoria?

Still nothing. Sophie takes a breath and stands in front of her.

*SOPHIE

Victoria!

Victoria’s eyes snap open, instantly fixated on Sophie’s face.

Sophie swallows hard.

*SOPHIE

Sorry to bother you. I just-
VICTORIA
You just what?

Her voice is cold and frightening. Sophie shuts her mouth.

VICTORIA
You think you can just walk in here whenever you want?

SOPHIE
No. No, but i-

She starts to hold up her bloodied finger.

VICTORIA
But you what, Maggie?

SOPHIE
Maggie? What-

VICTORIA
You come interrupt me because you cut your finger?

Sophie is too stunned to speak.

Victoria shuts her eyes again.

VICTORIA
I was just trying to enjoy some time alone with my husband on our anniversary. My dear, sweet Charles. I know you can’t understand. No one will ever love you like my Charles loves me.

She smiles again, only this time it is sinister.

VICTORIA
You thought you could take him. You thought he loved you more than he loved me. Well you can’t take him from me now, Maggie. He loves only me now.

Victoria is fighting back tears as she speaks. Sophie starts to back away, quietly sneaking across the hardwood floor. When she reaches the doorway, however, she steps on a squeaky board.

She freezes.
Victoria's eyes pop open once again. She jumps off the couch faster than seems possible for a woman in her state. She grabs Sophie tightly by the arm and drags her off.

56  INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - FOYER - CONTINUOUS

Victoria throws her into the walk-in closet. Sophie crumbles to the floor.

Victoria closes the door and slides a lock across the top of it.

VICTORIA
Sweet dreams, Maggie.

57  INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - COAT CLOSET - NIGHT

Sophie sits up, slowly. The light in the closet is off, the only light filtering in through the slats of the closet door is from a lamp in the foyer. She tries to open the door. Nothing.

Her small fingers try to grab at a slat and break it, but she’s not strong enough.

She moves to the back of the closet and amasses a pile of coats to make a small bed, wiping tears from her eyes.

Suddenly a figure appears seated near the front of the closet.

Sophie squints.

SOPHIE
Hello?

The figure turns. It is clearly a woman, her long hair visible against the back light.

Sophie looks confused for a moment. Then she speaks tentatively.

SOPHIE
Momma?

The figure doesn’t respond. Sophie creeps closer. It is indeed Maggie, but she is oblivious to Sophie’s presence.

SOPHIE
Momma! Momma?
Maggie is softly crying.

SOPHIE

momma, what’s wrong?

Maggie continues to ignore her. She mutters to herself.

MAGGIE

That witch. Who does she think she is?

Maggie moves to the back of the closet, to Sophie’s makeshift bed. She lies down.

Sophie curls up beside her, a small smile on her face from the touch of her mother.

SOPHIE

It’ll be okay, momma. I’m here.

CUT TO:

58 INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - CLOSET - MORNING 58

Victoria stands looking down at Sophie, who is still in the same position on the floor, her finger covered in dried blood.

VICTORIA

What on earth are you doing in here?

Sophie wakes up. At the sight of her grandmother, she shudders and tries to slide backward into the safety of the hanging coats.

VICTORIA

My goodness, child. Are you alright?

SOPHIE

Please leave me alone. Please.

VICTORIA

But how did you get in here? What happened to your finger?

Sophie looks at her, unsure if she should tell her the truth.

SOPHIE

(timid)

You locked me in here.
Victoria is taken aback.

VICTORIA
I what? Surely you can’t really believe that. Oh Sophie. I’m sorry. I’ve been careless. We should really talk about everything you’re going through with your mother.

SOPHIE
No. No, I don’t want to talk about her.

VICTORIA
But it would be good for you. Obviously you aren’t handling this well. Making up stories about your own grandmother locking you in a closet. Good heavens!

SOPHIE
No I’m okay. I think maybe I had a bad dream is all.

VICTORIA
Okay then. I must get this lock fixed though. It must be broken, to just lock itself like that.

SOPHIE
Yeah. Probably broken.

VICTORIA
Why don’t you get yourself cleaned up? Is that finger alright?

SOPHIE
Yeah, it’s fine.

EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE – GARDEN – MORNING

Barefoot, Sophie wanders outside. She can see Victoria inside the house, so she covertly sneaks through the trees until she reaches the edge of the property.
EXT. STREET - MORNING

Sophie meanders down the lonely street, kicking rocks and flowers. There isn’t much to the town, a few scattered houses here and there.

EXT. PLAYGROUND - DAY

Eventually she finds a tiny playground at the edge of a pond. She walks to the water’s edge and looks down at the murky blackness. Then she walks straight in, a determined expression on her face. Once she is up to her chest, she takes a deep breath and goes under.

The water calms down.

A moment later, she bursts from the surface, gasping for air.

Discouraged, she pulls herself out of the water and heads for a large plastic tube on the playground. Cold and wet, her feet cut, she curls up and falls asleep in the tube.

EXT. PLAYGROUND - DUSK

Over the sound of crickets comes a police siren, getting louder and louder. The flashing lights fill the tube with color as Sophie wakes. She freezes as she hears approaching footsteps.

SHERIFF (O.S.)

Sophie?

She hesitates. The SHERIFF sticks his head in the tube.

SHERIFF

I’ve been looking all over for you, little girl. You can’t just go runnin’ off like that.

Sophie doesn’t respond. He holds out his hand and pulls her out. As she steps out of the tube, she pauses again.

SOPHIE

Please don’t make me go back with her. She’s awful. She locked me in a closet and she’s crazy! Please help me!

The sheriff crouches down to her level.
SHERIFF
Sophie, I know you’re having a rough time. But your grandmother is trying to help you. Victoria’s a good woman who’s gone through a lot herself. I’ve known her a long time. She was worried sick today. You shouldn’t say things that aren’t true. Okay, darlin? Sophie sighs in defeat.

63 EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - NIGHT
Victoria throws open the door and is relieved to see her granddaughter, angrily standing next to the sheriff.

VICTORIA
Oh thank heaven!

Sophie ignores her and bolts inside.

64 INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - BATHROOM - MORNING
Sophie sits in the bathtub, her legs tightly clutched to her chest, trying to make sense of everything.

65 INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - KITCHEN - MORNING
Sophie, her hair dripping water onto the tile floor, expertly cracks an egg into a pan.

Victoria enters behind her.

VICTORIA
What are you doing?

Her eyes growing wide, Sophie freezes.

SOPHIE
Nothing. Just making something to eat.

VICTORIA
Well why didn’t you ask me? I’ll make you something.

SOPHIE
No! No, I got it.
Victoria studies Sophie’s face. Sophie doesn’t want to meet her eyes and her hand moves closer to the handle of the pan. Sophie’s fear finally registers and Victoria relents.

VICTORIA
Well, if you need anything, just ask.

Victoria manages a smile and walks away.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE – MAGGIE’S BEDROOM – MORNING

Sophie sits in her mother’s bedroom, her breakfast on a plate beside her. She has virtually destroyed the orderly closet; tons of boxes are opened all around the room, various items strewn about. She rifles through them, putting some belongings into a single box.

Sophie finds a high school yearbook. She flips through it. She finds a candid picture of Maggie and a boy, sitting at a table and laughing. The caption says his name is Bobby Bryan. Bobby signed beside it, an inscription that begins “Hey Gorgeous.”

The picture strikes Sophie. She touches it, her fingers gliding over both of their faces. She studies Bobby. She glances at herself in the mirror, studying her face, before looking back down at Bobby. She smiles and closes the yearbook.

She spots a white jewelry box on the dresser. She opens it.

Inside is a beautiful necklace, a sapphire hanging at the end of a silver chain. She holds it up to the light. Then she goes to the mirror and puts the necklace around her neck. She beams at her reflection.

The image in the mirror becomes that of Maggie, dressed in a blue prom dress. She touches the necklace and turns to look up at Bobby, the boy from the yearbook, standing beside her in a tux. He smiles at her.

BOBBY
Hey gorgeous.

MAGGIE
Isn’t it beautiful, Bobby?

BOBBY
Not as beautiful as you.

He offers his hand which Maggie gracefully takes.
A knock on the door jars Sophie back to the present. Victoria enters. She is more timid than we've seen her.

VICTORIA
Sophie, would you mind helping with dinner please?

Perplexed, Sophie looks down at the breakfast plate sitting beside her. She turns to the window. The setting sun is sending streaks of red and orange across the sky. Sophie turns back to the door, but Victoria is gone.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - KITCHEN - EVENING

Victoria motions to some mushrooms sitting on the counter, beside an empty can of cheap spaghetti sauce.

VICTORIA
Those need to be washed. Would you mind, dear?

Sophie goes to get them but as she leans over to grab a paper towel, Victoria spots the necklace.

VICTORIA
Where did you get that?

Her voice is as cold as ice, chilling Sophie to the bone.

SOPHIE
Get what?

VICTORIA
That necklace.

SOPHIE
I found it in my momma's room.

VICTORIA
I know you're having fun but maybe all this snooping around isn't such a good idea.

SOPHIE
Well there's nothing else to do around here.

Victoria stirs a pot of sauce, silent for a moment, trying to restrain herself.
SOPHIE
What’s the big deal? Where’d it come from?

Victoria fumbles for a response.

VICTORIA
Children shouldn’t ask so many questions.

SOPHIE
Did you give it to her?

VICTORIA
No.

SOPHIE
Then who did? Did Charles?

Victoria can’t handle it. She starts to break down.

VICTORIA
Sophie, please! Just leave it alone!

In her frenzy, she knocks the pot of sauce off the stove. It falls to the floor, the liquid splashing on Sophie’s bare legs.

Sophie squeals and darts behind the wall. She watches Victoria from behind its safety. A frazzled Victoria looks up to see her, peeking out from behind the wall, the sapphire necklace dangling from her neck.

FLASHBACK TO:

68
INT. MODEST HOME – KITCHEN – DAY

Same shot from before. Child Victoria hovers behind the wall, her pendant dangling from her neck, as she watches her mother break down in the kitchen.

BACK TO:

69
INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE – KITCHEN – EVENING

Stunned, Victoria just stares at her granddaughter. Sophie runs off, leaving a trail of spaghetti sauce on the floor.

Victoria sinks to the floor, finally realizing the impact her choices have had on her family.
INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - PARLOR - NIGHT

Victoria, still shaken up, picks up a framed photograph of Victoria and Charles on a dresser. She opens the frame and removes the picture to reveal a second picture behind it, of Charles and Maggie, who wears the sapphire necklace. Maggie wears her prom dress and both look happy. Victoria studies the photograph for a moment.

She reaches into the bottom drawer of a side table. At the very bottom she finds a stack of unsent letters addressed to Maggie Thorne in elegant feminine cursive. She touches them almost fearfully, reliving her mistakes.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - KITCHEN - DAY

Sophie sits on the floor, cleaning up the spaghetti sauce with a paper towel. Victoria enters the room, surprised.

VICTORIA
Goodness me, what ever are you doing?

Sophie is frightened by her grandmother’s presence.

SOPHIE
I’m sorry. I just didn’t want us to get bugs.

VICTORIA
Well you didn’t have to clean it. I was going to do it. In this house, whoever makes the mess cleans the mess. I just had some things to do first.

Sophie returns to her cleaning.

VICTORIA
Sophie, I think maybe we should talk.

SOPHIE
There’s nothing to talk about.

VICTORIA
We both know that’s not true. Look, this isn’t an easy thing for anyone. You don’t have to be strong all the time. Losing your mother...
Sophie begins to scrub the floor harder, though it is now spotless.

VICTORIA
I didn’t mean to frighten you earlier.

She waits for a response and still doesn’t get one. Victoria squats down, with difficulty.

VICTORIA
Sophie, please look at me.

Sophie still scrubs the floor.

VICTORIA
I think it’s clean, dear. Thank you.

Sophie continues to clean, but shakes her head vigorously at her grandmother’s comment.

VICTORIA
It’s clean, Sophie.

SOPHIE
No, it’s not! It’s not clean enough! It’s still dirty! It’s still dirty!

What exists of Victoria’s maternal instincts kick in and she reaches out and pulls Sophie towards her. She wraps her arms around her tightly.

VICTORIA
It’s okay, it’s okay. You’re okay.

The two sit in silence, gently rocking back and forth. For the first time, Sophie lets it all out.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - MAGGIE’S BEDROOM - DAY

Sophie goes through her mom’s closet.

She picks up clothes and tries to smell them; she frowns at the realization that years of storage have taken away any remnants of her mother’s scent.

She finds Maggie’s blue prom dress. She strokes the fabric before pulling it over her head. She’s drowning in it, but doesn’t care.
Behind her, the door opens and Victoria enters.

Maggie.

Victoria is thrilled to see the girl she thinks is her daughter. Sophie turns but Victoria doesn’t recognize her.

VICTORIA
You came back.

Victoria rushes to her and hugs her tight. Sophie is flustered but plays along.

VICTORIA
Oh thank heavens. It’s so good to see you. You’ve missed so much.

Victoria begins crying.

VICTORIA
I was so afraid I’d never see you again. That I wouldn’t get to say goodbye to my little girl.

Sophie can’t handle it. She wriggles away from Victoria’s arms.

SOPHIE
Victoria, it’s me! It’s Sophie!

Victoria shakes her head, her eyes closed so she can’t see Sophie in front of her.

VICTORIA
No. No. Be Maggie. Just be Maggie. Give me one more chance.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - SOPHIE’S BEDROOM - NIGHT

Sophie, dressed in her nightgown, stands with a box full of Maggie’s belongings. She is midway through redecorating the room with Maggie’s things – replacing pictures, placing crafts and drawings on the dresser, the mirror, anywhere. A string of beads goes across the canopy.

Victoria enters.
VICTORIA
Sorry to disturb you, but I just wanted to check on you.

SOPHIE
I’m fine.

Victoria awkwardly hovers at the door.

VICTORIA
Suppose we had a nice dinner tomorrow night. Got dressed up and had a real feast. Wouldn’t that be fun?

SOPHIE
Okay.

Sophie’s agreement pleases Victoria immensely.

VICTORIA
Very good. Good night.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE – DINING ROOM – NIGHT

Victoria has gone all out. The table is decorated with flowers and candles and an elegant meal. Sophie, wearing a dress, goes to sit at the end of the table, opposite Victoria, but she is stopped by her grandmother. Victoria motions for her to come closer.

Sophie moves a seat down.

VICTORIA
Come sit by me.

Sophie reluctantly takes the seat beside Victoria.

VICTORIA
Now, isn’t this fun?

Sophie provides an obligatory nod.

SOPHIE
You got flowers for this?

VICTORIA
Well uh actually Richard had them sent over.

Embarrassed, Victoria tries to change the subject.
VICTORIA
I’m afraid I may have cooked a bit too much. I got a tad carried away.

Victoria is obviously very proud of her meal. She begins to serve Sophie. She offers a spoonful of green beans but falters as she looks at her granddaughter.

VICTORIA
You know, Sophie, that necklace really looks quite beautiful on you.

Sophie instantly drops her cold demeanor and beams as Victoria struggles with her next words.

VICTORIA
You look so much like her.

SOPHIE
Really?

Victoria lowers her head and nods. Sophie smiles.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - HALLWAY - EVENING

Sophie wanders down the hall toward her bedroom. She pauses outside Maggie’s room. She touches the door and smiles, then hears a noise through the slightly open door. She pushes it open enough to see inside.

Victoria kneels at the side of the bed, praying.

Sophie watches her for a long moment, Victoria unaware of her presence.

SOPHIE
What happened between you and my momma?

Victoria is caught off guard, embarrassed that Sophie found her.

VICTORIA
Excuse me?

Sophie steps into the room. She’s not going to let Victoria get off that easily.

SOPHIE
You and my momma. What was wrong?
Victoria stands up, dusts her hands off, and sits on the edge of the bed.

VICTORIA
Well, we never quite got along.

SOPHIE
Why not?

VICTORIA
There were quite a few reasons, I imagine.

SOPHIE
But you loved her, right?

Victoria doesn’t know how to respond. She plays with her napkin and ponders the question.

VICTORIA
Relationships can be complicated.

SOPHIE
But, you have to love your daughter, right? Isn’t that like a rule?

A long pause.

VICTORIA
Charles, he was a much better parent than I was.

INT. PARLOR - DAY

Victoria and Sophie sit across from each other, reading. Victoria is engrossed in her book, but Sophie keeps looking up at Victoria, trying to get the nerve up to speak.

Finally,
SOPHIE
What happened to Charles?

Victoria looks up from her book. She sighs and then, with difficulty, responds.

VICTORIA
He passed away about two years ago. He was very sick.

SOPHIE
Did my mom know when he died?

VICTORIA
No. I couldn’t find her. I tried. I thought she should know.

SOPHIE
Why did you and Charles sleep in separate rooms?

An even longer pause.

VICTORIA
I’ve made some mistakes in my life. Some big ones. And Charles was aware of them. There came a time when he decided it was best to have separate rooms.

SOPHIE
What kind of mistakes?

VICTORIA
You’re a very inquisitive child, Sophie.

SOPHIE
I know. What mistakes?

VICTORIA
Mistakes with your mother.

SOPHIE
Oh. So the not getting along thing... that was your fault?

Victoria is flustered and doesn’t respond. Sophie quickly changes topics.
SOPHIE
How long were you married?

VICTORIA
Forty-nine years.

Victoria wistfully stares around the room.

SOPHIE
Wow. How old are you?

Victoria laughs, breaking out of her reverie.

VICTORIA
Pretty old, I’m afraid. So tell me Sophie, what do you usually do for fun? Do you have a lot of friends?

SOPHIE
Yeah. Of course. I’m always hanging out with them. We ride our bikes around and hang out at the mall and go see movies. We have sleepovers constantly.

Victoria can see right through Sophie’s exaggerated lies.

VICTORIA
Just as I expected.

INT. SOPHIE’S BEDROOM – MORNING 73C

A sleepy Sophie rolls over to find Victoria beaming down at her from beside the bed.

VICTORIA
I have a surprise for you, dear.

She pulls out Sophie’s rabbit, a bit more dirty and beaten up than before. Sophie lights up immediately and reaches for him.

SOPHIE
Arthur! How’d you get him?

VICTORIA
It’s not something I’m proud of. I spent some time at the dump. But I’ve washed it, so it should be fairly clean anyway.

Sophie holds the rabbit tight.
SOPHIE
Thank you, Victoria!
VICTORIA
You're welcome. What should we do this summer? We should do something fun before school starts.

Sophie grows suddenly solemn at the familiarity of the conversation.

* SOPHIE
She is coming back, isn’t she?

Victoria doesn’t know what to say. She manages a weak smile.

VICTORIA
Sophie. You know she’s-

SOPHIE
I miss her.

VICTORIA
I know, dear.

Victoria hesitates for what seems like an eternity, before speaking nearly inaudibly.

VICTORIA
I miss her too.
75  INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - HALLWAY - NIGHT

Sophie walks down the hall. She reaches her mom’s old room. The door is open.

She peeks through.

76  INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - MAGGIE’S BEDROOM - NIGHT

Maggie and Bobby are inside. Maggie, wearing a full skirt, spins around, while he watches her from the bed.

MAGGIE
Come spin with me.

Bobby rolls his eyes exaggeratedly but gets off the bed. She grabs his hand. They hold hands and spin around in circles. Sophie runs in.

SOPHIE
Ooh my turn next.

Maggie lets go. Bobby loses his balance and nearly falls down.
BOBBY

Hey!

Maggie and Sophie laugh.

SOPHIE

Okay my turn now.

Sophie tries to take her mother's hands. Bobby comes up and wrestles Maggie to the ground.

BOBBY

Alright you're paying for that one.

Maggie laughs, fighting back.

SOPHIE

I wanna spin now. Okay? Can I spin?

Bobby lets Maggie pin him to the ground. She thrusts her arms up in the air.

MAGGIE

Aha. Victory.

Then he flips her over.

MAGGIE

Oh shoot!

SOPHIE

Okay you guys. This isn't funny. I wanna have fun too.

Bobby begins to kiss Maggie.

SOPHIE

Eww. Come on. We're gonna play. Hey. I'm here. Don't you want to play with me?

Bobby grabs Maggie up off the ground.

BOBBY

Come on. Let's get out of here.

SOPHIE

Finally.

MAGGIE

Where?
BOBBY
Anywhere. Come on.

They start to leave, getting a bit dark and transparent as they head for the door.

SOPHIE
Wait you have to take me with you!
Please take me!

Sophie starts to yell after them.

SOPHIE
Wait come back.

She runs after them, hitting her mother on the back with her fists.

SOPHIE
Momma stop. Take me with you. Don’t leave me here all alone. Please stop leaving me.

She sinks to the ground, grabbing hold of her mother’s leg. Maggie and Bobby fade away.

SOPHIE
Come back. You can’t do this. You can’t.

Sophie lies on the ground, pounding the floor with her fists.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - SOPHIE’S BEDROOM - NIGHT

Sophie stares at her room, at the collage of her mother that it has become. In a rage, she begins to destroy everything that reminds her of her mother.

SOPHIE
Why haven’t you come for me?

She rips down feather boas and tosses picture frames. Several of them break as they hit walls or furniture. Sophie pays no mind.

EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - GARDEN - NIGHT

Sophie has amassed a hodgepodge of items - sleeping bags, comforters, chairs, branches. She uses them all to assemble a tent in the center of the garden. She leaves a hole at the top, just big enough for her to see a few stars.
EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE – GARDEN – TENT – NIGHT

She settles down into her sleeping bag.

VICTORIA (O.S.)
Sophie? I brought you some water. I’m sorry if I frightened you, dear.

SOPHIE
Go away.

VICTORIA (O.S.)
Okay... I’ll leave it right here if you want it. Are you going to stay out here all night?

Sophie rolls away from the entrance of the tent.

VICTORIA
Well please be careful, okay?

Victoria leaves her alone. Sophie continues to lie there, deep in thought.

Sophie slowly becomes aware of her situation. She peeks outside the tent. It’s very dark.

She looks through her tent. She gets the nerve up to stick her head out of the tent. Through the darkness she can barely make out the looming outline of the house. It feels miles away.

She ducks back inside, clutching her rabbit tightly. Then she goes to the far corner, curls up into a ball within her sleeping bag, and closes her eyes.

MAGGIE
We always wanted to go camping.

Sophie opens her eyes. Her mother lies beside her. They smile at each other. Maggie puts her arm around Sophie and they snuggle, a huge smile across Sophie’s face.

SOPHIE
Good night, momma.

MAGGIE
Good night, Sophie.

CUT TO:
EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - GARDEN - TENT - MORNING

Sophie wakes up. She is still bundled awkwardly in a corner. She stretches out, body aching from sleeping in that position. The sun is intense through the hole in the roof.

She lies on her back, eyes squinting into the sun, thinking.

EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - GARDEN - MORNING

Sophie crawls out of the tent. A chair sits a few feet away, a blanket on top of it, and an empty coffee cup beside it.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - KITCHEN - MORNING

Victoria stands beside the coffee percolator, pouring water in. She yawns as Sophie enters. Beside her sits a heart shaped box of chocolates with a note attached.

VICTORIA
Oh you’re awake.

SOPHIE
Yeah.

VICTORIA
How was your night of camping?

SOPHIE
It was good.

Her eyes flicker to a stack of mail sitting on the counter. She spots a postcard, bright and colorful. It drastically stands out from the rest of the white envelopes.

VICTORIA
Do you think you’ll be spending another night out there or might we think about dismantling the tent?

We switch from Sophie’s point of view to an omniscient one, revealing the stack of mail with no postcard.

SOPHIE
No, I think I’ll stay in the house tonight.

VICTORIA
Very good. Perhaps after breakfast then...
Sophie nods, her eyes still focused on the postcard. Victoria turns away, to grab some creamer from the counter. Sophie takes the opportunity to snatch the postcard from the counter.

SOPHIE

I’ll be upstairs!

She darts off.

---

83

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - SOPHIE’S BEDROOM - MORNING

Sophie runs into the room and slams the door. Finally, privacy for her to enjoy her postcard.

She looks first at the picture — a beautiful beach with tropical palm trees and a gorgeous sunset. She eagerly flips it over. The other side reads: “Dear Sophie, Oh my love, how I’ve missed you. Hope you’re getting along all right with Grams. I’m thinking of you every day and will see you soon. I love you, Momma.”

Sophie grins from ear to ear.

84

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - PARLOR - DAY

Victoria sits in her usual chair, knitting. Sophie bounds into the room.

Without a word, Sophie picks up some of her yarn and a needle and sits opposite her. She starts to knit.

Victoria looks at her strangely.

VICTORIA

Sophie, do you have the slightest idea how to knit?

SOPHIE

No. Ow.

VICTORIA

Come here. I’ll show you.

Sophie goes to her side. Victoria instructs her on threading the needle.
INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - SOPHIE’S BEDROOM - NIGHT

Sophie’s room is mostly repaired. She sets up picture frames without glass. Victoria enters the room. She picks up a small broken statue and tries to fit the two pieces together.

VICTORIA
Sophie, I was wondering if you might do me a favor.

SOPHIE
Okay. What’s up, Grams?

Victoria is encouraged by the new nickname.

VICTORIA
Well I was going to go to the cemetery tomorrow to visit Charles. I was hoping you’d join me.

SOPHIE
If you want.

VICTORIA
Very good.

EXT. CEMETERY - DAY

A beautiful, tree-filled cemetery.

Victoria stands at a grave marked Charles Thorne 1935 - 2006. A bouquet of yellow roses lies near the headstone. Sophie stands a ways back, reading headstones, expressionless.

VICTORIA
Hello, my love. How I wish you were here to help me with Sophie.

(MORE)
VICTORIA (cont'd)
I realize how difficult it is to raise a child alone. I'm so sorry I put that all on you.

Victoria dabs her eyes with a handkerchief.

VICTORIA
Sophie. Come here.

Sophie walks toward her, taking care not to step over any graves.

VICTORIA
Sophie, this is my husband, Charles.

Sophie looks at her strangely.

VICTORIA
Well it's not much of a meeting, but it's the best we can do, right?

SOPHIE
Are you okay?

Tears are beginning to trickle down Victoria's face.

VICTORIA
Yes. Yes, I'm fine. You know, he bought me yellow roses the night he proposed. We had them at our wedding too.

SOPHIE
Why yellow?

VICTORIA
He used to tell me that I brightened his life so he felt it was appropriate. In the beginning anyway. Things have a way of changing.

She can barely get the words out.

SOPHIE
I'm sorry he's gone, Grams.

VICTORIA
It's a hard thing to deal with - death.

SOPHIE
Yeah I guess so.
Victoria sinks down to her knees and runs her fingers over the headstone.

VICTORIA
The important thing is to always remember the good times and to know that you still love them and they still love you, even if they're not around to show it. Because they do love you. Even if you wronged them. Right, Charles? You still love me. Maggie didn’t take that away.

SOPHIE
What are you talking about?

Victoria is no longer talking to Sophie.

VICTORIA
And besides, they’re somewhere wonderful, where it never rains and no one ever cries and everything is forgiven. He forgives me now. I’m sorry, Charles. I’m sorry I didn’t want her.

Sophie is confused, but touched by Victoria’s affection for her husband. She sits down beside her.

SOPHIE
It’s only for a little while, Grams. You'll be together again. (beat)

Like me and my momma.

Victoria’s glossy eyes turn to her granddaughter, thinking Sophie is finally coming to terms with Maggie’s death.

VICTORIA
That’s right, Sophie. Like you and your momma.

Sophie takes her hand and gently squeezes it. They share a quiet moment as Victoria leans against her husband’s headstone.

SOPHIE
Let’s go home. We’ll have some ice cream. For Charles.

Victoria wipes her eyes.
INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - VICTORIA'S BEDROOM - EVENING

Victoria is dressed up, with jewelry and make-up. Her hair is carefully styled. She slowly applies lipstick, her hand shaking so violently she can barely get it on straight. She stands, surveying her appearance in the mirror. Content, she picks up her purse and heads for the door. She opens it just slightly, and listens.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - FOYER - NIGHT

Sophie lets Richard into the house.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - VICTORIA'S BEDROOM - CONTINUOUS

Victoria can hear Sophie and Richard talking. She takes a step forward, but she is too weak to continue. She breaks down, sobbing hysterically, thick black tears streaming down her perfectly made-up face.

A moment later, Sophie appears at her side. She sits on the floor beside Victoria.

    SOPHIE
    Charles will understand.

Victoria shakes her head.

    VICTORIA
    I can't. I've hurt him too much already.

Sophie hugs Victoria tightly as she sobs like a child.

FADE OUT.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - HALLWAY - MORNING

Sophie knocks on the door. No response. She slowly opens it.
INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - CHARLES’S BEDROOM - MORNING

Victoria is sitting on Charles’s bed. She holds a stack of photos in her hands. Sophie takes a step closer to her.

SOPHIE
Victoria?

Victoria doesn’t look up from her pictures.

VICTORIA
Hmm?

Sophie stands right next to Victoria and takes the photos from her hand. Victoria’s hands stay frozen, as if they were still holding the pictures.

SOPHIE
Why don’t we start gardening today?

Victoria’s eyes move from her hands to Sophie’s face. Slowly, life returns to her eyes and a smile spreads across her face.

VICTORIA
That’s a lovely idea.

Sophie smiles and starts to leave the room. Victoria follows, not giving the abandoned photographs a second look.

EXT. PLANT NURSERY - DAY

Sophie eagerly picks up gorgeous exotic flowers and holds them up to Victoria, who is inspecting seed packets. Victoria smiles but shakes her head. Sophie is not so easily dissuaded and continues her search.

EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - GARDEN - DAY

Victoria and Sophie work on the garden. Sophie delights in dirtying up her hands, which she proudly holds up for her grandmother.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - PARLOR - EVENING

Sophie stands before the record player, an old album in her hand. She studies it for a moment before plonking the record in the player. She waits for something to happen.
Victoria appears behind her and shows her how to position the needle. A 1940s record comes on.

SOPHIE
So this is what you do all day huh?
VICTORIA
More or less. I sew and read and listen to music. When you get to be my age, there’s not much else to do really.

SOPHIE
Doesn’t that get boring?

Victoria pauses for a moment, studying Sophie.

VICTORIA
Yes. Yes, it does.

They laugh.

Victoria looks at her for a moment, contemplating something. Then,

VICTORIA
Sophie, do you like to dance?

SOPHIE
Dance? I don’t really know how.

VICTORIA
May I teach you something?

SOPHIE
Um, I guess.

VICTORIA
My mother taught me how to Charleston when I was young.

Victoria shows Sophie the basic steps. Sophie tries along with her, but can’t get it right at all. They laugh together as they make fools of themselves.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - SOPHIE’S BEDROOM - NIGHT

Sophie has fallen asleep reading Alice in Wonderland with the light on. Victoria pulls the comforter up around her, removes the book, and turns the light off. She looks at her for a moment before gently kissing Sophie’s forehead.

Sophie stirs.

VICTORIA
(whispering)

Good night, dear.
SOPHIE
Will you let me know when my mom calls tomorrow?

VICTORIA
What?

SOPHIE
She’d never forget my birthday.
Concerned, Victoria watches her fall back asleep.

INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - KITCHEN - MORNING

Sophie hops down the stairs. Victoria is preparing breakfast.

VICTORIA
How does French toast sound? That’s a nice birthday treat, isn’t it?

SOPHIE
Sure. Did Momma call yet?

Victoria freezes. She turns to her. She looks Sophie in the eyes. She seems resolved for the first time.

VICTORIA
Sophie-

SOPHIE
I’ll be outside! Let me know when she calls!

Sophie scampers off.
Victoria puts down her spatula and watches her go.

EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - GARDEN - DAY

Sophie wanders through the garden, exploring. She kicks a few rocks as she walks around.

She finds an abandoned, overgrown section of the garden she hadn’t yet been to. Amidst the weeds and broken bottles, she finds a tire. She struggles to pull it out of its grassy home, then smiles at it.
99

EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - GARDEN - LATER

Sophie tests the strength of the rope on her shabby new tire swing. She grins and plops down, delighted. Clearly unstable, it wobbles a bit, but she starts to swing anyway.

VICTORIA

(O.S.)
Sophie!

Sophie eagerly hops off the swing and runs to her voice.

100

EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - PORCH - DAY

Victoria is putting the finishing touches on her birthday decorations. Streamers, balloons, and a banner reading “Happy Birthday” adorn the porch. A birthday cake sits at the center of the table, beside two place settings.

Sophie smiles. Victoria lights the candles on the cake.

VICTORIA

Make a wish, dear.

Victoria immediately regrets her words, as Sophie instantly grows solemn. She tries to smile and blows out the candle, but her sadness remains.

VICTORIA

It’s chocolate.

Sophie manages another smile. Victoria dishes some up and the two sit down. Sophie tries a bite.

SOPHIE

Thank you for the party.

VICTORIA

You’re welcome. Next year, it’ll be a big celebration, with all your new school friends.

Sophie nods, weakly.

A long moment passes as the two eat in silence.

VICTORIA

I should get some ice cream. How silly of me to forget.

Victoria starts to get up from the table.
SOPHIE
No. I think I’m full.

* Sophie gets up from the table and heads back to the garden.
* Victoria watches her go.

VICTORIA
Oh. Alright.

101  EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - GARDEN - DAY

Sophie returns to the swing and solemnly sits, barely moving. She looks up at the towering trees. She closes her eyes.

SOPHIE
I wish my momma would come for me.

102  EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - PORCH - DAY

Victoria starts to clean up the cake, but stops and looks out toward the garden. Concerned, she heads after Sophie.

103  EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - GARDEN - DAY

Eight year old Victoria stands in the tire swing, looking just as she did in the beginning of the film. She stares up at the trees, a huge smile on her innocent face. Hearing Victoria approach, she shifts her gaze to look at her.

Victoria stares back, shocked.

The child’s face instantly changes to immense, unbearable sadness.

CHILD VICTORIA
Don’t you see, Victoria? Don’t you see where it all started?

Victoria doesn’t know how to react. She’s completely frozen.

SOPHIE (O.C.)

Grams?

SOPHIE
Grams? What’s wrong? I found the tire in the garden.
SOPHIE (cont’d)
I thought it’d be fun. I can take it down if you want.

Victoria can barely stand up. She leans against a tree.

Sophie leaves her swing to come to Victoria’s side.

SOPHIE

What is it, Grams?

Victoria shakes her head. Then she stops and looks long and hard into Sophie’s eyes. Sophie is frightened, but stays strong.

VICTORIA

My mother made me a tire swing when I was a child.

Victoria smiles.

VICTORIA

Well. Someone has a party to return to, don’t they?

Sophie nods, confused.

104

EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE – PORCH – DAY

Sophie sits at the table. Victoria hands her an envelope.

VICTORIA

Happy birthday, Sophie.

Sophie unenthusiastically takes it. She opens it.

Pulling it out of the envelope, she freezes.

The card is of Alice in Wonderland, Alice and the caterpillar. A ten dollar bill pokes out of the top.

Tears well up in Sophie’s eyes.

VICTORIA

I just had to get it for you when I saw it. I know how much you love that book.

The tears are coming harder now. She puts the card down and stands. She stammers through her words.

SOPHIE

I have to go.
INT. SOPHIE'S BEDROOM - DUSK

Sophie returns to her room, distraught. She heads for the closet.

INT. CLOSET - DUSK

She plops down on the floor and pulls out boxes. From one, she pulls out an envelope. Her name is scrawled across the top. Sophie studies it for a second before taking a deep breath and pulling it from the envelope. A different Alice in Wonderland birthday card, but obviously from the same series. The message inside is carelessly scribbled, the handwriting nearly unintelligible.

Sophie caresses it. The grief overwhelms her and she closes her eyes.

SOPHIE
(whispers)
Happy Birthday, Sophie.

She puts the card down and reaches back into the box.

A small box, childishly painted, with Sophie's name scrawled on the top in glitter. She touches her name curiously, as if she doesn't recognize the box. With some trepidation, she opens it. It contains a newspaper article.

She knows what it is instantly. She stops herself and puts the paper back inside the box. She struggles with herself for a moment before pulling it back out again. She closes her eyes as she unfolds it. Slowly, she opens them again.

An obituary. For Maggie Thorne.

Tears well up in her eyes as she slowly loses control. She throws the paper down and tries to stand up but she's too weak. She clutches her head as she falls into the wall.

FLASHBACK TO:

EXT. BEACH - DAY

The same shot as earlier, but a dark, overcast day. Happy families are all around, but Sophie sits alone. She digs into the sand with a nerf football. She looks off down the * shoreline before bouncing her * ball away.
108 INT. MAGGIE’S REAL KITCHEN - AFTERNOON

Maggie’s kitchen as it really is, dark and filthy. A roach crawls across the counter as Sophie opens the fridge. Its contents are a six pack of beer, a bottle of ranch dressing, and ketchup.

109 INT. MAGGIE’S BEDROOM - MORNING

Again, the same shot as earlier, with Sophie in bed with her rabbit. Only this time, the room is not a celestial themed bedroom, but a barely furnished bedroom. Sophie lies on an air mattress on the floor, with her Mother passed out on the bed next to her, an empty bottle of tequila and a bag of weed on the bedside table.

Sophie gets up. She studies her mother for a moment.

SOPHIE
Momma? Momma, I need some breakfast.

Maggie grunts and pulls the covers over her head. Sophie takes a breath and steps a bit closer.

SOPHIE
I’m sorry to bug you Momma. It’s just that I didn’t have dinner last night and I’m - I’m really hungry.

MAGGIE
(snarling)
You goddamn brat! Go to the store! I’m sleeping!

Sophie waits another minute and then relents.

SOPHIE
Okay Momma, sorry to bother you. I love you.

Maggie doesn’t answer.

BACK TO:

110 INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - CLOSET - NIGHT

Sophie violently shakes her head, clutching her hair.
SOPHIE
No. No. No.
She continues to repeat the word.

CUT TO:

111 INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - BATHROOM - NIGHT
Sophie’s face underwater. She tightly squeezes her eyes shut. Then she opens them.

She pops up out of the water and draws her knees close to her body. She sits in the bathtub, shivering.

Head tilted down, her eyes slowly move to the mirror. After a moment, a vision of her mother appears, her face with a bluish tint, eyes closed. Maggie’s eyes suddenly pop open and stare back at Sophie.

Sophie squeezes her eyes shut.

BACK TO:

112 INT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - SOPHIE’S BEDROOM - NIGHT
Still shaken, Sophie enters the room, dressed in a white lace nightgown. As she heads for her bed, she spots something lying on the floor. She bends down to get a closer look.

A syringe.

A brief look of recognition flashes across her face. She quickly straightens up, blowing it off. She reaches for the canopy but just as she starts to move it, an arm falls out, landing on the bed, the arm overhanging. As it hits the bed, the hand opens and a dozen syringes fall out, falling in slow motion to the ground.

Sophie tears the canopy open.

Maggie lies flat on her back on the bed, her motionless eyes staring at the ceiling. Her mouth is open in an eternal gasp. The inside of her arm is purple and swollen.

Sophie screams and shuts her eyes.

When she opens them again, the bed is empty.
Suddenly the door is thrown open. Victoria stands in the doorway, terrified.

VICTORIA
Sophie, my God! What happened?

Sophie is still stunned. She turns slowly, looking at Victoria and then back at the bed.

SOPHIE
It's nothing. I - I just thought I saw a bug. But it wasn't.

Victoria isn't convinced.

VICTORIA
Sophie, I'm begging you. Just talk-

SOPHIE
It was just a bug. I'm fine. Good night.

VICTORIA
Well, why don't you let me tuck you in?

SOPHIE
No. I'm okay.

VICTORIA
Come on, dear.

Victoria holds the canopy open. Sophie hesitates, staring at the empty bed. Finally, she takes a step forward and crawls onto the bed. She sits awkwardly for a moment, looking around.

VICTORIA
Do you want me to look for the bug?

Sophie shakes her head.

VICTORIA
Okay then.

Victoria waits as Sophie pulls up the covers and climbs inside. Victoria pulls them up around her neck, patting them down, enclosing Sophie tightly in the sheets, so she can barely move.

There is terror in Sophie's eyes as Victoria closes the sheer curtains and walks away.
VICTORIA

Sleep tight.

The moonlight filters through the canopy, bathing it in eerie blue light.

Sophie closes her eyes for a moment and then opens them again. She peers around the bed. Closes them again. Opens one more time, as if she is trying to catch someone. Finally satisfied, her eyes flutter closed.

Suddenly a loud SLAM.

Sophie's eyes pop open but she is too afraid to move.

A strong breeze blows the canopy. The curtains repeatedly blow open for a split second and then close, revealing an array of images - Maggie stands with her back to the bed, but when the curtain blows open again, she stands dead before the bed; Victoria grins at Sophie, holding Arthur with two hands, then she glares menacingly, the rabbit's head in one hand, body in another.

And then the fabric blows up over Sophie's face, blocking her vision.

An eerie howling sound echoes through the room, bouncing off the fabric-ed walls of the bed. Sophie tightly squeezes her eyes closed.

And then, just as quickly as it started, everything stops.

The room is perfectly still and quiet.

Sophie's eyes remain closed for a moment. Then she gradually opens them. The fabric is still on her face.

She slowly begins to move, her arm fighting the covers to move up towards her face. It pauses when it gets there.

Still quiet.

She continues, drawing the fabric away from her face until her eyes are once again clear. Sophie surveys her surroundings.

The curtains are still tightly drawn. All she can see are shadows dancing in the moonlight, like people surrounding the bed. She pulls the covers up to her nose, gripping them until her knuckles turn white.

And then, a voice comes.
VOICE (O.S.)

Sophie....
The voice seems to float on the breeze that blew the canopy open. It is distorted, inhuman.

At the sound, the shadows vanish.

The room is once again still. A trembling Sophie slowly raises herself from the bed. She gingerly opens the curtains a crack and peers out.

Everything is as it should be.

Except for one thing.

Sophie’s bedroom window is wide open.

She gasps and ducks back inside the canopy.

VOICE (O.S.)

Sophie...

Again. It’s definitely coming from outside.

Sophie places one foot down. Then the other.

She is hesitant to leave the safety of the bed. Her fingers dwell on the sheets and then on the curtains, until she finally takes a step towards the window.

She pauses, listening.

Silence.

She crosses the room and looks out the window.

* Out in the garden is Maggie. She waves. Sophie is confused.

Maggie motions for her to come down.

Sophie shakes her head vehemently.

Maggie motions again and a furious breeze blows through the window, violently pushing Sophie’s hair and nearly knocking her down.

EXT. FOREST - NIGHT

Sophie wanders through a dense forest. It is thick with twisted tree trunks, bare branches forming a canopy so dense that barely any moonlight creeps through. The forest feels alive. A blanket of fog covers the ground.
She steps carefully over jagged stones and knotted tree roots.
A figure in white runs between the trees in front of her.
Sophie looks up, curious.

SOPHIE
Momma?

The figure dashes by again, slow enough to reveal a white dress and long brown hair.

MAGGIE (O.C.)
Sophieeee.

The voice feels cold and eerie, almost like it’s part of the fog.
Sophie tries to chase her, calling after her.

SOPHIE
Momma? Momma, don’t go.

Frustrated, Sophie stops and turns. Her mother is standing directly behind her.

MAGGIE
Sophie, you know I’m not dead. You would know it if I was. We’re best friends. We share something that nobody else does. You know that I’m alive.

Sophie takes a step closer, entranced by her mother’s glowing beauty. Then she stops.

FLASHBACK TO:

114 INT. MAGGIE’S BEDROOM – DAY

Maggie lies dead on the bed. She is on her back, staring up at the ceiling.
Sophie stands before her, her face not registering the death.

SOPHIE
Momma? Are you sick? You must be tired.
Sophie crawls into bed beside her mother. She turns on her side and closes her eyes.

BACK TO:

115  EXT. FOREST - NIGHT

SOPHIE

No.

Maggie's glow suddenly vanishes.

SOPHIE

We don't share anything. You're dead. I saw you. I saw you dead.

Maggie is stunned.

MAGGIE

No, Sophie, it was just your imagination. Your mind playing tricks on you.

Sophie shakes her head.

SOPHIE

I'm sorry, mama.

Sophie turns and walks away. Maggie watches her go, one ghostly arm reaching out after her.

116  EXT. VICTORIAN HOUSE - PORCH - NIGHT

Victoria stands outside, watching Sophie return to the house. She somehow understands the severity of what has just occurred.

When Sophie reaches the porch, she stops before Victoria, who squats down so as to be eye level with her granddaughter. They stare into each other's eyes, an understanding passing between them. Then Sophie reaches out and hugs Victoria. They hold each other tightly. For the first time, neither is awkward. Victoria lovingly strokes Sophie's hair.

VICTORIA

You're going to be okay, Sophie. You're going to be the one to make it.
Victoria closes her eyes and kisses Sophie gently on the head. When she opens them again, she stares at her for a long time. With difficulty,

VICTORIA
I love you, Sophie.

Sophie smiles.

EXT. CEMETERY - DAY

A beautiful summer day. The sun shines warmly down upon the tree-filled cemetery. Sophie is smartly dressed, looking more polished than we’ve seen her. She kneels before a grave and places a bouquet of bright yellow roses at the headstone. Close on her face as she smiles wistfully. She places her fingers gently to her lips and then touches them to the headstone. A single tear falls from her eye and rolls down her cheek.

We see the headstone for the first time. It’s Maggie’s.

Sophie pulls her rabbit out of a bag she’s brought. She holds it in her hands for a moment, looking at it long and hard, before placing it at the grave beside the roses.

SOPHIE
Goodbye, momma.

As she stands, we see Victoria standing a little behind her. Sophie turns to her. They smile at each other. Sophie steps towards her and the two walk away, hand in hand.

They head towards a car in the distance, where Richard stands. He opens the door for the women.

The image slowly turns to white.

Other Distribution Opportunities

The ideal scenario would be to acquire distribution at a film festival. Should this not occur, we will first seek out distributors, such as television networks specializing in women’s programming (Oxygen, We, Lifetime) and DVD and international distributors, before pursuing self-distribution outlets. In recent years, opportunities have been increasing for self-distributed films, through venues such as iTunes, distribution festivals like From Here to Awesome, and companies offering help with digital rights, including Cinetic Rights Management and the newly-launched Reframe.

This is a time in which the independent film industry is rapidly changing. The industry as a whole is suffering and few films are being sold for large advances. With the industry in this position, traditional distribution may not prove to be the best model for distributing Hope for a Thorn. However, despite all of the recent advances in venues such as online distribution and VOD, most of these models don’t show a way for the filmmakers to really make a profit. This awkward period of transition generally makes it more difficult for filmmakers to see a return, but we intend to explore as many outlets (and potentially create new ones) to increase our chances of that occurring.

The most important thing is that the film reaches as large an audience as possible, whether this is through a traditional distribution deal (and the filmmakers receive less money) or through self-distribution.

______________________
Address

Dear __________:

This letter, when signed by you (the “Composer”), will confirm our mutual agreement whereby Erin Kitzinger (the “Producer”) has engaged you as an employee for hire to render certain services and to furnish a complete and original musical score (the “Work”) for the Motion Picture currently titled Hope for a Thorn (the “Picture”).

Producer agrees to pay composer as full compensation, for all services required of him in connection with the Picture and for all the rights granted by the Composer, upon condition that the Composer shall fully and faithfully perform all the services required of him hereunder, the sum of _______ dollars and other valuable consideration including one DVD copy of the picture with musical score and a credit in the picture.

Producer employs Composer to write, compose, orchestrate, perform, record and submit to Producer music suitable for use as the complete background score for the Picture. Composer shall bear the full cost of any musicians, studio or equipment rental, guild or union fees or any costs incurred in preparing the work except for tape stock costs.

The Composer grants the Producer the irrevocable perpetual nonexclusive right to use and license others to use his name and likeness in any advertising promotion or exploitation of the Picture and Work.

The Composer agrees that Producer may perpetually use or authorize others to use any of the rights herein granted for commercial advertising or publicity in connection with any product, commodity or service manufactured, distributed or offered by the Producer or others, provided such advertising refers to the Picture, or to the Composer’s employment by the Producer.

Composer warrants that all materials written, composed, prepared or submitted by him during the term hereof or any extension of it, shall be wholly original with him and shall not be copied in whole or in part from any other material. The Composer further warrants that said material will not infringe upon the copyright, literary, dramatic or photoplay rights of any person. Composer warrants and agrees to indemnify and hold Producer and Producer’s officers, shareholders, employees, successors and assigns, harmless from and against any claim, demand, damage, debt, liability, account, reckoning, obligation, cost, expense, lien, action and cause of action (including the payment of attorneys’ fees and costs incurred) arising out of any breach or failure of any of Composer’s warranties, representations, agreements or covenants herein contained.

The Composer further agrees that all the material which he may write, compose, prepare or submit under this agreement shall be the sole property of the Producer as a work-for-hire. All of the material shall be written, composed, prepared and submitted by him as the employee of the Producer, and not otherwise. The Producer shall be the author and first proprietor of the copyright, and the Composer shall have no right, title or interest in the material. In the event that any of proceeds of Composer’s work are not considered a work-for-hire, then Composer’s copyright to such work is hereby assigned to Producer. Producer shall have the right to obtain copyrights, patents and/or other protection therefor. The Composer further agrees to execute, verify, acknowledge, and deliver any documents which the Producer shall deem necessary or advisable to evidence, establish, maintain, protect, enforce or defend its rights and/or title in our to the said material or any part of it. Producer shall have the right, but not the duty, to use, adapt, edit, add to, subtract from, arrange, rearrange, revise and change said material or any part of it, and to vend, copy, publish, reproduce, record, transmit, broadcast by radio and/or television, perform, photograph with or without sound, including spoken works, dialogue and/or music synchronously recorded, and to communicate the same by any means now known or from now on devised, either publicly and for profit, or otherwise.

Producer, its successors and assigns, shall in addition to the Composer’s services be entitled to and own in perpetuity, solely and exclusively, all of the results and proceeds of said services and material, including all rights throughout the world of production, manufacture, recordation and reproduction by any art or method, whether now known or from now on devised, and whether such results and proceeds consist of literary, dramatic, musical, motion picture, mechanical, or any other form of work, theme, idea, composition, creation or product.

The Composer shall at the request of the Producer execute such assignments or other instruments as the Producer may deem necessary or desirable to evidence, establish or defend his right or title in the Work. The Composer hereby appoints the Producer the true and lawful attorney-in-fact of the Composer irrevocably to execute, verify, acknowledge and deliver any such instruments or documents which the Composer shall fail or refuse to execute.

Producer will have and is hereby granted the complete control of the publication of all of any of the musical material written by the Composer hereunder. Producer agrees, however, that in the event it publishes the musical material or causes the musical material to be published by a third party, Producer shall pay to the composer the following fees:

(a) Ten cents (.10) per copy for each piano copy of the Composition and for each orchestration of the Composition printed, published and sold in the United States and Canada by Publisher or its licensees, for which payments have been received by Publisher, after deduction of returns.

(b) Ten percent (10%) of the wholesale selling price upon each printed copy of each other arrangement and edition of the Composition printed, published and sold in the United States and Canada by Publisher or its licensees, for which payment has been received, after deduction of returns, except that in the event the Composition shall be used or caused to be used, in whole or in part, with one or more other compositions in a folio, album, or other publication, Composer shall be entitled to receive that proportion of said royalty which the Composition shall bear to the total number of compositions contained in such folio, album or other publication for which royalties are payable.

(c) Fifty percent (50%) of any and all net sums actually received (less any costs for collection) by Publisher in the United States from the exploitation in the United States and Canada by licensees of Publisher of mechanical rights, electrical transcription and reproducing rights, motion picture and television synchronization rights and all other rights (except printing and public performance rights) in the Composition, whether such licensees are affiliated with, owned in whole or in part by, or controlled by Publisher.

(d) Composer shall receive his public performance royalties throughout the world directly from his own affiliated performing rights society and shall have no claims at all against Publisher for any royalties received by Publisher from any performing rights society which makes payment directly (or indirectly other than through Publisher) to writers, authors and composers.

(e) Fifty percent (50%) of any and all net sums, after deduction of foreign taxes, actually received (less any costs of collection), by Publisher in the United States from sales, licenses and other uses of the Composition in countries outside of the United States and Canada [other than the public performance royalties as hereinabove mentioned in paragraph (d)] from collection agents, licensees, subpublishers or others, whether same are affiliated with, owned in whole or in part by, or controlled by Publisher.

(f) Publisher shall not be required to pay any royalties on professional or complimentary printed copies of the Composition which are distributed gratuitously to performing arts, orchestra leaders and disc jockeys or for advertising, promotional or exploitation purposes. Furthermore, no royalties shall be payable to Composer on consigned copies of the Composition unless paid for, and not until an accounting therefore can properly be made.
Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this Agreement, Producer, its lessees, licensees and all other persons permitted by Producer to distribute, exhibit or exploit any picture in connection with which any material written, prepared or composed by Composer hereunder is used, shall have the free and unrestricted right to use any such material and to make the mechanical reproductions of it without the payment of any sums at all, and in no event shall Composer be permitted or entitled to participate in any rentals or other forms of royalty received by Producer, its licensees or any other persons permitted by Producer to use any such material or mechanical reproductions of it in connection with the exhibition, distribution, exploitation or advertising of any present or future kind of motion picture, nor shall Producer be obligated to account to Composer for any sums received by Producer from any other persons from the sale or licensing or other disposition of any material written, created, or composed by Composer hereunder in connection with the exhibition, distribution, exploitation or advertising of any motion picture. Without limiting the foregoing, Composer shall not be entitled to any portion of any synchronization fee due to the use of the material or any portion of it in motion pictures produced by producer or by any of its subsidiaries, affiliates or related companies.

Provided Composer fully and satisfactorily renders his services pursuant to the terms and conditions of this Agreement, and that all of the original music contained in the Picture as released is the product of Composer’s services, Producer shall accord Composer billing on a separate card as follows: “Original Music Written and Performed by David Jones” (Composer’s Credit) or a phrase substantially similar thereto onto the positive prints of said Picture. Except as set forth in the preceding sentence, all other matters about billing shall be decided in Producer’s sole discretion.

If Producer, its successors or assigns shall exercise their right hereunder to make, distribute and sell, or authorize others to make, distribute and sell, commercial phonograph records (including, without limitation, discs of any speed or size, tape and wire demos and any and all other demos, whether now known or unknown, for the recording of sound) embodying the material for the Picture and if said records contain Composer’s performance as a conductor, they shall pay or cause to be paid to Composer in connection with it a reasonable royalty as is customarily paid in the industry to be negotiated in good faith.

Composer’s sole remedy for any breach or alleged breach hereof shall be an action at law for damages, if any. In no event shall Composer have the right to rescind this Agreement or any of the rights granted hereunder nor to seek or obtain injunctions or other equitable relief restraining or enjoining the production, exhibition or exploitation of any motion pictures based upon or using any portion of the Work.

Nothing contained in this Agreement shall be deemed to require Producer or its assigns to publish, record, reproduce or otherwise use the Work or any part of it, whether in connection with the Picture or otherwise.
This instrument is the entire Agreement between the parties and cannot be modified except by a written instrument signed by the Composer and an authorized officer of the Producer.

This Agreement shall be deemed to have been made in the State of Florida and its validity, construction and effect shall be governed by and construed under the laws and judicial decisions of the State of Florida applicable to agreements wholly performed therein.

Very truly yours,

By: _____________________

- 45 minute delay on breakfast because caterer forgot to prepare a vegetarian option until it was time to leave the location.
- Gaffer and Grip Truck 25 minutes late due to not leaving on time.
- Scene 26 delayed 20 minutes due to Prop Master forgetting shopping bag props. 30 minute delay in lunch due to caterers not providing a complete meal (main dish only, no side dishes). Producer, UPM, and Location Manager had to procure additional food after lunch had already been called by the 1st AD. Safety meeting called regarding the real firearm being carried by the sheriff.

COMMENTS—DELAYS (EXPLANATIONS)—CAST, STAFF, AND CREW ABSENCE

Grip truck was 1 hour late. Gaffer Travis Bell attributed tardiness to an insufficient turn-around time, and maintained that he was not informed of the change of call time the previous night (though call sheets WERE handed out before wrap). Camera department had difficulty lighting the interior of the car for scene 6, which held production up for over an hour. Company move was not made until 4:00pm. 1st AD Mike D. and UPM Andrew Gay called the day early due to a severe thunderstorm that was approaching. The nature of the location (on a large body of water, surrounded by immense trees) prohibited work outdoors with metal equipment. Production is aiming to complete scenes 1 and 2 on Wednesday, August 8, with a skeleton crew.

Grip truck broke down en route to set. UPM Andrew Gay obtained a replacement Budget truck, which arrived on set at 11:00am. Crew did not receive jib until 1:45pm, when the UPM and Producer Jay Delaney arrived with it via a personal vehicle. 10 minutes were lost due to a spot on the lens. Company move was from 11:45am-12:10pm. Lunch was grace-called at 1:30pm. Scene 19 was rescheduled to be shot, first thing tomorrow, July 24.

COMMENTS—DELAYS (EXPLANATIONS)—CAST, STAFF, AND CREW ABSENCE

Sarah Grace’s shoes were caught under a door during the filming of scene 55, scraping her feet slightly.
Lunch was grace-called at 1:30pm and was initiated at 1:45pm, in order to finish scene 55. B. Boy Adam Gaiser over tightened a bungee chord while putting away equipment on the grip truck. The chord snapped and sliced the bridge of his nose. Production aided him (attaching bandages, etc) and offered to take him for medical treatment. Gaiser declined.

Actor Employment Agreement

This is a representative example of the Actor Employment Agreements we used. Small variations occurred in each of the cast members' contracts.

THIS AGREEMENT is made and entered into as of the _____ day of June 2007 by and between the Production Company Hope for a Thorn LLC, (hereinafter "Producer"), and Player.

A. Producer intends to produce a motion picture (hereinafter the "Picture") based upon that certain screenplay tentatively entitled "Hope for a Thorn" (hereinafter the "Screenplay").

B. Producer wishes to utilize the services of Player in connection with the Picture upon the terms and conditions herein contained.

ACCORDINGLY, IT IS AGREED AS FOLLOWS:

1. PHOTOPLAY, ROLE, SALARY AND GUARANTEE: Producer hereby engages Player to render services as such in the role of Victoria Thorn, in the Picture, for a term of Three (3) weeks, at the salary of Three Hundred Dollars per week ($300.00) for a six day week consisting of twelve hour days. In addition thereto, Company shall pay Player a separate deferred salary of One Thousand Dollars per week ($1,000.00). All deferments shall be paid pari passu after investors' recoupment of capital contribution plus ten percent. Player accepts such engagement upon the terms herein specified.

2. START DATE: Principal Photography of the Picture shall commence on or about Monday, July 16, 2007, but no later than Wednesday, July 18, 2007, and shall end not later than Saturday, August 4, 2007. The Start Date shall be automatically extended without notice for a period equal to the duration of any default, disability and/or force majeure (as such terms are defined below and regardless of whether Player's services are suspended therefore), or due to any location requirements, director and/or cast unavailability, weather conditions, and/or other similar contingencies.

3. PLAYER'S ADDRESS: All notices which the Producer is required or may desire to give to the Player may be given either by mailing the same addressed to the Player at the address listed at the end of this agreement, or such notice may be given to the Player personally, either orally or in writing.

4. PLAYER'S TELEPHONE: The Player must keep the Producer's casting office or the assistant director of said photoplay advised as to where the Player may be reached by telephone without unreasonable delay. The current telephone number of the Player is listed at the end of this agreement.

5. FURNISHING OF WARDROBE: The Player agrees to furnish any available wardrobe and wearing apparel reasonably necessary for the portrayal of said role.

Number of outfits furnished by Player: TBD at a future meeting with the wardrobe department.

6. NEXT STARTING DATE: Player warrants that the starting date of Player's next engagement is after the term of this agreement.

7. NON-UNION PICTURE: Producer makes the material representation that it is not a signatory to the Screen Actors Guild collective bargaining agreement or any other union or guild agreement. Player warrants that Player is not a member of any union or guild, memberships in which would prevent Player from working in this picture.

8. EXCLUSIVITY: Player's services hereunder shall be non-exclusive first priority during the Pre-Production, exclusive during Production Periods, and non-exclusive, but on a first-priority basis, during the Post-Production Period.
9. RETAKES AND OTHER ADDITIONAL SERVICES: During and after the Term, Player shall render such services as Producer may desire in producing retakes, added scenes, transparencies, close-ups, sound track (including dubbing and looping), process shots, trick shots and trailers for changes in and foreign versions of the Picture. Compensation for such additional services shall be payable pursuant to Paragraph 1 of the principal agreement; provided, however, that no compensation shall be payable for such additional services to the extent they are rendered during any period for which Producer is otherwise obligated to pay or has paid Player compensation, or is entitled to Player's services without compensation.

10. NIGHTS, WEEKENDS, HOLIDAYS, WORK TIME: No increased or additional compensation shall accrue or be payable to Player for services rendered by Player at night or on weekends or holidays, or after the expiration of any number of hours of service in any period.

11. CREDIT: There shall be no obligation to accord Player credit in paid advertising and/or publicity, although Producer may from time to time elect, in its sole discretion, to accord Player such credit. Producer shall accord Player customary shared screen credit.

12. RIGHTS: Player grants, and Producer shall have, the perpetual and universal right to photograph and re-photograph Player (still and moving) and to record and re-record, double and dub Player's voice and performances, by any present or future methods or means and to use and authorize others to use Player's name, voice and likeness for and in connection with the Picture, the soundtrack (including a soundtrack album), trailers, and documentary and/or "making of" pictures, and all advertising (including Player's name and likeness on sleeves, jackets and other packaging for soundtrack albums, video cassettes, videodiscs, written publications and the like), merchandising, commercial tie-ups, publicity, and other means of exploitation of any and all rights pertaining to the Picture and any element thereof. Producer shall own all results and proceeds of Player's services hereunder, including the copyrights thereof, and as such owner shall have the right (among all other rights of ownership): (i) to include such results and proceeds in the Picture and in advertising and publicity relating to the Picture, (ii) to reproduce such results and proceeds by any present or future means, (iii) to combine such results and proceeds with photographs and recordings made by others for use in the Picture, (iv) to exhibit and perform such results and proceeds in theaters, on the radio and television, and in or by any other present or future media, for profit and otherwise, and for commercial or non-commercial purposes and purposes of trade, and (v) to license and assign its rights to any other person or producer. Without in any way limiting the foregoing, the results and proceeds of Player's services hereunder include any and all material, words, writings, ideas, "gags", dialogue, melody and lyrics composed, submitted or interpolated by Player in connection with the preparation or production of the Picture (hereinafter referred to as "material"). All said material, the copyright therein, and all renewals, extensions or reversions of copyright now or hereafter provided, shall automatically become the property of Producer, which shall be deemed the author thereof, it being agreed and acknowledged that all of the results and proceeds of Player's services hereunder are a specially ordered and commissioned "work made for hire" within the meaning of the 1976 Copyright Act for the compensation provided in the Principal Agreement. Player hereby expressly waives and relinquishes any moral rights or "droit morale" in and to any material created by or contributed to the Picture by Player including all of Player's performance.

13. FORCE MAJEURE: As used herein the term "force majeure" means epidemic, act of God, strike, lockout, labor condition, unavailability of materials, transportation, power or other commodity, delay of common carrier, civil disturbance, riot, war or armed conflict (whether or not there has been an official declaration of war), the enactment of any law, the issuance of any executive or judicial order or decree, breach of contract by, or disability of, the Producer, Director, other principal cast member, breach of contract by a financier or completion guarantor, or other similar occurrence beyond the control of Producer, which causes an interruption of or materially hampers or materially interferes with the production of the Picture.

14. INSURANCE: Player warrants that to the best of Player's knowledge Player is in good health and has no condition which would prevent Producer from obtaining life, health, accident, cast or other insurance covering Player at premium rates normal to Player's age and sex, without any unusual exclusion or limitation of liability on the part of the insurer.
15. ASSIGNMENT: Producer shall have the right to assign this Agreement and any of the rights granted herein, in whole or in part, to any person, firm, corporation or entity, and nothing contained herein shall imply anything to the contrary. Upon the assignee's assumption of the obligations of Producer with respect to the rights so assigned, Producer shall be relieved of all such obligations. Producer shall also have the right to lend the services of Player to any person, firm or corporation which is a subsidiary, parent or affiliate of Producer or the successor to Producer by a merger or by a transfer of substantially all of Producer's assets hereunder. In the event of any such lending, Player agrees to render his services to the best of his ability to the person, firm, or corporation to whom his services are loaned hereunder. Player may not assign Player's rights or obligations hereunder.

16. MERCHANDISING: Producer is also granted the further exclusive right and license, but only in connection with the role portrayed by Player in the film to use and to license the use of Player's name, sobriquet, photograph, likeness, caricature and/or signature (collectively referred to herein as "name and likeness") in and in connection with any merchandising and/or publishing undertakings.

17. INCLUSIVE PAYMENTS: All payments to Player hereunder shall be deemed to be equitable and inclusive remuneration for all services rendered by Player in connection with the Picture and to be paid by way of a complete buy-out of all rights granted to Producer hereunder and no further sums shall be payable to Player by Producer by reason of the exploitation of the Picture and all results and proceeds of Player's services hereunder in any and all media throughout the universe pursuant to any collective bargaining agreement, if any, or otherwise, by way of residuals, repeat fees, pension contributions, or any other monies whatsoever.

18. ARBITRATION: Any controversy or claim arising out of or relating to this agreement or any breach thereof shall be settled by arbitration in accordance with the Rules of the American Arbitration Association; and judgment upon the award rendered by the arbitrators may be entered in any court having jurisdiction thereof. The prevailing party shall be entitled to reimbursement for costs and reasonable attorney's fees. The determination of the arbitrator in such proceeding shall be final, binding and non-appealable. In the event of any breach by the Producer of this Agreement, the Player shall be limited to the Player's remedy at law for damages, if any, and shall not have the right to terminate or rescind this Agreement or to enjoin or restrain by injunction or in any other way the production, distribution, advertising or exploitation of the Picture.

19. EMPLOYMENT ELIGIBILITY: All of Producer's obligations herein are expressly conditioned upon Performer's completion, to Producer's satisfaction, of the I-9 form (Employee Eligibility Verification Form), and upon Performer's submission to Producer of original documents satisfactory to demonstrate Performer's employment eligibility.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have executed this agreement on the day and year first above written.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

1. I, the undersigned owner or agent, whichever is applicable, hereby irrevocably grants to Hope For A Thorn, LLC ("Producer"), and its agents, employees, contractors and suppliers, the right to enter and remain upon and use the property, both real and personal, located at: _____________________________ (the "Property"), including without limitation, all interior and exterior areas, buildings and other structures of the Property, and owner's name, logo, trademark, service mark and/or slogan, and any other identifying features associated therewith or which appear in, on or about the Property, for the purpose of photographing (including without limitation by means of motion picture, still or videotape photography) said premises, sets and structures and/or recording sound in connection with the production, exhibition, advertising and exploitation of the motion picture tentatively entitled Hope For A Thorn (the "Picture").

2. Producer may take possession of said premises commencing on or about July 16, 2007 subject to change because of weather conditions or changes in production schedule, and continuing until the completion of all scenes and work required. Producer may also be granted access to said premises in the 30 days prior to the aforementioned date for purposes of technical scouts, production design, etc. Producer will receive one key to the premises and will give the owner or house sitter one hour warning via phone call prior to arriving at location. This warning applies only during the preproduction period and ceases to apply on July 16.

3. Charges: As complete and full payment for all of the rights granted to Producer hereunder, Producer shall pay to Owner the total amount of $ __________ for the duration of the production. Each day will consist of 12 - 16 hours. This payment allows for the use of the property, along with its bathroom facilities, electricity, water, and parking.

All charges are payable on completion of all work completed, unless specifically agreed to the contrary. Producer is not obligated to actually use the property or produce a film or include material photographed or recorded hereunder in the Picture. Producer may at any time elect not to use the Property by giving Owner or agent 24 hours written notice of such election, in which case neither party shall have any obligation hereunder.

4. Producer may place all necessary facilities and equipment, including temporary sets, on the Property, and agrees to remove same after completion of work and leave the Property in as good condition as when received, reasonable wear and tear from uses permitted herein excepted. Signs on the Property may, but need not, be removed or changed, but, if removed or changed, must be replaced. In connection with the Picture, Producer may refer to the Property or any part thereof by any fictitious name and may attribute any fictitious events as occurring on the Property. Owner irrevocably grants to Producer and Producer's successors and assigns the right, in perpetuity, throughout the universe, to duplicate and recreate all or a portion of the Property and to use such duplicates and recreations in any media and/or manner now known or hereafter devised in connection with the Picture, including without limitation sequels and remakes, merchandising, theme parks and studio tours, and in connection with publicity, promotion and/or advertising for any or all of the foregoing.

5. Producer agrees to use reasonable care to prevent damage to the Property, and will indemnify and hold Owner harmless from and against any claims or demands arising out of or based upon personal injuries, death or property damage (ordinary wear and tear excepted), suffered by such person(s) resulting directly from any act of negligence on Producer's part in connection with the work hereunder.

6. All rights of every nature whatsoever in and to all still pictures, motion pictures, videotapes, photographs and sound recordings made hereunder, shall be owned by Producer and its successors, assigns and licensees, and neither Owner nor any tenant, or other party now or hereafter having an interest in said property, shall have any right of action against Producer or any other party arising out of any use of said still pictures, motion pictures, videotapes, photographs and or sound recordings, whether or not such use is or may claimed to be, defamatory, untrue or censurable in nature. In addition, neither Owner nor any tenant, nor any other party now or hereafter having an interest in the Property, shall have any right of action, including, but not limited to, those based upon invasion of privacy, publicity, defamation, or other civil rights, in connection with the exercise of the permission and/or rights granted by Owner to Producer. If there is a breach by Producer hereunder, Owner shall be limited to an action at law for monetary damages. In no event shall Owner have the right to enjoin the development, production, distribution or exploitation of the Picture.

7. Force Majeure: If because of illness of actors, director or other essential artists and crew, weather conditions, defective equipment or any other occurrence beyond Producer's control, Producer is unable to start work on the date designated above and/or work in progress is interrupted during use of the Property by Producer, then Producer shall have the right to use the Property at a later date to be mutually agreed upon and/or to extend the period set forth in Paragraph 2, and any such use shall be included in the compensation paid pursuant to Paragraph 3 above.

8. At any time within six (6) months from the date Producer completes its use of the Property hereunder, Producer may, upon not less than five (5) days prior written notice to Owner, reenter and use the Property for such period as may be reasonable necessary to photograph retakes, added scenes, etc. desired by Producer upon the same terms and conditions as contained in this agreement.

9. Owner warrants neither he or anyone acting for him, gave or agreed to give anything of value, except for use of the Property, to Producer or anyone associated with the production for using said Property as a shooting location.

10. Owner represents and warrants that he/she is the owner and/or authorized representative of the Property, and that Owner has the authority to grant Producer the permission and rights granted in this agreement, and that no one else's permission is required. If any question arises regarding Owner's authority to grant the permission and rights granted in this agreement, Owner agrees to indemnify Producer and assume responsibility for any loss and liability incurred as a result of its breach of the representation of authority contained in this paragraph, including reasonable attorneys' fees.
11. Owner will be thanked in the credits of the film, as “Special Thanks.” Owner’s name will appear on screen as written below:
